A PROTECTED OUTLAW.

REV. A. H. LEWIS AGAIN SCORES THE LIQUOR TRAFFIC.

Civilization Says That the Saloon is a Central Source of Crime—High License is a System That Hoodwinks the People.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—Some things are settled. Some form of legislation throughout the United States has declared that the liquor traffic is an outlawed business. High judicial decisions have pronounced that it is not a business which men have a natural and inalienable right to engage in. It is universally held as an evil to be guarded against, to be restricted and regulated, or to be wholly prohibited. It is no sense a just, necessary and beneficent business like the sale of flour, bread, boots or sewing machines. We advertise that fact. On Park avenue one man is made to pay $700 for the privilege of selling liquor, while his next door neighbors sell meats and hardware without question or hindrance. The liquor traffic is a great National monopoly in which brewers, distillers and retailers unite for mutual protection. It has been proven that the license system is best for the traffic. Those engaged in it want the system continued. It gives protection and dignity and standing to an outlawed business. It makes our municipal government a partner in the business. Thus it becomes a protected outlaw through the payment of "hushmoney.'

Civilization says that the saloon is a central source of crime. All statistics prove this. All court records corroborate the fact. All prison cells record it. The product of the saloon system, whether in the moderate drinker, the boy who is learning, or the sot who is past recovery, is evil, only evil, continual evil. High license, as in Plainfield, increases the evils of the system. Every saloon must gain $700 more of profit in order to business success. That means ten thousand dollars, in round numbers, from the homes of the poorer class, where every cent is needed for bread and other comforts. High license compels the saloon keeper to be more diligent in his business. It means more drinking and more temptations to drink. It means more drunkards. It means more boys to take the place of sots who die. It means more social impurity; more gambling, more obscenity, more general viciousness, through drinking. It means more broken homes. It means more crushed hearts and blighted lives. It means more ruined souls. It means more poverty, more crime of all sorts. It demands more police supervision.

High license is concentrated power on the part of the traffic It gives commercial value, and political perferment to the saloon. It gives secret influence in the "primary." It gives open bribery as to the ballot. It compels Councilmen whose Christian principles, and nobler manhood revolt against the debasement, to vote for license because, forsooth, they "have been elected on the issue." It compels them to ignore the protests and petitions of churches and temperance organizations for the petition of the liquor sellers. Not infrequently, within the last fifteen years, have the pastors and representatives of temperance, purity and sobriety, sat in the Council chambers, while their petitions and pleadings were calmly ignored, and those of the liquor sellers granted. Why? Because back of them was only right, and righteousness, and God; while back of the saloons were a few thousand dollars of blood money gathered nickle by nickle from the hungry lips of wives and children:—According to law, God condemns those who frame iniquity into law. The license system says. "No matter about God; get the fee, and takes the chances."

The remedy?

Abolish all license fees. Let him sell rum who will. Restrict the sale by all possible means as you do other evil and dangerous forms of business. Leave it where it belongs, an unprotected outlaw. Abolish the public "bar." Relegate the drinking of liquor to private life. Break the power of the saloon in politics. Let the city go out of partnership with the saloons—and so out of partnership with the liquor traffic in the nation. It does not pay. Judas got more for betraying Christ than Plainfield gets for betraying its best interests into the hands of the liquor traffic. The blame is not wholly with the saloon keepers. It is not primarily with the Council, and it will not be until the Council refuses to heed the voice of the people. The trouble is with the system which hoodwinks the people into believing that "High license is the best way to regulate the evil." If the people, voters, through apathy or blindness permit this opportunity to go by without a full

HAPPY HOUSE WARMING.

MR. AND MRS. W. A. CODDINGTON SURPRISED BY THEIR FRIENDS.

Forty Unexpected Visitors Came, Bringing Good Cheer and Sociability—Games and Dancing—Those Who Were Present.

A more complete surprise has seldom been given than that of last evening when Counsellor and Mrs. W. A. Coddington, of East Second street, were visited by forty of their friends and acquaintances. The affair was arranged by the members of the Wednesday Afternoon Whist Club, of which Mrs. Coddington is a member, and the members invited their husbands and a few friends to join them in the happy event. The surprise took the form of a house-warming, for Mr. and Mrs. Coddington just recently moved into their house on East Second street. They were wholly unaware of any visit, and when the merry party thronged their home they scarcely knew what to say. Their embarrassment was soon over, however, and they joined heartily in the festivities arranged.

The first part of the evening was devoted to a game of whist. Mrs. Ulrick and Mrs. Brotherhood won the first and second prizes for the women, while the first and second prizes for the men were awarded to L. M. French and Salmon C. Baker. After the play was concluded the guests indulged in dancing for the balance of the evening.

A very pleasant feature of the event was the presentation to Mr. and Mrs. Coddington of a handsome picture. Mrs. McClintock, in a very neat speech, presented the picture, and in return the recipients expressed their hearty appreciation for the gift. During the festivities refreshments were served.

Among those in the happy party were Mr. and Mrs. J. E. McClintock, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Homan, Mr. and Mrs. S. C. Baker, Mr. and Mrs. S. W. Clark, Mr. and Mrs. Duncan, Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Lowe, Mr. and Mrs. Messersmith, Mr. and Mrs. P. A. Emmons, Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Emmons, Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Bird, Mr. and Mrs. Edward VanWinkle, Mr. and Mrs. A. T. Gallup, A. Gallup, Mr. and Mrs. Horsley Barker, Mr. and Mrs. Brotherhood, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. French, Mr. and Mrs. Ulrick, Mr. and Mrs. Startup.

MERRY DANCERS.

Second Annual Sociable of the Hibernians to Their Lady Friends.

The Crescent Rink was filled with merry dancers last evening when the second annual sociable was tendered to the Ladies' Auxiliary by Division No. 4, Ancient Order of Hibernians. It has been the custom of the members of the Hibernians to give the Auxiliary a social and dance every year and they have always proved to be very enjoyable occasions. The affair last evening was no exception to the rule. The music was furnished by O'Reilly's orchestra and it was excellent. The grand march was led by P. J. Revelle, Miss Margaret Revelle; M. J. Kane, Miss Mamie Motley; S. F. Goff, Miss Nettie Goff; P. J. Reilly, Miss Margaret Lawlor. The figure formed represented the letters "H" and "A" which stood for "Hibernian" and "Auxiliary." It was a pretty sight and the audience heartily applauded those participating in the march.

Those who had charge of the affair consisted of M. J. Kane, general manager; P. J. Revelle, floor manager; S. F. Goff and P. J. Reilly, assistant floor managers; J. F. Casey, P. Traynor, W. Casey, R. Birmingham, T. Curran, P. McDonough, D. McDavett and P. Casey, reception committee. The affair was in every way a success, and it was rather early in the morning when the dancers departed for their homes.

Suit Against Sanitary Company.

The Plainfield Sanitary Company is now figuring in a suit that has been started in Justice Mosher's court. The suit is brought against that corporation by Edward Clark, who has been employed by the company at the crematory as engineer. He claims that the company owes him back pay to the amount of $200 which they will not settle. The suit was started through his lawyer, City Judge DeMeza.

His Toes Mashed.

John Naylor, of the West End, met with a painful accident yesterday, when a large piece of iron fell on his left foot and severely mashed his toes. He was at work at the time, and he was obliged to go home and have the injured foot attended to. He is now able to go to work, although his foot gives him much pain.

Revival Meetings Well Attended.

The revival meetings at the Seventh-Day Baptist church are well attended every evening. Unusual interest was manifested last evening. The meetings begin at 7:45 o'clock. They will continue for several weeks.

OPPOSED TO COUNTY OWNERSHIP OF TROLLEY.

JOHN B. DUMONT AND DeWITT C. IVINS OPPOSE FRANK BERGEN'S NOVEL PROPOSITION.

The Plainfielders Feel That They Were Not Treated in a Courteous Manner by Mr. Bergen at the Meeting Last Night and so They Left Summarily.

Councilman John B. Dumont and DeWitt C. Ivins insist that they were treated discourteously at the public meeting held in the Court House in Elizabeth last night to hear the report of the committee appointed to investigate the matter of widening North avenue and constructing a trolley road at county expense.

Mr. Dumont writes to The Press as follows:

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—You were furnished, probably through Frank Bergen, copies of committee report on county trolley, before same was submitted to citizens. DeWitt C. Ivins and J. B. Dumont were members of this committee and did not sign the majority report but submitted a minority report protesting against the proposed scheme until reliable guarantee is given that the trolley road can be leased when built on terms that will provide for payment of interest and principal of county bonds issued for the purpose. We do not believe any such lease can be made.

If this cannot be done then the County will become liable for the bonds and if this scheme is carried through then others will be brought forward from Summit to Elizabeth, etc. The estimates for land damages were in the opinon of the minority far below what the actual cost will be.

The Court House, where the meeting was held, was well filled. The majority report with proposed act of Legislature was read by Mr. Vail, of Rahway, chairman of committee, and was received without any comment or demonstration.

I then read the minority report which was greeted with applause.

Then followed stereopticon views on a large canvas of the proposed road in sections, lectures of majority report, and other matter calculated to create enthusiasm which was only moderately successful but the last act in this side show was the names of the committee who had "inspected the matter," the nine who has signed the majority report.

Frank Bergen conducted the proceedings and is, I think, responsible for a marked discourtesy to Mr. Ivins and myself and through us to the community we represented.

Any scheme where such methods are employed will bear watching. The act which it is proposed to secure from legislature is one that ought not pass and probably will not unless amended. Under it the Freeholders can take any street for this proposed county trolley, widen it, lay track, etc., whether one wants them or not. I will endeavor to procure a copy of the minority report and also of the proposed act of the Legislature.

J. B. Dumont.

Mr. Dumont's feeling that he was treated discourteously lays in the fact that while the names of the majority report were displayed to the audience, the names signed to the minority report were not made public, and, it is claimed, thus ignoring the Plainfielders.

In conversation with a Press reportor over the telephone this morning, Mr. Bergen gave his version of the affair. He said that both Messrs Dumont and Ivins had taken but very little interest in the work of the committee and had never attended but one of its meetings, and at that time voting against the proposition of county ownership. Beyond that vote, Mr. Bergen stated, the committee had no knowledge of what Messrs. Dumont and Ivins were going to do in the matter until Mr. Dumont got up to present the minority report last night. The report came as a surprise, he says.

Mr. Bergen explained that the reason the names of the minority members were not displayed was because there was no knowledge of what they intended to do in the matter, and the use of the stereopticon necessitated that the plates showing the views be prepared before the meeting. Consequently, in the absence of the information concerning Messrs. Dumont and Ivins' intentions no plate was prepared for the presentation of their names as the minority committee. After the report was presented it was impossible to make the plate then and there without longer delay than it was thought expedient.

Messrs. Dumont and Bergen did not have any words in the meeting, for when Mr. Dumont thought that he had been slighted he simply left the hall without more ado.

Plainfield, Nov. 27th, 1897.

W. T. West, Esq., chairman—As members of a committee appointed by you at a meeting of the citizens held in the city of Elizabeth, Sept. 30th, 1897, we have considered the reports and estimates made to the committee, but cannot approve the majority report submitted.

The plan as outlined in general in the majority report is for a thoroughfare 100 feet wide from a point in the city of Elizabeth to a point in the city of Plainfield, including the county macadamized road from Elizabeth into Westfield, a double track street railroad, cycle path, dirt road and sidewalks, the plans of which are somewhat definite from Elizabeth to Westfield, but indefinite as to the route from Westfield to Plainfield. The county macadamized road, however, being left a free and safe driveway and for the purposes for which it was built.

The cost as estimated in majority report is $337,853, and while the estimated cost of trolley road ($196,104) may be safe, the estimated cost of property to be acquired, whether improved or not, has not been made with such care as to be considered entirely reliable, and in our opinion is much below what the actual cost will be.

It is proposed to meet this expenditure by an issue of county bonds to be authorized by the Legislature, with the expectation that the street railroad can be leased on terms that will provide for the annual interest on the bonds and the principal at maturity.

We do not believe that the proposed road can be leased with reliable guarantee on any such terms.

The lessees will be obliged to furnish cars and arrange for power to run same, (a considerable item in the cost of operating a trolley road), and under these circumstances any statements that the net earnings of the proposed road will be sufficient to pay interest on about $400,000, or double the cost of the road, is at variance with the actual results of other suburban street railroads.

Unless some such substantial assurances can be given that the proposed road can be leased on terms to provide for the proposed issue of bonds, taxable property of the whole county will become liable for a considerable portion of the proposed issue of bonds, and this for the benefit of a small section of the county; and the scheme if carried out will be but the beginning of others of a similar character, making possible, if not probable, an issue of $1,000,000 of county bonds, and for that reason we must protest against the adoption of the majority report.

TROLLEY CAR STRUCK A WAGON.

Motorman Ran Into the Vehicle Headon and Smashed The Wheels.

Last evening about dusk Car No. 3, of the street railway, collided with a wagon owned by C. Frank French, of Somerset street, and driven by Charles Ammermen. The collision occurred at the corner of Somerset street and Lincoln place. The wagon and car were going in the same direction. Motorman Bowers was in charge of the car and he says that he sounded the bell a number of times before he reached the wagon. Ammermen says that the bell was not sounded. The damage to the wagon was a broken axle and two wheels wrecked. The horse was not injured, neither was the driver. It is almost certain that the the railway company will settle with Mr. French and thus avoid any further trouble.

A BIRTHDAY CELEBRATION.

Ernest Conover Entertained His Young Friends Nicely.

Ernest Conover, of Elmwood place, celebrated the anniversary of his seventh birthday yesterday in a pleasant manner. In the afternoon his mother invited a few of his young boy friends to the house and a social time was enjoyed by all. The young host entered heartily into the festivities of the occasion and his friends had a jolly time in helping him to celebrate. A fine repast was served during the afternoon by Mrs. Conover, and the young celebrant was not forgotten for his guests remembered him in a substantial way by presenting him with a number of useful gifts. Those in the party were Ernest Conover, Edward Mosher, Ira Vail, Russell Vail, Arthur Williams and Willie VanArsdale.

Helped a Missonary Society.

An entertainment was given in Reform Hall last evening for the benefit of a missionary society in New York composed of colored people. J. H. Hamilton, of New York, is the president of the society, and he had charge of the entertainment last evening. There were about 125 people present, and the very excellent programme rendered by Miss R. E. Tucker, soprano; Madame J. Brown Napoleon, elocutionist; Miss Susan E. Jones, alto; Miss L. V. Jones, soprano; all of New York, was enjoyed. Several encores were given during the evening, and great success attended the affair.

E. E. Winckler, of Westervelt avenue, left this morning for the south on a business trip.

CATHOLICS ARE STRONG.

SO SAYS PROF. WHEELER IN A UNIVERSITY EXTENSION LECTURE.

Pope Has More Power in This Age of Reason than in the Age of Faith,—A Lucid Sketch of the Church's History.

Prof. A. M. Wheeler, of Yale University, delivered the fifth of his series of lectures in the university extension course on The History of Europe since 1848, in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church, last evening.

The lecture was upon the Roman Catholic church, and the speaker aimed to prove that the church of Rome has more power over Christendom now in the age of reason, than she had in mediaeval times, the age of faith.

In the time of Charlemagne the boundaries of the church and the state were identical; there was a universal church and a universal state, and the state was subordinate to the ecclesiastical power. The state had no separate or distinct existence. As time went on the tendency was to break from the universal state and form separate states and national churches. Thus in the sixteenth century we had the Anglican church and also and independent church in France. Between the Reformation and the Revolution the universal church was losing ground steadily. In 1789 the Revolution in France swept the Catholic church aside completely and separation of church and state was absolute.

In the revolution of 1809 all the ecclesiastical states of the German Empire went down, and were never restored. This had the effect of strengthening the power of the Pope, as it rendered all the clergy more dependent upon the central power and removed a barrier which had stood between them and the absolute power of the Pope.

The further development of the papal power, through the rise of the liberal catholic party, which gave to the Pope the opportunity to decide all disputes between factions as he saw fit, and later on the promulgation of such doctrines by Pius IX as the Immaculate conception and the doctrine of papal infallability, which was declared by the ecumenical council of 1869, was set forth clearly. The promulgation of these doctrines caused a conflict of church and state which raged until the death of Pius. His successor, Leo XIII, the present Pope, is more inclined to consent to adjustments which are in the form of compromise, and so the struggle will go on between church and state, so long as the two theories live.

A DRAMATIC ENTERTAINMENT.

A Clever Presentation Made by Fanwood People.

The choir guild of All Saints' Episcopal church, of Scotch Plains, gave a successful entertainment in the Fanwood Club House last evening. The audience was a large one, and included most of the fashionable people of Fanwood and Scotch Plains. The programme consisted of three short dramatic sketches, all of which were cleverly acted by local talent. "Who is who; or all in a fog" was first given by the following persons: Dudley Kyte, Mr. Wheeler, Mr. Bent, Miss Poole and Miss Kennedy. The farce was cleverly acted, and won considerable applause. A comedietta in one act entitled "The Nettle," was next produced by Mr. Holland and Miss McAneny, and the last production, "The Marble Arch," followed. Those taking part in this piece were: Messrs. Beardsley and Holland and the Misses Marian Beardsley and Elizabeth Kyte. These productions, as well as the first, won much applause. During the evening several instrumental selections were rendered by Messrs. MacClymont, Serrell and Hillman. The proceeds of the affair were added to the church treasury.

LOCAL HEALTH MATTERS

BAD ODORS THAT ARISE FROM FUMES AND STEAM IN NEW STREET SEWER

The Sanitary Company Claim That They Have Not Been Violating Their Agreement With City by Overcharging Patrons

The agitation started by the North Plainfield Board of Health about the oil said to be discharged into Green brook from the works of the Plainfield Electric Light Company, on Madison avenue, has been taken up by the Board of Health on this side of the brook. A meeting of the Plainfield Board was held last evening and Superintendent McClurg, of the above company, appeared before the Board to explain matters. A consultation was also held with him regarding the fumes and steam that rise from the water turned into the New street sewer, supposedly from the works. No action was taken on the matter for the present.

Sometime ago the Board communicated with the Plainfield Sanitary Company calling their attention to the fact that they offered to collect garbage from ordinary residences for 50 cents a month and that the Board had agreed to such a proposition. They called the attention of the company, that, in certain instances, they had not acted in accordance with the conditions, and the Board asked them to make the regular charges hereafter. The reply was received at the meeting and the Sanitary Company answered that they were only charging 50 cents for the service referred to, but that in certain instances, where people take two or three cans or have their garbage collected in a large ash can, an increased charge has been made,

Inspector Addis made his regular monthly report. It showed there had been 4 cases of contagious disease at the last report and that 6 had been reported during the month. Four persons had been relieved from quarantine and one case of scarlet fever had been removed to the patients home at Millington after the state health authorities had been notified. There were five cases reported to be still under quarantine. The Inspector reported that he had made 215 inspections and visits to houses with contagious diseases during the month.

DISPUTE ABOUT A BICYCLE.

Mamufacturers Wanted to Charge an Agent for the Use of a Tandem.

A dispute between bicycle makers and their local agent was settled in Justice Nash's court, yesterday afternoon, in favor of the agent. Last year, James G. Voorhees, of East Front street, was the agent for the Union bicycle and tandem, made by the Union Nut and Bolt Company. Among his purchases was a tandem for the use of Voorhees and his wife. They road about the country during the year and sent back the tandem at the close of the riding season with the price of the tires in settlement of the account. The company entered a claim of $30 for the use of the machine for the summer. Suit was started in Justice Nash's court by Winfield S. Angleman, lawyer for the corporation.

When the case came to trial before a jury of six men, yesterday afternoon, the defendent was represented by Assemblyman W. R Codington, of the firm of Codington & Swackhamer. He filed a set off amounting to $30 for commissions on a tandem sold to W. M. Runyon. He claimed that he had secured the purchaser and that the company had taken the pay direct without allowing him a commission. The company's books and correspondence were shown and Assemblyman Codington turned the evidence against the plaintiffs. He made a very able summing up and carried away the jury with his eloquence. They brought in a verdict of no cause of action.

WON'T SERVE AS CHURCH TRUSTEE.

Spencer Conway Don't Like the Way Mt. Olive Church is Going.

Spencer Conway, a member of the board of trustees of the Mt. Olive Colored Baptist church, has written a a letter to The Press expressing dissatisfaction with his fellow trustees for their lack of interest in the spiritual welfare of the congregation. When Rev. P. S. Gibson left the church, Mr. Conway says, the trustees resolved to work for a spiritual revival, especially in the prayer meeting, but this has not been done, and it is alleged that the trustees are not seen at the prayer meetings. In another letter Mr. Conway announces his resignation as a trustee, claiming to have been one of the oldest and most faithful and earnest members of the board. He states that he will continue to work in the interests of the church as one of its members.

W. A. Coddington, of the law firm of Reed & Coddington, is out of town on business today.

MARTIN THORN GUILTY

MURDER IN FIRST DEGREE

Thorn Made a Feeble Effort to Smile When the Verdict Was Announced Defense Hoped for Disagreement Closing Scenes of the Trial.

New York, Dec. 1.—Martin Thorn, indicted jointly with Mrs. Augusta Nack for the murder of William Guldensuppe, has been found guilty of murder in the first degree. He will be sentenced on Friday. Thorn's fate was sealed at 5.30 o'clock, the jury having been out about three hours.

As the jury filed into the courtroom Judge Maddox took his seat on the bench. He was imperturbable and seemed not at all affected, as were the others in the room. Thorn was least concerned of all, seemingly. His counsel, Lawyer Howe, was plainly very nervous.

The jurors were white to the hair as they took their seats. The foreman was greatly agitated, and trembled almost as might a man with ague.

The silence in the courtroom was oppressive. As the jurors sat down Clerk Seaman rose slowly and turned towards the jury. The men in the box rose and stood facing Thorn, who had already risen to face the twelve men who held his life in the hollow of their hands.

"Gentlemen, have you agreed on a verdict?"

"We have," whispered Foreman Morse.

"How is it, gentlemen? How do you find the defendant, guilty or not guilty?"

"Guilty!"

When the verdict was announced Thorn only smiled and lapsed again into that callousness that has stamped him through all his trial as a creature without sensibility. With no hate, no sorrow, no regret, he looked the twelve men squarely in the eyes and then sat down beside his counsel, perhaps to hope again, perhaps prepared to meet the sentence that will be imposed upon him next Friday. There is no alternative but death, for the verdict was for murder in the first degree, and in the opinion of all save the attorneys for the defense the hope of a reversal of this verdict in the higher courts is absolutely vain.

The verdict was generally expected. There were a few who profess to think that the plea of Mr. Howe would so confuse the jury that a compromise would follow and a verdict for manslaughter be returned. When the jury remained out three hours this belief began to grow in strength, and after developments showed that it had in fact some basis. Seven ballots were taken in the juryroom before an agreement was reached. They all stood eleven for conviction and one for acquittal. In the end this last man changed his vote and Thorn's fate was sealed.

The closing day of the trial was full of dramatic interest. All was ready for the summing up yesterday morning and Lawyer Howe was apparently about to begin, when he suddenly made a motion that the jury be allowed to visit the scene of the murder in the cottage at Woodside.

Justice Maddox at first refused. Then he reconsidered, and the jury was sent out there in a special trolley car and carefully guarded by nine trusted officers.

Court was adjourned to 9.55 to allow time for the trip. When the jurors arrived there they found the house surrounded by a crowd of curious citizens, who had received word of the intended visit. The police were forced to clear the crowd away to allow the jurors to enter.

They carefully inspected the bath tub in which the body of Guldensuppe was cut up. Howe's object in having them go there was to confirm Thorn's story of the murder and show that one man could not have cut up the body alone without making indentations in the tub. Mrs. Nack had sworn that Thorn alone cut up the body.

Howe's Final Plea.

Court reconvened at 11.30 o'clock, and Lawyer Howe then made his closing address. He arraigned the District Attorney for failing to call Mrs. Nack to the witness stand, after doing it on the first trial; he attacked the testimony of those witnesses who corroborated her story of the visit to the Woodside cottage; he contrasted the demeanor of the defendant on the stand with the demeanor of the witnesses who appeared against him; he analyzed the several statements connecting the defendant with any knowledge of the purpose for which the cottage was rented; he regretted in broken and tearful accents that he was not permitted to refer to the proceedings in the first trial, and, raising his right hand and fixing his gaze upon the courtroom skylight, he thanked heaven that the law would not permit such a guilty wretch as Augusta Nack to escape the penalty of her awful crime.

Thorn Imperturbable.

Thorn, the imperturbable, listened to the sonorous and vociferous plea without the blink of an eyelid. Mr. Howe finished his address at 12.50 o'clock with a most remarkable peroration, asserting the innocence of his client and expressing the profoundest amazement that any intelligent person within the sound of his voice could think otherwise. He pictured to the jury the burden that would rest upon their consciences and of the awful apparition that would be constantly before them if they brought in a verdict which would take away the life of the prisoner. The address was sufficiently impressive to bring tears to the eyes of one of the jurors.

The usual recess was not taken, District Attorney Youngs following immediately after Mr. Howe, attacking at once the closing plea of the counsel for the defense and telling the jury that they had nothing to do with the punishment of the prisoner, but that it was their duty to bring in a verdict in accordance with the evidence.

The District Attorney asserted that Thorn and Mrs. Nack were equally guilty, and he regretted, he said, and it was no fault of his that the two defendants were not on trial together.

Without taking any recess Justice Maddox began his charge to the jury at 2 o'clock, and at 2.23 Thorn's fate was in the hands of the jury.

A New Confession.

After his conviction of murder Martin Thorn was reported last night to have said to Capt. Methven, the officer in whose custody he was:

"I was guilty, and I am glad of the verdict. Now that the trial is all over I am pleased at the outcome.

"I am pleased because everything I said on the stand was a lie.

"I shot Guldensuppe and I cut his body up. The only part Mrs. Nack took in the affair was in helping to wrap up one part of the body.

"Everything that Mrs. Nack said on the stand was true.

"I am glad that it was not a mistrial. I did not want a disagreement, because I did not want to go all over it again. I am guilty.

"I hope to have more fun in the next world than I have had in this.

"I am glad it is all over."

What of Mrs. Nack?

That intangible thing called popular impression prevailed that the finding of the jury would not send this man Thorn to his death; that he would be regarded as the tool of a vengeful woman, and that he was an accessory after the fact, rather than a principal with pre-knowledge and actual participation. Still, there has existed an unwritten law in this jurisdiction for more than half a century that a defendant charged with a capital crime must be found guilty as charged in the indictment or set free, and this tacit rule has never been abrogated. If there had been a disagreement it is not at all likely that Mrs. Nack could be convicted of murder in the first degree, or that she would have been called upon to plead to that grade after the service she has rendered the people in betraying her accomplice.

Therefore, it may be that Mrs. Nack will never be brought to trial, even although there was no inducement held out to her to confess.

Even if the District Attorney should seek to try her for murder in the first degree it is quite likely that the presiding justice at such trial would forbid the District Attorney to proceed on those lines.

But Mrs. Nack is too guilty to escape with anything short of the punishment prescribed for murder in the second degree, and she will in all probability plead to that degree and be sentenced to imprisonment for life.

Carlisle Moves to New York.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Hon. John G. Carlisle and Mrs. Carlisle will leave for New York to-day, where they will make their future home. The former Secretary and family have resided in Washington for more than twenty years, and their departure will be regretted. How to Prevent Pneumonia.

At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olagah, Ind. Ter. Chief. This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and la grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Rev. L. E. Livermore and family, of the Babcock building, have returned from Lebanon, Conn.

Don't be persuaded into buying liniments without reputation or merit—Chamberlain's Pain Balm costs no no more, and its merits have been proven by a test of many years. Such letters as the following, from L. G. Bagley, Hueneme, Cal., are constantly being received: "The best remedy for pain I have ever used is Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and I say so after having used it in my family for several years." It cures rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Miss Marion Hartley, of New York, has returned home after a visit at the home of G. P. Mellick, of LaGrande avenue.

Send your address to H. E. Bucklen & Co., Chicago, and get a free sample box of Dr. King's New Life Pills. A trial will convince you of their merits. These pills are easy in action and are particularly effective in the cure of constipation and sick headache. For malaria and liver troubles they have proved invaluable. They are guaranteed to be perfectly free from every deleterious substance and to be purely vegetable. They do not weaken by their action, but by giving tone to stomach and bowels greatly invigorate the system. Regular size 25c. per box. Sold by L. W. Randolph, Druggist.

—The Gesang and Turn Verein will hold a meeting tomorrow evening.

After hearing some friends continually praising Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, Curtis Fleck, of Anaheim, California, purchased a bottle of it for his own use and is now as enthusiastic over its wonderful work as anyone can be. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—A special speaker will address the meeting at the Park Avenue Baptist church this evening on mission work.

The Surprise of All.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

—The first rank will be conferred on two candidates at the meeting of Perseverance Lodge, Knights of Pythias, Friday evening.

Mr. C. M. Dixon, a well known merchant, of Pleasant Ridge, Fulton Co., Pa., has a little girl who is frequently threatened with croup, but when the first symptoms appear, his wife gives her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which always affords prompt relief. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

MORE REMARKS BY HANNIS TAYLOR

Congress Should Promptly Pass the Belligerency Resolution.

Montgomery, Ala., Dec. 1.—Ex-Minister Hannis Taylor, while on his way to his home in Mobile, spoke as follows on the Cuban question:

"The reforms proposed by Senor Sagasta can have no practical effect whatever, for the reason that they have been offered more than two years too late. As long ago as that I pleaded with the Spanish statesmen to grant such reforms as a basis of settlement. Senor Canovas refused all real concessions and undertook a war of extermination, whose dreadful results have made a peace settlement impossible because the insurgents, on their part, will listen to nothing, now that the military power of Spain is exhausted. Peace can only be restored in Cuba in one way. Spain is powerless either to conciliate or conquer, consequently the dreadful strife must go on until the United States commands the peace in her own interest and in behalf of civilization.

"We can hope for nothing except from Congress. The Executive power will attempt, no doubt, to temporize, with the view of escaping responsibility, and in that way will prolong the doubt and uncertainty from which all business interests are now suffering. I fear that the President in his forthcoming message will attempt to muzzle Congress by the pretense that there is still a hope for a peaceful settlement. If he does the response on the part of Congress should be prompt and decided. If the House of Representatives will only act promptly and pass the Senate belligerency resolution, in forty or fifty days the recognition of Cuban independence will be in order, and then Spanish power in Cuba will end and peace will be attained without war with Spain, unless she declares it upon us without any legal cause whatever."

TELLS OF THE MURDER.

Lizzie DeKalb Makes a Statement About Killing Mrs. Kaiser.

Norristown, Pa., Dec. 1.—Lizzie DeKalb, the mysterious woman in black of the Kaiser murder case, who made a statement in the county jail here Monday, admitted that she was out riding with James A. Clemmer on the night of Oct. 28, 1896, when Mrs. Charles O. Kaiser, Jr., was murdered, but denied that she had any foreknowledge that the crime was to be committed, or that she knew anything whatever about it until the fact of the murder was generally known.

By her statement the DeKalb woman seeks only to exculpate herself from knowledge of or participation in the murder and to implicate no one. The statement was taken down by a stenographer and will be used in the woman's defense at her trial.

Her counsel intimated that she had said that on the night of the murder Clemmer had left her sitting alone for a few minutes in the buggy in which they had been driving, but that she knew nothing of what happened while Clemmer was away from her.

Attorney Jenkins said further that his client's statement must not be called a confession, because she admitted no foreknowledge of the crime; but the lawyer admitted that he did not see how she could escape being accessory after the fact.

The DeKalb woman, her counsel and the District Attorney drove over the scene of the murder yesterday afternoon.

Requisition papers for Clemmer, who is now in prison at Newark, have been prepared and he is expected in Norristown not later than to-day. Mr. Holland, for the Commonwealth, maintains that, while the woman's counsel says that she merely made a statement, what she says is really a complete confession.

FAST MAIL'S GREAT RUN.

Council Bluffs, Ia., Dec. 1.—To save the paying of a heavy fine to the Government for delaying mail, a Union Pacific train made the run of 519 miles from Cheyenne to Council Bluffs in 559 minutes. This is the actual time elapsed, including all the regular stops, changing engines twice and a five-minute delay to repair a bursted air-brake hose.

The average running time for the entire distance from Cheyenne was a little more than sixty-two and a half miles an hour.

On account of a burned-out bridge the heavy mail train from the coast was five hours late at Cheyenne. It was necessary to make up this time to Council Bluffs or pay a big fine.

The greatest burst of speed was made on the 100-mile stretch between Grand Island and Ames. The train made the run in a little better speed than sixty-eight miles an hour, and landed here with thirteen minutes to spare.

Thousands to See a Hanging.

Parkersburg, W. Va., Dec. 1.—Dec. 16, at Ripley, will surpass any circus day ever seen in this part of the country. That is the date on which John F. Morgan will pay the penalty of three murders committed by him, and thousands of people are expected at Ripley from all the surrounding towns and counties to witness the execution. Attempts have been made to get the Ohio Railroad officials to run excursions from both ends of their road to the place of execution.

The hanging will be in the open, so that everybody may see it. The scaffold will be erected on a knoll two miles from town.

Indiana Miners All at Work.

Terre Haute, Ind., Dec. 1.—With the settlement of the strike at Hymera and Star City yesterday the mining industry is in better condition than it has been at any time in ten years, according to State Secretary Kennedy. All the miners are fully employed, and at most mines more men are wanted. The Indiana miners will ask for an advance from 56 to 70 cents a ton at the interstate conference to be held at Columbus the middle of this month.

England After China.

London, Dec. 1.—The morning papers assert that China has practically agreed to cede to England a strip of territory near Hong Kong and all the surrounding islands in order to enable England to fortify them securely and to increase the garrison. It is expected that a convention covering the agreement will soon be signed.

TREASURY RECEIPTS

A Surplus for November With the Union Pacific Proceeds.

WITHOUT THESE A DEFICIT

The Latter Amounts to $7,977,013 Unusually Heavy Expenditures for the War Department—Comparative Table—Heavier Receipts.

Washington, Dec. 1.—The Treasury statement which appears to-day shows a surplus of receipts for last month over expenditures of $5,668,000. This is due to the fact that the $13,000,000 from the sale of the Union Pacific Railroad has been added to the receipts for the month. Without this there is a decided deficit for the month of $7,977,013, as compared with a deficit for the same month last year of $7,621,314.

Heavy Expenditures.

Notwithstanding the fact that the deficit last month exceeds that of November last year by a little over $300,000, the Treasury Department is much encouraged by the fact that the receipts for the month have increased and that they are slowly gaining. By the beginning of the last six months of the fiscal year it is hoped that the receipts will come up to original expectations. One reason for the heavy expenditures last month was that large sums have been expended under the direction of the War Department which were not so spent last year.

One item alone, $3,610,000 for the improvement of the Monongahela River, swells the total for the War Department many millions over that of last year. For example, during the last five months the War Department has expended nearly $26,000,000, as against $18,000,000 for the same five months of 1896. The expenditures for pensions were nearly $3,000,000 more for the last five months than during the same time last year. Notwithstanding these figures the total expenditures for the five months closing yesterday are less than $5,000,000 more than those of last year. The total deficit is about the same, but counting the $13,000,000 from the Union Pacific the deficit for the five months is over $8,000,000 less than last year.

The figures for the receipts and expenditures for November compared with those of November last year show how closely the Government is running this month with last year. The figures given below are without the money received from the Union Pacific Railroad.

Receipts for November:

Internal revenue	13,104,825	13,530,644
Totals	*$25,210,696	*$25,168,981

Receipts for five months ending November, 1897:

Totals	*$130,669,077	*$129,919,251

*Including "miscellaneous receipts."

EXPENDITURES.

The expenditures of the government were as follows:

The deficit was as follows:

Heavier Receipts Anticipated.

Treasury officials do not view with alarm the fact that the receipts for the past month are over seven millions behind the expenditures. They say that the small receipts from customs are due to the large importations made in anticipation of the passage of the new tariff law. It is estimated that the revenue from sugar alone, when importations are normal, will amount to $5,000,000 a month. Very little sugar was imported during October and November, and practically none prior to that date and since the passage of the new tariff. It is believed that these importations will increase during the month of December, and will be normal about the month of January. This will add at least $4,000,000 more to the monthly receipts, and it is confidently believed that $3,000,000 more will be received from increase in other importations.

SENATOR ALLISON ON CONGRESS.

He Looks for No Radical Legislation on the Currency.

Dubuque, Ia., Dec. 1.—Senator Allison, on the eve of his departure for Washington, said:

"It is too early to determine whether revenue legislation will be necessary at the coming session. Should any be found necessary it will be enacted later in the session. I anticipate no radical currency legislation. In my judgment the sentiment of Congress will not permit the redemption and retirement of the greenbacks, but I see no objection to the suggestion that greenbacks, when redeemed, should be held as part of the reserve and exchanged only for gold.

"The Hawaiian treaty will receive a two-thirds majority in the Senate, and the prospects seem fair that this will be reached, but it will be a close vote."

Flying Machine to Propel Cars.

Mount Holly, N. J., Dec. 1.—For the past five days a flying machine brought here by Prof. Langley, of Washington, and Prof. Elferth Watkins, of New York, has been attached to a car on the Medford branch of the Pennsylvania Railroad to demonstrate whether the machine could propel a car. There is a gasoline engine in the machine, and sufficient power has been obtained to drive the car at the rate of six miles an hour. The power is applied to the two propellers, about four feet long, and they make about 800 revolutions a minute. The two professors are of the opinion that a machine can be constructed that will draw a car at the ordinary rate of speed now allowed on railroads.

To Explore Tiburon Island.

San Antonio, Tex., Dec. 1.—A party of five well-known and experienced Texas frontiersmen left here this evening on an exploring expedition to Tiburon Island. This island is the home of the Seri Indians, who recently murdered a ship's crew. The exploring party expect to reach the island in about twenty days. They are well equipped with guns and ammunition. They will not seek trouble from Indians, but took with them a large supply of trinkets which they will offer as tokens of peace.

A THIRSTY PLACE.

Like Plainfield, Perth Amboy is now in the throes of liquor license discussion, and Sunday night a local minister preached a sermon anent the subject that was marked with rather startling statements. The preacher took as his text the passage, "Woe unto him that buildeth a town with blood and establisheth a city by iniquity." He said that he would speak only from the financial side of the question, ignoring the moral issue of the liquor question. He began by saying that he had learned much that he did not dare repeat, but he did not give any idea as to what that was. He referred to the sixty eight saloons in Perth Amboy, and stated that they paid last year in revenue to the city $17,450. The next statement startled the congregation, but Mr. Trumbower said that he courted an investagation of the figures, which he declared to be absolutely correct. He placed the amount of liquor received and sold in Perth Amboy, in addition to all that goes there by expresses or is carried in brewery wagons, at 1,391,744 gallons, according to the figures for last year. The population of the city is about 15,000. The income of this quantity was figured at five cents a pint, although brandy, whiskey and wine are included in with beer, and the income of the saloonkeepers, according to Mr. Trumbower, is $556,697.60, an average of $8,186.72 for each saloon. The cost per capita of the city's population is $37.11. The sum named is sufficient to pay off Perth Amboy's bonded debt of $400,000, and there would be a balance large enough to pay the running expenses of the city for more than three years.

FOUR NEW MEMBERS.

Sons of Veterans Are Increasing in Number.

John Hand Camp, No. 28, Sons of Veterans, held a very interesting meeting last evening, at which time Division Commander Jesse R. Dungan and Inspector Wyckoff, of Somerville, also Comrade Conklin, of the same place, were present to pay the Camp a visit. Four candidates were initiated into the degree of the order, and the work was highly complimented by the Division officer and visitors. There was a large delegation of the Camp members present in uniform and much interest was taken in the business of the evening. During the evening officers were nominated for the ensuing term, and the nominations were left open until the next meeting of the Camp. H. S. Thatcher was nominated for the position of captain, and it is quite sure that he will be elected to the office, as there was no opposition to him. For the other offices there were many nominations.

After the meeting those present were invited to the Hotel Tuilleries, where all partook of an oyster supper. The committee in charge consisted of Willard Sutton, Frank Clarkson and Clifford Compton. The supper was followed with speeches by the various persons seated at the table, and a general good time was enjoyed by all.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. and vigorous expression of opposition to the present state of things Plainfield will open a deeper trench for the burial of her best interests. The municipal government of many of our cities is already a grave menace to the nation through the power of the liquor traffic.

Many smaller cities are following in the same path of evil. Let the voters of Plainfield say that our "Fair City" shall not thus go; and when the Council refuses to heed such an expression it will be time enough to put the responsibility on them. The Council has done wisely and well in throwing the burden onto the voters, let the voters answer like men, with the fear of God before their eyes. It is not a party question. It is not a church question. It is a question of good government, of good morals, of wise economics and of good politics.

Mr. Dixey has been an adept in the art diobloique for several years, though it has only been recently that he has appeared as a magician in public.

Joseph Herbert is a newcomer to Mr. Daly's ranks this season, and did good work Monday night. Chas. J. Richman, Geo. Clarke, John Craig, Sidney Herbert, Hobart Bosworth, Edwin Varrey, William Owen, Nancy McIntosh, Virginia Earle and Mrs. Gilbert interpreted the other characters.

MR. ELKIN'S QUEER FOWLS.

R. L. Elkin, a prominent farmer near Lancaster, N. Y., has devoted several years to raising domestic fowls of different breeds, and has now on hand a few fowls which are attracting the attention of the public on account of their unusual color, size, and form, and their aptitude to imitate, which makes a near approach to intelligence and bids fair to dispense with errand boys, shepherd dogs, and telephones. They are a cross between the Minorca and a fowl which was sent him by his friend, Col. John Mills, now United States Consul at Falkland Islands, which in many respects resembles the parrot, though not so clumsy.

The fowls weigh about three pounds, have sharp claws, a long beak, slightly carved, large yellow eyes, a white crest, dark green plumage, and an intelligent expression. They fly rapidly and although domesticated they have a tendency to roam for hours at a time. He calls them "minims" because of their size. From the time they come from the shell they are easily handled and are fond of human society, always manifesting a disposition to imitate human action and make articulate sounds approximating the language of the parrot. They are non-sitters, but their eggs will hatch in fourteen days. They will only roost in trees or on the roof of a house. On the approach of a stranger they make a shrill clatter like the guinea foul, and when anything unusual is about to occur they make a loud noise, which sounds like the words "Look out!" Their timely warning is invaluable in many instances. If a dog or any other animal ventures into their inclosure he meets with such a reception as to insure a speedy departure, with no inclination to return. The sharp curved beak and sharp claws have inflicted many wounds on intruders.

Unerring instinct seems to give them as accurate idea of the time of day, and when the regular routine of farm work has been performed in sight of them they seem to realize any delay in the same work on a succeeding day. Mr. Elkin's bluegrass pasture in which his milch cows graze contains about fifty acres and extends up to the barnyard. He asserts positively that the cowboy, who always fed them after milking, was late coming from the field one evening last week, and he saw two of the fowls fly away in the direction of the cows, one of which was lying down. They lighted upon her and induced her to rise by a gentle touch with their claws. The same inducement was applied to the whole herd until they were marched to the milk pen. These acts are the result of observation and the fowls bid fair to become more valuable than the dog to herdsmen.—Louisville Dispatch.

Neighborly Thoughtfulness.

"John," she said thoughtfully, "tomorrow is the birthday of that little Jones boy next door."

"What of it?" he demanded.

"Oh, nothing much," she replied: "Only I happened to recall that Mr. Jones gave our Willie a drum on his birthday."

"Well, do you think I feel under any obligations to him for that?" he asked irritably. "If you do you are mistaken. If I owe him anything it's a grudge."

"Of course," she answered sweetly. "That is why I thought that perhaps you might want to give the Jones boy a big brass trumpet."

"The most resourceful woman in the world!" he exclaimed, delightedly. And the Jones boy got the trumpet.

Told Him the Truth.

"Simplex answered an advertisement in which somebody offered to sell him the secret for preventing trousers from getting fringes around the bottom."

"What did they tell him?"

"To wear knickerbockers."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

At the Athletic Games.

She—"What a wonderful jumper that man is!—but why do they keep ringing that big gong while he is making his jumps?"

He—"That's Jerolamon—he's from Brooklyn, and he can't do his best unless he imagines he is getting out of the way of a trolley car."—Puck.

A Rude Hint.

Charlie Borem—Did you know, Miss Witty, that this is the longest day in the year?

Miss Witty—Is it? That's strange. I had just begun to think it was the longest evening.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Distinction.

Jack—Is it true that Tom Dashing and Dollie Newrich are engaged?

Harry—Well, her people speak of it as an engagement, while his relatives call it an entanglement.—New York Journal.

A Shattered Idol.

Alice—What a gallant person Mr. Dunkley is. He never addresses me without beginning "Fair miss."

Dorothy—Oh, that's force of habit. He used to be a street-car conductor. —Cleveland Leader.

"It's untrue," said Willie Washington, "that it is impossible for a man to attain perfection."

"Who has reached that stage?"

"I have. Miss Cayenne informed me this morning that I am a perfect bore."—Washington Star.

Bill—"And what did the old man say when you asked for his daughter?" Jill—"Ordered me to leave the house." "And what did you say?" "I asked him if he took me for a housemover." —Yonkers Statesman.

ALASKA'S NEW GOVERNOR.

John Green Brady, Once a Homeless Waif, Rescued from the Streets of New York.

The brilliant man, John Green Brady of Indiana, who has been appointed Governor of Alaska, has had an interesting and romantic career. To the best of his knowledge he is a native of New York city. He never knew his parents nor the name they gave him, if any. He grew up a veritable street arab in the utmost poverty. In 1860 he was sent to Indiana with a car load of waifs as miserable as himself.

The car reached Tipton, a county seat thirty miles north of Indiana, and a number of the youngsters were committed to the care of residents. Judge John Green, a prominent citizen of the place, called for the "ugliest, raggedest, and most friendless" in the lot. "Jack," as he was afterward known, was promptly presented; and, at first, the Judge, appalled at so much misery in bulk, was inclined to go back on his demand, but finally took the lad home to Mrs. Green. She was out of patience with her husband for his action, but the absolute destitution of the boy appealed to her and she got down to the real boy by a process of thorough cleaning. After the examination she thought she might learn to like him and Jack's new life began.

He appreciated his home and the kindness of his benefactors, and diligently applied himself to study, proving himself capable and efficient. A course at the public schools was followed by a year at Waveland Academy a well-known preparatory institution, and that by four years at Harvard. He had determined to be a preacher, and after he had been graduated at Cambridge he was sent by Judge Green to England to pursue his theological studies. Returning to Tipton in 1876, the next year he went to Alaska as a missionary under the auspices of the Presbyterian Church, and he has since remained there. His interest in the field was not confined to his missionary labors, and in 1881 he visited the States, displaying specimens of its gold and silver ores, and telling marvellous stories of its natural resources. As a result of his talks there was a large increase of the population of the Territory, capitalists and prospectors being attracted by his enthusiastic descriptions. Mr. Brady contributed largely to the reports of the census of 1890 respecting Alaska and in the Harrison Administration served as Commissioner of the Territory.

Outwitting a Store Detective.

The Philadelphia Record says a detective in a well-known retail store of that city is engaged in the mental process of kicking himself whenever he thinks of a certain transaction which took place last week. At a time of day when the store was crowded the detective, who was keeping a sharp lookout for evil-doers, was approached by a well-dressed, intelligent-looking man, who informed him that he was employed as detective in another store, and had followed a shoplifter from his firm's store to the present place, where they would find her at the glove counter stealing gloves.

"Let her alone," said the strange detective, "and when she loads up I will follow her home, and we can then make a big haul."

Consent was given to this plan and the shop-lifter stole $200 or $300 worth of gloves upmolested. Then she went out, followed by the strange detective. That was the last ever seen of the pair, and the store detective wonders how on earth he was duped so easily.

Carrying It too Far.

"Henrietta doesn't seem to believe anything she sees in the newspapers," said Mr. Meekton thoughtfully.

"It's a good thing not to be too credulous."

"Yes; but she goes too far. She can't even read the advertisement of a bargain sale without going in person to find out whether it's true in every particular."—Washington Star.

Never Saw Him Before.

"You say that you want money to buy food for a hungry man whose face you never saw up to this time!"

"Yes, sir," replied Meandering Mike.

"Where is he?"

A Political Boss.

"Charley," said young Mrs. Torkins, "when a man is elected to office does he become a servant of the people?"

"Yes. In a sense."

"Well, that explains something that I have always wondered about. I see now why he is so often called a political boss."—Washington Star.

Fountain Head of Information.

Little Johnny—Pa, why is it they have that big eagle where the minister stands in church?

Pa—Because, my son, the eagle is a bird of prey. When you want to know anything, always come right to your pa.—Boston Transcript.

Their Daughters Now Included.

Impecunious Count (looking at portraits of his ancestors)—"Lucky fellows, you old robber barons. You only took the cash of the money-bags. We have to take their daughters, too."—Fliegende Blatter.

A small boy after critically surveying the new baby, remarked to his mother: "He's got no teeth and no hair. He's grandfather's little brother, ain't he, ma?"—Fun.

A young fellow in town was surprised the other day. He proposed to a girl, and instead of her saying, "It is so sudden," she said, "It's about time."

BLUE A FAVORITE IN TAILOR GOWNS.

By Special Arrangement with the N. Y. Sun.)

The most useful gown this season is the foulard or India. It fills up all demands and is always ready. It is always in order, and it gives the wearer a chance of wearing all the daring combinations of color that have been allowed this season. One in bright blue, with quantities of cream-colored lace, is finished at waist and throat with bright green ribbons; it has a

The organdies are fascinating in their varying tints and combinations. A light green, trimmed with ruffles of a darker shade, is edged with creamy lace and headed with a row of insertion of the same lace above each ruffle. Made over a light green slip of lawn, a silk of the same hue and a soft chiffon sash of the darker green, such a gown is a refreshing bit of simplicity. A very sheer black, with lavender flowers covering its surface, is finished with five little ruffles about the skirt, edged with black lace, and worn over a lavender undergown. Ruffles of the lavender lawn trim the bodice. These extend the same over the sleeves and across the front, forming a bertha, finished to a point, with a soft wrinkle belt and bow of lavender.

White is a great favorite, as it always is, but it is not the simple white swiss of long ago, but is a compound of so many frills, laces, and ribbons that it is like a foaming heap of loveliness. These patterns can be worn as effectively over a slip of lawn as the more expensive silk slip. Of course, all the beautiful transparent fabrics are used most becomingly, but they are far more expensive gauzes, grenadines, chiffon, and a coarse silk net, which must have the silk underdress of pale tints. Some of the canvases and grenadines are so delicately woven that they must have the taffeta's silk foundation to give them the required stiffness. In shading they are as delicate as in texture and make the most exquisite gowns, vieing with the mousseline de soie. For more enduring service these can be found also in all dark shades, making them most useful for street wear.

"They offered a Bible at our church last year to the most regular attendant."

"The sexton."

The Law of Health.

A Girl Who Broke It To Her Sorrow.

She was a young woman, and she had broken the law; she did not know it, but that did not save her. Candy eating was her crime. Her stomach and bowels were deranged. Her blood almost water. The doctors said she must cease eating candy and begin taking iron, but she could not take the iron which they gave her. It upset her stomach and disagreed with her generally. She heard of Capsuloids and took one with each meal, and dropped all other medicine. They cured her. They cured her absolutely. Capsuloids contain the only natural iron medicine ever yet offered to mankind. It is absolutely non-irritating, and agrees with the weakest stomach.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price by the Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York.

TERRIBLE STORMS IN ENGLAND.

London, Dec. 1.—Stories of wrecks, fatalities and damage done as a result of the gale which has caused so much damage in England continue to be received. All the bays and ports are full of shipping, more or less seriously damaged. Such sights have not been seen for many years. Several of the inland towns of Kent are still flooded, and a long time must elapse before the damage done can be repaired.

The seaside resorts naturally have sustained the most serious damage. At Margate alone the damage done is estimated to amount to £50,000 ($250,000), and at South End the estimates place the damage at £30,000 ($150,000). Similar reports are being received from other seaside places.

The severity of the weather prevailing in Durhamshire can be gauged by the fact of the finding of the frozen body of a laborer who lost his way in a snowstorm.

Five artillerymen from Shoeburyness who were sent out to search for a boat in which six gunners were adrift were driven out to sea and were picked up by the Allan Line steamer Austrian, after their boat had been stove in. It is feared that the boat containing the six gunners has been swamped and that the men have been drowned.

The Ramsgate lifeboat, which, with a tug, the two vessels having a score of men on board, went to assist a vessel in danger on the Goodwin Sands, have not been heard from for twenty-four hours. A dispatch from Liverpool says that during the gale the Russian bark Nikolai, Capt. Karisen, stranded on a treacherous bank near Formby, south of Southport. After fearful experiences her sails were blown away and the vessel was damaged so as to be uncontrollable. One of the crew, a man named Karlston, was swept overboard and drowned. The captain says no one had slept on board for four days. With the exception of Karlston the ship's company is safe, but the vessel, which is not insured, will probably become a wreck.

CHANGES IN THE CABINET.

No Successor for Attorney-General McKenna Chosen.

Washington, Dec. 1.—The President is going to appoint Attorney-General McKenna to the Supreme bench, to succeed Justice Field, who retires this month, but he has given no intimation as to who will be Judge McKenna's successor in the Cabinet. He has reached no decision in the matter, and may, therefore, wait some time before sending the nomination of Judge McKenna for the Supreme bench to the Senate.

The talk about Judge Day becoming Attorney-General is a revival of an old rumor, which has been denied by the Assistant Secretary of State himself. The President would gladly make his friend Attorney-General, but Judge Day says he prefers his present place. Judge Day has had entire charge of the Spanish-Cuban question since he took his present office, and to leave the work which he has so well in hand might cause some embarrassment.

The talk about the retirement of Secretary Sherman is without foundation, and should be dismissed from all calculations in regard to Cabinet changes.

The President would be glad to appoint Judge Nathan Goff, of West Virginia, Attorney-General. Judge Goff was offered the place when the President originally made up his Cabinet, but could not accept it then. If he would accept it now it is said that he would be nominated. It may be significant in this connection to state that Judge Goff is expected in Washington to-day.

Stamping Out Tuberculosis.

Harrisburg, Dec. 1.—The State Live Stock Sanitary Board met yesterday afternoon. The State Veterinarian submitted a report showing that during the past six months 406 herds, including 5,368 cattle, had been examined for tuberculosis. Of these 658 were found to be diseased and were killed. The percentage of diseased animals in inspected herds has decreased from 20.2 per cent. to 12.2 per cent. This indicates that the worst centres of disease have been discovered and removed, and that rapid progress is being made to suppress tuberculosis in this State.

It was agreed that the present plan of inspection should be continued, and that $10,000 should be set aside for this work.

The law prohibiting the importation of diseased cattle into Pennsylvania will go into effect on Jan 1, 1898.

Fighting the Anti-Gambling Law.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 1.—Former Attorney-General Stockton has been retained with Allan L. McDermott and ex-Senator Edwards to further contest the regularity of the adoption of the anti-race-track constitutional amendment. They have applied to Justices Van Sickel, Collins and Dixon for a hearing, on the contention that the amendment did not receive the majority of votes required by the constitution. The hearing will take place on Friday.

Labor Looks for Laws.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Chief Arthur of the Brotherhood of Railway Locomotive Engineers, Chief Sargent, who is at the head of the Firemen, and Chief Powell of the Telegraphers have come on to Washington in behalf of certain legislation which the friends of labor have been strenuously advocating for the past three or four years.

They will endeavor to get through Congress the compulsory arbitration bill and the bill establishing a national labor commission.

Gen. Ordway's Successor.

Washington, Dec. 1.—The President has decided to appoint Major George H. Harries to be Brigadier-General, commanding the District of Columbia National Guard, to succeed the late Gen. Albert N. Ordway, who died in New York on Nov. 21. Major Harries is Inspector-General of Rifle Practice in the District Guard. In business life he is the secretary of the Washington Board of Trade.

Woodford to Give a Dinner.

Madrid, Dec. 1.—The United States Minister, Gen. Stewart L. Woodford, will give a banquet here on Sunday next in honor of the Government officers and members of the diplomatic corps.

KAISER WANTS A NAVY

WORK AHEAD IN CHINA

He Says that the Present Naval Force Is Inadequate and Asks an Appropriation of Over $100,000,000 for New Vessels.

Berlin, Dec. 1.—The Parliamentary session of the Reichstag was opened yesterday. The Emperor conducted the opening in person, reading the speech from the throne himself, instead of deputizing the Chancellor to read it in the chamber, as is customary.

The ceremony took place in the White Hall of the Schloss at noon. After reading the formal speech the Kaiser made another speech, in which he recalled how he had sworn and resworn to maintain the greatness of the Fatherland.

The Emperor also called attention to the naval bill which will be submitted to the Reichstag. This measure, he said, was important, in view of the recent occurrences in China. His own brother, Prince Henry of Prussia, had been designated to command the German squadron about to sail for Kaio Chau Bay to reinforce the German fleet in Chinese waters, so important did he regard the matter.

The Emperor's speech was chiefly devoted to naval matters. The Kaiser declared that the German navy was not equal to its mission, and did not suffice to afford security to the home ports and coasts in the event of a blockade. He also said that the German trade was increasingly sharing the markets of the world, but Germany's warships were not sufficient to protect their countrymen abroad by giving them the support which by a display of power could only be secured. The Emperor said he did not wish to vie with the maritime powers of the first rank, but that Germany must be able to maintain her prestige.

The Emperor's naval bill asks the Reichstag for an appropriation of 410,000,000 marks (over $100,000,000) to be expended over a term of seven years in building a navy. The Kaiser wants the present navy renovated and seven battleships and nine cruisers built. He asks an increase of 4,000,000 marks for annual naval expenditures.

After reading the speech the Emperor recalled how, two years ago, he had sworn on the same spot where he was then standing, to maintain and protect everywhere the prestige and honor of the empire. He added:

"In the sight of Almighty God, and by the memory of the great Emperor, I now ask your help to enable me in the future also to keep this, my oath, and to assist me to uphold with my might the honor of the empire abroad for the preservation of which I have not hesitated to pledge my only brother."

RELIEF FOR THE MINERS.

Cabinet Considers Advisability of Sending Aid to Klondike.

Washington, Dec. 1.—The Cabinet yesterday considered the subject of sending relief to the miners in the Klondike. President McKinley received a telegram from the Portland (Oregon) Chamber of Commerce stating that there was danger of destitution and suffering on the Klondike, and offering to supply the necessary food for relief if the Government would undertake its transportation.

The information was not definite as to the actual conditions, but was on the same line as has been telegraphed from the Northwest.

The Cabinet considered every phase of the situation, and discussed ways and means of affording relief, the disposition being to do everything possible to prevent starvation and misery.

Secretary Alger has several relief plans in contemplation, but that likely to be adopted if Congress appropriates the amount of money necessary to carry it out contemplates an overland from Juneau or Dyea, to start when the snow hardens in February or March. A large number of reindeer will be necessary to the success of the plan, and W. T. Kjellmann, assistant Superintendent of the Government reindeer stations, started from Washington yesterday for Lapland to secure deer broken to harness and a number of lap drivers.

Booth-Tucker Raises $30,000.

New York, Dec. 1.—Carnegie Hall was crowded to its utmost capacity last night when Commander Booth-Tucker and his wife addressed the closing meeting of the Salvation Army's annual congress in the interest of the colonization scheme. At the conclusion of Commander Booth-Tucker's appeal for money, blank promissory notes, obligating the signers to lend the Salvation Army optional sums for five years, at 5 per cent. interest, were distributed among the audience. Over $30,000 was subscribed by means of the notes. Several sums were also donated outright. One note for $7,500, three for $5,000 each, and five for $1,000 each were made on condition that the signers' names should not be made public.

Death to Civil Service.

Washington, Dec. 1.—Republican members of the House who are either in favor of a modification or a complete repeal of the civil-service law look upon Gen. Grosvenor, of Ohio, as the leader of the movement. They are awaiting his arrival before any definite plan is arranged.

The Kentucky, Maryland, Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and West Virginia Republicans are up in arms against the law, and the talk is that, no matter what the President may say on the subject, a most determined fight will be made in Congress to either wipe the law out entirely, or to cut off the appropriations necessary to maintain the Civil-Service Commission.

Negro College Opened.

Tuskegee, Ala., Dec. 1.—Secretary Wilson, of the United States Department of Agriculture, was the central figure at the opening of the Alabama Colored Agricultural College, of which Booker Washington is head, yesterday.

In a speech he expressed gratification that he could talk to men who actually put hands to the plow. Gov. Johnson was present, and a large array of notables.

GOSSIP FROM GRIDIRON.

HAPPENINGS AMONG THE LOCAL FOOTBALL PLAYERS.

Games That are to be Played and Points About Teams and Individual Players That May Prove Interesting to Cranks.

The grounds of the Plainfield A. A. on Martine common are being dismantled, for the season is over and the pigskin has retired to a far corner to await another year. Plainfield has seen some excellent playing this year and the material that has been devel oped is very satisfactory to all concerned. Last year, an experiment was made by putting Thomas A. Cuming, a light man, at centre. This year, Cuming has been a fixture at the position and has played a great game from start to finish. He is a conscientious player and has studied his position well. Edward Brown at guard has also been a fixture. The indespensible Brown, as he is called by his friends, put up a clever game every time he played and gave Cuming magnificient support. Aleck Milne, whose six feet three inches of bone and brawn have won him the sobriquet "Shorty," played but one game. His equal in that game would be hard to find. Fred. Huntington filled the position most acceptably but he had not the quickness of Milne. Harry Lovell played his old game at tackle until he was compelled to give up the game and then he made a very satisfactory official. William L. McClure, who took his place, is one of the coming players of the city. He played a remarkably snappy game, was quick and possessed all the requirements of an ideal player. Fletcher Hallock filled the other tackle in his own way and it suited all. Although light, he played a wonderful game and gained the plaudits of the crowd by his brilliant work. Edgar I. Serrell played at his best, this year. He made a fast end and tackled well. He rarely allowed the runner to circle his end and showed great tact in breaking up interference. Henry V. Ryder showed a lack of practice at the opening of the season but he had much improved his game toward the close. At quarter back, Louis E. Waring played an excellent game and infused new energy in the rest of the team at every play. He directed the movements of the team and was largely responsible for its success. During his absence Roy T. Phillips showed himself as being a rising young player. He was very light, but he played with the nerve and energy of a veteran. Behind the line the honors were divided. Thos. U. Smith played a steady, conscientious game, and was to be found where he was needed. He played the best game Thanksgiving Day, when he proved himself a terrific line bucker. Fred H. Freeman did some wonderful work about the ends. He had the faculty of dodging down to a fine point, and his quickness made him very useful. George Cathcart made great gains through the line and kept his feet in a rush remarkably well. His tackling and method of breaking up interference was very good. Louis Darling was in hard luck, meeting with an accident every time he played. He played a strong game when he had a chance, however. Harry McGee was tried only once and then showed himself the best punter on the team. He also did splendid work in the interference and he hit the line heavily. George Snediker also deserves credit for his all-round playing and he filled with success the several positions on the line at which he was tried. Individually there was plenty of fine material, but owing to lack of practice the team work was missing. Of course there was a certain amount of it, but with plenty of practice Plainfield has a team that would hold its own among the best in the State.

THE COUNTY TROLLEY.

Prominent Plainfielder Warnes Taxpayers From Assuming Too Much.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—It behooves the taxpayers of this country to keep a sharp eye this winter on the trolley road job. It is proposed to pass a bill allowing counties to construct trolleys roads at public expense, and its first application will be in the building of a road from Plainfield to Elizabeth. It is said that this road is to be leased to a private company to operate. There is not the slightest reason to suppose that any company would pay enough for such a privilege to make it profitable to the county, and this fact is very material in view of the statement that if no company can be found to operate the road, the county itself will do it. Some weeks ago the "Press" published a letter from Mr. Serrell in which he claimed to show by figures that such a road could not pay expenses. His statements have not been controverted, and it is fair to assume that they are correct. His conclusions are borne out by the fact that private capitalists seem to have no wish to do this work. If such a road were profitable would not these companies who are already in the business, be eager to build and run it? The fact that they hold aloft shows that they do not think it will pay.

Even if it would pay a private company, it will surely be a loss if done at public expense. Our cities and counties cannot succeed in business. They have tried it over and over again, and always with the same result. Their ventures result either in complete failures or in heavy annual losses made good out of the taxpayers. I think I am correct in saying that hardly an instance can be found where a city or county, in this country at least, has engaged successfully in any industrial enterprise.

And yet in the face of all this a politician actually proposes to drag us into the railroad business and to saddle us with a large and uncertain expense. Everybody—except the men who levy and collect our taxes—thinks that taxes are heavy enough now, but if this scheme goes through we shall look back to this as the golden time when we had something left for ourselves. This trolley road is nothing but a great big steal; it will injure all and benefit none. We must be alert and vigilant if it is to be killed. A.

RECEPTION TO NEW TEACHER.

John Doul Miller Welcomed to H. R Munger's Place in Hope Chapel.

The men's Bible class of Hope chapel gave a reception last evening in the chapel to their new teacher, John Doull Miller, who takes the position resigned by H. R. Munger, who was obliged to give up owing to poor health. The class is one of the largest for men in the city and numbers nearly 100. It was organized nearly twelve years ago with five members, and some of the original members are still members of the class.

The evening was devoted to the rendition of vocal and instrumental music and remarks by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, H. R. Munger, H. C. Squires, F. H. Andrews and John Doul Miller.

The decorations around the platform, consisting of potted plants and roses, presented an attractive appearance, as did also the tables set for the guests. Those who assisted in the dining room included Mrs. Hall, Mrs. Hansen, Mrs. Bowden and Mrs. McInnis. There was plenty of good things to eat, and those present had a good time. There were expressions of regret that Mr. Munger was forced to give up the class, and much rejoicing that so capable a teacher had been secured to take his place.

FREIGHT HOUSE BURNED.

Destructive Fire at Dunellen This Afternoon.

The freight house of the Central railroad at Dunellen was totally destroyed by fire this afternoon.

It was 1:09 o'clock when a freight train passed through in Dunellen and, it is supposed, threw a spark from the smoke stack and set fire to an old mattress that laid on the platform at the eastern end of the freight house.

The mattress ignited and in a few moments was all ablaze. The flames were swept by a south wind right into the southern end of the building which was filled with a lot of painting material.

They quickly ignited and soon the whole building was in flames. The railway employes worked like beavers to remove the freight and succeeded in getting most of it out.

The building was totally destroyed.

The fire department responded promptly, but the flames were too far advanced to be extinguished by their efforts.

The telegraph wires of the railroad were disabled for a short time.

EDUCATED BUT CANNOT READ.

Brooklyn Woman Who Has Learned Entirely by Listening to Others.

The wonderful development of certain faculties in the cases of persons who have lost the use of some of their natural functions, or of others whose faculties have not been fully developed, has long been a matter of remark, but it is not alone the outside observes who appreciate the provisions of nature for the benefit of the unfortunates. The sufferers themselves often appreciate this fully, and in some instances, after years, grow to depend so much upon their acquired faculties as to be afraid of a change, even if they have the chance of one, says the New York Sun.

An illustration of this is given by a woman in Brooklyn who never has learned to read or write. In no way could one discover this except by her own admission, or by putting her to a direct test, for she is one of the best educated women in the country, conversant with languages, art, literature and all the current topics of the day. She is rich, too, and could afford all the services of the best teachers if she chose to learn to read but she refuses to do so.

When this woman was a child her parents lived far from schools, so she had no chance then to learn to read or write. As a mere child she began to earn her own living, and again the chance for schooling slipped away. Then she married, and the cares of a family took up her time. By the time the babies were off her hands her husband had grown rich, and then she began her real education, and now, as a widow, she continues it. Her companions read to her and talk with her about all the topics which interest her. Years of such work have stored her mind with a rich treasure of knowledge, and there is not a page of a book that has been read to her that she is not familiar with; her stores of knowledge are at her instant command. Why will she not learn to read? Because, she says, she fears that this wonderful memory, which is now such a treasure house to her, might be impaired if she were to do anything to weaken the demands upon it.

BUSINESS AND SALOONS.

LOCAL MERCHANTS DISCUSSED THE QUESTION IN CHURCH.

Seeley Edsall, Alonzo Weseman, J. A. Powlison and John Allen Talked—All Agreed on the Bad Features of the Traffic.

The members of the Congregational church have certainly not been left in ignorance of the importance of the election which will take place December 7th. On Sunday morning they listened to a strong appeal for good citizenship from their pastor, Rev. Charles Lyman Goodrich, and last night the regular midweek service of the church took the form of a temperance meeting. The topic was "The Saloon," which was to be considered from the personal standpoint of various business men of the city.

The first speaker was Seely Edsall, well known as a merchant of Plainfield. He said his business relations with drinking men had been slight, as a merchant will never knowingly employ a man who drinks. If it is known that a young man even takes a social glass at a party, it injures his business prospects, for business competition is now so intense that employers have to be very strict in the requirements they make of the men under them. If a young man wishes to succeed in business, he must keep clear of the saloon; this is one of the strongest arguments for the abolishing of the saloon. Mr. Edsall told the story of several men with whom he was well acquainted, who had been ruined by the saloon, and said, in closing, that if he had the power he would sink every rum-hole into the earth, where it could no longer wreck men, body and soul, and take the bread from their children's mouths.

Alonzo Weseman, superintendent at Scott's Press Works, gave a little of his experience with men who had been injured by the saloon. He said that he had seen many men go steadily down, because of that baleful influence; often it would be a young man following in the steps of an elder one.

Even the men who want the "social drink" for themselves, do they want it for their boys? A young man once down, it is an awfully hard job to get him up again. If the saloons were closed, the boys in the shops who drink might manage to get an occasional drink, but they wouldn't get half so much, and there would not be the opportunity for invitations to social drinking.

J. A. Powlison, another Plainfield merchant, was now asked if it was his opinion that trade in Plainfield would decline if the saloons were closed. He said that he did not see how it would be possible for any trade to be lost. A very large amount of money is now spent in the saloons, in a way to do nobody any good, but to destroy our manhood, and if the saloons were closed, there would be all the more money to spend for other things.

The last speaker, John Allen, spoke from the point of view of the machinist, and his account agreed fully with that of Mr. Weseman. He spoke especially of the evil of social drinking, and of the many who, invited in early youth to take a glass with a friend, become regular drinkers before arriving at maturity.

BRIDGE PRACTICALLY FINISHED.

The Watchung Avenue Improvement Will Soon Be Ready for Use.

The new Watchung avenue bridge is completed with the exception of the hand rails that are to be placed on the side. For the reason that the rails are not yet in position the bridge has not been open to the public. Messrs. Tier and Hubbard, of the Board of Freeholders, are very anxious to have the bridge open, but they do not consider it wise to run the risk of having someone injured by being too hasty. Notwithstanding the barriers that have been placed in position to prevent travel over the bridge, people persist in knocking them down and using the bridge. Of course, if they sustain injury they would never be able to hold the county responsible. The Board of Freeholders met at Elizabeth today and paid the bills for the mason and paving work on both the Watchung and Sycamore avenue bridges.

Fine Interior Decorating.

Edward Love, the interior decorator, North and Watchung avenues, has just finished Dr. Whitney's house on First place. Every one who has seen the house agrees that it is about the finest piece of work ever done in the city of Plainfield in that line. One would have to go far to see more artistic rooms than the parlor and dining room. The library is done with Persian Heraldic, the dining room in beautiful red and the parlor in white and gold.

—The preparatory service at Warren chapel will be held tomorrow evening. Communion will be held on Sunday morning.

CAN'T GET TO HER PROPERTY

LEGAL FENCE IN MRS. LOOSEY'S PATH.

Her Land is Entirely Surrounded by Others, Who Forbid Her to Trespass.

Assemblyman W. R. Codington was called to German Valley yesterday by one of his clients, who was in a peculiar predicament. Mrs. Hannah E. Loosey formerly resided in this city, but some time ago moved to German Valley, a small place in Morris county. She purchased some property there. Now there was no regular road running to the property, but a driveway through some of the adjoining property was the usual means of gaining access.

Of late there has been some building going on at German Valley and the property surrounding that belonging to Mrs. Loosey has been built up and fenced off. At last the driveway was closed and Mrs. Loosey found herself unable to reach her property without trespassing on her neighbors' land. A dispute among some of the property owners made matters much worse.

So Mr. Codington was called to German Valley yesterday to look after the interests of Mrs. Loosey. He has decided to make application to the courts of Morris county to appoint commissioners to lay out a right of way by which Mrs. Loosey will be able to reach her property, and make it a permanent way to be used hereafter without objection.

GALA DAY AT LINCOLN.

The Town's New Schoolhouse Opened in an Auspicious Manner.

Yesterday the public school at Lincoln was opened up for the first time with twenty-four scholars, and Miss Maud Titsworth as teacher. People came in on trains, wagons and bicycles to attend the public exercises. The scholars from New Market, South Plainfield and Harris Lane attended and took part in the exercises, consisting of recitations, singing, etc. At 3 o'clock the older people adjourned to the large hall over the schoolhouse and listened to speeches by Hon. Nelson Y. Dungan, of Somerville, Mayor S. D. Drake, John C. Morris, Rev. Fletcher and others. At 4 p. m. a large flag was raised. Over 100 children were served with refreshments in the schoolroom, and after the flag-raising, Mayor Drake invited all present to a lunch, served in the building opposite the depot. Sixty-two people sat down to the first table, and fifty-eight to the second table. After enjoying a substantial lunch, speeches were made, and it was voted that Lincoln had made a great hit with its public school. Twelve more scholars will be added to the school today, making thirty-six scholars.

Boys Against Convict Labor.

At the meeting of the Boys' Club last evening another debate comprised the programme for the evening. The question for debate was "Should convicts be employed at public works." Charles Peterson and Charles Palmer argued the question in the affirmative, while Robert Goldsack and Olaf Saugstad represented the negative side. After a very spirited debate the question was decided in the negative by a vote of 8 to 7. Next week the question to be debated will be "Should the United States recognize the belligerency of Cuba." Robert Goldsack and Clarence Pope will take the affirmative, and Charles Palmer and Joseph Galbraith will speak for the negative. The debating club will hereafter meet every two weeks.

A Tender Biblical Story.

The excellent discourse of Evangelist Saunders, at the gospel meeting in the Seventh-Day Baptist church last night, was founded upon the tender story of Martha, Mary and Lazarus. Increased atttendance; the prayers and testimonies of an unusually large number of people and a manifest deepening of religious feeling made the meeting one of special interest. Meetings are held every night and all are invited to attend.

Soon to Be Five Years Old.

COSTLY ARRAY OF STAMPS

E. R. ACKERMAN'S COLLECTION IS ONE OF THE BEST IN THE WORLD.

The Plainfielder Has Nearly Every Kind That Can Be Found in the World, Arranged Uniquely in His Home.

In a recent issue of Mekeel's Weekly Stamp News, there is the following account of the stamp collection of Ernest R. Ackerman, of West Seventh street, as one of the finest in the vicinity of New York: Mr. Ackerman's collection of about 15,000 varieties is particularly strong in United States revenues, of which he has about as fine an array as can be gotten together. He has the 6c. proprietary, orange, unused, fine; the 2c. U. S. I. R. green paper, beautiful shades of the second and third issues; two magnificent copies of the $5 proprietary, inverts in multitude. He has the finest copy of the $20 Probate of Will unperforate that your correspondent has ever seen or hopes to see, unused, with appallingly wide margins.

His revenue collection is arranged alphabetically, according to title—a very happy deviation from the beaten track.

He also has a very fine collection of Bureau plates—all four sides of everything, with a very few exceptions up to plate 375.

In private proprietary stamps he has the 6c. James Swain, the Etna match and the Gorman match, the latter in beautiful unused condition; he also has the H. Bendel 12c., a very good stamp.

He has almost everything in United States regular issues, many blocks and pairs.

In Canada he has a very fine showing; for example, twenty-five copies of the 7½ pence; three of them unused and full original gum.

He is also very fond of the stamps of Ceylon. He has three "double Genevas;" one of them on the letter.

He is very strong in British North America and the West Indies, and has some of the Nevis in the sheet.

But he has one stamp aggregation which perhaps transcends all these. He has at his home in Plainfield, a room which he styles his den, the wall of which is artistically decorated with 34,000 unused Honduras stamps.

He is a member of the Collectors Club, National Society, and the Philatelic Society, New York, besides the London, Dresden, and other societies.

A PARLOR ENTERTAINMENT.

Trinity Reformed Church Sunday-School Scholars Met Socially.

A pleasant parlor entertainment was given at the home of Miss Olive Wikoff, 417 East Sixth street, last Tuesday evening by two classes from the primary department of the Trinity Reformed Sunday-school. The programme, which was as follows, was announced by F. E. Smith: Recitation, "Piccola," Bessie Randall; song, "Go to Sleep my Baby," Anna, Bessie and Hattie Randall and Lucy Coriell; recitation, "Compassion," Mrs. Randall; dialogue, "A Contrast," Emma and Laura Wikoff; recitation, "The Lighthouse Keeper," Bessie Randall; recitation, "November," Ida Tier; song, "A Paper of Pins," Lucy Coriell and Anna Randall; recitation, "The Last Hymn," Miss Olive Wikoff; dialogue, "Sweet Sixteen," Hattie and Anna Randall; recitation, "Little Orphans," Bessie Randall; tableau, "Forgiven," Emma and Laura Wikoff; recitation, "Asleep at the Switch," Mrs. Randall; song, Anna, Bessie and Hattie Randall and Lucy Coriell; recitation, "Little Miss Muslin," Bessie Randall; tableau, "Whom Shall We Invite," Emma and Laura Wikoff and Lizzie Cutter; recitation, Mrs. Randall.

The programme was exceedingly well rendered and won much commendation from the very large audience present. The rooms were tastefully decorated for the occasion in an appropriate manner. The entertainment will net about $7 for the church building fund, and the efforts of the young people are appreciated very much.

The Camp Reorganized.

The members decided to reorganize the Camp and N. H. Saxton, Dr. Bedford, I. N. Wyckoff, D. VanWinkle and J. D. Anderson were appointed a committee to make all arrangements.

Aaron P. Powell to Talk.

WORKING FOR THE VOTES

REPUBLICANS AND CITIZENS ARE NOW HUSTLING HARD.

It is Claimed That vanHerwerden Will Give Frost a Hard Fight at the Polls—Colored Vote Still Perplexes G. O. P.

The campaign is on and both Republicans and Citizens are hard at work. There is not much to be seen on the surface, but both sides are actively engaged in trying to win votes for the coming charter election.

At the headquarters of the Citizens' movement everybody is hard at work now that the ticket has been definitely selected. There is no prospect of the vacancy on the slate in the Third ward being filled and the workers in that ward will devote their efforts toward the election of the city ticket alone. It was given out by the leaders in the Second ward that John vanHerwerden was making decided gains in his ward and that he was going to give Councilman Frost a hard push for the election. The remaining time before the election will be utilized in trying to still further his chances. Mr. vanHerden is taking an active interest in the campaign and is proving quite popular with all who have met him.

The wheels of the G. O. P. machine are beginning to move and the workers of that party throughout the city are out hustling every day. The problem of the colored vote is still before them. The leaders of the colored voters claim that they will all fall in line when the election is here and that the promised aid to the Citizens movement comes from a few sore-heads who do not represent the majority of the colored men. However it is, there is much work going on among them. Great pressure is being brought to bear on every Republican to do his share of the work at the coming election and back up the slate as selected by the machine. The Republican leaders are very confident of defeat and prophesy that the Citizens' movement will not poll the vote that it did last year. They say that everything is going their way.

The campaign is probably being most actively pushed by both sides down in the Fourth ward. The candidates on both sides are popular men and have numerous friends who are turning out to work for them. It was in this ward that the Citizens' movement began and there are a large number of voters discontented with the present administration. The lack of improvements in that district and the present condition of the roads are being largely used as arguments against the present administration.

A NEW INSTRUCTOR.

An Addition Made in the Staff at the New Jersey Military Academy.

Owing to the increased number of students at the New Jersey Military Academy, Dr. Warde has found it necessary to add another professor to his present corps of instructors. The new instructor will be Prof. Percy Robert Colwell, of Warwick, N. Y. Prof. Colwell prepared for college at the Warwick Collegiate Institute and graduated from there in 1893, leading a class of sixteen. In June, 1893, he took his Princeton examinations at New York, together with 124 other young men, and was awarded the New York alumni prize for passing the best examination in New York for entering Princeton. He became a member of the class of '97 in that educational institution and took the full classical course, doing special work in Greek and English. He received the degree of Bachelor of Arts on graduating, be sides several society prizes in debate and essay work. He was associate editor of the Nassau Literary Magazine. On graduation he received the class prize in English.

A Dispute Over Rent.

The little settlement of Dog Corners is agitated over the lawsuit in which Frank Johnson, one of its citizens, has become involved. Anthony G. Bicker, who is the plaintiff in the case, alleges that he purchased a number of the goods and chattels of Johnson, and also the lease of the premises in which the goods were stored, paying Johnson $90 for the entire lot. The defendent, Bicker alleges, assured him that the rent of the premises was paid up to the date of the sale, but shortly after taking possession, he was presented with a bill for back rent by the landlord. He was under the necessity of either paying up in full, or giving up the premises, and he accordingly brought suit in Justice Mosher's court, through his counsel, City Judge DeMeza. The claim is for $200, and the case will be tried on Saturday.

Charged With Non-Support

John Burns was arrested by Chief Grant this morning on the charge of non support of his wife and family. He was held for trial.

JUSTICE MOFFETT UPHELD.

DECISION CONFIRMED BY THE COURT.

It Was the Case of Miantonomoh Tribe Against Old Glory Council for Rent.

The case of Miantonomoh Tribe, No. 118, Improved Order of Red Men, against Old Glory Council, No. 62, Daughters of Liberty, which was decided in favor of the defendants by Justice of the Peace Moffett, of this city, came up on appeal before Judge McCormick at Elizabeth yesterday, and the decision of the Plainfield Justice was confirmed.

The dispute between the two organizations arose over the question of rent due to the Red Men for the use of the rooms in the Stillman building on West Front street by the Old Glory council. The Red Men are the lessees of the rooms and besides using them for its own meetings, rents it to other organizations. In March, 1896, Old Glory Council engaged the hall for the first and third Monday nights in each month. In June of this year the Council announced its intention of giving up the rooms. The Red Men claimed that the premises were rented by the year, and that rent was due until March, 1898, and they accordingly brought suit for that amount. After hearing the evidence Justice Moffett decided that no lease existed, and awarded the plaintiff's judgment for $2, the amount of one month's rent.

W. S. Angleman was attorney for the defense, and Justice William Newcorn appeared for the plaintiffs.

TALENTED MUSICIANS.

Excellent Soloists Secured for the Philharmonic Concerts.

H. O. Newman has secured several excellent soloists to appear in the various Philharmonic concerts. They are:

Miss Charlotte Maconda, "whose voice," the critic of the Musical Courier says, "has a striking resemblance to that of the great diva Patti." She has been enthusiastically received wherever she has appeared.

Miss Letti Kennedy, a young and charming singer who never fails to capture her audience.

Miss Bessie Silberton, the wonderful child pianist, twelve years of age, who plays the most difficult pieces of the old and more modern composers from memory, including in her repertoire, Bach, Mozart, Hadel, Haydin, Beethoven and Listz.

H. Evan Williams, the leading concert tenor in America, having "a voice supremely beautiful and full of power."

Hermann Brandt, violinist, for ten years, concert master of Thomas' Orchestra and afterwards of the New York Philharmonic Society.

Louis Heine, a superior performer on the violoncello. Tickets for this series of concerts may be procured from the drug store of T. S. Armstrong, North avenue; price, three dollars.

THE IMPRESSION OF CHRISTIANITY.

Grace M. E. Revival Services Still Doing Much Good.

Never in the series of evangelistic services held for weeks past in Grace M. E. church has any meeting failed to impress some person or persons. If such have not fully decided to live the Christian life, they have been at least deeply convicted and made conscious of their need. The meeting last night caused many to think of opportunities past and lost, of privileges neglected, of responsibilities shirked. There will be service tonight for the last time this week.

The Foolish Rich Man.

Rev. Mr. Sagebeer, pastor of the Flemington Baptist church, made a very able address at the prayer meeting of the Park Avenue Baptist church, last evening. He spoke of the parable of the foolish rich man and drew some important lessons from it. The meeting was a particularly impressive one and was well attended.

Another Lawyer.

George Ball, of Scotch Plains, who has been studying law in the offices of W. S. Angleman, and who recently passed his entrance examinations to the bar, has opened up law offices in the First National Bank building and will practice law in this city. He is an energetic and reliable young man who deserves success.

At the Hospital.

There are now eighteen patients at the hospital and two medical cases were admitted today. No accident case has been received at the above place for several weeks.

—Jerusalem Chapter, No. 24, R. A. M., will hold a special communication this evening on account of the fact that there was no meeting last week.

MR. BERGEN'S ANSWER.

THE ELIZABETHIAN TREATS THE PLAINFIELDER SARCASTICALLY.

Mr. Bergen Says Councilman Dumont Did Not Inspect the Matter as He Should—Says He is Satisfied With Public Sentiment

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I notice in your issue of yesterday that Mr. John B. Dumont (who, as heretafore, speaks both for himself and Mr. Ivins) seems to think that they were not courteously treated at the meeting held at the Courthouse Tuesday evening, and that I was to blame. He also says that I probably caused the report of the committee to be published in advance of its submission to the meeting.

I am not willing to help obscure the very important matter of constructing a county trolley line from Elizabeth to Plainfield by a personal controversy; but as Mr. Dumont was a member of the committee appointed to consider the matter, his strictures give him some title to consideration which they might not otherwise deserve.

A printed copy of the report of the committee was sent to several newspapers Monday with a letter in each case stating that it should not be used until after Tuesday. This you know is often done with such documents. One paper disregarded this request and published the substance of the report. You reprinted the version so published, as you had a right to do. This is the basis of Mr. Dumont's accusation. I will not ask him to retract his statement, because if he did not know any better he could not help it.

There are one or two trifling errors in your account of the matter that I would like to correct. Mr. Dumont did not take offense because his name was not thrown on the screen. In fact I think he didn't like the screen at all. During the evening the operator at the stereoptieon threw on the screen the names of the nine gentlemen who had signed the majority report under the captain, "The following gentlemen inspected this matter." Mr. Dumont probably argued that the statement implied that the other two members of the committee had not done so and started off in a hurry and out of humor. The operator did not use the langue I had dictated for the caption; but I cheerfully assume full responsibility for it all, because the statement was literally true. I do not mean to say that Mr. Dumont did nothing as a member of the committee, but if he did anything except attend two meetings in the evening, after much urging, I never heard of it.

I was glad to hear that Mr. Dumont had been appointed a member of the committee because I understood that he was interested in a large street railroad deal in Buffalo and had been engaged in business for many years in Wall street and vicinity. I suppose that if he favored the plan he would give the county the benefit of his expert knowledge of railroad construction and financiering; and if he opposed the plan he would state reasons for his opinion worthy of the attention of thoughtful men. Besides if there is anything wrong about the matter, as Mr. Dumont pretends to fear, no one could find it out and tell the people so easily as a veteran Wall street habitue. But if Mr. Dumont had any special or inside information on the subject he carefully kept it to himself.

The friends of this movement have every reason to feel gratified with its progress. Six months ago one could count on the fingers of his hand all who favored it. Today it would be hard to find a thoughtful and intelligent man in the county who has studied the matter carefully and does not approve it. Indeed the opposition to the plan has become so feeble that a mere shadow flickering on the wall puts their leader to flight.

For the reason I have stated I forbear, for the present, to press this controversy any further.

Frank Bergen.

Elizabeth, N. J., Dec. 2d, 1897.

A SERMON FOR FIREMEN.

Rev. J. W. Richardson Asks Gazelle Company to Attend Divine Service.

The members of Gazelle Engine Co. met last evening in regular session and received an invitation from Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, to attend divine service at his church at some date yet to be fixed. The invitation was unanimously accepted and the members decided to attend. The other fire companies will receive similar invitations at their meetings. It is the idea of Pastor Richardson to preach an appropriate sermon to the firemen of Plainfield. Treasurer L. J. Spicer presented his quarterly report at the meeting and it showed that the company is in a good financial condition. No other business of importance was transacted.

NACK WOMAN'S FATE

Her Lawyer Thinks She Will Escape the Death Penalty.

THORN'S DOUBLE GUARD

His Attempts at Suicide to Be Foiled—Confessed the Murder to the Jail Officials—Will Be Sentnced To-Morrow Morning.

New York, Dec. 2.—Martin Thorn, on whom the sentence of death will be pronounced to-morrow morning, made such an ostentatious declaration yesterday of his intention not to cimmit suicide that he aroused the suspicions of the Sheriff of Queens County, who at once redoubled the safeguards thrown around the prisoner to prevent him from cheating the law.

Thorn will be guarded day and night until he is taken from the Long Island City Jail, and no persons other than his counsel will be permitted to have access to him. A guard has been placed in his cell and another guard outside the door, so that it will be impossible for him to make any movement or to receive anything from the outside without being detected.

The prisoner now denies that he admitted, after his conviction, that the story told by Mrs. Nack on the first trial was the truth, and that his own desperate hope that he might convince the jury that he was an accessory after the fact, and not a principal.

Capt. William Methven, however, who had charge of Thorn during the trial, stated that Thorn had made such a confession, part to himself and part to Sheriff Doht. "From what the Sheriff told me," said he, "I can truthfully say that Thorn confessed to the killing of Guldensuppe."

Thorn will be sentenced at 9.30 o'clock to-morrow morning and will be taken to Sing Sing on Saturday.

Lawyer Howe took seventy-five exceptions in the trial, and he says that he will appeal. The appeal, however, if it is made, will be perfunctory. Nothing can save Martin Thorn, and he knows it as well as his lawyer does.

Mrs. Nack's lawyer thinks that she should not be tried for murder in the first degree. He said: "The law does not permit a death sentence without a trial, but does allow the District Attorney to accept a confession for a crime of lesser degree. The District Attorney, were he so disposed, could accept Mrs. Nack's confession as a plea for murder in the second degree, or for manslaughter. That would save the State great expense and insure sufficient punishment, I think, for the woman. If the trial must go on it will probably begin next Tuesday. But I do not think that after all that Mrs. Nack has done in the way of a confession the People can consistently put her on trial for murder in the first degree."

District Attorney Youngs says that the total cost of the trial to the prosecutor's office alone was $10,000. The cost of the trial to the counties of New York and Queens has been much greater.

SWINDLERS' PLAN FAILS.

Large Bait Offered to Philadelphia Man, Who Was Too Sly.

Philadelphia, Dec. 2.—William D. Phillips, of the insurance firm of Charles Platt, Jr., & Co., of this city, was marked by some clever European swindlers for a victim, but he was wise. Last July Mr. Phillips received a letter signed "Victor Mace Berneau." This was followed by other communications. The writer said he was formerly a banker in Paris, and had failed for 20,000,000 francs. He said he had defrauded his creditors and had secreted in the vicinity of Philadelphia a bank receipt of the Bank of Mexico for £40,000 and a note payable to bearer for 2,000,000 francs.

In the course of his flight, after failure, he had been arrested in Madrid and convicted of homicide for having killed, in a duel, his commanding officer when he was commandant of artillery in the Spanish army of 1880. He was sentenced to two years' imprisonment, to pay the trial costs and to pay an indemnity to his opponent's widow. The secret plan of the burial place of his receipts, he wrote, was concealed in one of his trunks, and on Aug. 21 these trunks were to be sold to pay the costs of his trial.

It would take 10,200 francs to secure the trunks, and Berneau offered Phillips one-quarter of the entire 3,000,000 francs which he had sequestered if Phillips would come to Spain with the money. Berneau's letter was accompanied by official documents, newspaper extracts, and apparently everything to substantiate his story.

Legal advice was sought by Phillips and it led to investigation in Paris and elsewhere. Berneau's offer proves now to be one of a series of a hundred or more such swindles attempted by a gang of European crooks on prominent residents of nearly all the larger cities of the United States.

Mother-in-Law Among the Indians.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Maj. A. E. Woodson, agent on the Cheyenne and Arapahoe reservation in Oklahoma, in his annual report to the Secretary of the Interior, says: "The mother-in-law is much in evidence among these people. She makes herself a holy terror unless the family affairs are conducted according to her ideas. Much of the agent's time is occupied in the settlement of family quarrels and in bringing together husband and wife whose troubles have been of sufficient gravity to cause a separation. His powers of persuasion are frequently exerted in vain, however. In most instances the wife, backed up by the mother-in-law is most obdurate, and proof against all argument and entreaty to return to the family abode."

New York's State Library.

Albany, Dec. 2.—The proposition to ask the Legislature to provide for the construction of a separate State building for the exclusive use of the State Library, the Regents of the University of the State of New York and allied departments, such as the State Museum and Department of Public Instruction is to be revived. It is proposed to erect such a building at a cost of $2,000,000 on the block adjoining and west of the Capitol Building, extending to Swan street, and the plan is favored by the Regents. Secretary Melvil Dewey, of the Board of Regents, will discuss the question in his next annual report.

THE SITUATION IN SPAIN.

Sagasta Urged to Take Action Against Filibustering.

Madrid, Dec. 2.—The Imparcial, commenting upon the reports of the latest filibustering expedition of the American steamer Dauntless, calls upon the Premier, Senor Sagasta, to take energetic action on the subject at Washington, adding that the authorities there "must be informed of the bad impression created in Spain by the frequent filibustering expeditions."

The Imparcial adds: "The circumstances show a lack of regard for Spain, especially as the filibustering expeditions coincide with the new regime decreed for Cuba."

A Spanish Lie Nailed.

Madrid, Dec. 2.—It is announced in an official dispatch rom Manila, capital of the Philippine Islands, that the Spanish troops there have routed a band of insurgents, inflicting upon the latter the loss of fifty-seven men killed, including the insurgent leader. The Spaniards, the dispatch also says, lost six men killed and had seventy-one men wounded.

According to dispatches from Madrid on Nov. 18, all the important insurgent chiefs of the Philippine Islands had surrendered to the Spanish authorities and the Captain-General of that colony, Gen. Primo de Rivera, had announced the complete pacification of the islands.

Spain Fears Rebellion.

Madrid, Dec. 2.—It is understood that the Carlists will not take any action until Don Carlos, the pretender to the throne, has replied to a message sent to him at Vienna relative to the political situation.

At the Cabinet meeting the Minister of Marine presented the request of the Governor of the island of Fernando Po, the Spanish penal settlement on the west coast of Africa, for more war ships to guard that place.

REVOLUTION IMPENDING.

Large Shipment of War Munitions and Specie to Colombia.

New York, Dec. 2.—That the Government of the Republic of Colombia is expecting a revolution, much more serious than the usual outbreaks in Central and South American countries, is shown by its quiet importation from this city of a large quantity of arms and no inconsiderable sum of specie.

The Atlas line steamship Alene alone has recently taken hundreds of cases of arms from here, and board her on her last two trips were ninety-seven cases of specie consigned to the Bank of Barranquilla.

The other Atlas liners have been loaded similarly with necessaries of war. It is plain that the Government of Colombia is making every preparation to suppress a revolution in case one is attempted.

Passengers arriving from the Republic of Colombia say that a revolution within the next month is more than likely. The presidential election takes place on Dec. 5. The contest has been between Caro, the Government candidate, and Reyes, the nominee of the opposition party.

The Colombian Government, alarmed at the prospect, is taking care that its 14,000 soldiers shall be armed and equipped and that it shall have abundant war material and money to meet the emergency.

What the contention between the parties is cannot be learned accurately. It seems to be that those out of power want a chance at the offices and their perquisites.

WERE THE GERMANS ATTACKED?

A Report That the Chinese Massacred 200 Sailors in Kia Choo Bay.

Berlin, Dec. 2.—Great anxiety has been caused here by the report received that the Chinese have massacred 200 German sailors belonging to the German squadron in Kiao Chou Bay.

No confirmation of the report has yet reached here, but all of the sailors and officers, even including the crew of the imperial yacht Hohenzollern, now on furlough, have been recalled to duty, and 600 bluejackets will be dispatched to Kiao Chou Bay at once.

The North German Gazette calls attention to the fact that the last dispatches received from Admiral Diedrich, commanding the German war ships in Kiao Chou Bay, under date of Nov. 28, made no mention of an attack upon the Germans by the Chinese.

Great Grumblers.

Grumbling Will Cease if Plainfield People Will Follow This Citizen's Advice.

When the kidneys are sick they grumble.

You hear them clear through the back.

You feel them clear through the body.

They grumble when overtaxed.

Know how the kidneys grumble?

It's a simple thing; your back will tell you.

Backache is the first grumbling warning.

The kidneys give it and if you heed it not,

Look out for trouble, it will surely come.

Urinary trouble, kidney trouble and many miseries.

They cure every form of kidney ill.

The experience of Plainfield people proves this.

Here's a case in point:

Mrs. R. A. Martin, of No. 70 Jackson avenue, says: "I have had pains in my back and loins for about one year or more, no doubt being caused by my kidneys being out of order. I felt it more in the morning just after getting up or if I did any stooping or lifting. Notwithstanding the fact that I took all kinds of medicine I never found anything which helped me until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at L. W. Randolph's drug store; they not only removed the pain, but they have strengthened me in other ways. I can cheerfully recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone suffering with a lame back."

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-Milburn Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S.

The Surprise of All.
Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

It cures rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—If you want a good time go to the dance to be given this evening in Washington Hall by the drivers of the Plainfield fire department.

Mrs. S. K. Swenck, of Park avenue, is ill at her home.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.
At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olagah, Ind. Ter. Chief. This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and la grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

JUSTICE FIELD'S SUCCESSOR.

Will Not Be Named Until Congress Convenes.

Washington, Dec. 2.—There was a rumor in Washington yesterday that the portfolio of the Department of Justice had been offered to Judge Nathan Goff, of West Virginia. Judge Goff was in the city the other day, and it is likely his presence in the city gave rise to the rumor. Friends of the Judge say that he will not accept the appointment, and they discredit the rumor that the President made him the tender.

The retirement of Justice Field takes place to-day, but the appointment of his successor will not be made until Congress convenes. It is thought likely that the delay in finding a suitable candidate for Attorney-General may delay the nomination of Justice Field's successor. It is likely that the two nominations will go to the Senate together.

There does not seem to be any reason for doubting Judge McKenna's elevation to the Supreme Court bench, nor of his prompt confirmation by the Senate.

STABBED LIKE CUBANS.

An Insane Man Slashes His Wife and Three Children.

Milford, Del., Dec. 2.—Crazed by brooding over the atrocities of the Spanish troops in Cuba, Salvage Bilderback ordered his wife and three children to stand up in line.

Tying their hands to four nails, he said: "I will now use the machete." He slashed his wife nine times with a corn knife, and then cut each of the children several times.

The return home of his eldest boy frightened him and he ran into a swamp, carrying an old musket. A shot was heard later, and it is supposed he committed suicide.

None of the family can survive. A posse is hunting him. If he has not killed himself it is believed he will be strung up to the nearest tree if found.

Harvard and Yale to Row.

New Haven, Dec. 2.—The Yale navy has given out the following statement:

"It has been finally decided that Yale will row her annual race with Harvard over the New London course next Summer. Poughkeepsie was chosen this year because Yale had to row there in order to meet Harvard, who had a previous agreement with Cornell. This year, however, by the five-year athletic agreement between Yale and Harvard, Yale had the choice of the course, and has definitely agreed with the rowing authorities at Cambridge upon New London. Matters are as yet undecided with reference to Cornell."

Zimmerman and Bald to Ride.

New York, Dec. 2.—As an appetizer for the big six-day cycle feast next week there will be a short-distance race meet in Madison Square Garden Saturday night, in which the foreign and American crackajacks now in this vicinity—and that means all of the famous ones—will compete. Eddie "Cannon" Bald, the champion of '95, '96 and '97, and Arthur A. Zimmerman, champion of the early '90s, will both ride.

No Engineer Over 50 Years Old.

Plainsfield, Dec. 2.—According to an order just announced by the Central Railroad of New Jersey all engineers on the road who are over 50 years of age will be relieved of their jobs after Jan. 1. The reason advanced by the railroad officials is that the risk is too great to continue men who have passed that age at the important post of engineer. Such engineers will be employed in other capacities by the road.

Old Soldier's Horrible Death.

Leavenworth, Kan., Dec. 2.—A veteran named Patrick Carr was found dead in a bathtub at the Soldiers' Home, the flesh so badly cooked that it dropped from the bones.

The surroundings tended to show that he had committed suicide by jumping into the tub of scalding water.

He was married to a young woman, and is said to have had domestic troubles.

A Jersey Law Unconstitutional.

Trenton, Dec. 2.—Supreme Court Justice Garrison has filed an opinion declaring unconstitutional the act of April 9, 1895, which authorized cities of the second class to issue bonds amounting to $200,000 to defray the expenses of repaving streets. The law was passed for the benefit of Hoboken, but Camden and Trenton have taken advantage of it.

Lawmakers to Study Football.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 2.—The city union of King's Daughters will meet to-day to prepare a petition to the Legislature asking it to prohibit the game of football in this State. Two college teams will play a special game, to be witnessed by members of the Legislature, on Saturday, so they can judge of the merits of the game.

Diaz's Present from the Pope.

City of Mexico, Dec. 2.—President Diaz has received from Mons. Avardari, Papal delegate in Mexico, a handsome album of the Borgia department of the Vatican, and an autograph letter from the Pope.

Penny Papers in Rochester.

Rochester, Dec. 2.—The Union and Advertiser and Post-Express have become penny sheets. The cut was made by the morning papers a month ago, and now all the Rochester dailies have fallen in line.

GERMANY AND HAYTI

Former Reduces Its Claim Against Latter to $20,000.

FRIENDLY WITH AMERICA

The German Ambassador at Washington Says the Whole Matter Has Been Given More Prominence than It Deserves.

Berlin, Germany, Dec. 2.—Ambassador White, in his interview with the German Minister of Foreign Affairs, received emphatic assurance, couched in friendly terms, of Germany's moderate intentions in regard to demanding of Hayti an indemnity for the alleged illegal imprisonment of Herr Emil Lueders, and testifying to Germany's good will and respect for America, in consequence of which the German Government has reduced its claim for indemnity to $20,000.

Mr. White explained that the United States cruiser Marblehead was going to Port-au-Prince, Hayti, solely to protect American interests.

The North German Gazette announces semi-officially that the dispatch of the United States cruiser Marblehead to Hayti has no demonstrative significance.

Ambassador Von Holleben Talks.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Dr. Von Holleben, the new German Ambassador, said concerning the Haytian controversy:

"I have received no official instructions from my Government on the subject, yet speaking officially the case has assumed in the press proportions far greater than it deserves. It is simply a question of collecting an indemnity for an offense against a German citizen residing in Hayti. Beyond this all is conjecture, and there is no basis of fact whatsoever for the reports as to what might ultimately occur. The case is similar, I am told, to many in which the United States has demanded indemnity from South American republics. As this right of demanding and enforcing the payment of an indemnity is universally recognized, I do not doubt the case will be settled in the usual way between the immediate parties in interest, Germany and Hayti. But in any event, it is of too little importance to attract serious consideration, and it is needless to conjecture on future probabilities or possibilities."

The Ambassador declined to discuss the tariff, but of the general feeling in Germany he said:

"There is, I am glad to say, the most kindly sentiment throughout Germany toward the American people and their Government."

As to Germany's action in increasing her navy, Dr. Von Holleben said: "A navy is one of the surest means of securing peace, as it commands respect and a recognition of just rights. Moreover, German colonial interests are becoming very great, and require attention.

MACKAY'S GRAND TOMB.

New York, Dec. 2.—The largest slab of granite ever quarried in this country has been placed as the roof stone on John W. Mackay's immense mausoleum in Greenwood Cemetery.

The great piece of stone arrived from Hallowell, Me. It took the quarrymen four weeks to get the stone in position for the workmen. The original block was twenty-two feet square and sixteen inches thick and weighed over fifty tons. The stone was taken to the wharf on a huge cart used for transporting locomotives, drawn by thirty-six horses. It took several days to go the five or six miles.

The Mackay mausoleum will cost about three hundred thousand dollars. The interior resembles a miniature church auditorium, with all the evidences of the tomb concealed. It is heated and lighted by electricity, and there is room for a priest to say mass before fifty persons. There are crypts for twenty-two bodies.

The interior is lined with marble, with wainscoting of black Belgian, capped with Connemara green. The walls are of seina, and window casings, columns and altar are of Italian marble. Both the ceiling and floor are laid in mosaic.

BIG RIVER COAL COMBINE.

Proposed Consolidation of All Interests Into One Company.

Pittsburg, Dec. 2.—The biggest combination or river coal interests ever attempted promises to be effected before the new year. It has been talked of for years, but has at last come to a focus.

A committee is hard at work considering the schedules of property values as presented by the separate coal companies operating on the river.

There is a slight dissension in the ranks, but it is not considered to be sufficient to block the way of a speedy consolidation. The scheme proposed the organization of one company, with a capitalization of $11,000,000. It is to be a huge trust, controlling the coal interests from lock No. 5 on the Monongahela River to New Orleans.

American Actress Married in Paris.

Paris, Dec. 2.—Antonio Terry and Sibyl Sanderson, the American actress, were married in this city yesterday. The wedding was a quiet affair. The bride was converted to Catholicism two days ago. The civil ceremony was performed at the mairie of Passy, and the religious ceremony at the Convent Chapel in the Avenue Malakoff. The couple have gone to the south of France and Italy for their honeymoon.

A writer in the New Brunswick Fredonian laments the absence of a truly fraternal spirit among the secret society folks of that old Dutch town. If that man really wants to enjoy the spirit of fraternal friendship we commend him to Plainfield. Here he will find it in satisfactory quantity. As a matter of fact, it is doubtful if there is another town in the country that is more saturated with the good-fellowship feeling coming from affiliation with the secret societies than Plainfield.

The commission appointed by Governor Griggs to prepare a codification of the laws relating to district courts is beginning its work. The members of the commission are Judge Edgar S. Atwater, of Elizabeth; Judge William J. Lewis, of Paterson, and Judge James S. Erwin, of Jersey City. The commission will hold sessions in many cities and towns of the State to get the views of the district court judges.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE OFFICERS NAMED.

Addresses on Work in New York and Elsewhere Show Progress.

The New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, at its annual meeting in Newark Tuesday, elected these officers:

President, Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, Plainfield; vice-president, Mrs. Harriet Lincoln Coolidge, East Orange; recording secretary, Mrs. Alice C. Angell, Passaic; corresponding secretary, Dr. Mary D. Hussey, East Orange; treasurer, Mrs. S. K. Krom, Plainfield; auditor, Mrs. J. M. Pullen, Camden; delegates to the National convention at Washington, Mrs. J. L. DeWitt, Belleville; Mrs. M. G. Sexton, Orange; Mrs. H. L. Coolidge, East Orange.

Mrs. Mariana W. Chapman, of Brooklyn, president of the New York State Woman Suffrage Association, told how, when the women of that State were threatened with losing school suffrage, they turned out at the last school election and showed that they wanted it.

Mrs. C. N. Enslin read a report on the progress of the cause throughout the world, which showed gains everywhere.

The treasurer, Mrs. Krom, reported that $150 had been raised for the school suffrage amendment campaign, which had been of great educational value and would yet bear fruit. She said 10,000 copies of an appeal to voters were sent out.

Couldn't Meet His Obligations.

Peter Markey's bakery in the Codington building on Park avenue is closed today and the curtains are all drawn. There is no sign to explain the reason thereof. It is understood that he has closed down for financial reasons. Times have been hard and he found that he could not meet his obligations. He was arrears in rent and was notified that he must give up possession of his store.

It May Be

that the "cheap" worthless boxes that are offered by many dealers make you skeptical as to the real worth of those HONEST PIANOS we are offering at $178 cash or $198 on easy time payments. If you are, we ask you to look at these. They are thoroughly good Pianos that we know will give satisfaction. All colors of wood. All improvements. Exchanged if not satisfactory. Made by one of the best known manufacturers in the country.

The proof of their popularity is shown by the imitators they have called forth. Contrast them with the Pianos(?) you are offered at other stores at around the same price. An equally good Piano would cost $275 anywhere else.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mrs. A. L. Egbert was the guest of Elizabeth friends yesterday.

John Darling, of Plainfield, was in the borough on business yesterday.

Mrs. John W. Griggs and son are visiting relatives at New Brunswick.

Miss Virgie Tunison will leave next week for her home at Glen Gardner, where she will visit until after the holidays.

Conductor Charles Dodwell, of the Central Railroad, went to work this morning, after being confined to his house for a week with a severe illness.

Last evening a very successful union prayer meeting was held in the M. E. church. Rev. Mr. Mead conducted the meeting. Tomorrow evening the service will be held in the Seventh-Day Baptist church and Rev. F. E. Peterson will have charge.

Last Tuesday evening a complete surprise party was tendered to Miss Minnie VanMiddlesworth, when a number of her friends called at her home and spent an enjoyable time dancing and playing games. Miss VanMiddlesworth was not aware of the intended invasion, and when the party arrived she was overcome for a few minutes. Among the guests were Mrs. H. J. Swackhamer, Theodore Apgar, George Apgar, Willard Apgar, Edward Herlick and Gilbert Herlick, Fred and Albert Giddis, of Dunellen; Mr. and Mrs. Henry VanMiddlesworth, Mrs. Elizabeth Zeisz, Mrs. Risley, Mr. and Mrs. Lindsey Woolley and daughter, Helen Woolley, Mr. and Mrs. Davis, Miss Mabel VanMiddlesworth, Miss Ella Fenner, Miss Anna Fenner, Miss Lillie Zeisz, Miss French, Miss Risley, Mr. French, Miss Bessie Martin and Mr. Risley, of Plainfield. The affair was arranged by the Misses Ella and Annie Fenner, of Plainfield, and they were very successful in keeping any knowledge of it from the surprised.

The burning of the freighthouse yesterday afternoon proved conclusively that before long the borough will have to make some move to secure a water supply that can be depended upon. It was necessary for the firemen to carry the small pump to the east side of the railroad tracks and then depend on a small stream of water. The hose was placed under the railroad tracks, and this had to be done before much water could be placed on the fire. In the meantime water was carried in pails from Mr. Cole's coal office. The firemen worked hard, as did also the citizens of the borough. Nearly everything was taken from the freighthouse and very little was destroyed. The firemen did good work in saving the icehouse and oilhouse also the coal shed owned by Mr. Gray and Mr. Cole. Several times these buildings were threatened with destruction, but persistent effort accomplished much. Owing to the fact that there was no steam on at the roundhouse, it was impossible to blow the steam fire gong. If the fire had been discovered a little sooner the firemen could possibly have extinguished it with the chemical extinguishers. The loss to the railroad company will amount to several hundred dollars, but an adequate insurance was carried on the building. At present the freight is being cared for at the passenger station until other arrangements can be made. This fire was one of the most disastrous that has occurred in the borough in years, and it has set the citizens to thinking about a better water supply.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

Goodwill Lodge, Knights of Pythias, meets tonight.

Barber George Sheick has had his shop repainted and refurnished.

A change has been made in the time table of the Scotch Plains and Plainfield stage line.

An interesting race between a wheelman and a horse took place from Scotch Plains to Westfield yesterday. Robert Wood was the cyclist, and the horse was driven by Frank C. Herbert, of Plainfield. Wood won the race after a hard contest.

The Scotch Plains postoffice was moved into its new quarters in the Baptist church building yesterday. Postmaster Dunn has had the office furnished with new fixtures throughout, and it now presents a very admirable appearance. Miss Sadie Walpole will continue in charge of the office.

The case of Gale against Edgar will be tried before Judge McCormick in Elizabeth next week. The suit was originally brought in Justice Collins' court to determine who was responsible for the payment to Mr. Edgar for work which he did upon the lawn of Gale's clubhouse on Elm street, while the building was occupied by the Westfield Y. M. C. A. On the day set for the trial Gale failed to appear and a judgment was given to Edgar by default. Gale appealed the case and the county court is now asked to settle it.

"The Village Fair," under the auspices of the ladies of St. Paul's Episcopal church, was opened in Gale's clubhouse on Elm street, last night. The interior of the clubhouse was prettily decorated with flowers and bunting, and the numerous booths at which articles were offered for sale were arranged with picturesque effect. The attendance was large and the attendants were kept busy serving the patrons. The candy booth was in charge of Mrs. H. E. Naething; fancy booth, Mrs. Wigges, Mrs. Steebe, Miss Moore and Miss Bradbury; flower, Mrs. Lawrence Bastable; grocery, Mrs. LeClair and Mrs. H. White. The fishpond, which proved very popular, was in charge of Mrs. Bachman. Miss Ne de Venice de Pay sae, a fortune teller from Elizabeth, told the futures of the patrons in a manner that showed her to be a mistress of the art. The six tables at which supper was served were in charge of the Misses Gertrude Noe, Alice Barton, Bessie Elliott, Hilda and Ethel Green, Charlotte Peck and Mabel Holcomb. The committee in charge of the fair is Mrs. Lawrence Bastable, Mrs. George Noe and Miss Ada Sergeant. This afternoon will be devoted to a dolls' reception, at which the best dressed doll will receive a prize. DeWitt C. Peck acted as treasurer and received the admission fees at the door. The fair will continue through this evening.

PREMATURE GRAYNESS.

A tendency to early grayness may be hereditary, but as a rule an unhealthy condition of the scalp is responsible.

Hair turns gray when the glands have so far lost their vitality as to be unable to secrete the coloring matter. This condition is usually due to dandruff or some other scalp affection.

RUM AND QUININE HAIR TONIC

puts the scalp in a healthy condition, stimulates the growth of hair, removes dandruff and prevents grayness and baldness.

THEATRICAL.

Maze Edwards announces another great attraction for next week Saturday night when "A Stranger in New York" will be presented.

Long Bros., Pawnee Bill and May Lillie carry their own special train of palace cars to transport their mammoth company of sixty people, special scenery, 20 head of beautiful horses, Monarch, the largest lion in captivity, the Historical Cannon, Cavalrymen, etc., for their magnificent and matchless presentation of their military love story "Madeline of Fort Reno." At Music Hall tomorrow night.

Maze Edwards, manager of Music Hall, last night witnessed the performance of Henry E. Dixey, who is booked here for Saturday night, and says that the performance is far superior in entertaining qualities to any similar legerdemain combination now on the road. Mr. Dixey has a very taking way with him and does his magical tricks so deftly and neatly that the audience is in a continual state of wonder and surprise. As everyone knows, Mr. Dixey has for many years been one of the cleverest comedians on the stage and he supplements his legerdemain with a half hour of sketch from the popular "Adonis." The combination of magic and comedy is a delightful one and serves to put the versatile actor in a field all by himself, where he basks in the sunshine of great applause and popularity. Mr. Dixey's appearance in Music Hall, Saturday night, should be attended by a large audience of Plainfield's best people.

THE TRUMPETER.

The Fourteenth Regiment of Cavalry was about to start on an Indian campaign. The baggage wagons were loaded; the horses were saddled and bridled; the soldiers, in their stoutest uniforms and gray field hats, with cartridge-belts about their waists, armed with pistols, carbines and sabres, stood waiting for the order to mount.

Colonel Warrick, equipped for field duty, stood on his proch, pulling on his gauntlets.

A young soldier with a bugle swung across his shoulder was at the foot of the steps. His hair was light brown; his blue eyes had both a determined and harum-scarum light in them; his mouth was firm, his chin square, and his figure was erect, slim and supple. When Mrs. Warrick came out on the porch and said, "Good morning, Jeoffrys," pleasantly, he took off his hat with an unembarrassed grace and courtesy that one does not always see in the private soldier.

"Jeoffrys," said the colonel, "sound 'Prepare to mount.'"

"Yes, sir," said Jeoffrys, saluting and going down the walk to the parade ground, where he make his bugle cry out with an almost human voice, full of a man's glory in his strength, and of anticipation of stirring times to come.

"You're not going to take that child with you?" said Mrs. Warrick.

"Of course," said the colonel; "he's in the service and must take his chances with the rest."

"But you could have left him behind. You are going to leave two trumpeters, aren't you?"

"Yes, but the Baby Trumpeter would die of chagrin if he were one of them. He's so glad that he's going to see real service that he wants to dance and shout. Poor fellow!"

The colonel's voice was kind and sad. He was thinking of the little boy who died twelve years ago.

"Try to take care of him. Think how his mother would feel if he should be killed!" said Mrs. Warrick.

"Oh, yes, I'll keep my eye on him," said the colonel. "Good-bye, old lady."

Their hands met in a firm clasp of real affection and good-fellowship.

"Good-bye, dear!" said Mrs. Warrick. "God bless you! Come back with your scalp—or even without it—only come."

Two months had passed, and it was now late in the summer. The regiment—what was left of it—was encamped on the banks of a narrow stream in the Indian Territory. The faces that the fire-light flickered on were stern. In front of the colonel's tent the colonel and his staff were supping together—supping on a small piece of bacon and a half cup of coffee apiece. When the meal was finished the colonel told the Baby Trumpeter to sound the officers' call.

As the officers assembled Jeoffrys took his stand behind the colonel's chair, and every one waited to hear what the colonel was going to say.

"Gentlemen," he began, "we have barely enough food to last, with the utmost care, two days longer. The Seventh Cavalry, that was to have been sent to help us, and to bring provisions, is doubtless now on the march, but owing to our unexpected change of course, is marching in an exactly opposite direction. Unless we can reach it we must starve, and to attempt to reach it is suicidal, for, as you know, we are surrounded by more than ten times our number of well-armed Indians, and our ammunition is practically gone. I want any of you who can suggest anything, to do it."

For a few moments silence reigned Then the Baby Trumpeter stepped up and saluted.

"Colonel," he said, "let me go and bring the Seventeenth to you."

The colonel looked at him with a growing sense of surprise on his face.

"Why, Jeoffrys," he said, "it's a perfectly wild idea. And even if any one should be reckless enough to undertake such a task, it should be an old soldier—one who has had experience with Indians."

"I have had experience with them for two months, sir," said Jeoffrys with a grin.

"Yes, and you have done well," said the colonel, and Jeoffrys drew a quick breath of gratification. "So well," the colonel went on, that I don't want to throw you away uselessly."

"But I believe I could make it, colonel," said Jeoffrys. "Let me go."

"You don't realize the danger."

"Yes, sir, I do, but 'nothing venture, nothing win,'" and again Jeoffrys grinned.

"Very well, Jeoffrys, you may try it," said the colonel. I don't know that it is any pleasanter to be butchered in company than alone, and as butchery is apparently what awaits us all, you may take the lonely death if you choose."

"Thank you, sir," said Jeoffrys, as if a great favor had been conferred upon him.

In half an hour he was back again at the colonel's tent ready to start.

"What are your orders, sir?" said Jeoffrys.

"I have none," said the colonel. Then, as he looked at the eager, hand some boy, his face softened.

"Jeoffrys, how old are you?" he said.

"I enlisted as twenty-one, and that's the only lie I ever told, colonel; but I had to get in the army! I couldn't wait! I'll be twenty next month, sir,—but please don't tell!"

"Never, on my honor!" said the colonel.

"You see, sir," said Jeoffrys, "my mother had persuaded me not to accept an appointment to West Point when it was offered to me. Her only brother was in the army, and was killed in an Indian campaign, and she said she couldn't bear to give me up; but I couldn't stand it, I had wanted to be in the army all my life, so I ran away. I couldn't go off and leave her without a word, but neither could I tell her what I was going to do, so I left a note for her, just saying that I wanted to make my own way in the world, and that if I succeeded, I'd let her know, and that I'd go back to see her anyhow in five years."

"Don't you think that for her sake you ought to give up this wild goose chase?" said the colonel.

"No, sir, for her sake I think I'd better go on," said Jeoffrys.

"She'd be very proud of you if she knew," said the colonel.

"Oh, colonel, this isn't anything, and she'd be proud of me anyhow," said Jeoffrys with a smile, "you know how mothers are, sir. Good-bye, sir."

He pushed on steadily, through deserts, through the narrow belts of wood that edged the water-courses, across the almost stagnant streams. When dawn began to break he dismounted and led his horse into a tangle of brush, on the bank of a little creek. He loosened the girtus, watered the horse, and selecting a small, partially open spot in the jungle, settled down to spend the day. He drowsed along until nearly noon, when suddenly, something—not a noise, he was sure there was none, but a sense of approaching danger—brought him to his feet, and he saw through the leaves six Indians coming straight toward him. They were about five hundred yards away. He whispered "down" to his horse, and owing to the perfect training of our cavalry horses, down the creature went. Jeoffrys crouched beside him, a pistol in each hand. The brush was so thick near the ground that he could not see, but he could hear the Indians as they came nearer.

After what seemed an interminable length of time, they were close beside his hiding place. He decided not to fire until they were upon him- and they passed by! For a moment everything whirled before his eyes, and then the temptation to shoot came on him. It was so strong that he had to lay down his pistols and clinch his hands until the nails cut the flesh.

He kept his horse down nearly all day, and started out again as soon as it was dark. At dawn he tied his horse and climbed a tree to take a survey of the country, and what should he see, not three miles off, but the Seventeenth, baggage train and all!

They had been concealed from him when he was on the ground by a slight elevation. He scrambled down the tree, mounted, and started toward the command, shouting in a rush of exuberance of spirits. As he went down the other side of the elevation he came face to face with three Indians who had been hiding under bushes, watching the troops.

If Jeoffrys had been a boy up to that minute, it all died in him then. It did not occur to him to value his life for personal reasons—all he wanted was to accomplish what he had started out to do before he was killed.

When the troops came up—for the firing attracted them at once—they found Jeoffrys' horse dead, two desperately wounded Indians lying on the ground, and Jeoffrys and the third Indian yelling and hopping around each other, the Indian trying to thrust his knife into Jeoffrys, and Jeoffrys trying to lunge his sabre into the Indian.

The red men were soon disposed of. Jeoffrys patted his dead horse goodbye with honest sorrow, mounted one of the Seventeenth's led horses, and the command started toward the camp under his guidance. The Indians had been keeping faithful watch, but had made no attack on their bagged game. It had been their intention to starve them awhile, and then to fall upon them, torture and butcher them.

The men in camp were haggard and worn. They had given up all hope of rescue, but they were determined to die hard, and when, three days after Jeoffrys' departure, there was a sudden uproar among the Indians, the ready soldiers turned to meet an onslaught with sublime recklessness—and while they were in the thick of it, they heard the bugles of the Seventeenth calling encouragement—promising quick relief! Surely never had music sounded so sweet before!

There was a sharp fight—and when the remaining Indians were galloping away for their lives, the Fourteenth and the Seventeenth rushed into each others arms. The Baby Trumpeter was cheered until the heavens rang. The men pulled him from his horse and hugged him, and the colonel's eyes were wet as he clasped the young man's hand.

"You have saved your regiment by risking your own life, my boy," he said (was he thinking again of the little boy who died?), "and you will get a medal of honor. I shall recommend you for examination for promotion from the ranks as soon as we get home. You have won your right to it by brilliant service on the field of battle."

Jeoffrys, who had been white before, now became deadly white.

"Colonel—my mother"—he gasped, and he fell back into the arms of the men who were crowding around him. They had not noticed that the blouse over his shoulder was saturated with blood.

"He's wounded!" shouted many voices, and though the wound was only painful and not at all dangerous, the transformation of the boy into a lion was complete.

The homeward march was begun. They were two weeks on the way, and it was a weary time for Jeoffrys, for he had to travel in an ambulance, and was not allowed to move about much for fear his wound would open.

Hicks, a private, who rode with him, and whose arm was broken, told Barry, a corporal, that he thought Jeoffrys was in love, because he had often seen him looking at a little picture that was painted on the inside of the case of his watch, and though he (Hicks) had not been able to get a good look at it, it stood to reason that it must be a girl.

On the corporal's next visit to the ambulance he seated himself beside the unsuspicious Jeoffrys, and blushing at the thought of his own meanness, asked what time it was, keeping his eyes on the watch when Jeoffrys opened it; and afterward, when he met Hicks, he told him that he had seen the picture, and it wasn't of a girl, for she had white hair, and that he thought it was just a fancy picture called "Mary Antannetty," for he had once seen one very much like it painted on a cup when he had helped a lieutenant's family to move, and the lieutenant's wife's maid had told him that that was its name.

Couriers had been sent ahead, and all was in readiness when the Fourteenth reached home.

Colonel Warrick halted the column in front of his own house, for his wife was at the gate. While he was speaking to her a white-haired, young-faced woman came out on the porch and went down the walk toward them.

"This is Mrs. Gilbert whom I met in Washington last winter," Mrs. Warrick said to the colonel; "the wife of Judge Gilbert of Detroit, you know. She and her husband have been travelling in the West looking after their mines and were good enough to stop over with me for a few days. . . . Oh, I am so glad to see you again!" she went on, shaking hands with the officers, who gathered around her while the colonel and Mrs. Gilbert exchanged greetings.

The ambulance was drawn up beside her, and she went to the open end where Jeoffrys was sitting. He slipped to his feet as she came toward him.

"Jeoffrys, oh Jeoffrys, how can I ever thank you enough: she exclaimed, and Jeoffrys smiled broadly in his frank, unaffected, unembarrassed way, and protested that he had done nothing to be thanked for.

Mrs. Warwick was still wringing the boy's hand when Mrs. Gilbert came to the ambulance to look at this gallant young fellow of whom she had heard so much.

"By gum, she's the one in Jeoffrys' watch!" gasped Corporal Barry to Hicks, his eyes bulging, his whole frame quivering with the desire to escape that possesses every man at the prospect of a scene—but Mrs. Gilbert only clasped her arms around the Baby Trumpeter and said in a stifled voice:

"My son!"—E. Harmen in Illustrated American.

THE SPIDER AS A BAROMETER.

His Actions Are Indicative of Rain or Sunshine.

The spider is a good example of the living barometer. Close observation of the work on its web castle will soon enable one to forecast the weather. When a high wind or a heavy rain threatens, the spider may be seen taking in sail with great energy—that is, shortening the rope filaments that sustain the web structure. If the storm is to be unusually severe or of long duration, the ropes are strengthened as well as shortened, the better to resist the onset of the elements. Not until pleasant weather is again close at hand will the ropes be lengthened as before. On the contrary, when you see the spider running out the slender filaments, it is certain that calm, fine weather has set in, whose duration may be measured by their elongation.

Every twenty-four hours the spider makes some alteration in its web to suit the weather. If these changes are made toward evening, just before sunset, a fine clear night may be safely counted upon. When the spider sits quiet and dull in the middle of its web, rain is not far off. If it be active however, and continues so during a shower, then it will be of brief duration, and sunshine will follow.

Lord Rosebery's Wittiesm.

During Lord Rosebery's term as Foreign Secretary in Mr. Gladstone's last administration, he was often annoyed by an elderly female who paid him daily visits to get his opinion on matters of no importance to him whatever. Finally, becoming exasperated at the woman, he gave the doorkeepers orders not to admit her under any circumstances. However, not a day passed that she did not make an effort to gain a hearing, and on an unusually late visit happened to meet the secretary just as he was about to enter his carriage.

"Lord Rosebery," said she breathlessly, "I must see you on a most important subject, and at once."

"Very well, madam," said the urbane Secretary of State, holding open the door of the vehicle for her, "I beg of you to get in."

Delighted to be invited to drive with so important a personage, the talkative lady jumped into the carriage, Rosebery gently closing the door on her, and before she could expostulate, she heard him saying to the coachman,

"Take the lady wherever she wishes to go, James, and then home."

Looking out of the window, the now irate occupant saw her late victim stepping into a cab.—Harper's Round Table.

A part of a teaspoonful mixed in milk and given every three or four hours, will give the most happy results.

The cod-liver oil with the hypophosphites added, as in this palatable emulsion, not only to feeds the child, but also regulates its digestive functions.

COUNT ESTERHAZY CONFESSES.

Admits Having Written Letters Published in the Figaro.

Paris, Dec. 2.—Maj. Count Ferdinand Walsin Esterhazy, the retired French army officer who is charged with having written the letter which led to the imprisonment on Devil's Island of Alfred Dreyfus, the former captain of French artillery, who was convicted by court martial of selling military secrets to the agents of a foreign power, is said to have acknowledged the authenticity of the letters recently published by the Figaro, with the exception of the one in which the Count is said to have expressed the following sentiments:

"If to-night I were told that I should be killed to-morrow as a captain of Uhlans, while sabring Frenchmen, I should certainly be perfectly happy. I would not harm a dog, but I would see a hundred thousand Frenchmen killed with pleasure."

It is understood that the report of Gen. Pellieux, who was appointed by the military governor of Paris, Gen. Saussier, to investigate the charges brought against Count Esterhazy, states that he, the General, is satisfied of the guilt of Dreyfus. But there is general indignation here at Gen. Pellieux's statement that he has not inquired into the possibility of Esterhazy having written the memorandum upon which Dreyfus was convicted, which is one of the charges brought against the Count, the General simply remarking that he considered that the court martial definitely settled that point.

COST OF AN ARMOR PLANT.

The Naval Board Places It at $3,750,000.

Washington, Dec. 2.—The Naval Board appointed by authority of Congress to ascertain the cost of an armor plant has made its report through Commmodore Howell to Secretary Long. The report makes a voluminous document, treating with every detail of armor making essential to a correct comprehension of the cost of a plant and the product. It is also accompanied by elaborate plans for the plant, which have been verified by Expert Fritz.

The cost of the plant suitable for the making of naval armor at the rate of about six thousand tons per annum, which is fully equal to the capacity of both of the existing private plants, is set down as about three and three-quarter million dollars. No recommendation is made as to the location of the plant, but the board has accumulated much information as to the merits of the various eligible locations which may be had by Congress if called for by it.

Secretary Long will now proceed immediately to take the next step necessary to carry out the wish of Congress, namely, invite proposals by advertisement for building such a plant as that designed for the use of the Government.

TURKEY MUST PAY.

Indemnity for the Burning of American Missions.

Constantinople, Turkey, Dec. 2.—United States Minister to Turkey Angell has renewed the demand for indemnity for the pillage of American missions at Kharput, Marash and Haskonj, Armenia, but the Porte denies any responsibility for the affair on the ground that the Government acted under the stress of unavoidable circumstances.

The Outrages in Armenia.

The American mission buildings at Kharput, Turkish Armenia, consisting of the Girls' College, the Theological Seminary, the chapel and five residences, were burned and looted in November, 1895.

The School of Sciences, attached to the American mission at Marash, Asiatic Turkey, and other buildings were pillaged and burned on Nov. 18, 1895. No protection was afforded the Americans or their property until eight hours after the rioting.

DEACON FORCED SON TO STEAL.

Boy Robbed the Contribution Box in Father's Church.

Wichita, Kan., Dec. 2.—George Silliman, a 10-year-old boy, is under arrest on the charge of robbing the contribution box of the Baptist Sunday school at Baughman, near Wichita.

For more than six months money has been missed, and action was taken to expel the treasurer of the school, Miss Effie Markham, from the church, and have her arrested for embezzlement, as she could not account for the missing money, amounting to nearly a hundred dollars.

When arrested the boy was almost paralyzed with fear, and said his father had whipped him and compelled him to steal.

Silliman is a wealthy farmer and a deacon in the church. The testimony is supported by his mother. He took the money during prayer in the Sunday school service. The elder Silliman has been arrested.

Enforcing the Ku Klux Law.

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 2.—The Ku Klux law passed under the reconstruction government of Tennessee in 1869 is to be applied to the Whitecaps in Sevner County by the Circuit Court now in session there, in the hope of breaking up the organization. The penalty of conviction under this law is death.

Four men have been indicted for whipping a woman last year. One of them has confessed. Judge Nelson, it is thought, will give the limit of the law if conviction is reached.

Business Improvement in the West.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Assistant Secretary Miekeljohn, of the War Department has returned to Washington from a tour of the Western country, inspecting his military posts. Three years ago he traveled the same territory, and he reports that there has been an unprecedented improvement and advancement in commercial, agricultural and industrial conditions. This improvement, he says, is particularly noticeable among ranchmen and all classes of laborers.

Mills to Be Sold to Foreigners.

New Haven, Dec. 2.—A dispatch from England indicates that the big Willimantic Thread Works may soon be sold to foreign parties.

The thread company has $20,000,000 capital and employs several thousand hands.

MORE RIOTS IN PRAGUE

Many of the Mob Wounded and Several Killed.

SOLDIERS ARE CALLED OUT

(Cable Dispatch to the New York Sun.)

Prague, Dec. 2.—The excitement resulting from the political situation has led to violent scenes of rioting in this city, and to the killing and wounding of a number of persons who were taking part in the riotous demonstrations. The streets Tuesday were filled with mobs, which paraded up and down the thoroughfares, smashing windows and inflicting other damage upon houses and shops occupied by Germans. The rioters also invaded German clubs and cafes, and wrecked several of them. The outrages were instigated by the Young Czech party.

The police made several efforts to quell the disturbance, but such strong resistance was offered that they were not very successful. In the conflicts many of the police received severe injuries, while eighty of the rioters were wounded.

The disorders were resumed yesterday, and they were more serious than those of Tuesday. All the shops were closed throughout the day, their proprietors fearing that the mob would loot them.

In the afternoon a Czech mob began to pillage the houses of Germans and Jews. They also entered the Institute of Chemistry and Anatomy and the German University, where they, in pure wantonness, smashed all the valuable scientific instruments contained in the institutions.

The situation finally became so serious that the aid of the military was invoked to restore order. Five thousand soldiers were distributed in the disturbed quarters of the city, but their presence did not deter the rioters to any great extent.

Last evening a collision occurred between the troops and a mob in the Zikow quarter. The soldiers were ordered to fire upon the rioters, which they did unhesitatingly, killing two and wounding many others. Later a mob in the Smichow quarter made bonfires of furniture that had been looted from German houses and schools. When the gendarmes attempted to disperse the rioters a number of the latter drew revolvers and threatened to shoot them. The officer commanding the gendarmes was in no mood to parley with the rioters. He at once gave orders to his men to fire into the mob with ball cartridges, and a volley was delivered with most serious effect.

It is reported that there has been rioting at Pilsen, fifty-two miles southwest of Prague.

The office of the German newspaper Bohemia and a large number of German and Jewish clubs and saloons were wrecked and looted. The constant cry of the mob was: "Down with the Germans!" "Down with the Jews!" The Germans and Jews were completely terrorized. Nobody dared to utter a word of German on the streets. German sign boards were hastily removed or covered with improvised signs reading "This Is a Czechist Business." Ladies who were compelled to go upon the streets donned the Slav tricolor in order to avoid insult or attack.

Shortly before midnight order was restored in the city itself and many of the troops were withdrawn. In the suburbs, however, the situation is not so safe, and the streets and roads are strongly patrolled. More than three hundred Germans have been taken to the hospitals for treatment for injuries sustained at the hands of the rioters.

FROZEN IN SIGHT OF AID.

Cutter Bear Could Be Seen by Dying Whalers on the Ice.

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 2.—Sailor Frank Wyckersham, who has just returned from an eight months' whaling trip in the Arctic Ocean on the steam bark William Baylies, says his ship was in company at various times with the eight whalers now imprisoned in the ice east of Point Barrow.

Wyckersham declares that the men aboard the ships are not suffering as is generally supposed. He says the vessels carried a year's supplies. Their men are now enjoying life, and will be perfectly safe and comfortable until the ice breaks up next Summer, and they will probably not experience any hardship then.

They can easily reach the shore if the vessels are crushed. They can kill bear, seal and walrus around the ships, and deer are obtainable on land.

"Wyckersham does not believe that the cutter Bear will reach the whalers this Winter. He says the Bear was within five miles when the sailors of the wrecked whaler Navarch froze to death on float ice. The sixteen picked up by the bary Thrasher told him they saw men walking the Bear's deck while their companions were dying.

The whalers blame Capt. Whiteside, of the Navarch, and the Bear's officers for not making a more thorough search before steaming off and leaving the Navarch crew to die.

Immigration Legislation.

Washington, Dec. 2.—Much interest is shown by Congressmen from the East arriving in Washington in the prospects for immigration legislation. The Pennsylvania members are especially interested in the question. Congressman Stone, of Pennsylvania, chairman of the House Committee on Immigration, expressed the opinion yesterday that the House would take up the question at an early day, probably within a few weeks after the Christmas holidays. Mr. Stone is the author of a bill, and will press it in the House at the coming session. He is also hopeful that the Senate will act favorably upon the proposition.

No More Troops for Cuba.

Havana, Dec. 2.—According to a cable dispatch to La Lucha from Madrid, the Spanish Government has resolved not to send any more troops to Cuba. In case Gen. Blanco should need reinforcements he will be authorized to levy troops among the inhabitants of the island and send to the field the militia and volunteers.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. MILLIONS IN PRUNES.

Magnitude of One of California's Industries but Little Realized.

The magnitude of the prune industry of California, writes a Los Angeles correspondent of the Chicago Record, is little realized by the people in the Eastern States. In a decade the growing of prunes has gone forward in California by leaps and bounds, and to-day $20,000,000 is invested in it—that is, in lands, trees, irrigation systems, agricultural tools and packing houses.

Ten years ago the total area of bearing prune orchards in California was less than 7,000 acres. In 1888 there were 11,000 acres of bearing prune trees and about 6,000 acres more of young prune orchards. There was an import duty of two and one-half cents a pound on dried prunes in those days, and the growers sold their crops on the trees for sums varying from $35 to $50 a ton. In 1890 the total area of bearing prune orchards was 13,000 acres, and there was an enormous planting of prune trees that year in all of the fruit growing valleys of California, because of the large profit in the industry. Twelve thousand acres of prune orchards were set out in the winter of 1890-91, and 24,000 acres more were planted in the next two years. These orchards have now come into bearing, and the State Board of Horticulture finds that there are 53,000 acres of bearing prune orchards in California to-day and about 8,000 acres more to come into bearing. Conservative estimates put the total crop of California prunes in a favorable year at not less than 90,000 tons. In a few years more a full yield of the fruit in this State will be more than 110,000 tons of green fruit.—New York Herald.

JAPAN'S EXPANSION.

The Only Practical Way for Its Colonization.

It would be wise for Japan in more senses than one to expand, when it must, only along its natural lines of geographical development. It cannot hope to go about the world, as England did, taking up land and planting its race on antipodal shores. There is not much soil unpre-empted, and what there is lies within the spheres of influence of white powers, and they will not tolerate an Oriental trespass. Within its own sphere no one can object. Japan has taken Formosa and finds room there, as a Japanese statesman once observed, for two millions families. Why does it not colonize them. Corea, where Russia has no more rights than Japan, and, morally speaking, not so many, is another place which might be made useful. By settling its surplus people in and near its own empire Japan may call upon them when they are needed, protect them as they may require it, and get the benefit of their industry. In Asia the people can expand and flourish. But in all white countries an Asiatic influx, if it becomes large, inevitably brings popular interference, as witness the American and Australian movements against the Chinese, and the anti-Japanese petition in Canada. What is the use of planting colonies which can never be permanent?—San Francisco Chronicle.

NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED IN UP-TO-DATE LAUNDRY WORK.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered, and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular. We will give you just exactly what you want, if we can find out what that is. Perhaps you believe that it is impossible to have your laundry well handled without irritation and annoyance to you. We are sure that you are mistaken. May we have an opportunity of demonstrating it?

A GOOD WORK THEY DO.

ANNUAL MEETING OF THE CITY UNION OF KING'S DAUGHTERS.

Reports of Various Officers Were Read and Over $400 Was Pledged for the Support of City Nurse for the Poor.

A very interesting public meeting of the Plainfield Union of King's Daughters was held yesterday afternoon in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue Church. A large number of the members of the various circles of the city were present.

Miss Louise K. Green, president of the union, presided, and opened the meeting with singing, Scripture reading and prayer, after which the roll of circles was called by the secretary, Miss Haviland, and the minutes of the last semi annual meeting were read. The treasurer's report was read by Miss Mary Tracy, showing expenses for the nurse, and other union expenditures, and a balance of over $100. Miss Emily Tracy gave a report for nurse committee, telling of many cases cared for by the nurse whom the Union support for work among the poor. Miss Rendell, who had served very acceptably in this capacity, having resigned her position, Miss Hartranft, a graduate of Muhlenberg Hospital, was engaged to take her place. A report from the committee in charge of the children's camp on the mountain was given by Mrs. Zabriski, who reported thirty babies and fourteen mothers cared for at the camp during the past summer.

Miss Linda Butler, treasurer of the committee, reported total receipts for the benefit of the camp during the season to have been over $200, and the cash balance on hand at present, $99.01.

Miss Green asked the various circles to state the amount they would give for the support of the city nurse during the coming year. Four hundred dollars were immediately pledged. After one or two other small items of business the election of a new president took place, and Mrs. Charles A. Reed was unanimously elected to the office.

After an offering for the contingent fund of the Union, the speaker of the afternoon, Miss Sara Curry, of New York, the matron of the Westfield Fresh Air Camp, was introduced. She told of the small beginning of the Westfield work, and how it had grown into the present successful enterprise. Some of the mothers who have been brought out from New York had never heard of Christ, and some had never seen the country. Over six hundred, including mothers and children, were entertained at the camp during the last season. Over ninety of these were brought out ill and sent back in good health, of which only three died during the summer.

Many questions, both about the camp and about her New York work, were asked Miss Curry by the women present, and all who listened to the earnest worker felt their hearts stirred and their interest in good works quickened.

At the close of the meeting a social tea was held by the Dorcas and Opportunity Circles. Tea was poured by Mrs. John W. Crane, of the Dorcas Circle, and Miss Crittenden, of the Opportunity Circle, and served by the young members of the Cheerful Workers' Circle, of which Miss Gertrude Walz is the leader.

DAY OF THANKSGIVING FOR W. C. T. U.

Temperance Women Are Joyful Over the Present Agitation.

The W. C. T. U. has passed the following resolutions:

WHEREAS, We believe that the issue at the coming election is the result of the earnest agitation by the W.C. T. U. of the no-license principle; therefore be it

Resolved, That we observe Monday, December 6th, as a day of thanksgiving and prayer; thanksgiving that God has thus recognized our efforts, and prayer that the complete overthrow of this gigantic evil in Plainfield may be accomplished by the votes cast on Tuesday.

Plainfielders in the Chorus.

One of the principal social functions of the New York Athletic Club is the annual attempt of its amateur dramatists before the footlights. This year the club is preparing to give Gilbert & Sullivan's famous opera, "The Mikado." When the San Remo football team of that club was out to Plainfield Thanksgiving they took dinner here, and after the dinner some of the Plainfield boys sang for their edification. Fred A. Wenck, captain of the San Remos, is one of the most active members of the club; he was pleased with the voices of the Plainfield boys, and as a result, an invitation was sent to a number of the local singers to participate in the production of "The Mikado." Herbert Schutt, George B. Snediker and Thomas U. Smith have accepted the invitation and will be part of the chorus in that opera.

CAN'T GET HIS STOVE.

LOANED IT TO A COLORED SISTER WHO SAYS SHE NEEDS IT.

Nelson Peterson, a Denizen of Battle Row, Finds Himself in a Plight and He Appeals to Court to Make Things Right

The doctrine of equality was presented in a new form to that old colored resident, Nelson Peterson, by a denizen of Battle Row yesterday afternoon. It happened in this way. Peterson had an old iron stove which he did not use. Several weeks ago, Mrs. Hattie Wilson, so Peterson says, came to him and asked to borrow the stove to heat her habitation in the row. Peterson then says that he agreed if she would allow him to occupy one of her rooms for a few days. Then the stove was set up in Mrs. Wilson's domicile.

When Peterson went to take possession of the room he claims that he was unceremoniously ordered out and told that he had no right there. He suggested taking the stove, but he was told that he did not need it and Mrs. Wilson did. Now Peterson wants the stove, he declares, for he is rooming elsewhere and the cold breezes of winter pierces him to the marrow.

Yesterday afternoon, Peterson says, that he went to the Wilson homestead and demanded his stove. He was informed, he claims, that he did not want the stove half as bad as Mrs. Wilson did and that it was necessary to her to keep her house warm. She had some visitors and their welfare was to be remembered also. So he was told, he says, that he could not have the stove and he had better get out at once. He met Patrolman Flanagan and the latter remonstrated with Mrs. Wilson who gave him the same answer as she did Peterson.

Now Peterson says that he is going to get that stove if it costs him a fortune and he is preparing to bring suit in Justice Newcorn's court to recover the stove and the subsequent damages.

TONSORIAL TOURIST TOUCH.

BARBER KAEDING'S SHOP LOOTED.

The Dishonest Man Was Threatened With Arrest and Then Gave Up the Tools He Had Taken.

George Kaeding, a barber, whose shop is at 211 Liberty street, had an experience with a dishonest employe Wednesday morning, in which the latter gained a slight advantage, managing to escape with some of Kaeding's property.

George Whalen came to this city from New Hampshire about six weeks ago and secured a position as barber in Kaeding's shop. His work was satisfactorily done, and everything went smoothly between the two men until Wednesday, when there was a cruel awakening.

Kaeding was absent from the shop on business until about 11 o'clock. When he returned his assistant had deserted the shop, and all of the razors, shears and clipping machines used in the place were missing. Kaeding, suspecting that the missing man would attempt to escape on the first train leaving the city, hurried at once to the North Avenue railway station. There he met Whalen with the knives and scissors in a bundle under his arm, awaiting the arrival of the 11:18 train.

"Oh, you villain," cried Kaeding, rushing at the guilty man, "drop that bundle, or I'll have you arrested."

The train drew into the station at that moment, and with a look of terror Whalen gave up the bundle of booty and leaped upon the train.

Upon examining the contents, Kaeding discovered that several clipping machines, which were missing from his shop, were not in the bundle. It is supposed that they were concealed about the person of the fugitive, who was then safe beyond the reach of his employer's wrath.

Miss Rodman's Pink Tea.

An informal tea was given yesterday afternoon to her young lady friends by Miss May Rodman, daughter of Rev. E. M. Rodman at her home on East Seventh street. The tea was given in honor of her cousin, Miss Elsie Rodman, formerly of New York, who has come to Plainfield to live. Roses and carnations were used in decorating the rooms, the prevailing color being pink. The table in the dining room, presided over by Mrs. Rodman, Mrs. Pendleton Rogers and Miss Cock, was effectively decorated with vases of pink roses, pink shaded candles and pink bon-bons. Miss Rodman's assistants in receiving were Miss Streeter from New York and Misses Helen Clark, May Shreve and Kathryn Reinhart, while Misses Massett, Clapp, Hunn, Ryder and Mann assisted in the dining room.

FAST TRAIN WRECKED.

LOCOMOTIVE JUMPED THE TRACKS WHILE RUNNING FAST.

After Ploughing up the Track the Locomotive Toppled Over on its Side—No One Seriously Injured, However.

The Lakewood express on the Central Railroad of New Jersey was derailed at Elizabethport at 4:26 yesterday afternoon. When the train was switched from the main line tracks to those of the Long Branch division the locomotive jumped the switch, and after plunging fifty feet along the track toppled over on its left side. Passengers in the train were thrown from their seats by the violent shock, but, none was seriously injured. The engineer and firemen stuck to their posts and escaped without a scratch. One of the cars of the train was derailed, but it did not turn over. Among the passengers were a number of Democratic politicians bound for Lakewood.

Engineer Thomas Egbert was at the throttle of locomotive "37," which hauled the Lakewood Express. He says that when the train reached Elizabethport the cross-over switches were set right for him. The locomotive took the first switch all right, and started to swing around the curve, but when the front wheels reached the second switch they jumped over the rails and the locomotive started up the eastbound freight track of the main line, bumping over the ties. After going about fifty feet, tearing up the track, the locomotive struck the rods that operate the signal system and was turned over on its left side. It plunged into a ditch between the tracks and ploughed a deep furrow in the ground.

Owing to the application of the brakes the speed of the cars was checked so that they did not telescope, and the smoker was the only car that left the track. The passengers in the smoker received a severe shaking up. When the car left the track it was jolted over the ties for about thirty feet, and then came so suddenly to a stop that the passengers were thrown violently from their seats.

The cause of the wreck is not definitely known. There is no possibility of the switch having been thrown by the operator in the tower, as the system is self-locking. After the wreck it was found that the points of the switch where the locomotive left the track were spread. They may have been allowed to operate when the locomotive wheel struck them by the breaking of a bolt, or they may have been forced apart by the wrenching of the immense driving wheels of the locomotive after the front wheels had left the track.

The train leaving this city at 3:52 o'clock, with Charles Dodwell, of Dunellen, conductor, was standing at the Elizabethport station waiting for the Lakewood express to cross to the Long Branch division when the wreck occurred. The derailed locomotive ploughed through the roadbed to within twenty-five feet of the local train. The cars of the local train were quickly emptied when it became known that a train had been wrecked, and there were many thanksgivings on the part of passengers that their train had not been crashed into. A number of Plainfielders were passengers on the local.

The wreck was cleared up late last night.

SYSTEMATIC BENEVOLENCE.

A Special Missionary Service Held in the Park Avenue Baptist Church.

An address on systematic benevolence was given by Rev. Dr. Moss, of Philadelphia, at a special missionary service held in the Park Avenue Baptist church, last evening. Dr. Moss has made a special study of the subject and was particularly fitted to discuss it.

The meeting, which was well attended, was presided over by Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the church. He read a Scriptural selection and prayer was offered by Rev. Dr. Yerkes.

During the service, there was also a vocal solo by Councilman William N. Runyon and a vocal solo, with auto-harp accompaniment by Miss M. G. Morse. A quartette, composed of Mrs. W. S. Lowry, Miss Adelia Runyon, Wesley Brokaw and Thomas A Cuming, sang several selections. The quartette was accompanied on the piano by Miss Emma V. Fish.

A Genuine Clearing Sale.

Mrs. L. Adams, the milliner, 114 East Front street, is closing out her present stock of trimmed hats at a great sacrifice in order to make room for her winter stock. This is a genuine clearing sale, and if you want a bargain you had better go early, and as prices will be very low the sale will soon be over.

A TROLLEY ACCIDENT.

A GREENBROOK MAN SUSTAINED A BROKEN SHOULDER.

Car No. 15 Ran Into the Wagon He Was Driving—Both Vehicle and Car Damaged—Motorman Not to Blame.

A serious accident occurred on West Front street, near Clinton avenue, last evening, when car No. 15 of the street railway ran into a wagon in which was seated Oscar Liebe, of Greenbrook, who was driving a team of horses on his way home. The wagon was badly wrecked and Liebe was thrown out of the wagon with the result of dislocating his shoulder. The vestibule of the car was badly damaged. The steel box used for turning on and off the electric power was completely thrown out of place.

Andree Mortisen was the motorman. He is a new man and was running his last trip. The conductor was Henry McCormick. Neither of them were injured, although they were both well shaken up, as were also the passengers in the car. The horses were not injured. Liebe was taken into Kriney's grocery store and taken care of. Later he was taken to his home at Greenbrook.

It is difficult to learn just how the accident occurred. One story is that there were two wagons on either side of the tracks just ahead of the car, and suddenly Mr. Liebe crossed the tracks in front of the car before the motorman could stop. It is claimed that the motorman sounded his bell, but it is said that Liebe claims he did not hear the bell at all.

The car was taken back to the car house and another one used in its place. There seems to be no blame attached to the motorman, for he is working today and running as usual. Superintendent Adleman appeared on the scene soon after the accident occurred and he made a note of all the circumsiances.

MRS. HEGEMAN'S DELIGHTFUL TEA.

Given in Honor of Her Guest, Mrs. Robert L. Burnett.

A delightful tea was given yesterday afternoon by Mrs. Benjamin Arrowsmith Hegeman, Jr., of Washington Park, to a limited number of friends. The affair was given in honor of Mrs. Robert L. Burnett, of New York, who is a guest of Mrs. Hegeman. American beauty roses, Easter lilies and violets formed the decorations. In the dining room the color prevailing was pink and was produced through a charming arrangement of carnation pinks, lace and ribbons.

Mrs. Hegeman received and was assisted by Mrs. Robert L. Burnett, Miss Ethel Bowers, of New York; Mrs. Gustavus E. Strauss, Mrs. William Journeay Roome, Mrs. J. Kirtland Myers, Mrs. James T. Scott, Mrs. Emma Brown and Mrs. William L. Saunders, of Plainfield.

Presiding at the table were Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen and Mrs. Charles Matthews. Those assisting in the dining room were Miss Florence Waring, Miss Lotta Lowe, Miss Ida Strauss, Miss Margaret McCutchen and Miss Virginia Hegeman.

A very charming feature of the affair was a piano selection by Miss Ida Strauss, whose playing won the highest praise from all present. The tea was attended by about fifty guests who thoroughly enjoyed the hospitality extended by the hostess and her assistants.

OPPOSE THE LICENSE SYSTEM.

Children's Home Managers Will Petition the Common Council.

The board of lady managers of the Plainfield Children's Home took up the question of the licensing of the saloons by the Common Council, at its meeting in the Y. M. C. A. building yesterday afternoon. The sentiment of all the members of the board who were present seemed to be a unit on the question. All were opposed to the license system, and it was decided to present to the Common Council a petition signed by all the members of the board asking that no more saloon licenses be granted. The petition will be presented at the next meeting of the Council, to be held next Monday evening.

A committee, consisting of Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. Ruth C. Leonard, Mrs. Martha I. Cooley, Mrs. J. C. Peck and Miss Rebecca Lloyd, was appointed to arrange the Christmas tree for the Home.

The treasurer's report showed that there are 22 children in the Home at present and the cash balance in the treasury is $284.

An Officer at the Station.

Miss Opdyke, of Somerville, has been a guest of Plainfield friends.

THE WIFE SENT TO JAIL.

RATHER STRANGE CASE OF DOMESTIC TROUBLES IN CITY COURT.

Mrs. Mary Rothenhausen Accused of Beating Her Husband and Children—Husband Refused to Kiss Her When Jailed.

Many tears were shed down in the stuffy little court room at the city jail this morning. The troubles were those of the Rothenhausen family, who live over one of the stores on East Front street, and it was drink that was at the bottom of it all. Mrs. Mary Rothenhausen was the prisoner, charged with abusing her husband and her children.

The story of Charles Rothenhausen and his three daughters was that she had been drinking heavily of late and that her tongue had become almost unbearable. She had struck her children and her husband, so they said. The daughters wept as they told the story, and Mrs. Rothenhausen wept bitter tears of professed repentance on account of her misdeeds, and her counsel, S. S. Swackhamer, summed up her side of the case in an eloquent speech.

She had been before the Judge many times and had always promised to behave in the future. Last time, she went to jail for sixty days. This time, City Judge DeMeza made it sixty days in jail and a fine of $50 which will be equivalent to three months in all.

As Mrs. Rothenhausen turned from the rail on her way to the cell, she dramatically exclaimed between her sobs.

"No!" answered the sorrowful husband, with a wave of the hand and retreating behind the friendly shoulders of Patrolman McCue, "I've had enough of you."

"Do you love your poor old ma?" sobbed the prisoner turning to her youngest daughter.

"Yes," was the muffled answer and mother and daughter mingled their tears and bid a sad farewell.

Chief Grant escorted Mrs. Rothenhausen to the county jail, this afternoon, while she protested that she would never return alive, as she has done on previous trips.

FARM BUILDINGS BURNED.

SET ON FIRE BY DEFECTIVE LANTERN.

D. A. Baldwin the Loser—No Facilities Were at Hand to Fight the Fire—Loss is About $8,000.

A costly fire occurred about 2:30 this morning when the large house and barn owned by D. A. Baldwin, located about two miles from Washingtonville on the road to Warrenville, was totally destroyed. Just before that hour Mr. Baldwin and some of his men started for Newark with several loads of hay. Shortly afterwards another employe was in the barn with a lighted lantern. While walking about in a quantity of hay the bottom of the lantern fell out. In a few seconds the hay was one mass of flames.

The farmhand gave the alarm and some of the neighbors responded quickly and worked hard in an attempt to save the contents of the barn and house. All of the live stock was rescued from the barn, but owing to the lack of ladders the house could not be saved, and the structure and contents were completely destroyed. Another thing that was against the saving of the property was the absence of a sufficient quantity of water.

Mr. Baldwin was not aware of his loss until this morning when he was notified by telegraph. At present it is not known whether the property was covered fully by insurance or not, but it is belived that it was. The loss is estimated at $8,000.

FUNERAL OF JOHN STEWART.

Pastors Spoke Highly of the Life of the Departed.

The funeral services of the late John Stewart were held yesterday afternoon from the house on Plainfield avenue. There was a large attendance of relatives and acquaintances. Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church, conducted the services and he was assisted by Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, pastor of Hope chapel. Both pastors spoke in the highest terms concerning the life of the departed, and words of comfort and consolation were uttered for those who are bereaved.

Those who served as pall-bearers were Herman Weber, L. C. Randolph, George Cornwall, William Shotwell, Joseph Randolph and Smith Garretson. Interment was in the family plot in the Plainfield Avenue Cemetery.

Mrs. Skinner, of Elmwood place, is very much improved from a serious illness.

PLEA TO SAVE THE BOYS

DR. LEWIS DEALS IN STRONG WORDS ABOUT THE SALOON BUSINESS.

It is Not the Money Side That Should be Considered—Saloons Bring Nothing But Ruin to All That They Ever Touch.

The temperance mass-meeting which was held in Hope chapel, on West Fourth street, last night, was well attended by the citizens of the west end, and the remarks of the different speakers in favor of a no-license system for Plainfield, seemed to meet with the approval of the audience.

Rev. G. Kennedy Newell presided, and opened the meeting at 8:15 o'clock with a few remarks, saying that he considered it well for the people of Plainfield to come together at this time to give careful consideration to a question which has in it so much of weal or of woe for the city. He then made a comparison of the number of arrests in this city for drunkenness during the years of license and the year 1889, when there was a no license law in effect. In 1888, under high license, there were 93 arrests for drunkenness, in 1889, under no-license, there were only 51 arrests for the same cause, and in 1890, when the high license system was restored, the number of arrests rose again to 161.

Ex Councilman Henry C. Squires was the next speaker. He placed figures before the audience designed to show that the city is a loser by the license system. The cost of all the saloons in the city he stated was at least $52,000 a year. In the last ten years that sum which has been worse than wasted, would, if placed in the city treasury, amount to more than a half a million dollars. This amount would have paid all the city's taxes during that period, built a hundred-thousand dollar schoolhouse, a public library and a city hall, and still left a surplus in the treasury. He then read a letter from Alexander McKensie, a prominent citizen of Cambridge, Mass., declaring that the no-license system has succeeded admirably during the past ten years in that city.

Rev. A. H. Lewis, D. D., was introduced, and said that he was not present to make a plea for the saving of money to the city, but for the saving of boys. The business of the saloons is to ruin boys. All saloons must have boys, just as the churches must have them. We should not consider so much money lost each year, although all that had been said upon that point was perfectly true, but we should consider so many boys eaten up and destroyed by the saloon. If the saloon is a good thing to have in our community, and a benefit to us, the speaker said, then why not change Hope chapel into a saloon. Take out all the church furnishings and put in a bar, and in the place of Mr. Newell, the pastor, place a good bar tender. As a matter of fact, the saloon ruins everything it touches. The Plainfield saloon is gilded, but it leads down just the same. In the coming contest the west end should roll up such a majority against high license as will be worthy of the west end.

Rev. Mr. Newell before introducing the next speaker said that if high license was a good thing he thought every minister in Plainfield ought to apply for a license. He thought of applying for one himself. If saloons had to exist, ministers were the best ones to manage them. He believed, however, that there was another way out of the matter, and that was to abolish license altogether.

Former Councilman Ernest R. Ackerman was the next speaker. His remarks were brief. The United States, he said, spends for drink every year one thousand million dollars, which is twice as much as it spends for bread. The terrible Juggernaut in India never killed more than 800 people in a single year, but the Juggernaut of strong drink in this country kill each year over 80,000 people. Ten causes why the use of liquor should be restricted and, if possible, stopped are that it causes the loss of a man's reason, it leads to murders, to insanity, to enormous taxes for the maintainance of asylums, jails, almshouses and reformatories, the millions of property expended in it are worse than lost, liquor causes immense expenditures in order to prevent crime, prohibition would save thousands from falling, the sale of liquor upholds the vicious and idle at the expense of the industrious and the virtuous, it takes a sober man's earnings to support a drunkard, and it costs sober people immense amounts in charity.

Rev. W. R. Richarns, D. D., pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, next made a few remarks concerning the $700 license fee charged to the saloons, saying that he could not see by what right it was levied. The business is either right or wrong. If it is right the city taxes it unjustly; if it is wrong then in accepting the license fee we are selling an indulgence to commit sin.

THE COMING MESSAGE

Devoted Mainly to Foreign Relations and Currency.

ACTION ASKED ON HAWAII

Practical Conclusions Reached that Present Conditions Do Not Warrant Interference in the Affairs of Cuba.

Washington, Dec. 3.—President McKinley's message will be devoted practically to foreign relations and the currency problem. It will be unique in that it ignores the great bulk of matters usually constituting the departmental portions of Presidential annual messages. There is scarcely a reference to the subject matter of the annual reports of the Cabinet members, the President's purpose being to call attention only to the more important affairs of the Government. For this reason, the postal savings project of the Postmaster-General is not discussed.

While the details of the currency portion are not definitely known, it can be authoritatively stated that it is in the main an incorporation of views submitted by Secretary Gage, though as to details the President leaves himself free by not taking any position with reference to several features of the Secretary's plan while indorsing its main object.

Strong presentation of the Hawaiian question is made, and Congress is urged to ratify the annexation treaty immediately. The necessity for making the islands part of the United States and the advantages from such action are reviewed.

The messags calls attention to the recent trend of affairs in Cuba, refers to the autonomy scheme, and, after reciting other developments, reaches the virtual conclusion that existing circumstances do not warrant interference on the part of the United States.

"Peace on earth, good will towards men," is to be the keynote of the message. This fact the President has made clear to more than one United States Senator who has called on him during the past few days. Said one of these Senators to your correspondent:

"The President believes that the business interests of the country desire rest and peace, and he will try to make his message so conservative in character that it will inspire confidence throughout the country and advance the tide of prosperity, which he thinks has already begun to sweep over the country. In respect to Cuba he will show that Spain is making an attempt to pacify the island and grant the insurgents home rule, and that, therefore, there is no immediate excuse for Congress to pass any resolutions or take any action whatever in favor of the Cubans. While adopting a conservative policy in regard to Cuba, his attitude will be firm and dignified, and Spain will be made to understand that the Administration will not brook any return of Weylerism.

"The President will also make clear the fact that he desires Congress to be rigidly economical in regard to all appropriations, both for the departments of the Government and in regard to appropriating money for private claims and new public buildings. In this policy of retrenchment the President will have the active co-operation of Speaker Thomas B. Reed and the different chairmen of the big committees—Appropriations and Rivers and Harbors.

"By keeping down the appropriations the President believes that the Dingley bill will provide sufficient revenue to run the Government, and therefore it is unlikely that there will be any further tariff legislation during the coming session.

"The President is of the opinion that when the business interests of the country realize that he favors peace and security better times will come and remain."

The message pays considerable attention to the matter of reciprocity negotiations with various countries in Europe. Special Commissioner Kasson has been working on this subject for some time, and the message expresses the hope of the Administration for satisfactory results. The policy of the Administration on this subject is outlined, and, citing French champagnes as an illustration, the point is made that if special concessions are given to any foreign products the United States must receive reciprocal concessions.

The Alaskan problem is discussed at length, and a plea is made for Congressional legislation, including the extension of the public land laws and the granting of rights of way for roads.

GENERAL PANDO SHOT.

Report that the Spanish Commander Has Fallen Before Cuban Bullets.

Havana, Cuba, via Key West, Fla., Dec. 3.—A report that Gen. Pando, who was placed in charge of military operations in Cuba by Gen. Blanco, has been killed in an engagement with insurgents in Santa Clara Province has just reached Havana.

This report has caused the most intense excitement in the palace and official circles, and every effort is being made to get news from Gen. Pando's force and to find out the truth or falsity of the startling news.

No details of the killing of the Spanish commander have been received, beyond the statement that he was shot in a battle with a force of insurgents while on the march from Sagua La Grande, on the northern coast of Santa Clara, to Trinidad, on the southern coast of the same province, where he was to take a ship and go to Manzanillo, in the eastern province of Santiago de Cuba.

Populists Reject Hawaii.

Washington, Dec. 3.—The six Populist members of the Senate have decided to oppose the Hawaiian annexation treaty on the ground that it is not necessary and that it will entail a heavy expenditure for the navy and that the population thus brought in will be undesirable.

Two Men Strangely Killed.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 3.—William Fenstermaker and Michael Banks, both of Philadelphia, were found dead yesterday near the tracks of the railroad at Dead Man's Gulch. Two tramps have ben arrested on the charge of being implicated in the killing.

NO MAN YET CHOSEN.

Report that Secretary Long May be Made Attorney-General.

Washington, Dec. 3.—In Administration and political circles it is generally believed that the President will send to the Senate next Tuesday the nomination of Attorney-General McKenna to be Associate Justice of the Supreme Court to succeed Field. At the same time it is likely that the nomination of the new Attorney-General will be transmitted to the Senate.

Judge Goff, of West Virginia, denies that he is a candidate for the Cabinet, but his name is still mentioned. Among others mentioned in this connection are ex-Attorney-General Richards, of Ohio, and J. J. McCook, of New York, and not a few believe there may be a final shifting which may land Secretary Long in the Department of Justice and some entirely new man may be called to take the Navy portfolio.

Fitzgerald May Be Appointed.

New York, Dec. 3.—It was reported in this city to-day that W. F. Fitzgerald, of California, will be appointed by President McKinley Attorney-General, to succeed Mr. McKenna, should the later be elevated to the Supreme Court bench. Mr. Fitzgerald was appointed United States Judge for Arizona by President Arthur in 1883. He was the only Republican elected on the California State ticket at the last election.

THE FATE OF MRS. NACK.

It Is Now Said She Will Plead to Murder in the Second Degree.

New York, Dec. 3.—Although District Attorney Youngs has not yet fully committed himself to any course of action regarding what will be done to Augusta Nack for the murder of William Guldensuppe, it is almost certain that he will accept a plea from her of murder in the second degree. The penalty for this degree of murder is imprisonment for life.

It is not at all likely that Mrs. Nack will ever be tried before a jury. Mr. Youngs acknowledged that he would have trouble in convicting the woman of murder in the first degree if he should atempt it. He could not use Thorn's testimony against her, and he could not use her own confession on her trial.

The headless trunk of Guldensuppe may be buried soon. It is still in pickle in the Morgue. It was thought it might have to be produced in court. Now that the trial of Thorn has closed, and that a conviction has been secured, Guldensuppe's body may find a resting place.

The bath rubber was a member of a German burial society. This society has made application to Coroner Tuthill for permission to bury him.

Resignation of Gen. Clay.

Washington, Dec. 3.—The resignation of Gen. Clay from the District National Guard is generally regretted by the officers and men. The action of the General is generally attributed to disappointment over the fact that he failed to receive the promotion to the vacancy left open by the death of the late Gen. Ordway. Gen. Clay was the senior officer in rank, and, according to the rules of promotion, was entitled to the appointment. While officers will not speak, of course, for publication, there is considerable feeling among them because the President did not observe the rule of seniority in making his selection for Commander in Chief. The opinion is expressed by many that, after all, all there is in the National Guard is the honor of receiving promotions, and if that is to be taken away, there is no inducement for any one to remain in the Guard.

A Stamp with Every Drink.

Cleveland, Dec. 3.—Philip German, the Postmaster at Frances, is a man of enterprise, according to the United States authorities, who arrested him on charge of violating the internal revenue laws. The charge is retailing liquor without a license.

German's salary is dependent on the quantity of business done at the office, and, as normally it was small, German, it is alleged, hit upon the scheme of giving a postage stamp with every drink and a drink with every ten stamps purchased. German was taken before a United States Commissioner and held in $300 bonds.

Glassworkers' Dispute Settled.

Pittsburg, Dec. 3.—The cutters and flatteners all over the country have by a large majority agreed to accept the terms offered by the other glassworkers, namely, $28,000 from the general fund and the withdrawal of all claims on and in connection with the general association.

The principal opposiiton came from this vicinity, outsiders being almost unanimously in favor of accepting the offer.

The manufacturers can now probably gain their point and dictate terms on the scale, as the workers are divided in interests. It was at first reported that the proposition had been rejected.

Mail Clerk Arrested.

Pittsburg, Dec. 3.—C. W. Merritt, of Mansfield, Ohio, has been arrested for robbing the mails. Merritt was employed as a railway postal clerk on the Fort Wayne Railroad between Crestline and Pittsburg. For a long time the postal officials have been troubled with complaints of money being stolen from letters. Two decoy letters with marked money were found in his pockets when arrested.

The Surprise of All.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olagah, Ind. Ter. Chief. This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and la grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

A FOOLISH UTTERANCE.

It May Cause the President to Withdraw from His Church.

Washington, Dec. 3.—A foolish utterance by his own pastor has caused President McKinley to seriously consider the advisability of changing his place of worship. "Rum, Jesuitism and Socialism," the pastor said, were the three principal evils which now threaten this country, and the President was in his pew when the sermon was preached.

By residents of this city comparisons are drawn between the preacher's remarks and the alliterative expression of Dr. Burchard, "Rum, Romanism and Rebellion," which is popularly believed to have encompassed the defeat of James G. Blaine in 1884.

Ever since his return to Washington last March the President has been an attendant at the Metropolitan Episcopal Church. The pastor is Rev. Hugh Johnson, and he has shown on numerous occasions that he was highly flattered in having a President of the United States in his congregation.

Thanksgiving Day services at the church were well attended, among those who were present being Maj. McKinley. When the sermon was reached there was a sensation. The pastor spoke of the three evils which he said threatened the country, but laid particular stress on "Jesuitism."

So radical were the minister's remarks that they met with no approval from his congregation, and the President, it was noticed, appeared to be greatly annoyed.

In Catholic circles the sermon created great indignation, and by many it has ben construed as an attack upon Attorney General McKenna, who, it is expected, will soon succeed Justice Field on the Supreme Court bench. The Attorney-General is a Catholic, and his proposed elevation has aroused some opposition.

Efforts have been quietly made by leading members of the Metropolitan church to convince President McKinley that no affront to any particular creed or nationality was intended by the pastor.

Up to date, however, their efforts have utterly failed, as the President is firmly convinced that it would be injurious to appear to approve, even tacitly, an attack upon the members of a great church.

TO SAVE A WOMAN'S LIFE.

Gov. Atkinson Demands a Measure Against Female Death Penalty.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 3.—The women of Georgia may triumph in the fight they have been making for the life of Mrs. Dollie Nobles, the murderess. Gov. Atkinson has had introduced into the Legislature a bill providing that women shall not be hanged in Georgia.

Tens of thousands of letters from all classes of women have poured in upon the Governor beseeching him to prevent the stain upon the State's escutcheon that would result from the execution. On the other hand, men all over the State have presented equally strong petitions that he should not interfere.

The case of Mrs. Nobles is similar to the case of Mrs. Nack. As Mrs. Nack had her Guldensuppe and her Martin Thorn, so Mrs. Nobles had her husband and her Gus Fambles. The husband, like Guldensuppe, was cruelly murdered. Fambles, her partner in crime, like Martin Thorn, was convicted and sentenced to death.

The murder was committed in June, 1895. The day set for Mrs. Nobles' execution is fast approaching, but it is confidently asserted that the woman will not be put to death.

PARIS IN AN UPROAR.

Several Duels Are Expected to Result from the Dreyfus Scandal.

Paris, Dec. 3.—It will be a wonder if the Dreyfus-Esterhazy affair is not productive of a number of duels. Several of the Paris papers are fighting like Kinkenny cats, and personalities are flying around broadcast.

The editor of one evening paper has called the editor of a morning journal all manner of names, and even suggested that the latter is not entitled to the name he is known by. This has caused the production of the certificate of birth of the morning paper editor, whereat the evening paper returns to the charge of asking the morning paper editor how he served his country in 1870.

Even Emile Zola has been dragged into the quarrels. He has contributed an article to the Figaro, arguing that if Dreyfus' relations have formed a syndicate to secure newspaper support they were only doing what they had a perfect right to do. The Jour now asks how much Zola received for the article.

Reed's Arrival Anxiously Awaited.

Washington, Dec. 3.—Speaker Reed's arrival is anxiously awaited by the members of the Senate and House already in the city. He was expected Wednesday night at the Shoreham, but was detained in New York City, and he was expected to arrive some time during th day yesterday. It is the belief of the members of the House here that the character of the legislation upon the currency and Cuban and other questions will to a great extent be dependent upon the attitude of the Speaker, and they are anxious to learn what his policy will be. The power of the Speaker in shaping legislation in the House is very great, and his attitude will solve many of the doubts which now confront members of less influence.

No American Wheels.

London, Dec. 3.—The honorable Sir Ford North, Judge of the Chancery of the High Court of Justice, refused an application to enjoin the national cycle show, which opens at the Crystal Palace to-day, from holding its exhibition unless it includes American machines. The petitioner was allotted space, which was subsequently withdrawn when it became known that he intended to exhibit American wheels. Justice North, in rendering his decision, said that if the plaintiff succeeded at a trial of the case, he may be entitled to substantial damages, but it would be an injustice to the defendants to order a specific performance.

Anti-Football in Virginia.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 3.—Senator Barksdale has introduced the much discussed anti-football bill in the Senate. It makes any prize or other game of football at which admission fees are charged a misdemeanor, and prescribes a penalty of $50 for each offense. The bill will be strongly supported.

DINGLEY ON CONGRESS

Monetary System Safe Even Without New Legislation.

SENATE BLOCKS REFORM

Says the People Have Confidence in the Administration, However—Favors Leaving the Cuban Question in the President's Hands.

Lewiston, Me., Dec. 3.—The Journal prints an interview with Congressman Nelson Dingley, who left yesterday for Washington. Mr. Dingley says:

"Inasmuch as this will be the first regular session of the Fifty-fifth Congress, and therefore unlimited in length by the Constitution, it is difficult to forecast its duration. Business will be expedited by the fact that the House, as well as the Senate, is already organized and the committees appointed, but the Senate has no means of limiting debate, so that it is always in the power of a very few Senators to greatly extend the sitting. I see no reason now, however, to believe that this session will continue later than June.

"Probably bankruptcy legislation will be the first to come up, after such appropriation bills as may be ready. The Voluntary Bankruptcy bill, passed by the Senate during the extra session, was referred to the House Judiciary Committee, which may be ready to report it back before the Christmas recess. The House will probably pass a substitute on the lines of the Torrey bill, as it did two years ago, and then the two bills will go to conference. Probably the conference will agree on a compromise measure which will become a law."

The Currency.

"Will currency legislation be likely to be secured?" was asked.

"If the Senate were Republican and in harmony with the majority of the House on monetary questions, I should reply in the affirmative," said Mr. Dingley, "but with a free-silver majority in the Senate antagonistic to the ideas of the majority of the House as to what constitutes a sound currency system, I do not see how it is possible to secure important currency legislation until the Senate is brought into harmony with the House. Possibly some desirable amendments to the national bank law might be passed by the Senate. The House joint resolution for a joint committee to consider and report on currency legislation passed at the extra session is still in the hands of the Senate Finance Committee, and may be reported back as soon as Congress reassembles.

In Safe Hands.

"While I should be pleased to see legislation which would remedy the want of flexibility of our banking system, and would separate those functions of the Treasury Department which relate to the government demand notes and certificates used as currency from those which relate to current receipts and expenditures, and thus better protect the reserve, and most heartily approve it, yet I believe that, even if such legislation cannot be secured, it is sufficient for all imediate purposes to know that the Administration is determined to defend the present monetary standard, and, as it has the means of doing so, the integrity of the currency is as safe for the present as though the desired legislation were at hand. Indeed, with sufficient revenue to meet all current expenditures, as we shall have in the next fiscal year, the Treasury Department can practically accomplish the latter purpose without any new legislation—although legislation is desirable, because, under such conditions, when government notes are redeemed in gold, there are only two ways in which they can be disbursed, viz., by purchase of government bonds for exchange or exchange for gold."

Other Measures.

"What other measures are likely to come up for consideration?" was then asked.

"Immigration legislation," said Mr. Dingley, "is likely to be consummated. Some legislation may be required to strengthen the hands of the Interstate Commerce Commission, whose power for good has been largely taken away by the decisions of the courts. It is said that the railroads will again urge their pooling bill. Preliminary census legislation is necessary. Undoubtedly the effort to secure the admission of Arizona and New Mexico as States will be renewed. Some better form of government must be given Alaska, and the Postmaster General will urge his postal savings system."

Postal Savings Banks.

Concerning the proposed postal savings system, Mr. Dingley said:

"I have reached no conclusion on the question, as I want first to know more definitely how the deposits can be safely invested; what would be the effect on the existing savings bank system, which has proved so valuable, and whether the tendency of the new system would be to draw capital from the more thinly populated parts of the country (where more capital is required) and transfer it to the centres of business already congested with capital, or to make it available for use outside these centres."

"What is likely to be done with Hawaii?"

"Unless those who have canvassed the Senate are very much mistaken, the Hawaiian annexation treaty will either be promptly ratified by the Senate or an annexation resolution passed and Hawaii brought into the Union as a Territory."

As to Cuba.

"Are Cuban affairs likely to lead to action by Congress?"

"I have no doubt that there will be a strong effort to induce Congress to take the solution of the Cuban question from the hands of the President and Secretary of State, to whom the conduct of diplomatic matters properly belongs, and have Congress, which from the nature of the case, is ill fited to direct our delicate relations with other nations, undertake to solve them by resolutions and campaign speeches. Speaking for myself, I think that sound policy and the best interests of Cuba require that the management of this matter be left with the President, who has already done much for the Cuban cause."

Senator Hanna has sent word to Washington that he expects to arrive there Monday.

NOTHING TO EXCITE VOTERS.

At this time more than any other it is natural to suppose that Plainfield ought to be in the exciting throes of political fighting for the ballots to be cast at the city election to be held next Tuesday—less than a week away. Yet how peaceable everything seems compared with the original thought of a month ago of what the campaign seemed resolving itself into—an anticipation that things were actually to be "hot" in the line of politics. Then it was that the mention of a Citizens' ticket was regarded as an indication—and if to be carried out, a certainty—that the Republicans would have hard work to win, but the lack of organization among those opposed to the present administration has served to make the Citizens' somewhat inocuous, judging by appearances. There may yet be time for them to suppress the G. O. P. as represented in local official circles, but it doesn't seem probable from the present outlook.

Following in Plainfield's wake, New Brunswick expects to have the New York and New Jersey Telephone Company put their wires underground.

A USE FOR DISCARDED ARTICLES.

A Worthy Work in Which the Relief Association is Engaged.

The ladies in charge of the employment committee of the Relief Association, 544 West Front street, are much in need of cast off garments of all kinds, remnants of cotton and woolen goods, and cotton and woolen rags.

Large pieces of material are tastefully and skillfully put together and made into dresses and other garments for children; smaller pieces are made into comforters, or cut into strips for rag carpets, and still smaller pieces can be used in the construction of rugs.

The making of these various articles provides sewing for women needing assistance, and thus employment is given instead of alms, the payment for such work being made in groceries, coal and clothing. The cast-off garments are neatly repaired, thereby also giving employment to women. This clothing is then sold to those who need it, at nominal prices, sometimes a few cents only for each garment. This enables self-respecting persons to provide themselves with clothing, who would not ask for or accept such articles as gifts. The work of this clothing bureau is most successful and is now entering its second year, past the stage of experiment, and it has proved one of the most valuable departments of the Relief Association.

The clothing bureau, 544 West Front street, is open for the sale of clothing each Saturday morning, from 9 until 11 o'clock. It is hoped that the many friends of Association who have contributed so generously in the past will continue their co-operation by sending the articles solicited and so much needed.

Thousands suffer from Catarrh or cold in the head and have never tried the popular remedy. There is no longer any excuse, as a 10 cent trial size of Ely's Cream Balm can be had of your druggist or we mail it for 10 cents. Full size 50 cents. ELY BROS., 56 Warren street, N. Y. City. A friend advised me to try Ely's Cream Balm and after using it six weeks I believe myself cured of catarrh. It is a most valuable remedy.—Joseph Stewart, 624 Grand avenue, Brooklyn, N. Y.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Mrs. S. C. Baker, of Plainfield, was a guest in town yesterday.

Mr. Pruden, of Plainfield, was in town yesterday on business.

Miss Jessie Haynes, of New Market, has been visiting out of town friends.

Mrs. R. L. Fisher has been entertaining compnny from Newark for a few days.

A social will be given next Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. Harris, of New Market.

"Jack" Auten has secured a po sition as salesman with a company manufacturing graphaphones.

Theodore Kurtzhals, Jr., was in the borough on business yesterday, and he also called on several old acqaintances.

Mrs. J. W. Griggs and son, Harry, left yesterday for New Brunswick, where they will make their home in the future.

T. C. Bodine has received the contract to place the new heating apparatus in the Catholic church, and he has started the work.

T. C. Bodine has returned from Aiken, S. C., where he has been putting a hot-air system of heating in the magnificent home of William C. Whitney, ex-secretary of the Navy.

Since the burning of the freight house there has been talk among some of the borough women of organizing an auxiliary to the fire department. Such a scheme would prove a boom to the borough firemen.

It has been suggested that the trol ley company buy the waiting room at the end of their line near the borough, and keep it open all the time for the benefit of passengers. At present the place is open only part of the time.

At the birthday banquet given, last Saturday, at Taylor's Hotel by W. J. Wingers, Mayor Brakeley spoke of the great importance of the borough having a good water supply, and he stated that he was surprised that some capitalists had not been to the borough long ago trying to introduce a water supply. He expressed an opinion that the borough might accept some offer if it was at all within reason. The force of the Mayor's remarks were felt Wednesday when the freight house was consumed by fire.

Central Railroad employees were busy all day yesterday cleaning up the ruins of the freight house fire. The place where the house stood looks very strange. It is quite likely that the new freight house will be located on the other side of the passenger station. This move will be made for the reason that the company needs more room where the freight house stood before it was burned for passenger coaches. At present, a freight car is being used as a temporary freight house. The work of building a new house will probably be started very soon.

"The Village Fair," under the management of the ladies of the St. Paul's Episcopal church, was continued in Gale's clubhouse, on Elm street, yesterday afternoon and last evening. At the dolls' reception held in the afternoon, Miss Marion Keeler took the first prize, a handsome doll's hat, for the best dressed doll, and the second prize, a box of Huyler's candy, was awarded to the doll owned by Miss Margerie Johnston. In the evening the attendance was very large and the ladies in charge of the booths were kept busy serving the patrons. A popular feature of the fair was the gramaphone exhibition conducted by George W. Wrennick. The fair closed at a late hour, and the managers estimate that a substantial sum was realized for the church treasury.

THEATRICAL.

"Madeline of Fort Reno," the great scenic piece, will be produced in Music Hall this evening.

Two of the attendants who nightly assist Henry E. Dixey in his "Mystery of Chundar Hula," are Parsees from Bombay. They are genuine fire-worshippers and eat no meat. Like most of their sect they are very intelligent men and are adepts in occultism. Though they have only known Mr. Dixey a short time, they have become deeply attached to him. They say as a sleight-of-hand performer, he is superior of any East Indian "Fakir" they have ever met, and they have seen the best of the Asiatic necromancers.

"The City of New York." Have you seen it? Well, if you have not, go to Music Hall Tuesday night, Dec. 7th, and see it in miniature. Moller & Fessler's big spectacular, mechanical and scenic production, known as "The City of New York," will give you a small idea at least of what the big town looks like.

Miss Charlotte Crapnell, of Roseville, Newark, has returned home, after spending a week with friends, Mr. and Mrs. James Keenan, of East Fifth street.

PREMATURE GRAYNESS.

A tendency to early grayness may be hereditary, but as a rule an unhealthy condition of the scalp is responsible.

Hair turns gray when the glands have so far lost their vitality as to be unable to secrete the coloring matter. This condition is usually due to dandruff or some other scalp affection.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manuufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text;—Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus.—Phil. ii: 5. Dec. 5, 1897.

1. "If there be therefore any consolation in Christ, if any comfort of love, if any fellowship of the Spirit, if any bowels and mercies." Consolation here is literally "one called to your side," and comfort is "one speaking beside you." So we might read, "If there is anything in Christ being ever with you and ever talking to you, and in having the constant companionship and guidance and teaching of the Holy Spirit, if there is anything in the tenderness and compassion of the Father manifested in the Son by the Spirit, then let it be seen in you to the glory of God that Christ may be magnified."

2. "Fulfill ye my joy, that ye be like minded, having the same love, being of one accord, of one mind." Oneness of the members of the body in the sevice of the head is something greatly desired by our blessed Lord, as is very manifest in His prayer in John xvii, and it will also be the great desire of all who are fully one with Him. Not only does He comfort us with the assurance, "As the Father hath loved Me, so have I loved you," but He also adds, "This is My commandment, that ye love one another as I have loved you" (John xv, 9, 12).

3. "Let nothing be done through strife or vain glory, but in lowliness of mind let each esteem other better than themselves." Another reading is, "In nothing follow self seeking." Jeremiah said to his scribe, Baruch: "Seekest thou great things for thyself? Seek them not" (Jer. xlv, 5). Although the whole land was Abram's and not Lot's, yet rather than have strife Abram told Lot to take his choice and go whither he would. When the Philistines strove for the wells which Isaac had reopened, Isaac did not resist, but kept on yielding until there was room for all, and the strife ceased (Gen, xiii, 8, 9; xxvi, 22).

4. "Look not every man on his own things, but every man also on the things of others." Not enviously as some would pervert it, but desiring the welfare of others as much as or more than your own. Love seeketh not her own (I Cor. xiii, 5). Let Episcopalians seek and rejoice in the welfare of Methodist, and so Methodists of Baptists, Baptists of Presbyterians, and so on, all uniting heartily to seek the honor of the Head in the completion of His body, the church, which has no name but Christ (I Cor. xii, 12, 13).

5. "Let this mind be in you, which was also in Christ Jesus." If any man have not the Spirit of Christ, he is none of His (Rom. viii, 9). Now, every penitent sinner who truly receives Christ receives also the Spirit of Christ, but some are more controlled by and manifest more of that Spirit than others. It is the privilege of every believer to be filled with the Spirit (Eph. v, 18), and led by the Spirit and to walk in the Spirit, and when one is only willing to have no will but the will of God, no choice but God's choice, no way but God's way, no service but what He appoints, God will quickly fill that one with His Spirit and continue to fill him day by day and moment by moment.

6. "Who, being in the form of God, thought it not robbery to be equal with God." Another reading is, "Deemed not his equality with God a thing to grasp at." He was not always saying, "I am God; I created all things; I own the universe; I do as I please in heaven and on earth, and therefore you must bow to Me, and if you don't I will make you, for I have all power." Those who are always grasping at their position as if they might lose it, or at least some of the honor belonging to it, are very small people, or people of very small minds, whatever their position may be.

7. "But made Himself of no reputation, and took upon Him the form of a servant and was made in the likeness of man." He took not on Him the nature of angels, which would have been a very great humiliation, but as the children are partakers of flesh and blood, He also Himself likewise took part of the same (Heb. ii, 14, 16). He emptied Himself of the glory which He had with the Father before the world was, and consented to endure the limitations of a mortal body for over 33 years—not only so, but He consented to endure such limitation under the most limited of earthly conditions, such as the manger at Bethlehem, the humble home and the carpenter's shop at Nazareth.

8. "And being found in fashion as a man He humbled Himself and became obedient unto death, even the death of the cross." The Son of Man came not to be ministered unto, but to minister and to give His life a ransom for many (Math. xx, 28). He consented to be despised and slandered and misunderstood, persecuted, blindfolded, buffeted, spit upon, scourged, led as a lamb to the slaughter, crucified.

9. "Wherefore also God hath highly exalted Him and given Him a name which is above every name." He is now at God's right hand, with the Father on His throne (Rev. iii, 21), and in due time all kings shall fall down before Him and all nations serve Him (Ps. lxxii, 11). By His work and by that alone, which He has finished without help from man, eternal life is freely given to every one who receives Him, and a share in His glory and a place on His throne (John xvii, 22; Rev. iii, 21).

10. "That at the name of Jesus every knee should bow of things in heaven, and things in earth, and things under the earth." And so it shall come to pass, for God has purposed it. "The Lord of Hosts hath sworn, saying, Surely as I have thought, so shall it come to pass, and as I have purposed, so shall it stand" (Isa. xiv, 24). John saw the consummation of it in his vision when he heard every creature which is in heaven, and on the earth, and under the earth, and such as are in the sea, and all that are in them, saying, "Blessing and honor and glory and power be unto Him that sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb forever and ever" Rev. v, 13). There is none other name under heaven given among men whereby we may be saved

CHINA NOT TO SUBMIT.

The Emperor Says He Would Rather Lose His Crown.

London, Dec. 3.—A dispatch from Shanghai says the Chinese Emperor has declared he would rather forfeit his crown than agree to the conditions demanded by Germany as redress for the murder of the two German missionaries.

Admiral Diedrich, the German commander at Kaio Chou Bay, has proclaimed martial law in the surrounding district.

China desires that the dispute be submitted to arbitrators appointed by Holland and Belgium.

It is reported that Russia has changed her position relative to the German-Chinese trouble. It was at first understood that Russia acquiesced in the German occupation of Chinese territory, but it is now said that the Czar is inclined to side with France in opposing Germany.

Another report has it that France, Germany and Russia have entered into a compact for the acquisition of Chinese territory, Germany taking the Chang-Tung peninsula, Russia taking Corea, and France taking Fo-Kien and the island of Formosa.

The movements of the British and Japanese fleets are supposed to indicate suspicion as to the conduct of the other powers. Japan objects to a German occupation of Kiao Chou until China has paid the war indemnity.

Great Britain will probably not be backward in obtaining a share of the apparently proposed partition of China, for the London papers assert that China has practically agreed to cede to Great Britain a strip of territory near Hong Kong, and all the surrounding islands, in order to enable the British to fortify them securely, and to increase the garrison. It was expected a convention covering this agreement would soon be signed.

Berlin, Dec. 3.—Official investigation shows that there was never the slightest foundation for the report that the Chinese had massacred 200 German sailors belonging to the German cruiser division in Kiao-Chau Bay.

Only a Small Cruiser.

Berlin, Dec. 3.—It is now announced that only the small German cruiser Geier, with a crew of 265 men, will be ordered to Port au Prince in order to support the demands of Germany for an indemnity to Herr Emil Lueders for his alleged false imprisonment by the Haytien authorities. The Geier will only demonstrate if the negotiations with the Haytien minister at Berlin fail in the meanwhile.

Japanese Troops for Formosa.

London, Dec. 3.—A dispatch from Shanghai announces that large reinforcements of Japanese troops have arrived at the island of Formosa. The Japanese army now occupying that island numbers 50,000 men.

It is believed the reinforcements are a result of the seemingly pending disturbances in the far East.

STILL STARTING FOR KLONDIKE.

One Hundred Passengers Leave Tacoma for Alaska on the Al-Ki.

Tacoma, Wash., Dec. 3.—The steamer Al-Ki has sailed from Tacoma for Alaska with 100 passengers and a full cargo of miscellaneous freight.

The passengers include a number bound for the interior. Some will start for the gold fields as soon as they reach the northern coast. Among them is Robert Blei, of Chicago, who will join a party of eight men in Juneau and outfit for a trip across the Dalton trail immediately. Mr. Blei says that he is taking northward five tons of sausage and other cured meats, which he expects to carry to Dawson, or as far into the interior as possible.

Seized Whisky Ordered Returned.

Portland, Ore., Dec. 3.—Justice Bellinger has decided that the fifty cases of whisky seized by the customs officials here and held for forfeiture for an alleged attempted unlawful importation into Alaska must be turned over to the claimant, William Sliter.

The court held that there was no law against an attempt to import spirits into Alaska.

Five Exceptional Values In The Cloak Section.

Quick selling here brings new goods daily, ofttimes some remarkably good values. Of especial interest are the five assortments of cloaks placed on sale today; interesting not only for their perfection of quality and style, but for the exceptionally low prices. Two assortments at $6.75, two at $8.50, one at $10 50. There are other cloaks here as low as $3 98 and as high as you like.

Crumbling coal is the kind that makes the dust and it's the kind you get when you are not careful where you buy. We sell the honest, solid coal for the price you've paid for the other sort, evidently, and the business should be done by all means. Buildings require paint. Of course, a house may be left unpainted and left to become weatherbeaten and a wreck. That doesn't pay, though; it's much cheaper to paint, and our paints in all colors are the best in the market for durability under the most trying conditions. They are well adapted to our exposure and we sell everything in the line of paints and painters' supplies at short prices.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Margaret Lynskey will sail for Europe tomorrow.

Mrs. Noble Colfax and her little boy, Noble, Jr., returned to her home at Bloomfield today, much to the regret of those who have had the pleasure of meeting her during her two weeks' visit at the home of her aunt, Mrs. George L. VanEmburgh, East Socond street. She came to Plainfield as a stranger, and during her stay has made many warm friends.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Tomorrow afternoon in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church Miss S. A. Palmer will deliver a lecture to all lovers of music on the subject "What is romantic music, and what will enable us to interpret it aright.'

—There are many surprises appearing every day, but none more startling and interesting to the Plainfield housekeeper than the new list of bargains that S. Scheuer & Co., the West Front street grocers, are offering today and tomorrow. They notice a few of them in their advertisement in another column.

An Evening of Euchre.

The Thursday Eight Euchre Club was entertained last evening by Mr. and Mrs, W. N. Tier, at their home on Bank place. Miss Mabelle Force secured first and Miss Etta Krymer second honors among the women. Theodore Mantz was presented with the first and George Newman the sec and gentlemen's prize. Those present included Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Tier, Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Williams, Miss Mabel Ferce, Miss May MacLoughlin, Miss Etta Krymer, Miss Clara Williams, Miss Ella Newman; George W. DeMeza, Theodore Mantz, George Newman, Walter Clark, Robert M. Clark, Ernest Millard and Benjamin LaVere. The club will be entertained in two weeks by Mr. and Mrs. Will F. Williams, of Central avenue.

Suit Over a Note.

Suit has been started at the district court in Elizabeth in the case of Charles K. Cannon, counsellor at law in Hoboken, against C. Chapot & Sons. The suit is over a note amounting to $50 given by the defendents to the late M. Bretzfield, of Jersey City, and which had gone to protest when due. The note had been disposed of before maturity by Bretzfield to the plaintiff, it is claimed. The defendents do not dispute the existence of the note, but claim that they had paid the note after protest to Bretzfield. William Newcorn, of this city, represents the plaintiff in the action.

Death of William Roselle.

The many friends of Wm. Roselle will be shocked to learn of his death which occurred suddenly last Wednesday at his home in Brooklyn of heart failure. Mr. Roselle was formerly a resident of Plainfield and was a son of the late John Roselle, of Park avenue and Second street. The deyarted was very well known in this city and had a large circle of acquaintances. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from his late home, 840 Halsey street, Brooklyn, at 2 o'clock.

Must Find Work or Suffer.

John Burns came before City Judge DeMeza this morning on the charge of non-support. He said that he could not find work. The Judge gave him another week to look for work and said there was plenty for him to do if he cared to do it.

STRIKES AND SPARES.

The Westfield Club bowling team went to Elizabeth last night and defeated the Company C team of that place three straight games in the Journal bowling league series.

One of the bowling contests at the Park Club is for a trophy to the one rolling the greatest number of scores over 200 during the month. For November the trophy was won by Wm. J. Roome, Jr., who, although a young fellow, is bowling remarkably well, and promises to be of the cracks of the club in a few years. He rolled four scores of over 200 during the last month, and will hold the trophy for the next month.

The promises for a strong team to represent the Park Club in the Central Journal League are very bright this year. The team is under the charge of F. O. Ball, who is chairman of the committee on bowling, and he is planning for an active season. There are a number of candidates who are trying for the five that is to roll in the league games. "Doc" Charles R. Thiers is too well known to the bowling fraternity to need introduction. He is one of the steadiest men in the club and can be counted on in a tight place. F. H. Ball and F. O. Ball both did excellent work last year. Percy Sandford is a veteran of several seasons and rolls a good game when in practice. Edward Wilson and Allan E. Laing are new candidates, but both have been doing unusually well in practice. How they will stand the excitement of a match game remains to be seen.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

Henry Voehl and Will Demler went hunting near New Vernon on Wednesday and returned with seventeen rabbits.

Reform Club Elect.

At the meeting of the Reform Club last evening the following officers were elected for the ensuing year: President, W. C. Smith; first vice-president, M. F. Marcley; second vice-president, W. B. Ayres; recording secretary, J. Q. Miles; financial secretary, Sylvester Scribner; treasurer, J. D. Spicer. Following the election, and interesting programme of music and recitations was presented. Joseph Barrett, the comic vocalist, entertained the audience and Miss Jennie Smith played on the piano. There were several speeches by members of the club. Next week a programme of unusual interest will be presented.

Case Too Weak to Prosecute.

The Polander, Brobaneski, appeared in the United States court at Trenton, yesterday, on the charge of violating the postal laws by opening letters that were not addressed to him. He was represented by Charles J. McNabb and S. S. Swackhamer, of this city. The case was so weak that the indictment was quashed and Brobaneski released. He has now returned to his home in Dog Corners after being absent from there for several months, a portion of which time he was in hiding from the U. S. marshals.

Pleasantly Surprised.

A pleasant surprise party was given to Miss Jennie Coddington and Miss Sarah Thom, of Fanwood, last evening, by fifty of their friends. The evening was spent in dancing and also playing games.

—Trinity Commandery, K. T., will hold a special drill this evening in preparation for the visit of the Grand Officers on Monday night.

DANCE MEANS POOL TABLE.

SUCCESSFUL EVENT OF THE DRIVERS.

Washington Hall Crowded With Gay People Who Were Entertained in a Fine Manner.

The first ball of the drivers of the Plainfield fire department was held last evening in Washington Hall on West Second street, and it was in all respects a great success. The drivers of the department feel very grateful to their many friends who so liberally patronized them and thus helped them to secure the necessary amount of money to purchase a pool table for headquarters. There are many times when the boys appreciate something that will help them to pass the time in a wholesome and pleasant manner, and the pool table will fill that need. It will be used exclusively by those connected with the department.

At an early hour the merry dancers began to arrive and in a short time the large floor was crowded with people, and it was early in the morning when they departed for home.

The committee of arrangements consisted of Harry C. Bush, Fred Breem, George Feiring, James E. Baily. James H. Daly and Wm. Ross. The floor manager was Fred Breem and his assistants were Harry C. Bush and James E. Baily. The grand march at 9 o'clock was led by Fred Breem and James E. Baily. They made a fine appearance in their new suits and uniforms. The music was furnished by O'Reilly.

Behind the stand where soft drinks were served were George Feiring and Frank Hand, and they were both kept busy attending to the wants of the dancers. In the box office First Assistant Chief James Martin officiated.

A CLEVER READER.

Mrs. F. J. Smith Entertained Crescent Avenue Church Endeavorers.

A large audience and a very good programme were the most noticeable features of the sociable of the Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue church last evening, held in the chapel of the church. Unlike most sociables, admission was charged and a large sum was netted for the treasury.

Mrs. Frank J. Smith, wife of the organist of the church, was one of the principal entertainers. Her abilities as a reader are well known to Plainfield audiences and she lost nothing by her appearance last night. The applause was wildly enthusiastic and she was called upon for repeated encores. Her selections were of varied character and well chosen. She gave the scene in the Forest of Arden between Orlando and Rosalind from Shakespeare's "As You Like It." A very amusing little sketch about the experiences of one of the fair members of New York's "400" in a Broadway cable car found great favor. She also gave several selections with a musical accompaniment by Mr. Smith among which were James Whitcomb Riley's "That Old Sweetheart of Mine" and "The Low Backed Car."

A banjo duet, admirably executed by Fred G. Smith and Fred VanEps, was well enjoyed. There were also several banjo solos by Fred VanEps which were of equal excellence. Frank J. Smith acted as accompanist. The Misses Burnett gave selections on violian and piano that well pleased the audience. They, too, were encored.

At the conclusion of the programme the audience was invited by James Everett Kimball, who acted as master of ceremonies, to the parlors of the church, where coffee and cake were served and all enjoyed a pleasant social time.

WILL TRY TO DEFEAT BERGEN PLAN

Trolley Capitalists to Take Advantage of an Old Law.

The Elizabeth and Westfield Street Railway Company, which, as told in The Press on Wednesday, hopes to secure a franchise to build a trolley line from Elizabeth to Plainfield, has laid its plans to defeat the Frank Bergen scheme by taking advantage of a law passed by the Legislature in 1889. The law, which is a supplement to an act passed in 1886, providing for the incorporation and regulation of street railway companies, provides that "no street railway shall be constructed in the same street or highway in which a street railway may then be constructed, and operated within 1,000 feet of said railway, nor parallel thereto within less than two blocks thereof, for a distance greater than 200 feet, without the written consent of the company then operating said railway, except to cross the same."

The proposed route of the Elizabeth and Westfield road has been so laid out that it will be within 1,000 feet of the county road. The Westfield Township Committee will meet Friday night to act on the traction company's application for a franchise. Should the franchise be granted, and should the company at once build its road, it could effectually block the county ownership plan by refusing its consent to the building of the parallel line.

—A meeting of Miantonomoh Tribe of Red Men will be held this evening, when one paleface will be adopted.

Firemen Will Attend Church Service.

Engine Co., No. 2, held its regular business meeting in the department headquarters, on East Second street, last evening. A communication was received from Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., pastor of the Crescent Avenue church, inviting the company to attend a special firemen's service which is to be held shortly in his church. The invitation was accepted, and a reply was sent to the pastor stating that the company would attend the service on any date fixed by him. A vote of thanks was passed for those who aided the company in holding its Thanksgiving dinner. After the business of the meeting was disposed of an informal smoker was enjoyed. Speeches were made by several members and refreshments were served.

NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED IN UP-TO-DATE LAUNDRY WORK.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered, and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular. We will give you just exactly what you want, if we can find out what that is. Perhaps you believe that it is impossible to have your laundry well handled without irritation and annoyance to you. We are sure that you are mistaken. May we have an opportunity of demonstrating it?

LIFE TOO SLOW AT HOME.

TWO GIRLS IN THEIR TEENS RAN AWAY TO NEWARK.

Frieda Gaub and Bessie Trembath Were the Wanderers—The Former Brought Home Yesterday by Her Worried Parents.

The members of two families in this city have been kept in a state of the deepest anxiety and worriment, during the greater part of this week, over the sudden and unaccountable disappearance of two young girls.

Miss Frieda Gaub, a pretty girl, seventeen years of age, who lives with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jacob Gaub, at 169 Duer street, is one of the girls. The other is Miss Bessie Trembath, whose home is at 305 Orange street. Miss Trembath was eighteen on her last birthday.

The two girls have been fast friends for some time, and have spent most of their time in each other's company. On fair days they would go out walking together, and growing tired of that, would amuse themselves by building air castles for the future.

The parents of neither of the girls suspected that they were dissatisfied with their life, or were inclined to roam, and the surprise was all the greater when on Monday afternoon the two failed to return home at their accustomed time from their stroll upon the streets. The afternoon and the night passed with no news from the girls, and the parents began to fear that perhaps they had met with foul play. The police were notified, and every known means was employed to learn of the whereabouts of the wanderers.

Not until Wednesday was the mystery of the girls' disappearance solved. On that day a lady in this city who is a friend of the Gaub family received a letter from Frieda. It was postmarked in Newark, and stated that the girls were in that city and were having "a good time." The letter said nothing about any desire on the part of the girls to return home. They had engaged a room in a boarding house on Bleach street, and were apparently determined to remain there. The letter was shown to the parents of both girls and relieved their anxiety somewhat.

The trouble was now only partly past, however, for to several letters which were written asking that they return home the girls turned a deaf ear.

It was very nice on Market street; life in Plainfield was all too slow; they would never go back again.

The parents waited patiently, thinking each day would witness the return of the girls. Yesterday morning, when no sign of their return had been received, a friend of the Gaub family went to Newark and after a search found the girls in a small room of one of the cheap boarding houses on Bleach street. The Gaub girl was unwilling at first to return to this city, but after considerable coaxing she consented, and was brought home late in the afternoon.

Miss Trembath would not return, but remained in Newark, occupying the room which the two girls had hired together.

PROTECTION OF BIRDS.

A Meeting Looking to the Organization of the Audubon Society.

All bird lovers are invited to attend a lecture on "Birds and their protection," by Prof. F. M. Chapman of the American Museum of Natural History in Central Park, to be given in the Crescent Avenue chapel, Monday at 8 p. m.

Mr. Chapman is the author of the best bird books and an interesting lecturer, and all who attend may be assured of an enjoyable evening.

In connection with the lecture it is proposed to complete the organization of an Audubon Society for the State of New Jersey.

The aim of the Society is to cultivate and extend a love for nature, and to arouse public sentiment in favor of the protection of birds. Every one whose eyes delight in the sight of a bird, or whose heart is gladdened by its note, should be interested in such a society.

The lecture is free to all.

Mrs. Pierson Reads a Paper on Holland.

Mrs. Israel C. Pierson, of Watchung avenue, read a paper on the "The Topography of Holland—Dikes—the Building of a City" before the Friday Afternoon Club, of North Plainfield, at the residence of Mrs. W. W. Howland, of Rockview avenue. This paper was prepared by Mrs. Pierson in the course of study prescribed by the Monday Afternoon Club, and was read before the club in October. It is one of unusual interest and rare merit. Several musical selections from the Symphony added to the pleasure of Mrs. Howland's guests.

—A meeting of the Plainfield Catholic Club will be held tomorrow afternoon.

HOW TO VOTE NO LICENSE.

ERASE THE PROPOSITION ON BALLOT.

Rev. A. H. Lewis, in Behalf of the Ministers' Association, Makes an Explanation.

On the first of November, 1897, the Common Council of Plainfield made the following record:

"Resolved, that it is deirable to obtain the sense of the voters of Plainfield at the ensuing charter election, whether they are in favor of continuing the system of license to regulate and control the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors, or in favor of Prohibition; and to that end;

"Resolved, That the City Clerk be directed to print upon each official ballot at such election beneath the list of candidates thereon, the following, viz:

For the proposition on this ballot which is not cancelled with ink or peecil, and AGAINST the proposition which is so cancelled.

"THE PROPOSITION.

"Let the Common Council continue to license the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors."

If you desire to vote against the present system, erase with pen or pencil these words, namely "Let the Common Council continue to license the sale of spirituous and fermented liquors," so that it will appear thus.

This advice is given to the friends of no license in order that the will of each voter may be fully expressed, and also that there may be no informality on which to base doubt in the minds of the inspectors of election.

In behalf of the Ministers' Association. A. H. Lewis, Committee.

A NEW BUSINESS BLOCK.

Woolston & Buckle Preparing to Erect One on North Avenue.

Woolston & Buckle are planning to erect a new brick building on North avenue next to their present building. The two wooden structures that occupy part of the space will be torn down and a handsome brick building, with three stores on the first floor and flats above, will be erected. The plans are out and contractors and builders are figuring on them.

Y. M. C. A. Notes.

The board of directors of the Young Men's Christian Association held its monthly meeting in the association building Thursday evening. The committee on religious work reported an average attendance of 174 at the Sunday afternoon meetings, which is the largest in the history of the association. Reports were also received from the three weekly Bible classes held in the building. Interesting facts concerning the month's work were also reported by the educational committee, the committee on rooms, Physical Director Heywood, General Secretary Manning and Assistant Secretary Davis. Donald McColl, the new State Secretary, was present and made a few complimentary remarks upon the manner of conducting the business in the association.

Workman Elect Officers.

The election of officers was the most important business transacted at the meeting of Columbia Lodge, A. O. U. W., last evening. It resulted as follows:—Past master workman, Garret T. Dunham; master workman, Henry Nitschwitz; foreman, C. C. Dunham; overseer, Warren N. Townley; guide, Peter A. Van Fleet; reporter, Vincent W. Nash; receiver, Henry Leifke; financier, E. M. Laing; trustees for three years, W. A. Woodruff; representatives to the Grand Lodge, G. T. Dunham and J. W. A. Bauersachs; alternates, W. A. Woodruff and E. M. Laing. Preparations were made for the reception of the grand officers at the next meeting on December 17th.

A Children's Party for Her Son.

Yesterday afternoon between the hours of 3 and 6 o'clock Mrs. Marion S. Ackerman, of Crescent avenue, gave a children's party at her home for her son Marion, Jr. A large number of friends were invited and the afternoon was delightfully spent in playing games of all sorts. A sumptuous repast was served during the festive occasion.

An Old Timer to the Fore.

At an early date the play of "Ten Nights in a Barroom," will be presented in this city for the benefit of the Mt. Olive Baptist church. It has not yet been decided where to give the performance, but the persons in charge are considering the advisability of holding the entertainment in Washington Hall on West Second street.

Lion on Exhibition.

The large lion, "Wallacker," which is used by Henry E. Dixey in his performances, is on exhibition today in the windows of the Bard Cycle Company's store on North avenue. The animal has a remarkable intelligent face and conducts himself nicely in the light cage in which he is confinsd.

SHORTEST ON RECORD.

BOROUGH COUNCIL IN SESSION ONLY HALF AN HOUR.

Owing to the Absence of Certain Officials the Delinquent Tax Matter Was Not Considered—Other Business Transacted.

The regular December meeting of the Borough Council held last evening was the shortest one on record. It did not require more than a half hour to transact all the business of the meeting. Owing to the fact that the Borough Counsel and Councilman Rogers were away, the business pertaining to the delinquent tax list was not brought up for consideration, and only routine matters were attended to.

The first matter introduced was the report of Chairman Woolston of the streets and public health committee. He stated that $271.89 had been expended during the month of November on the streets of the borough, some of which have been thoroughly cleaned for the winter. Mr. MacLoughlin reported that the additional electric lights ordered by the Council at the last meeting had been located, and some changes had been made with other lights. A resolution offered by Mr. Woolston provided for the drafting of a warrant to the amount of $1,556.50 to meet a $1,500 note soon due which is charged to the road account.

Several resolutions were offered by Mr. MacLoughlin as follows: That a warrant be drawn for $665 to meet a fire department bond note now due and to pay the interest on seven other similar bonds which are held by the City National Bank; that another warrant be drawn for $1,037.30 to meet a fire department note of $1,000; that the fire, water and lamps committee be authorized to employ Frank Perry as janitor for the West End Hose Company at a salary af $25 a year; that an electric light be located on Whitewood avenue, between Mountain avenue and Regent street; that an electric light be placed in the borough lockup. All of the above resolutions were adopted, as was also a resolution offered by Mr. Schutt that a warrant be drawn for $1,556.50 to meet a note for $1,500 charged to the borough account.

The monthly report of Clerk Arnold was as follows: Borough, balance, $3,058.29; light, $1,408.05; road, deficit, $380.60; fire department, balance, $90.11; poor, deficit, $580.93; total balance, $3,594.02; cash balance, $1,004.18; total deficit, $961.53. The clerk also reported the collection of $25.25 from fines, etc. Collector Spencer presented the following report of township duplicate monies: 1888, $214.57; 1889, $155.96; 1890, $116.36; 1891, $178.01; 1892, $296.06. The following collections were reported for the borough: 1895, $866.90; 1896, $251.54; 1897, $4,069.31. This concluded the business and the meeting adjourned. Mayor Wilson and Councilmen Schutt, Burtis and MacLoughlin remained to talk over some private matters in connection with the borcugh government.

A LOCAL SPEEDWAY.

The Present One is Not Satisfactory to the Owners of Fast Horses.

With the arrival of the snow, the local horsemen are discussing the location of their speedway for the winter. For the last few years, the Common Council has set aside North avenue from Leland avenue to Richmond street as a speedway but the place has not found favor with the owners of fast horses and it was a speedway in name only. There has been during the sleighing of last winter, considerable speeding of fast horses on East Front street and Park avenue, despite the prohibition of it by the police authorities. Of course, the city authorities have no jourisdiction on Park avenue beyond the woods that mark the city line but all drivers did not remember to pull up at the right place.

This winter, there is considerable talk about petitioning the Council to allow the speeding on Park avenue beyond Ninth street as it is by far the widest street and is smooth and in good condition. The borough will have its speedway in Mountain avenue, which seems particularly adopted for one. If the city horsemen have no place to go in the city limits that suits them, they will probably flock in large numbers to the borough's speedway.

Young Old People.

Mr. and Mrs. P. M. Demarest, of Craig place, were married on Friday, December 31, 1847, just fifty years ago. In honor of the event they will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on the last day of thia year, which also comes on Friday. Those fortunate enongh to receive an invitation will spend a delightful event with these "young" people.

—There will be a dance at the Pierce Cycle Academy this evening.

CHANGED THEIR TITLE.

GIBSON PICTURE EXHIBIT MANAGERS WERE IN A QUANDARY.

They Were Fearful of Prosecution Under a Copyright Law and at the Last Moment Gave the Tableaux New Descriptions.

An unexpected difficulty presented itself to the managers of the exhibition of Gibson pictures a short while before the time for them to be shown in the Park Club last night. The pictures and their titles had all been arranged and announcement had been made to the public, when someone suggested that the drawings and their titles were covered by copyright, and to use either would place the managers in a position where they would be compelled to pay someone heavy damages. All interested in the production of the pictures were puzzled for a time, until it was suggested to get around the difficulty by changing the titles. This was accordingly done, and the pictures were exhibited as arranged.

There were eleven pictures in the series. Their titles and the persons taking part in the representations were: "Their Presence of Mind," by Miss Frances Phillips, Orville Waring and Harry Curtis; "Close Quarters," Miss Edith Clapp, George Dupee and Edward C. Perkins; "His Fortune," Miss Daisy Elsberg and William Townsend; "The Wrong End of the Sofa," Miss Frances Phillips, Gustavus Faber and Henry R. Phillips; "The Wrong Diagnosis," Miss Dora Waring, George F. Edwards and Douglas Waring; "Two's Company, Three's Trumpery," Miss Daisy Elsberg, Morgan Townsend and Peter Matthews; "A Good Game for Two," Miss Alice Sprowl and Albert Sprowl; "The Greatest Exercise on Earth," Miss Helen Phillips and Harry Curtis; "The Lord of Creation," the Misses Annie Hasbrouck, Helen Hasbrouck, Iola Moore, Marian Henderson, and William Smith; "Creation Without a Lord," the Misses Alice Thompson, Iola, Moore, Virginia Hegeman and Helen Phillips; "A Difference of Fifty Years," the Misses Alice Thompson and Elizabeth Curtis.

The title of each was announced by E. C. Perkins.

The programme was varied by piano selections by Miss Helen Hasbrouck; vocal solos by Miss Adelaide Elsberg and Wm. Holmes, accompanied by Miss Hasbrouck, and two vocal selections by a male quartette, consisting of E. A. Sprowl, Wm. Smith, Wm. Holmes and Mr. Abbott. The musical programme was of excellent quality throughout.

At the close of the entertainment dancing was enjoyed and those present were served with candy and light refreshments by a committee of young ladies, consisting of the Misses Brock, the Misses Ardsley and Miss Mooney. The general committee were Mrs. Henry R Phillips, Miss Edith Clapp and Miss Helen Phillips, and the patronesses were Mrs. Charles Matthews, Mrs. George P. Dupee, Mrs. Samuel Townsend and Mrs. E. C. Perkins.

The affair reflected much credit on the Guild of the Church of the Redeemer, under whose auspices it was given.

AN ENTERTAINMENT PLANNED.

High School Boys to Give One for Benefit of Athletic Association.

The Plainfield High School Athletic Association held an adjourned meeting, yesterday afternoon. The treasurer's report showed a balance of one cent. Henry W. Brower, William A. Fisher and Elwood Davis were appointed a committee to prepare a High School yell. William A. DeLong, Jr., Rhey T. Snodgrass and Arthur W. Lederer were appointed a committee to formulate plans for an entertainment for the benefit of the association, to be held this winter.

Social Gathering of Juniors.

The monthly social gathering of the members of the Junior League of the First M. E. church was held in Vincent chapel yesterday afternoon, and despite the unpropitious weather, the attendance was large. An informal programme was rendered during the meeting as follows: Piano solo, Florence Symons; reading, Nellie Apgar; recitation, Edna Kennedy; recitation, Ella Barber; piano solo, Florence Symons. After the programme light refreshments were served. The refreshment committee consisted of Lottie Montrose, Ella Barber, Grace Woolston, Nellie Apgar, and Florence Williams. The literary committee consisted of Mabel Smith, Florence Symons, Lillian Hope, Lucy Jennings, Eva Webster.

All Had a Good Time.

Miss Caroline Thompson was given a pleasant sheet and pillow case surprise party at her home, 241 East Fourth street, last Thursday. The affair was gotten up by her friends Miss Petra Stuhr and Miss Hanna Reichberg, of Hillside avenue.

WINTER WEATHER IS HERE.

THE MORNING A DISAGREEABLE ONE.

A Misty Atmosphere and Slippery Sidewalks Makes it Unpleasant Out-of-Doors.

A bleak, leaden sky above and a thin, slippery coat of ice made the morning a disagreeable one. Winter with all its pleasures and hardships is here and is manifesting itself at once. Yesterday morning the storm began and it has continued ever since with little hope of clearing until tonight. For several days the weather bureau has been prophesying that a snowstorm was at hand and yesterday morning it began. The snow came in fine flakes and made little showing on the ground. In the afternoon the rain alternated with the snow and the sidewalks, streets and everything, in fact, became covered with a thin coating of slush that was soon converted into ice by the falling temperature.

The chilling mist that fell most of last evening was unpleasant enough in itself, but those who ventured out found the sidewalks covered with a thin coating of ice that made traveling on foot bad, indeed. Many took to the centre of the streets, while those that remained on the sidewalks slid and slipped about to the danger of their necks.

This morning the thermometer had risen slightly, but the leaden sky had not changed and the ice was still there. Hurrying commuters tumbled along to the station. Many took to the roadway and left the treacherous sidewalks to a few. Some of the business men and the railroad company scattered ashes or sand on the slippery walks.

In the business section of the city the streets were nearly as slippery as the sidewalks and the horses found it difficult to start, or stop when once started.

Realty Changes.

The following property transfers, as published in the New Jersey Contractor and Gazette, were recorded in the County Clerk's office for the week ending December 2d: L. B. Woolston to Anna M. Hanigan, lot, Sandford avenue, $6,500; Anna M. Hanigan to L. B. Woolston, lot, North avenue, $1,300; E. M. French to Kate Kelly, lot, "Map of E. M. French," $1; J. T. Vail to D. S. Vail, lot, southerly side of Sixth street, $1; J. T. Vail to D. S. Vail, lot, southerly side of LaGrande avenue, $1; J. F. McIntyre to James McGee, lot, Kensington avenue, $1; James McGee to J. F. McIntyre, three tracts northwest side North avenue, $1; C. H. Hand to Alex. G. Martin, lot northwesterly side of East Sixth street, $2,000.

The Mass-Meeting.

A mass-meeting to consider the resolution of the Common Council with reference to the sale of liquors will be held in Music Hall tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. Short addresses may be expected from A. M. Powell, Dr. A. H. Lewis, Rev. E. M. Rodman and perhaps one or two others, with singing by a male quartette. All who love their fellowmen and all who are interested in the welfare of the city are urged to attend, and if they bring others they also are invited.

Reports of an Active Society.

The monthly business meeting of the Epworth League of the First M.E. church was held last evening at Vincent chapel. The attendance was large, despite the storm. The reports of the different committees were received and showed that the members had not been idle during the fall. A social time followed. In a contest to guess the number of beans in a bottle, Alvah Davis won first prize, a bottle of "fudge."

Funeral of Dr. Thompson.

Mr. and Mrs. Horsley Barker, of Grove street, attended the funeral of Dr. Lockwood Thompson, of Brooklyn, which was held in Cranford, yesterday afternoon. The attendance was very large, and Rector Edgecomb, of the Cranford Episcopal church, officiated. The deceased was a retired denist, and had come to Cranford for his health.

Choose Their Officers.

A meeting of the Kappa Delta Phi of the Plainfield High School was held yesterday afternoon. The programme consisted of a debate. William A. DeLong, Jr., was elected president and Rhey T. Snodgrass was elected vice-president to fill a vacancy.

The License Question Paramount.

The Plainfield Debating Club will hold their first meeting next Tuesday at the law office of Murphy & Blatz. The question to be debated is "Whether license or no license is advantageous." There will be five debaters on each side.

—There will be a special meeting of the official board of Grace M. E. church tomorrow after the morning service. Important business is to be transacted.

TRAINS HURT AND KILL.

TWO SERIOUS ACCIDENNS ON THE CENTRAL RAILROAD LAST NIGHT.

A Westfield Flagman Found in the Ditch With His Head Cut—An Elizabeth Man Struck by the Royal Blue Line Flyer.

Patrick Brodie, a young Irishman who has just received the appointment as night watchman at the Central avenue railroad crossing at Westfield, was found lying beside the tracks at the Westfield avenue bridge last night, badly injured. He was taken to the Westfield station and Dr. R. R. Sinclair was summoned. The man was unconscious and could give no account of how the injury was received. The physician's examination showed severe cuts and contusions about the head and on the back. It is thought that Bradie was on his way to take charge of his gate when a coal train appeared and he failed to step far enough from the track and was struck. There was no improvement in the man's condition this morning and he was removed to the Elizabeth General Hospital. It is thought that he has received internal injuries.

Shortly before 7 o'clock last evening, F. W. Hoffman, aged 53 years, of 358 Schiller street, Elizabeth, was struck by a Royal Blue Line train in that city and almost instantly killed. He wanted to cross the railroad tracks of the Central, and when he found the crossing gates down, he could not wait till until they were raised. Before he realized his danger, he was struck by the train which reaches this city at 7:29. He was found on the tracks in a dying condition. His skull was terribly crushed. He died very soon after he reached his home.

Funeral of Miss Townsend.

The funeral services of Miss Sarah Townsend, who died suddenly last Saturday, were held Tuesday afternoon at her late home, the residence of her brother-in-law, Joel D. Manning, at Plainfield. Miss Townsend was the daughter of Richard Townsend and Harriet Covert Boice. She was born on the old Townsend homestead in New Market. The family afterwards moved to New York. She was a graduate of the Art School at the Cooper Institute. For a number of years she had a studio in New York, and afterwards taught oil painting in the Albany Female Academy. A large collection of pictures testify to her industry and skill, her specialty being portrait painting. She is survived by her brother, David Townsend, of Bound Brook, and her sister, Mrs. Joel D. Manning, of Plainfield.—Bound Brook Chronicle.

Drove Into a Trolley Car.

An intoxicated Bound Brook hay carter drove pell-mell into trolley car No. 11 on West Fourth street, opposite "Battle Row," last night. The vestibule of the street car was somewhat damaged. Gus Kohler was the motorman, but was not injured. The car was standing still, or the result might have been far more serious.

Small Boys in Trouble.

Three small boys named Monroe Squires, Edmund Duck and Ephraim Saums were brought before City Judge DeMeza this morning, charged with throwing stones at trains on the Jersey Central railroad. Their case was laid over to next Saturday for investigation.

Said He Called Bad Names.

David White appeared before City Judge DeMeza this morning charged with offering some offending remarks to John Sullivan about Mrs. Mary VanNest at a hall on West Second street. He was held in $100 bonds for trial next Saturday morning.

Was Disorderly.

Lewis Peterson, a colored man who was arrested on Park avenue several days ago for being disorderly, was arraigned before City Judge DeMeza, this morning. His case was adjourned for a week.

His First Sermon.

Rev. W. Montgomery Downey, the new rector of the Church of the Redeemer, will preach his first sermon tomorrow.

—Additional locals on third page.

MAY DELAY CONGRESS

Formalities of Opening Require the President's Presence.

THE MESSAGE IS COMPLETE

But Cannot Go to Congress Until the President Returns—Official Document Has Not Received the Chief Executive's Signature.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The departure of President McKinley for Canton on the eve of the assembling of Congress may cause a postponement of the transmission of his first annual message to that body. The document is complete and in type, and the President carried with him final revised proofs, but the official copies which are to go to the Senate and House have not received his signature. His presence in Washington is absolutely essential to the execution of the regular programme at the opening of Congress.

Of course everything will depend upon the condition of "Mother" McKinley. If she lingers over Sunday, or if the end comes before that time the President will come back to Washington, according to his plans.

The law requires that immediately after Congress assembles it shall notify the President in person that it is organized and ready to receive any message from him. In accordance with this, a committee is appointed to notify the Executive that Congress is ready to begin work, and this committee visits the White House, sees the President and carries back to Congress his answer that he will commmunicate in writing. If the President is not at the White House on Monday when this committee calls Congress will have to take a recess or adjournment.

The President, even in his sorrow and anxiety, thought of all this, and therefore told every one before he left that he would use every effort to be back on Monday, if only for a few hours. Under the circumstances, should the worst come, Congress and the people would fully understand the President's position, and arrangements could be made for a recess until he could return to his work. No plans can be made at the White House under those circumstances, and all that can be done is to wait.

Should Mr. McKinley, however, desire not to delay Congress, the written message, which is now at the White House, could be sent on to Canton for his signature and be transmitted to both Houses at the opening on Monday.

Should the mother of the President die, in all likelihood a complete change would be made in the Winter's social programme. Although it cannot be stated positively that the State and official functions would be abandoned, it is certain that all private social affairs contemplated at the White House would be canceled.

THORN SENTENCED TO DIE.

Will Be Put to Death in the Week Beginning Jan. 10.

New York, Dec. 4.—Martin Thorn was taken this morning to Sing Sing, where he is to be executed in the electric chair for the murder of William Guldensuppe, during the week beginning Jan. 10, 1897.

Thorn was sentenced yesterday morning in the Queens County Court to be put to death. The little barber received the sentence with his usual impassiveness, betraying not the slightest sign of emotion. He stood up and listened to a five-minute speech from the Justice without a tremor of the muscles, he answered the customary questions with a firm and distinct voice, and after it was all over he signed his name to an affidavit in connection with appeal proceedings with a hand that didn't shake. It was one of the most remarkable exhibitions of nerve ever seen on the part of a condemned prisoner.

Justice Maddox pronounced the sentence as follows:

"Thorn, you were indicted and convicted for a most atrocious crime, the killing of William Guldensuppe. You had a fair and impartial trial, and your astute counsel took advantage of every point that was fair, and they defended you in a most able manner. The evidence justified the verdict. The law says the crime of which you have been convicted is punishable by death, and it is a very unpleasant duty for me to perform. I must perform that duty to sustain the law. You are to be taken from whence you were brought, and from there taken to the State Prison at Sing Sing, and there to be confined until the week beginning Jan. 10, 1897, and then executed according to law."

Thorn looked squarely at the Judge as he heard the fatal words consigning him to the electric chair. Justice Maddox seemed to be more visibly affected than the prisoner. In passing sentence the Court omitted to say "May God have mercy upon your soul."

Soon after noon court adjourned sine die. This means that Mrs. Nack's case cannot be taken up before the January term of the Supreme Court.

Plans for Wire Trust.

Pittsburg, Dec. 4.—The details of the proposed wire trust have been published. The facts are gathered, it is asserted, from a trustworthy source, and are vouched for by persons interested in the deal. The trust will have a capital of $50,000,000, and is backed by J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., of New York. It will take in every wire, wire-rod and wire-nail plant in the United States, and, besides these, two ore supply and three steel plants will be included in the deal. Appraisers now are at work fixing the value of the different plants which are to be bought up, and they are expected to get through with their work by February, when the consolidation of the interests will probably be effected.

Full Attendance in Both Houses.

Washington, Dec. 4.—A large number of Congressional arrivals is expected to-day and to-morrow. When the two Houses meet Monday there will be a very full attendance in both houses, according to indications.

Hanna Still Sick.

Cleveland, Dec. 4.—Senator Hanna will not leave for Washington before to-morrow. His condition this morning is slightly improved, although he is still quite sick.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

An Increase in Wages and in Railroad Earnings Mark the Month.

New York, Dec. 4.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade says: "The monthly report of failures shows defaulted liabilities of $11,610,195 in November, against $12,700,856 last year. Because of three large failures for $3,250,000, not due to present conditions, the aggregate in November was only $1,100,000 less than last year, and except for these would have been smaller than in August, September or October. The decrease in nearly all branches of business shows that payments have been remarkably good and defaults unusually small. Other evidences of the state of business are convincing, except in speculative lines. Wages have been voluntarily advanced for nearly thirty thousand workers in woolens and iron. Stocks are somewhat stronger, having advanced $1.47 for railways and $1.57 for trusts. The true value of American railway stocks is steadily rising with earnings, which for November thus far are 20.9 per cent. larger than last year, and 3.7 per cent, in the same weeks of 1892.

The boot and shoe manufacture has shipped from Boston 108,429 cases, or over 35 per cent. more than in 1892 during the month of November.

The voluntary advance of 20 per cent. in wages of worsted workers at Providence, restoring the rates of 1893, is evidence of the prosperity of that manufacture. After much hesitation in other branches, which may be justified, this important department of the woolen industry puts itself at the front, virtually declaring its ability to face any foreign competition.

The wheat market has deceived everybody, dropping in the face of an enormous foreign demand just when some advance might reasonably have been anticipated. But in the long run the outward movement will affect prices, although the surprisingly large increase at the West indicates a considerably greater yield than has been anticipated. So the enormous receipts of cotton from plantations, exceeding those to date from the great crop of about ten million bales in 1894, tends to check all speculation, although both foreign and domestic demands for spinners have been materially restricted.

Nothing appears to indicate any probable stringency in the money market, and the demand for commercial loans is still remarkably light, with receipts from the interior exceeding shipments by over two million dollars. The heavy excess is largely due to extremely favorable collections in all parts of the country, and also to shipments rather to meet the very heavy disbursements on railway and other accounts about Jan. 1. Failures for the week have been 306 in the United States, against 379 last year, and twenty-eight in Canada, against fifty-five last year.

DURRANT'S LAST CHANCE GONE

Conclusive Proof that Blanther Did Not Murder Blanche Lamont.

Atlanta, Ga., Dec. 4.—Joseph E. Blanther, better known as Arthur D. Forbes, who was manager and proprietor of the Southern Purchasing Agency of Atlanta, and who recently committed suicide in a county jail in Texas, was in Atlanta on the day when the murder of Miss Blanche Lamont and Miss Minnie Williams occurred in San Francisco. The statement is made by persons in Atlanta who knew Forbes well and who had business dealings with him, and to support their statements the books and records which were in Forbes' office here have been consulted, and it is shown that between April 1 and April 14, 1895, the time of the two murders in San Francisco, Forbes was there and doing business with Kelly Bros. & Co., and other firms.

If these statements be true, and there appears no reason to doubt the proofs submitted, Forbes, alias Blanther, could not have possibly been the murderer of the young girls, and the declaration made in a written confession admitting that he killed the young women, is false.

Mrs. Blanther, the widow of the suicide, has been exerting every energy and effort to show that her husband was the real murderer, and that Theodore Durrant, now under sentence of death for the crime, is an innocent man. Mrs. Blanther, who was deceived by her husband, is doubtless sincere in what she says, but her whole course of action is based upon the alleged written confession which, it is said, was found upon the person of Blanther when he committed suicide in the Texas jail.

SCROFULA

It is Foul Blood's Advertisement

But It is Soon Cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Yes, Scrofula, if anything, may be called the advertisement of foul blood. It is the scourge of the world—offensive, painful, debilitating, stubborn and well nigh unendurable.

Outward applications do not cure, they only drive the difficulty to new quarters. Emollients may palliate, they cannot abolish the evil. There is but one sure way out, and that is to eliminate the taint from the blood.

There is one remedy that can effect this, and it is the only one that, so far as we know, has almost invariably succeeded—even where the system has been poisoned by long years of taint, and the ravages to be repaired are tremendous. That remedy is Hood's Sarsaparilla. Read this:

"My daughter was afflicted with impure blood. There were running sores all over her body and they caused her much suffering. We tried medicines that were recommended as blood purifiers, but could not see that they did any good. A friend told me about Hood's Sarsaparilla and I began giving the girl this medicine. The result was that she was perfectly cured after taking a few bottles. She has had no symptoms of scrofula sores since that time." MARIETTA M. SMITH, South Middleboro, Mass.

Hood's Sarsaparilla

Is the best—in fact the One True Blood Purifier. Insist upon HOOD'S; take no substitute.

Hood's Pills act harmoniously with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Blood Vitality.
Dr. Campbell Succeeds in Restoring Iron to the Blood in its Natural Form thus Increasing the Supply of Oxygen and Curing Disease—A Marvelous Process.
Modern science teaches us that the blood is the vehicle by which the nutriment of the food is taken from the stomach and carried throughout the entire system.
While it is being carried by the blood, it becomes oxidized and is thus converted into a form that can be taken up by the tissues.
If this nutriment was not oxidized it would filter through the kidneys as really occurs in Bright's disease, and no benefit would be derived from it. Oxygen is absolutely essential to this process. Its existence in turn is dependent upon the iron or Hæmoglobin in the blood without which anæmia would result, and no benefit whatever would be derived from the food.
Physicians long ago recognized that to discover a method of renewing this Hæmoglobin would be to discover the true method of curing disease.
Little advance was made until Dr. Campbell, an eminent English physician, learned that the component parts of the blood of the bullock were identical with human blood and sought to extract from it the natural iron or Hæmoglobin.
Success crowned his efforts, and for the first time man has it in his power to renew at will the vital element in his own blood.
Dr. Campbell enclosed the fruit of his labor in small, pointed globes of pure gelatine called Capsuloids, with which the most remarkable results have been obtained in the hospitals of London and elsewhere in curing all diseases of the blood; rheumatism, paralysis, locomotor ataxia, nervous prostration and St. Vitus' dance.
Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York City.

The Surprise of All.

Mr. James Jones, of the drug firm of Jones & Son, Cowden, Ill., in speaking of Dr. King's New Discovery, says that last winter his wife was attacked with LaGrippe, and her case grew so serious that physicians at Cowden and Pana could do nothing for her. It seemed to develop into Hasty Consumption. Having Dr. King's New Discovery in store and selling lots of it, he took a bottle home and to the surprise of all she began to get better from first dose, and half dozen dollar bottles cured her sound and well. Dr King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is guaranteed to do this good work. Try it. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olagah, Ind. Ter. Chief. This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and la grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

MRS. M'KINLEY DYING.

President's Mother Cannot Long Survive—Family at Her Bedside.

Canton, Ohio, Dec. 4.—This morning Mrs. Nancy Allison McKinley was reported to be growing much weaker, and her death is momentarily expected. All her children—President McKinley, Abner McKinley, Mrs. Duncan and Miss Helen McKinley—are at her bedside awaiting the end. The venerable lady is perceptibly losing her frail hold on life. Her breathing is so light and irregular that the attendants can scarcely detect it.

Canton, Ohio, Dec. 4.—The train bearing the President arrived here at 8.55 yesterday morning. Upon his arrival at the house the President entered the sick-room and knelt by the bedside. His mother was still unconscious. The little family group was complete. All that now remained was to wait for death and to hope that before it came the mother would be able once more to recognize her loving children.

President McKinley believes that his mother recognized him as he knelt at her bedside. His sister Helen announced his arrival by saying, "Here, mother, is William; if you recognize him hold up your hand."

She did so slightly. The President grasped her hand fondly and says he seemed to feel a slight pressure from the mother's effort to return his greeting, but the pressure was almost imperceptible and was possibly imaginary.

Dr. Phillips, in speaking of the patient, said: "There is no great change in her condition. She is gradually sinking away, and the end may come in a few hours. It is barely possible that she may survive several days."

According to the present arrangement, the President will return to Washington this afternoon, leaving Canton at about 2 o'clock. If some sudden change should occur, however, he will remain here until the end.

In case of his mother's death before this evening, the President will remain here until after the funeral.

Canton, Ohio, Dec. 4.—President McKinley will be in Washington for the opening of Congress on next Monday, whatever may be the issue of his mother's illness. It is necessary for the President to be at the Capitol in person for the opening of a session of Congress to receive the joint committee from the two Houses, and until this committee has waited upon the President and received his communication the regular business of Congress cannot go on.

Mother McKinley is unconscious and the attending physician can give the family no hope that she will ever return to consciousness. The President can do absolutely nothing for her by remaining here.

In view of these facts the President feels that it is his duty to return to Washington, so as to not delay the proper opening of Congress at the regular time. He has arranged to leave Canton at 2 o'clock this afternoon in the special car provided for him, attached to the regular Pennsylvania train which reaches Washington tomorrow morning. Assistant Secretary of State Day, who accompanied the President from Washington, expects to return to Canton early next week.

SIX MEN BADLY BURNED.

Covered with Boiling Sugar in a Candy Factory.

New York, Dec. 4.—By the explosion of a coil of steam piping that fed an immense copper boiler filled with sugar, on the top floor of Auerbach's candy factory, 335 and 338 West Thirty-ninth street, yesterday, six men were seriously injured and a number of others more or less scalded and bruised.

All were frightfully scalded about the face, neck, head, arms and body. Their clothing was torn off them by the force of the explosion. It is feared that some of the men will lose their eyesight and perhaps their lives. They were the only persons injured. The damage by the explosion will be easily five thousand dollars.

The noise of the explosion startled the 150 employes in the big five-story building, fifty of whom were girls. They poured out of the doors a human torrent that swept down the narrow stairs unchecked by the falls of the weaker ones. Girls fell and were trampled under foot. Men and boys fought desperately to crush their way through the struggling throng.

That no one was killed or seriously injured in that headlong rush is almost miraculous. Fortunately all escaped without more serious injuries than bad bruises.

Railroads Get Time.

Washington, Dec. 4.—The hearing given by the Inter-State Commerce Commission on the question of extending the time within which the railroads of the country may comply with the provisions of the car-coupler and train-brake act was concluded yesterday afternoon.

The commission intends to take some supplementary testimony under oath before coming to a decision. There seems to be no doubt whatever that an extension will be granted and that the extension will be general in its character, the hearing having demonstrated that any discrimination would fall as heavily on roads which have complied with the law as on those which have thus far disregarded it.

Reed in Washington.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Speaker Reed arrived in the city yesterday afternoon and took up his old quarters at the Shoreham for the Winter. The Speaker said he did not care to express himself concerning any of the important questions which are likely to come before Congress at this session, more than to say that he saw no reason why the session should be protracted.

As soon as his presence in the city was known he had a flood of callers, many of his associates in the House as well as several Senators being among those who paid their respects.

Shot Down in the Street.

Philadelphia, Dec. 4.—George E. Haas, superintendent of the big factory of the S. S. White Dental Company, was fatally shot in the back twice while walking along the street yesterday afternoon by Alexis Herkoff, a Pole.

Medical College Burned.

Knoxville, Tenn., Dec. 4.—The Tennessee Medical College in this city was burned yesterday afternoon. The loss is estimated at $50,000.

THE FIGHT ON HAWAII

The Treaty to Be Vigorously Opposed in the Senate.

BOTH SIDES NOW AT WORK

Thirty Votes in the Upper House Would Defeat Annexation—Senator Allison Predicts a Contest Before the Vote Is Taken.

Washington, Dec. 4.—With the understanding among the leaders that there will be no immediate action on Cuba when Congress meets next week, attention is being called to the fight over Hawaii. Friends and foes of annexation are in the city, and a great deal of work is being done among Congressmen as they arrive.

The ex-Queen is still in Washington, at the Ebbitt House, and working against the treaty. She has been remarkably quiet, not even holding public receptions, as she did last Winter, but nevertheless doing a great deal of silent work. She finds she accomplishes more in this way. Ex-Minister Thurston, who is here to work for annexation, has his headquarters at the Arlington, and is very hopeful as to the outlook.

The opposition of Senator Pettigrew and one or two others who visited the island last Summer and the announcement that Representative Cannon is opposed to the treaty has made the anti-annexationists hopeful. It is evident that there will be a stubborn fight. The friends of the treaty realize this, and are preparing for it.

Senator Allison Talks.

Senator Allison says that Hawaii will be taken up before Cuba, that there will be determined opposition in the Senate to the treaty, and that it will come from men whose ability is not to be gainsaid. Continuing, he said:

"First of all, the Democrats as a party will be hostile. I noticed that in a recent interview Senator Jones, of Arkansas, was quoted as saying that the Democratic Senators would resist annexation. Senator White, of California, a very trenchant fighter, is already on record as opposed to annexation, and, according to the press dispatches, will go to extremes in his antagonism. Senator Morgan, who visited the island this Summer, is one Democrat openly friendly to the treaty. There are eighty-nine votes in the Senate, two-thirds of which will be necessary to ratify the treaty. Thirty votes would be able to defeat it. To the Democrats must be added Senator Pettigrew, who, I notice, has recently announced his antagonism. With Senator Pettigrew will likely be a number of Populist and silver Senators. There will be a fight before any vote is taken."

Kaiulani for Annexation.

Boston, Dec. 4.—Mail advices from Honolulu state the report is widely believed there that the friends and adherents of the Princess Kaiulani are to throw their influence in favor of annexation to the United States. As an evidence of this, the action of the Princess in calling upon President and Mrs. Dole to pay her respects, is pointed out.

NEARLY KILLED BY RATS.

Farmer Found Unconscious in a Trap He Had Built.

Coudersport, Pa., Dec. 4.—Robert Croak, a farmer, at Sharon Centre, was found unconscious in the loft of his granary yesterday, with a drove of rats literally eating him up. His terrier lay dead beside him. Cook's nose was chewed off, and his face, hands and neck were a mass of bloody wounds.

The men who found him were attracted to the granary loft by the terrible squealing of the rats. When the granary door was opened they escaped. Croak was soon revived sufficiently to tell his story.

He had arranged a large cage in the loft of the granery, in which to catch rats, but after fixing the trap he had forgotten it for nearly a week. Yesterday, on going to inspect it, he found the cage floor literally covered with rats. He put the terrier inside to battle with them, but the dog was soon overpowered by the half-starved rodents and was killed.

Armed with two clubs, Croak entered the cage himself, forgetting to set the spring lock on the outside of the door. The door closed and he was a prisoner among the rodents. The rats swarmed over him, and bit him wherever his body was exposed. He closed his eyes and fought right and left, but the awful odor in the cage overcame him and he fell unconscious.

A doctor who examined Croak says that unless blood poisoning follows he will recover. His head is so swollen that the physician is unable to say whether his eyesight is destroyed or not.

There were twenty dead rats on the cage floor. The men who rescued Croak declare there must have been 200 in the pack.

ALASKAN BOUNDARY QUESTION.

Canadian Minister Sifton Thinks the Matter Is a Very Grave One.

Ottawa, Ont., Dec. 4.—Clifford Sifton, Minister of the Interior, who has just returned from an extended trip to the Klondike, in speaking of the Alaskan boundary question, said:

"There are certain phases of the question which have to be looked into carefully, and Mr. King, our chief astronomer, went out with me for that purpose. As to whether there will be a commission on the question, appointed by the United States, I do not know. The subject is a very grave one."

Mr. Sifton will cause the mounted police force in the Yukon district to be increased, the present contingent not being sufficient to properly patrol the immense area covered by miners and prospectors.

Strike Still Unsettled.

London, Dec. 4.—It is reported that the delegates of the striking engineers, who have been conferring with the representatives of the employers, have been unable to accept the proposals of the latter and have decided to leave the conference and submit the points in dispute to the unions.

The conference between the delegates of the striking engineers and the representatives of the employers has been adjourned until Dec. 14.

THE CITIZENS' WORK.

Walter L. Hetfield, chairman of the Citizens' Committee of Forty, seems to think that The Press was in error yesterday in editorially commenting on what seemed to be a lack of activity on the part of those opposed to the regular Republicans. Mr. Hetfield assures us that the leaders of the movement are making every effort that seems practicable to win success for their candidates. The work, however, is being carried out in a quiet manner. It is believed that it will prove far more effective than to indulge in public demonstrations that might make noise and attract passing attention, but not induce consideration and result in convincing voters to support the ticket.

One of the most important political developments of the year in New Jersey is the jump that Governor Griggs has taken from State to National distinction in the report of his probable selection for United States Attorney-General by President McKinley, to succeed Judge McKenna, who is to go on the Supreme Court bench. A Washington correspondent says that it is practically assured that he will be appointed to the position Monday. While such a change is of the greatest importance to the State in general it has peculiar significance to Union county by reason of Foster Voorhees' residence here. The retirement of Mr. Griggs from the executive chair will leave the reins of the government in the hands of the president of the Senate, and there is but little doubt but what the Union county Senator will be honored with that position. From present indications it seems as though there is, in Senator Voorhees' case, a world of truth in the saying that "all things come to him who waits."

If the position taken by Messrs. Dumont and Ivins of the committee appointed to investigate and report upon the Bergen plan to improve Westfield avenue reflects the sentiment of the majority of the people of Plainfield, it should be known to the rest of the citizens of Union county, Plainfield is conservative, as was shown in its hesitancy to approve of of the county road system, but thus far the progressive citizens of that growing municipality have taken very little interest in the county ownership plan, and few of them have expressed an opinion. Plainfield is an important factor in this and all other county improvements, and its opinions are entitled to full consideration. If Plainfield fully understands the plan the probabilities are that Plainfield will strongly favor it.—Elizabeth Journal.

The Prohibition party in the metropolitan district is in a bad way numerically. The Prohibition candidate for Mayor of New York in that city polled 650 votes, and in the present city of Brooklyn, long regarded as strongly inclined to temperance and sobriety, 607 votes, a total in the two cities of 1,257. His contribution to the campaign expenses was $5,000, or at the rate of about $4 for each vote cast.

—A new house is being erected at the corner of West Front street and Mariners avenue. This makes five new houses being built in that locality at the present time.

It May Be

that the "cheap" worthless boxes that are offered by many dealers make you skeptical as to the real worth of those HONEST PIANOS we are offering at $178 cash or $198 on easy time payments. If you are, we ask you to look at these. They are thoroughly good Pianos that we know will give satisfaction. All colors of wood. All improvements. Exchanged if not satisfactory. Made by one of the best known manufacturers in the country.

The proof of their popularity is shown by the imitators they have called forth. Contrast them with the Pianos(?) you are offered at other stores at around the same price. An equally good Piano would cost $275 anywhere else.

WESTFIELD

VARIOUS BITS OF NEWS.

WESTFIELD HAPPENINGS SERVED UP TERSELY FOR THE PRESS.

Many People Go and Come in the Pretty Suburban Town—Items Interesting Because of Their Brevity

The Westfield Board of Health held a brief meeting last evening. Two cases of chicken pox were reported in the town, Dr. J. B. Harrison informed the Board that the public schools were in excellent sanitary condition, the owners of several houses were ordered to make sewer connections with their property, and a nuisance on the property of E. Francis, on Central avenue, was ordered abated.

At the meeting of the Westfield Township Committee, which was held last evening, the Elizabeth and Westfield Electric Railway Company made an application for a franchise covering the new route decided upon by the company. This new route, which has been fully described in the columbs of The Press, is one which will not encroach upon the county road at all, and it is therefore free from the objections which were entertained by tax payers against the route first asked for. The application for the new franchise was received and the committee appointed a public hearing on the matter to be held Tuesday, December 28th. A communication from W. H. Peddle, the general superintendent of the Central Railroad, informed the committee that its request to have night watchmen placed on duty at the two railroad crossings in Westfield, and the night men would be placed on duty at once. E. W. Chamberlain rendered his monthly report as supertendent of the sewers, stating that the system is in thorough order. John F. Dorvall complained to the committee of the bad condition of Hillside and Highland avenues and protested against repairs being made upon the road by private individuals. Bills to the amount of $1,675 were ordered paid and the township treasurer was authorized to renew a three months' note for $9,000 on sewer account.

PREMATURE GRAYNESS.

A tendency to early grayness may be hereditary, but as a rule an unhealthy condition of the scalp is responsible.

Hair turns gray when the glands have so far lost their vitality as to be unable to secrete the coloring matter. This condition is usually due to dandruff or some other scalp affection.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manuufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. SEVEN TIMES ONE.

There's no dew left on the daisies and clover
I've said my "seven times" over and over—
Seven times one are seven.

I am old, so old, I can write a letter,
My birthday lessons are done;
The lambs play always—they know no better
They are only one times one.

O moon! in the night I have seen you sailing
And shining, so round and low;
You were bright! ah, bright! but your light is failing—
You are nothing now but a bow.

You moon, have you done something wrong in heaven,
That God has hidden your face?
I hope, if you have, you will soon be forgiven
And shine again in your place.

O, velvet bee, you're a dusty fellow—
You've powdered your legs with gold!
O brave marsh marybuds, rich and yellow,
Give me your money to hold!

O columbine, open your folded wrapper,
Where two twin turtle doves dwell!
O cuckoo pint, tell me the purple clapper
That hangs in your clear green bell!

And show me the nest with your young ones in it;
I will not steal them away;
I am old, you may trust me, linnet, linnet—
I am seven times one to-day.

—Jean Ingelow.

A RUNAWAY TRAIN.

There have lately been turned out of the Southern Pacific Railroad shops at one of the big terminals of that road on the Pacific Coast four of the largest consolidated pattern engines in use, designed especially for mountain work, whose plans and specifications were drawn by probably the only lady expert mechanical engineer in America, if not in the world. How she attained her present position is one of the railroad legends of the road for which she works, but I believe the story has never been in print.

A number of years ago, about fifteen I believe, some lucky prospectors "located" mining claims away up in the almost inaccessible fortresses of one of the mountain ranges of the West, and the phenomenal riches of the lead amply repaid the heavy expenses of the "mule train" that was used to "pack" the output of the railroad. Eventually the prosperity of the first proprietors brought other adventurous spirits to the lucky spot and later a rich syndicate bought out all the smaller claims on the ledge and established there the great mills and smelters of the Calumet Mining and Smelting Company.

Then the Southern Pacific people awakened to the importance of the enterprise, and after a series of consultations with the syndicate, in the course of which a very handsome financial proposition was made by the miners, a branch road was surveyed up through the canons to the site of the now rapidly growing town. The difficulties were almost insurmountable, but at last the work was done and a very crooked and dangerous piece of track was the result. Its grades were precipitous in the extreme, its curves sharp to the last degree, and its road bed so narrow in some places that if a car became derailed it was either demolished against the rock wall on one side or went to the bottom of the gorge on the other there to lie and rot and rust away. Once over the cliff the cost of raising an ore car would almost pay for a new one, and the company seldom made any effort to recover the wreckage.

One point on the shore road had always been dreaded by the trainmen and this was the sharp curve at the approach to what was called the second crossing. It had been a prolific source of wrecks and the rocks below the bridge were strewn with the broken timbers and bent and twisted iron work of dozens of ore cars that had plunged over the sheer sides of the deep gorge. This second crossing bridge was at the foot of the heaviest grade and from there the road wound through the beautiful Silver Creek Valley to the "Junction," where it joined the main line of the Southern Pacific.

At the point where the level track commenced, hardly a stone's throw from the second crossing bridge, the company had built a short siding for the use of the giant consolidated engine that was used to push the long trains of ore cars up the mountain and just across the main track from the siding stood the little cottage where John Clarke, the engineer, and his daughter, Jessie, lived.

Miss Jessie at that time was nearly sixteen, and for the last three years had been her father's housekeeper. All her life she had been intimately associated with railroad men, and for the three years that her father had been running the big "pusher" she had had no other companion than a little brother, several years her junior.

All her spare time she spent with her father about the engine, and had made it an enthusiastic study until, at sixteen, she knew its mechanism about as thoroughly as did her gray-haired father; in fact, it was her boast that she could "run the consolidator as good as daddy."

A short time before the incident happened of which I am about to tell you a tourist delayed by a wreck at the bridge had spent the day at Clark's cottage. The little housekeeper had made the day very pleasant for him by piloting him about the valley, and on leaving he had given her a pair of powerful field glasses.

They were her dearest earthly possession, for with them she could see her father's engine as it crept down the mountain for nearly an hour before he would arrive at the siding.

The long stretches of road as it wound around the crags up the canon, now for a mile in sight, then disappearing among the rocks, only to reappear still further up the mountain, were always an interesting study for the girl and but for those field glasses the young lady's practical knowledge of railroading and her unparalleled nerve, the Southern Pacific would have had one wreck that would have cost many lives.

One August evening Miss Clarke was watching through the field glasses the effect of the sunlight on the brilliant quartz rock at the farthest point up the mountain, where the track could be seen from the valley and only a short distance from the big mills at the top of the hill. Her father and his fireman had gone to the junction for some supplies, and were to return on the "mail," now nearly due. Her little brother was "playing fireman," and with a big bunch of waste was rubbing up the bright work about the big engine. The twilight silence in the valley was only broken by the occasional hiss of escaping steam and the steady, monotonous "pound" of the air pump on the engine, which her father had forgotten to shut off before he left. She had just noticed it, and was about to go to the engine and shut off the steam when, as she took one last look, she was almost paralyzed by the sight of a long train of ore cars creeping around the curve. Two or three of the laborers at the mines were still on them, but hand brakes would never stop that heavy train, and as it slowly gained in speed, she saw them leave the train. Then she thought of the little passenger train that would be there in a few minutes and in another moment she was climbing into the cab of the big engine and telling her little brother what to do.

"Open the switch, Johnnie, and when I get down on the main track shut it and run down the track and flag number one. Tell dad I'm up the hill to catch a runaway."

Johnnie did as he was told and the powerful engine rolled out of the siding, across the bridge and was soon tearing up the hill at full speed toward the now rapidly approaching train.

As she left the siding her one thought had been to save the passenger train from an awful collision, but as she crossed the bridge she thought of a little story her father had lately told of how he had once caught a runaway train with his engine and had stopped it before it could do any awful danger. If "Daddy" could do it she could.

For nearly four miles up the hill the big engine fairly flew, then, as she reached a long stretch of straight track where the view was clear for nearly a mile, she shut off the steam and gradually the locomotive stopped.

Jessie looked up at the steam guage. The pointer indicated only 100 pounds pressure. Keeping a close watch on the track ahead, the intrepid girl left the throttle and, opening the fire-box door, replenished the fire. Just as the last scoopful of coal was thrown in and the door closed the runaway slot around the curve into view, and, starting the engine back, the girl watched closely for a chance to catch the now rapidly moving train.

Down the heavy grade went engine and cars, the distance between them rapidly growing shorter. On a little piece of straight track, a little over a mile from the dangerous bridge, Jessie decided to take the last desperate chance, and as the engine reached the desired point, only a few feet ahead of the flying ore cars, the girl gave the engine a light touch of the air-brake, and then, with mighty impact, the heavy train struck the engine, then the air-brake was sent to the "emergency notch," but so great was the speed of the train that even that did but little to slacken the speed, and that awful curve at the bridge was almost in sight.

Jessie almost lost her nerve as she thought of that deadly place. She knew the big engine would never round it at its present rate of speed.

Suddenly the escape valve of the engine opened with a mighty roar, telling her the powerful engine was straining and quivering under the pressure of nearly 200 pounds of steam, and then a favorite axiom of her father's, came to her mind: "If air won't hold 'em, give 'em steam."

One supreme effort of the strong young arms and the reverse lever of the black giant was thrown over, the sand pipes were opened, and with steady hand Jessie opened the throttle, throwing a mighty force against the heavy train.

Now the speed of the train materially decreased, but the big locomotive rolled and rocked like a ship at sea as she safely rounded the dangerous curve and shot out on the high bridge, and then came another shock for the sorely tried girl, for standing in front of the cottage, almost hidden by a dense cloud of black smoke, stood the little passenger train with its load of unsuspecting travellers.

Here again the girl's knowledge of railroad craft came to her, and she knew that no power on earth could stop that heavy train to avert a collision, but she could signal to them. A brown hand reached for the whistle cord, and in a second more the deep valley was resounding to the hoarse roar of the duplex whistle giving three loud blasts—the railroaders' signal: "Back up."

The signal was just in time; as the passenger train backed out of the way the big consolidator and its string of ore cars rolled heavily by, the train now under control, but still moving with sufficient force to have done considerable damage.

As the train passed the siding, Clarke and his fireman climbed on the cars and soon stopped them; and as Jessie jumped to the ground she almost alighted on a tall gray mustached old gentleman. He was Charles Archer, vice-president and general manager of the Southern Pacific, and a man who never failed to recognize and reward merit; and it was at his hands Miss Clarek received the education that fitted her for the position she now occupies and who placed the lady's name on the "merit roll" of the Southern Pacific Railroad at a salary of $1,500 per year, work or play, as long as she lives.—By A. M. Strong.

SEWARD'S RESCUER

MAJOR ROBINSON'S DETAILED ACCOUNT OF THE ATTACK

He Is Living in California and for Thirty Years He Has Avoided Interviewers About the Night of Terror—Consented at Last.

Major G. F. Robinson, the only person on the Pacific coast who has had a vote of thanks from Congress for a meritorious act, one of the very few persons who has had a gold medal given by Congress for bravery, and one of but two men who were ever promoted at once from private to major in the United States Army, lives quietly at Pomona, Cal., with his family among the orange groves and on an avenue of palms.

Major Robinson has studiously avoided through some thirty years interviews by newspaper and magazine writers. Recently, however, he permitted an interview by a fellow townsman and a personal friend.

"I have never known," said Major Robinson, "how I came to be detailed to act as nurse at the home of Secretary Seward in April, 1865. I had been confined to the hospital for several months by a gunshot wound in my leg.

"The evening of April 14 was beautiful and clear. At a little before 10 p. m., when the Secretary was sleeping easily, the house was closed for the night. Mrs. Seward had gone to her sleeping room. Frederick Seward, second son of the Secretary, had retired. Miss Fannie Seward, a daughter, and I sat in the sick chamber on the third floor. Miss Seward was near the bed. Her father lay propped up in bed. Just before 10 the sound of a man was heard down the hall.

"The stranger jumped through the door at me. I saw a knife flash in the feeble gaslight. He dealt me an awful blow on the scalp and forehead. He then gave Miss Seward a thrust that threw her aside, and then pounced upon the bed and struck with a long knife at the Secretary, cutting a gash on his cheek and neck. I managed to pull the man from the bed, and then began a terrific hand-to-hand grapple. The assassin gave me a deep cut in the right shoulder as I pulled him backward from the bed. A second later he gave me another cut. In a twinkling he turned on me with the ferocity of an enraged tiger, while Secretary Seward rolled off the further side of the bed. The assassin struck at me several times, once giving me a slash in the left shoulder. I clinched my arms about him with my utmost strength, while he was trying to force me away so that he could use his arms either to thrust his bloody knife into me or beat me into insensibility by blows with his big pistol. Meanwhile Miss Seward had pushed up the window in the sick room and had screamed Murder! Murder!'

"My antagonist vainly tried to raise his hands to beat or stab me. He suddenly dropped his pistol and tried to push me from him or throw me. I clung to the man with even greater intensity. All I saw was my desperate antagonist and that knife blade. I grasped the assassin's right wrist. He ceased for a brief second his stabbing tactics and tried to throw me. Then, summoning all my strength, I tried to throw him. My wounded leg gave way and I partially staggered. The assassin made a vain snatch at my throat.

"The despair of the moment brought back my full strength, and I tripped the villain somewhat off his feet. While I had him in that position I urged him a few feet across the room toward the hall door. When we were about half way across the room and in fierce grapple I felt some one taking hold of me from behind. It flashed into my mind that here was an accomplice of the murderer. Then I saw in the dim light that it was Major A. H. Seward. He had heard his sister's shrieks and had sprung out of bed and had come into his father's room to find, as he first thought, two drunken soldiers scuffling in the darkness.

"I called to him: 'Hold that man's hand; get that knife;' but the Major reached around me from behind and got his hands on the assassin's shoulders, so as to push him along through the hall door. The assassin came against the woodwork of the door and thereby regained a firm footing. As quick as lightning he freed himself from my grasp, and gave Major Seward several stabs about the head and shoulders. He bounded down the stairs. Mr. Hansel, a messenger in the State Department, was running down the stairs to get help. The fellow overtook Mr. Hansel and gave him a slash down the back. Then the assassin went out of the front door like a rocket, leaped into his saddle, and, striking his spurs into his horse's flanks, was off in the darkness.

"The whole affair occupied probably not over three minutes. When the assassin was gone, I turned to find Secretary Seward on the carpet at the farther side of the bed. His daughter was bending over him. The Secretary was bleeding profusely. The pool of blood in which he lay, the gaping gash in his cheek, the wound in his neck, and his ghastly pale face, all made a dreadful sight. We lifted the patient to his bed, and found that his heart still beat, although he seemed to be pulseless."

By No Means.

"Your husband is of a pretty easy-going disposition, isn't he, Jane?"

"Fer the land's sake! I should say not. It is the hardest sort of work to make him show that he has any go about him at all."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

FLIRTING WITH THE FAN.

Spanish Girls Can Talk Effectively With This Bauble.

"It is really very amusing in this matter-of-fact day and generation, to see a Spanish woman flirt with her fan," a bright, chatty woman just home after a winter in Spain is reported by the New York Commercial Advertiser to have said. "Spanish women are not very brilliant as far as wit or conversation goes, but give senorita a fan and the use of her eyes and she can capture and hold a lover over whom the most brilliant repartee and the most charming chatter could have no influence at all. The young Spanish girls of good society are of course rigorously duennaed and guarded, but balconies and opera boxes are where their flirtations are carried on. I have seen at the theater a young Spanish beauty seated between two duehnas openly coquet with her fan, in response to the languishing glances of a lover in some other part of the house. For example, when the lady draws it through her hand, Don Juan may go home or repair to fresh pastures, for he has been told as unmistakably as possible that he is cordially detested, that an irrevocable 'No' will meet all his proposals, and, what is worse for his suit, there is no 'Yesness' in the 'No.' When the lady twirls her fan in the left hand Don Juan may take courage, but for the time being he had better go, to return at a more convenient opportunity, for the signal means that he and his inamorata are being watched. There is only one other signal that need detain him. When, after having told him that they are being watched, the Spanish girl opens her fan very ostentatiously and very wide, nothing must induce Don Juan to leave the spot. He must not follow her, for the signal means, 'Wait for me where you stand.'"

HOW A BOOK IS PUBLISHED.

3,000 Copies Begun Monday and Completed Wednesday.

A large book bindery may have a capacity of 10,000 books a day. The resources of some of these binderies are wonderful. There is an instance on record where a publishing house took an order on Monday for a cloth-covered 12mo volume of 350 pages and actually shipped 2,000 copies of the book on the following Wednesday. The type was set by machinery for the entire 350 pages before work stopped Monday night. Electrotype plates were made so rapidly that on Tuesday morning several printing presses were set in motion. In the meantime covers were made in the bindery, and by Wednesday morning the binders had the book in hand. Two thousand volumes were completed that day, and the edition of 10,000 was entirely out of the way before Saturday night. In modern book-binding machinery, as in the production of printing presses, America leads the world, and no other nation can equal it in the speed and general effectiveness with which all branches of the industry are carried out.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

TO PUSH THE PANAMA CANAL.

Some New Company May Finish the Work in Ten Years.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Consul-General Gudger, at Panama, has made a report to the State Department on the condition of the Panama Canal. He says it is whispered that England is doing all in her power to obtain control of the canal. France may not push the work forward, but some other nation, or some other company, will surely do so if those in charge forfeit their rights. The canal, when completed, will extend from Colon, on the Atlantic, to Panama, on the Pacific, fifty-four miles. All along the route are sheds full of new and costly machinery. It was estimated the latter has cost $100,000,000 and that there has been expended a total of $275,000,000. A conservative estimate is that the canal is about one-third finished, but with the new machinery on hand it is said the remainder of the work can be completed for $150,000,000.

The report is that a force adequate to finish the project in from seven to ten years will be put to work. During the next sixty days a committee is to investigate the progress of affairs, and an effort will be made to get more money to continue operations. The canal is practically completed from Colon to Bajeo, fourteen miles, but this is the least expensive part. The great difficulty is in passing the Culebre Ridge.

The width of the canal will be 100 feet at the top, and seventy-two feet at the bottom, except through the ridge, where it will be seveny-eight feet wide at the top and twenty-nine feet at the bottom.

WILL GOV. GRIGGS ACCEPT?

Report that the Attorney-Generalship Has Been Offered Him.

Washington, Dec. 4.—It can be stated on absolute authority that the selection of a new Cabinet officer is undetermined. It is known that the President desires Judge Goff, of West Virginia, to accept the portfolio, but nothing definite has been heard from him.

Gov. Griggs, of New Jersey, has been thought of, and his selection discussed. It is stated on the authority of several Cabinet officers that the President thinks very highly of the Governor, but that nothing definite was decided before Mr. McKinley left for Canton.

It is generally believed that the President will not go East or North for his new Cabinet officer, if he can secure one from another locality.

What Is Said in Paterson.

Paterson, Dec. 4.—Gov. Griggs is in Washington and consequently cannot be interviewed here, but there is no doubt in Paterson of the accuracy of the report that President McKinley has offered to appoint him Attorney-General, when Judge McKenna succeeds Justice Field.

The story goes that after Assistant Secretary Day declined the place, the President consulted Mr. Hobart, and the Vice-President at once recommended Gov. Griggs. The latter was sent for, and a long conference followed, at which Gen. Sewall was present. The Governor has been to Washington two or three times within the past week, and Gen. Sewall has been a frequent caller at the White House within the same time.

It is said that the Governor has the matter under advisement, and that if he will signify his willingness to accept he will get the appointment, although no formal announcement will be made before Justice Field's successor is nominated.

ANOTHER MINE STRIKE POSSIBLE.

Operators are Getting Large Supplies of Coal Ready.

Cleveland, Ohio, Dec. 4.—Thomas E. Young, manager of M. A. Hanna & Co., does not believe that the trouble between the coal operators and miners is over. While he does not predict a reopening of the fight of last Summer, he does not hesitate to say that a strike is probable. The operators of the Pittsburg and Massillon districts are preparing to resist any attempt of the miners to get an advance in wages at the coming conference of the representatives of the miners and operators. When the strike was ordered last July the operators and dealers were caught napping and had a very small supply of coal on hand.

Large stocks of coal are now being placed with all contract customers. With navigation closed and all Winter stocks placed there will be but a slight demand for coal, and the operators will be in a position to dictate terms of peace.

River operators have always been the last to give in during a strike, and their action in forming a combination at this time is regarded as significant. The conference is to be held this month.

When asked as to the probability of a settlement Mr. Young said: "The prospects are not bright. The men will probably demand an increase and the operators are opposed to granting this demand.

"If the miners are persistent in their demand they might possibly strike if it is not acceded to. The miners would find it much harder to win in the Winter than in the Summer."

Few Callers at the White House.

Washington, Dec. 4.—There were very few callers at the White House yesterday, owing to the President having taken his departure for Canton. Much sympathy is felt in this city for the President, and news from the bedside of the mother of the President is anxiously sought in many quarters.

It was stated at the White House last evening that the news received there is not reassuring, and that the death of the old lady is looked for at almost any moment.

Cornell's Reply Pleases Yale.

New Haven, Dec. 4.—Cornell's conditional acceptance of Yale's challenge has delighted the lovers of rowing in the New Haven university. Plans for a conference will be carried out without hesitation or delay. Telegrams from Yale to Cornell and from Yale to Harvard have been exchanged frequently in the past two days, and just as soon as a date can be agreed upon the conference will be held.

Don't Want Chinese.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Consul O'Hara has sent to the State Department a copy of the law of Nicauragua, passed Oct. 9 last, absolutely prohibiting the immigration of Chinese. The officer who infringes on the law is subjected to a fine of from $25 to $500.

GERMANY AND CHINA

How Russia Regards the Occupation of Kiao Chou Bay.

MORE TROOPS LEAVE KIEL

Report that China Has Asked for Arbitration Confirmed — Said in Pekin that Russia Will Refuse to Interfere—Russia Buying Supplies.

St. Petersburg, Dec. 4.—Officials here are reticent regarding the political situation in the far East, but the opinion prevails that Germany will not occupy Kiao Chou Bay permanently.

The Russian papers protest against the occupation as being calculated to injure the interests of Russia. They declare the Russian Government ought to demand its evacuation, or else obtain an equivalent.

Germany to Send Reinforcements.

Berlin, Dec. 4.—The Naval Department has sent instructions to Kiel to dispatch 200 artillerymen with field guns and 1,900 marines to China.

China Desires Arbitration.

London, Dec. 4.—A dispatch to the Times from Shanghai confirms the report that China is seeking to have the German demands submitted to arbitration.

It is reported in Pekin that Russia refuses to intervene in behalf of China.

Russia Buying Supplies.

San Francisco, Dec. 4.—The report that the Russian Government is buying large quantities of army supplies in the United States has been verified. Cable messages from Vladivostock asking that merchants bid on large lots are frequently received. One firm in this city received a Vladivostock cable to figure on 1,200 tons of supplies.

Travelers from Russia report that the garrison at Vladivostock has been largely reinforced by the arrival of troops on steamers and sailing vessels from the Black Sea. The concentration of Russian troops at that point and the haste that Japan is making to increase her power on the sea leads some merchants here to predict that the impending conflict between Russia and Japan will open early next Summer. The recent heavy orders for army supplies to be forwarded to Vladivostock are regarded as significant of important movements in the Orient.

Bismarck Is Bitter.

Berlin, Dec. 4.—The Hamburger Nachrichten has published a statement by Prince Bismarck upon the Hayti situation. In commenting upon the alleged intention of the United States to interfere in that island, the Prince says:

"We deem it a political necessity to oppose this American arrogance often and emphatically and certainly when directed against Germany. Of course nobody in Germany dreams of annexing Hayti, but we hope to induce the Government to energetically demand the necessary satisfaction in the shape of damages and to enforce this by proper means."

BIG DIAMOND SEIZURE.

One Hundred Thousand Dollars' Worth of Gems Smuggled.

New York, Dec. 4.—A big seizure of contraband diamonds was made by the Federal authorities in New York on Wednesday night last. It having come to the ears of the Federal officials through a tip from one of the passengers on a recently arrived steamship that many thousands of dollars' worth of diamonds had been smuggled in by a woman, an investigation was made. As a result of the investigation, Federal officers visited the diamond establishment of Max J. Lasar, at 24 Maiden lane, and seized valuable gems of the finest quality, amounting to over one hundred thousand dollars.

Following the seizure came the arrest of Emanuel J. and Helen Lasar, husband and wife, by United States deputy marshals. Yesterday morning they were arraigned before United States Commissioner Shields. They pleaded not guilty to the charge of smuggling the gems, and were held in $5,000 bail each to await examination.

The diamonds concerned in the case are of the very highest quality, white solitares obtained from Holland. According to the allegations of Lawyer Abraham Levy, they were purchased by Max Lasar during his trip abroad last Fall, and were shipped here in the way customary with the experienced jeweler during his many years in the business. They were unset diamonds of large size. Lasar claims, and so does his lawyer, that the regular duty was paid on them, and that no unusual method was employed in bringing them to this country.

SPANISH TROOPS ENOUGH.

Not Believed Blanco Will Ask for More—Cuba's New Cabinet.

Madrid, Dec. 4.—According to a dispatch received here from Havana, it is not believed that further reinforcements of Spanish troops will be required for Cuba, as the present forces are regarded as sufficient to suppress the insurrection before the rainy season begins. The Government has received an official dispatch from Havana which states that Gen. Pando has not been killed, as reported.

The New Cuban Cabinet.

Washington, Dec. 4.—Consul-General Lee has informed the State Department that the insurgents in Cuba elected and installed at Yaza Porto Principe on Oct. 20 the following officers: President, Bartolo Masso; Vice-President, Domingo Mendez Capote; Secretary of War, Jose B. Aleman; Secretary of the Treasury, Earnisto Font Stearling; Secretary of Foreign Affairs, Andrea Moreno de la Torre; Secretary of the Interior, Manuel R. Silva; General-in-Chief, Maximo Gomez; Lieutenant-General, Calixto Garcia.

Senator Platt in Washington.

New York, Dec. 4.—United States Senator Thomas C. Platt has gone to Washington and will attend the opening of Congress next Monday and may remain in the national capital until the holidays. It is quite likely, however, that he will return the latter part of next week, as matters connected with the express company, of which he is president will require his attendance here at that time.

CHARACTER,

says Webster, "is the sum of distinguishing qualities"

Have you ever noticed the uplifting and strengthening effect the habit of saving a certain sum regularly has on the character? That is one of the advantages of Life Insurance. It is necessary to pay the premiums as they fall due, and habits of regularity are cultivated.

Of course there are other advantages, and we intend to tell them.

TOLD OF HER OWN WORK.

AN INTERESTING MISSIONARY ADDRESS TO YOUNG PEOPLE.

Miss Grace Wilder, a Returned Missionary, Related Incidents of Her Labors in the Far East—Suggestions to the Listeners

The story of missions is interesting when read in books or magazines but it gains new interest and life when there is a living personality behind it, when it is told by one who has been in the mission field, and can give personal experiences. The Christian Endeavor Society of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church and their friends had an unusual treat last night in an address by Miss Grace Wilder, a returned missionary from India. In spite of the very unpleasant weather, the chapel was well filled at the hour for the Endeavor meeting, and the evening was a very pleasant one.

The meeting was led by Miss Clementine Yates. Ira Winthrop Travell introduced Miss Wilder, who spoke with the manner of one whose whole soul was in her work.

She spoke first of the troubles which had lately come upon India; famine, plague and earthquake. She told of the quick response which other nations had made to India's temporal needs, and expressed the wish that the same response might be made to the spiritual needs of the country. Native workers can, in many ways, accomplish far more than foreigners, and if these high-caste Hindoo children, who have so providentially been placed under missionary control, can be prepared for this service, work now impossible can be done.

The Student Volunteers who have gone out to India were also warmly spoken of by Miss Wilder, who told of their gospel meetings, especially for the students in the Government schools and colleges. Miss Wilder urged a deeper interest in and consecration to the mission cause, and said that to obtain it one must not only hear of the needs of the people, but get very close to Christ so as to obtain His spirit. As an aid to this she urged her hearers to observe the "quiet hour" of communion and devotional reading early in the morning as advocated by the leaders of the Society of Christian Endeavor.

THEATRICAL.

Mr. Dixey is indefatigable as a producer of novelties in the occult realms. He has probably added more new magical effects to his repertoire in one season than any other necromancer who has gone before him. He will be seen at Music Hall tonight. His latest illusion he styles the "Mystery of Mesrour." It consists in confining in a bag securely tied and sealed by the audience, a girl, who, thus enmeshed, is placed in a trunk, locked and strapped. This trunk in turn is put in another, securely fastened with lock, key and strap, as the first. The two trunks are then placed in a third, duplicated with lock, key and strap, as the two others. In less than twenty seconds, accurately timed, the girl is released and appears smiling before the audience, while in the bag in the innermost trunk in her stead is found a full-grown man. In the transition and substitution not a lock, strap or seal has been broken.

"The City of New York," Moller & Fessler's great scenic production, that comes to Music Hall Tuesday evening next, is brim full of heart interest, pathos and comedy. The characters are copied from life. Truth is stranger than fiction and "The City of New York" is the Klondike of American plays, filled with golden nuggets of truth. Once seen it will never be forgotten.

Mrs. Robert Dryden, of Watchung avenue, who has been ill at her home is much improved and hopes to be out again in a few days.

PASSING COMMENT.

An incident which occurred on Front street a few days ago proves that there are honest men upon the streets of this city, in spite of the degeneracy of the times Mrs. Harry Austin, of Fanwood, came to this city on a shopping expedition and had occasion to call at the post-office. As she left the Babcock building and started to cross the street a small gold chatelain watch of considerable value became detached from her dress and fell to the ground. She did not notice the loss, and crossing the street, entered the store of Gavett and Packer to make some purchases. A plain looking man followed her into the store, and stepping up asked if she had lost a watch. Mrs. Austin looked, and for the first time became aware that the precious piece of jewelry no longer hung in its accustomed place. The plain-looking man then handed her the watch, saying that he had seen it fall. Mrs. Austin was not only profuse in her thanks, but gave the finder of the watch a handsome amount of money in reward for his honesty. The man would not give his name, and modestly disclaimed any credit for his act.

* * * *

As the Watchung avenue bridge is completed it is attracting considerable attention. In one regard it differs from any other bridge in this locality. The driveway is merely a continuation of the macadam pavement of the avenue, and formed by filling the depression between the footpaths on either hand with broken stone to a depth of several inches. Such is the stability of the structure that, under ordinary traffic, no vibration will be perceptible; and, since there is no break in the roadway the passenger might not suspect the presence of a bridge but for the stream it crosses. Watchung avenue is now our longest cross street, extending as it will without a break from the foot of the Watchung mountain to the glacial moraine known as the Short Hills. It will prove a great convenience to a considerable population. It will bring into market acres of land for building purposes otherwise hardly available. The opposition to this great improve must be classed with the opposition which met the extension of Park avenue, of Central avenue; an opposition due to the natural inertia common to inanimate matter and inanimate minds.

Fishing.

Fishing is beyond doubt a healthful and entertaining pastime, but to be enjoyed it should be confined to its legitimate channel. It is a waste of time and strength to go fishing about for a place to buy birthday, wedding or holiday souvenirs, when you can be sure to find just what you want at Collier's, at prices as low as the lowest and with trading stamp advantages in the bargain.

—There was a complaint of trouble on Watchung avenue late Thursday and a young man named Van Nest claimed to have been insulted and assaulted. Patrolman Jeremiah Cash reported that he was within ten feet of the alleged trouble and had heard or seen nothing. No arrests were made in consequence.

Baked His Sprained Leg.

Berkeley, Cal., Dec. 4.—E. B. Hinman, a sophomore in the University of California, has had his leg baked in an oven at a temperature of 300 degrees Fahrenheit to cure a sprain. This is 88 degrees higher than the temperature of boiling water, twice the heat at which meat is ordinarily roasted for the table. The sprain disappeared with wonderful rapidity. The injured limb was treated in a specially prepared apparatus consisting of a copper cylinder resting on iron supports, with a gas burned underneath.

Hinman's leg was wrapped in absorbent cotton and placed in the cylinder, with non-conducting rubber bags closing the interior so that the heat could not escape. After three bakings the sprain was entirely cured.

The Potato Biter Bit.

Denver, Col., Dec. 4.—The farmers of Colorado are disappointed at the failure of an attempt to corner the potato market. The chief market for the crop has been in Texas and Southern points. This year, when it was reported that there was a shortage in the Eastern crop, the potato growers decided to raise the price of the crop out of sight. To-day they are trying to find a demand for the potatoes, and the railroads in Colorado that formerly handled from thirty to forty carloads a day for five months of the year find that traffic gone.

The business has been captured by the farmers of Minnesota, who are now supplying the South with tubers at 20 cents per hundred less than the Colorado farmers.

BERGEN'S PLAN OPPOSED

SENATOR VOORHEES MADE A VERY IMPORTANT ANNOUNCEMENT.

The Senator Said He Would Oppose the County Ownership of the Trolley and it Means a Good Deal Coming From Him

It is said that straws show which way the wind is blowing, and it is the opinion of many people in Union county today that a little speech which fell from the lips of State Senator Foster M. Voorhees at a meeting of the Westfield Township Committee last week was nothing more or less than a political straw, indicating by its draft the fate of Frank Bergen's county trolley scheme. The words which have caused such a stir among public men in the county were few in number, but they are thought to indicate that the Bergen scheme is doomed to defeat.

Senator Voorhees appeared before the Township Committee of Westfield at its meeting last Friday night to argue in favor of the granting of a franchise to the Westfield and Elizabeth Electric Railway Company, for which he is acting as counsel. The Senator can never be dull, and on this occasion his wit scintillated with all its wonted brilliancy. He flung jest and repartee about, and kept everybody present in good humor without saying anything startling or unusual until the discussion of the Bergen trolley scheme was taken up. It was then that something happened.

The Senator said that there was much that was plausible in the Bergen plan, but that it would be unwise for the county to go into such a scheme as was involved in the building of a trolley road.

"I understand," continued the Senator, "that a bill will be introduced into the Legislature at its coming session, authorizing a county to issue bonds for the building of trolley lines. I am opposed to such a bill and I wish to say here and now that I shall vote against it in the Senate."

The utterance of this speech by the Senator caused somewhat of a stir among the knowing ones present who could appreciate its great significance, and would see in their mind's eye the effect which such an announcement must inevitably have upon the Bergen scheme.

It was equivalent to an announcement of the defeat of the bill.

It is possible that Senator Voorhees did not realize the full force of the words which he used. The speech had its effect, however, and it is now the topic of conversationtion among politicians everywhere in the county, and all are wondering how such an astute politician as the Senator is rated to be, came to make such a premature announcement of his position on so important a matter.

Addressed the Brooklyn Clerical League

D., of Grove street, read this afternoon, at the monthly meeting of the league in the Montauk Club, Brooklyn, a paper on Christian Architecture. The lecturer touched specially on the revival of ecclesiastical arthitecture in England, and dwelt upon the necessity for greater attention being paid to church architecture in this country, pointing out the unsatisfactory state of the art at the present time.

CARRIER PIGEONS KILLED.

OWNER TO PROSECUTE GUILTY ONE.

George Studer Sees His Flock Gradually Diminishing and Will Try to Stop It.

George Studer, a carpenter living on Arlington avenue, takes great delight in carrier pigeons. He has had a fine collection and his birds have made long trips. He had twenty-six birds in the loft but now fourteen of them are missing.

Several days ago, Mrs. Studer noticed that one of the birds was acting very strangely and she spoke to her husband about it. Mr. Studer went out to see one of his choice carriers flutter from the loft and fall dead at his feet. Investigation showed that death had been caused by a shot in the breast. Lately, the birds have been mysteriously disappearing. Yesterday, Mr. Studer found blood on the entrance to the loft and, looking inside, found another of his carriers dying. His lossess have now amounted to fourteen birds.

A friend of the owner of the birds informed him yesterday that he had seen a neighbor providing himself with material for a pot-pie at the expense of the pigeon fancier. A shot gun had brought many of the poor birds to the ground.

Mr. Studer has collected sufficient evidence against the destroyer of his property and has decided to push the case to its limit and punish the offender. He appeared before City Judge DeMeza, this morning, and a warrant will be issued and the arrest made.

Former Residents Visiting Here.

Frazee Connett and Henry Connett, of Illinois, are guests of Plrinfield relatives and friends. They were both at one time residents of this city and are well known. Frazee Connett has not been in Plainfield in 23 years, and he is much pleased with the march of progress in every section. It has been nine years since Henry Connett was in town. Their many friends are giving them a cordial welcome during their stay.

An Improvement at Last.

They say that all things come to those that wait, and the waiting of residents of West Third street is at last rewarded by the coming of Mike Welch's big black team to plough and clean the gutters. Mike says he is only going to loosen up as much dirt as he can cart away the same day, and not be caught napping by Jack Frost, as he was last week, with rows of frozen mud too hard to shovel up.

Assessments in Court.

Tomorrow at Trenton in the Supreme Court an effort will be made to have the Watchung avenue assessments in the borough set aside. If the court sets the work of the commissioners aside, new commissioners will have to be appointed and the entire work gone over again. This expense will be thrown on the borough at large.

—Voters who are opposed to the present system of license should draw a line through the proposition to be submitted on the ballots tomorrow. That will constitute a negative vote.

PASTORS WOULD DRIVE SALOONS OUT OF BUSINESS

BIG TEMPERANCE MASS MEETING HELD IN MUSIC HALL YESTERDAY AFTERNOON.

Addressed By Several Ministers Who Assailed the Traffic in Strong Words and Were Enthusiastically Applauded by the Large Audience.

The present municipal campaign has taken on a new phase during the last week. The opponents of the liquor traffic have begun active work in the interest of the proposition that is to be given to the voters of the city Plainfield tomorrow, the question as to whether they prefer the presen system of high license or complete prohibition. Yesterday afternoon a mass-meeting in the interest of prohibition was held at Music Hall under the auspices of the Ministers' Association of the city. The meeting was well attended and proved an enthusiastic one.

The attendance was not confined to the sterner sex alone for there were many women, old and young, present.

On the platform were most of the local pastors. In the audience were noticed several of the members of the Common Council, several other city officials and a number of prominent politicians.

The meeting was called to order by Rev. C. L. Goodrich, pastor of the Congregational church, as the representative of the Ministers' Association. He nominated Aaron M. Powell as chairman and he was unanimously elected. Mr. Powell then took charge of the meeting and announced as the first number a selection, "The Drunkard's Woe," by a volunteer male quartette composed of Herbert Schutt, Edward O. Clark, Fred J. Pope and Arthur A. Freeman. Then followed opening prayer by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, pastor of the Trinity Reformed church.

Year.	Arrests.	Drunk.
1888, license		93
1889, no license		51

Mr. Powell made an address. He opened by saying that Plainfield had a great advantage over North Plainfield and many other places in that its dealings with the liquor traffic lay in the hands of the Council, which had the power to abolish it. He characterized this saloon as the nursery of crime and declared it one of the greatest powers against which the religious institutions of the city were fighting. The true idea of government was to make it easier to do right and harder to do wrong and the legalized saloon, he said, was directly against it.

He spoke very highly of Neal Dow and is wonderful work in Maine and related something of what he had seen in a trip through that state.

He referred to the $10,000 that the city receives from license fees and called it a bribe to conscience. It was a waste, he said, for the city and its inhabitants had to pay out $100,000, that passed through the tills of the saloon keepers to get it. The removal of the saloons, he continued, would increase the value of the property in the vicinity of where the saloons had been so that there would be more to tax.

Petition after petition had been presented to the Council, he said, but that body had declared that the citizens wanted the saloons. Now he was glad that the Council had given them a chance to vote on the question. The people in the Second ward, he said, had done even better than present petitions. They had elected a man to the Council, Mr. Frost, who had voted against all of the licenses and he hoped that they would return him to the governing body of the city at the coming election. He closed by emphasizing the necessity of instructing the Council to stop the traffic.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis was introduced as the next speaker. He thanked the Council for giving the people a chance to get at the thing directly that had heretofore been assumed that they wanted. Many had said, he continued, that this vote does not amount to anything, but it will.

He then told how the two forces for and against the proposition were lined up. Against it, he said, are arrayed the pastors with all the interests they represent, the churches, the Christian Endeavor and the other religious societies and every interest of purity and morality. The voters, he claimed, have got to make the choice between them and concentrated crime. He told how it was said that it was impossible to get rid of the saloon but he said that if the world moved slowly it moved surely and the end was bound to come. If a majority of the citizens declared against the saloons, no group of men would dare defy their verdict. If there is not a majority, he said, let those that are against it stand up and start the reform that will surely grow.

The saloon he characterized as the greatest political power in the United States and a great power in Plainfield. He told his audience that they knew that it had influence in the city primaries, in the conventions and out at the polls. Votes, he declared, were bought by the saloon, many of them by a glass or two of rum or whiskey. The license system holds it together, continued the speaker, and let it appear that the saloons are in danger, every cent in the treasuries of the breweries of the country are at its command. He drew a lesson from the present condition of Hoboken and Camden as to the effects of the traffic and warned his hearers that if they did not want Plainfield to follow their example to show their mind at the coming election.

Following this address the chairman introduced Rev. G. Kennedy Newell, who in a few words explained the chart that was suspended from the curtains overhead. In 1889, he said, was the no license year which he held was the cause for the number of arrests being so small. The following year the number was more than three times as many as in 1889. Mr. Newell then went on to describe the sufferings in some of the homes in this city.

Rev. Dr. Rodman was the next speaker, and his address was full of suggestions. In the first place he read a letter of regret from Rev. Father Smyth, who was unable to be present owing to the fact that he was detained at a special meeting held in St. Mary's church. Dr. Rodman then went on to say that it was being continually dinged in his ears that the city could not get along without the revenue received from the licenses. He then called on Mr. Hubbard, the assessor, and ascertained that a tax of 13 cents an the $100 would make up the amount received from the licenses.

Dr. Rodman closed his remarks after making a motion that the assembly adopt the five cardinal rules presented recently by the Society of Friends, and published in the papers of the city.

Chairman Powell stated that Dr. Richards expected to be present, but was called out of the city, and Rev. Dr. Snodgrass was detained on account of the illness of his wife. The last speaker was Rev. Dr. Yerkes. He said in part:

"My heart is in this cause and I do want to be counted on the side of right. I have been much perplexed as to how we are to deal with this question of license. The light is not apparent just now, but public sentiment is marching on through the silent influence of God's truth. I do say I will draw the line through that proposition on the ballot Tuesday. The Scripture selection "Ye that love the Lord hate evil," is very appropriate at this time. It means no fellowship with evil things, and means no license. The hatred of evil is as holy a passion as one could have. Words cannot depict the suffering caused by the saloon. A great many people believe the saloon an adjunct of modern society, that it is here to stay and that we cannot put it away. The fact is the saloon has no right to exist in modern society. It cannot be regulated no more than a wild beast, and how do we regulate a wild beast? By killing him. That is the we can regulate the saloon. High license does not lessen nor restrict, as accurate figures demonstrate."

There was another selection by the male quartette, after which the benediction was pronounced by Rev. C. E. Herring.

There were eight young men who acted as ushers, and each wore a bouquet of white flowers in the buttonhole of their coat, hnd each bouquet was tied with white ribbon. The ushers were Thaddeus Doane, Jr., Arthur Heath, Van R. Schuyler, James Kimball, George Fuller, Clarence Rogers and Asa Randolph.

At the close of the meeting Mr. Powell announced that there would be a prayer meeting in the W. C. T. U. rooms this afternoon at which time the subject of temperance would be considered.

—A meeting of the Advisory Committee of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association will be held tomorrow to organize.

MAD DOG CARRIED TERROR.

SUCCEEDED IN BITING OTHER DOGS.

Finally Entered Lewis Bimble's Kitchen and Was Killed by a Charge From a Shotgun.

A mad dog caused considerable excitement in Prideville on Saturday night and yesterday morning. The animal burst upon the terrified vision of the inhabitants of that section at a late hour on Saturday night and took his fight undisturbed through the town, for wherever he went the people thought only of escaping from the beast's snappings. It was a large bull dog, but none in the vicinity could say to whom it belonged. After biting a number of people, the animal ran into the yard of Lewis Brimble and killed several young dogs which were kept there. On Sunday morning the dog returned again to Brimble's house and entered the kitchen. Brimble had a loaded shotgun at hand in readiness for its return, and shot the animal dead.

A TALK ON MUSIC.

Miss Palmer Told How to Interpret Romantic Music.

A fair-sized audience gathered in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church Saturday afternoon to listen to the lecture given by Miss S. A. Palmer on the subject, "What is Romantic Music, and What will Enable us to Interpret it Aright." From the description which the lecturer gave of romantic music she makes the same distinctions between it and classical music which exist between the romantic and the classical in literature. Classical music expresses beauty of tone and perfect rythm; it is impersonal, objective, aiming to show us the beauties of the world. Romantic music, on the other hand, is personal; it aims to produce in the hearer a train of emotions similar to those experienced by the composer in writing the music. Glacissim aims at unfailing beauty and symmetry of form, while romanticism will indulge in discords and eccentricities of composition in order to induce a train of feeling. The lecture was listened to with deep interest by those present.

A BEAUTIFUL SIGHT.

Eleven Young People Become Members of Trinity Reformed Church.

At the communion service in Trinity Reformed church yesterday morning, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., the pastor, baptized nine young people, all members of the Sunday-school, and received eleven into full membership of the church on confession of their faith in Christ as their Saviour. Three other persons were, at the same service, received into membership by letter from other churches, making an accession of fourteen persons at the service yesterday morning to this church. It was a happy day for pastor, Sunday-school teachers and people, and is one of the evidences that God's Holy Spirit is working on the hearts of the people of this church and the city generally.

Rev. Anna Shaw to Speak Here.

One week from next Sunday afternoon, at Music Hall, Rev. Anna Shaw, of world-wide fame, will make an address under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. Those who have heard this talented speaker will be glad of the opportunity to hear her again, and a great treat is in store for the people of this city to hear an unusually interesting speaker.

Didn't Have Their Witnesses.

The case of Edward Clark against the Plainfield Sanitary Company, on contract, which was to have been tried in Justice Mosher's court this afternoon, was adjourned on account of the inability of the defense to have certain of its witnesses present. The case will be tried next Monday afternoon.

An Act of Cruelty.

An act of cruelty was witnessed last Saturday night on Somerset street opposite Lincoln place, when a man allowed his horse to stand in the pouring rain from 7 until 11 o'clock. Efforts were made to make the animal comfortable, but there was little to do it with.

A Stereopticon Lecture.

No one should miss the stereopticon lecture which is to be given at the Salvation Army hall by Adjt. Brewer, this evening. Some of these views were shown at Carnegie Music Hall in New York city last week.

A Self-Denial Meeting.

Tomorow evening a "self-denial" meeting will be held at Warren chapel under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society, after which a social time will be enjoyed by the members and their friends.

—Voters who are opposed to the present system of license should draw a line through the proposition to be submitted on the ballots tomorrow. That will constitute a negative vote.

LAST DAY OF CAMPAIGN

LEADERS ON BOTH SIDES ARE CONFIDENT OF VICTORY.

G. O. P. Machine Has Made a Thorough Canvass of the Wards—Movement to Sacrifice a No-License Candidate.

The municipal election is only a day away and the city is as quiet as could be wished. At the beginning of the campaign it was expected that the fight between the G. O. P. machine and the backers of the Citizens' ticket would be fast and furious. It was expected that the machine would turn out its entire force to meet the invaders and that no stone would be left unturned to gain the victory. For some reason, however, the campaign has proved a quieter one than last year, when the city was stirred over the election of a Mayor.

The G. O. P. leaders are very confindent and the heads of the machine in the different wards are prophecying a landslide in their favor at the polls. A canvass of the city has just been completed and the Republicans claim that it shows that they will win everywhere by an overwhelming majority. In the First ward and the Third ward they claim that their supporters outnumber the opposition three or four to one. In the Second, they look for victory but by a smaller majority. In the Fourth, the machine men are confident, but they expect that the Citizens ticket will make a fair run. They expect to see the strongest fight made against them on the part of the candidates for the Councilmen-at-large. Circulars have been sent out to many of the voters telling of what the last Council has accomplished and what they propose to do in the future.

Much confidence was expressed at the headquarters of the Citizens' movement as to their ability to win in the conflict. They, too, have made a canvass and declare that they have a good showing. They credit the Republicans with a strong vote in the First ward but hope that Mr. Hetfield will discount that. They think the Second ward will be the scene of a hot fight at the polls, and Mr. Frost will be defeated. The Fourth ward is considered the vantage ground of the Citizens, and there they are confident of electing their whole ward ticket and giving a good majority to aid in the election of the city ticket. The question of the election of the city ticket is still an uncertain one with them, but they believe that they will elect part of it at least.

James C. Manning, one of the Citizens' candidates for Councilmen-at-large, wishes The Press to state that he is a no-license man and will vote against the granting of licenses if elected.

There has been some question as to the length of time that Elmore D. Moffett, candidate for Councilman for one year on the Citizens' ticket, has resided in the Fourth ward. He has been a resident of that ward for twenty-eight years.

While most of the candidates on both tickets are well known to many of the voters in the city, either personally or by reputation, John Van-Herwerden, the Second ward Councilmanic candidate on the Citizens' ticket, is a "dark horse" in the race. This is his first appearance in politics. He is a native of this country.

Fred H. Andrews, one of the Republican candidates for Councilman-at-large, is well-known as an opponent of the granting of licenses. The advocates of licenses, especially in the Fourth ward, are preparing to knife him. He will probably make gains in the Second and Third wards, however. As James C. Manning, one of the candidates on the Citizens' ticket for the same office, is also a no-license man, he will meet opposition in a similar way.

The Committee of Forty, which heads the Citizens' movement, has issued an address to the voters of the city which will be found in the advertising columns of this issue.

FIRE AT BRANCH MILLS.

An Unleavened Bread Factory Burned to the Ground.

A destructive fire occurred at Branch Mills, near Westfield, at 5 o'clock yesterday morning, when the dwelling and outbuildings upon the place of Max Weingarten were entirely destroyed. Weingarten was engaged in the manufacture of unleavened bread for the use of Hebrews in the observance of the passover feast. Besides supplying the needs of the Jewish colony at Summit, he sent large quantities of the bread to New York and other cities. The fire started in one of the outhouses used as a bake shop. The exact manner in which it originated is not known. The loss is about $4,000, and is covered by insurance.

THE PENSION OCTOPUS

It Swallows Nearly One-Half of the Federal Revenue.

CONGRESS TO TAKE ACTION

$150,000,000 May Be Required in 1898, or $32,000,000 More than the Estimated Receipts from Customs.

Washington, Dec. 6.—For the first time since the pension appropriations began to assume enormous proportions it seems certain that the subject will receive proper and earnest attention from Congress. It begins to be seen that a pension list which thirty-two years after the close of the war closely approximates half the total number of three-year enlistments, and which is still rapidly growing, demands serious consideration. It is a case where the assistance is needed of the veterans who sprang to arms in 1861 before pensions or bounties were talked of or thought of. Their aid is a patriotic duty now as then. They owe it to themselves to frown upon unworthy pensioners on the rolls and unworthy applicants.

The pension roll now far exceeds the membership of all the patriotic societies of veterans which the war created, in fact is considerably more than double the membership of all of them —Grand Army of the Republic, Union Veterans' Union, Military Order of the Loyal Legion, Society of the Army of the Potomac, Society of the Army of the James, Society of the Army of the Tennessee, Society of the Army of West Virginia and the Society of the Army of the Cumberland.

Turning from the contemplation of numbers to the consideration of the cost, it appears that next year's expenditure for pensions will require more than half the yearly receipts as calculated upon those of the month just closed. The present estimate is that the roll will cost $150,000,000. To put the matter in still more striking form, this annual outlay will require $32,000,000 more than the total receipts from customs, estimated upon those of the month of November last as an average. If this annual expense be compared with the internal-revenue receipts estimated on the same basis, it is found that the entire revenue from this source, with the exception of $12,000,000, will be required to pay the pension roll.

Looked at in another shape, if a line could be formed equal in length to one made up of all the three-year veterans of the war and every other man should be advanced a pace to the front, the numbers in either line would then but slightly exceed those on the pension roll, and more than every other dollar of the Government revenue would be required to pay it.

More startling still does the magnitude of this pension payment appear when its amount is compared with the items of annual appropriations. These in round numbers were the appropriations for the current fiscal year:

Legislative	$7,713,000
Executive, proper	200,000
State	2,169,000
Treasury	32,269,000
War	50,978,000
Navy	33,554,000
Postoffice	939,000
Interior, except pensions	15,012,000
Agriculture	3,188,000
Justice	6,126,000
Labor	174,000
Pensions	141,264,000
Total	$302,585,000
Total without pensions	161,321,000
Pensions for next year	150,000,000

It will be seen from these figures that if the cost of Congress, the printing office, the library and the botanical garden, expressed in the item legislative, and the Agricultural Department be taken out of the above column the pensions for next year will equal the toal cost of the remaining Government service. That is to say, the cost of pensions will, with the small exceptions noted, equal the entire salary list of the Government in Washington and throughout the country, the expenses of all the departments, including the whole judicial system, the cost of the army and navy, Postoffice deficiencies, public buildings, fortifications and ships, rivers and harbors, the Department of Labor and the whole expense of the White House and its salaries. A long array of prominent items, such as those for the coast survey, the life-saving service, the lighthouse system, the Indian service, the General Land Office, the Marine Hospital service, the National Soldiers' homes, the customs service, which are included in the above figures, might be added to still further emphasize the point under consideration.

Such comparisons as these have at last attracted the attention which they deserve, and Washington upon the eve of the opening of Congress is full of talk based upon such presentation of the subject.

Pension reform has been a question which for years has been forcing itself upon the attention of Congressmen. It has been put aside from year to year because, from motives which are easily understood and which have much to commend them, there was a general disposition to provide for the growing burden rather than seem even to be turning the cold shoulder to veterans. But with a pension expenditure requiring more than half the present yearly revenues, and at a time when these revenues are falling many millions below the total annual expenditures, the question becomes one involving not only justice to the old soldier, but fairness to the rest of the nation.

There is no dissent worth consideration from the proposition that if $150,000,000 is fairly due to soldiers, or those who have been or are dependent upon them on account of disabilities incurred in the service, every cent of it should be promptly paid. Further than this there is general assent to the proposition that the Government owes to all who were disabled and impoverished by the casualties of the service not the mere pittance which so many of these now receive, but a sum which, with other means that the pensioner may be able to command, would lift him and those depending upon him above want.

There is a growing feeling that the pensions enjoyed by many thousands who are in full health and comfortably fixed in life should be terminated, and the Government be thus enabled to more nearly discharge its duty towards the helpless and the miserable.

FUNERAL BY TROLLEY.

This Custom in Favor in the City of Mexico for Public Obsequies.

The funeral trolley car has been steadily making its way, and its general adoption promises to be not long deferred. An improved car, made for service in Cincinnati, is an elaborate development of the original form. It is solid black in color, with gold leaf distributed throughout to relieve the somberness of tone. It is about 20 feet long, with a vestibule in front to hold the casket. In general design and size this vestibule much resembles the box of a hearse, placed crosswise of the car. The opening is at the side of the car, and the casket is shut off from the view of those within the car. In the inner apartment there is room for about twenty passengers. In the case of a largely attended funeral, another ordinary car could be added, which would hold from thirty to fifty people, and would greatly reduce the expense, besides obviating a great deal of the delay incident to the use of carriages. To be able to hire such a car instead of a hearse, and the number of mourning carriages ordinarily necessary, is an immense boon to people with limited means. In Cincinnati, for instance, a hearse costs $8, and five carriages, which would be necessary to carry twenty people, would cost $4 each, or $20, making $28. This item should now be reduced by at least one-half. While in this country the street car would probably not be looked upon as meeting the requirements of a great public funeral, in the City of Mexico all the attendants at state obsequies travel to and from the cemetery in street cars, and while the funeral procession is in progress all the other traffic on the line is stopped.—St. Louis Globe Democrat.

JEWS IN PALESTINE.

The Golden City May Soon Again Have a Temple as of Old.

The Rev. J. L. Hetfeld, a converted Jewish rabbi, says that there are now three times as many Jews in Palestine as returned with Ezra and Nehemiah. "The Jews," he says, "will soon erect a temple in Jerusalem, and will establish the sacrifices of old. I received a letter from my home a short time ago in which they tell me of a meeting with an English lady, who was studying art and sculpture in Milan. She said that while in Milan she entered one of the largest workshops and saw there a magnificent pillar. She asked them about it and they told her that it was for the new temple of Jerusalem. In Rome she also saw another pillar which was being finished for the temple. It may be possible that some of the influential Jews are quietly preparing for the erection of this temple. The time is fast approaching when Palestine will be wholly populated by the Jews. The Sultan is in dire straits for money, and may sell the country to them at any time. When that comes to pass, I believe that the ten tribes of Israel will be gathered there from all parts of the world."—New York Tribune.

Why He Had a Preference.

The Rochester Post Express tells a story of an old colored coachman who, as a slave, had attended his master's church, the Episcopal, for thirty years. After the war the master gave up his carriage, and the coachman shifted for himself. Taking advantage of his freedom, he began visiting various churches, and finally made a new connection. Meeting his old master one day, he admitted, with some embarrassment, that he had done changed and "jined de Mefodis." He said he "liked 'em bettah," and when pinned down told why: "Well, I'll tell you, marster; you know when you goes to a Mefodis church, jes' as soon as you gits inside dey settle right down to business, a preachin' of de Gorspul whilst in de 'Piskerpul church it takes 'em too long to read de perceedin's o' de las' meetin.'

It Was a Birthday Party.

A little girl who lives in Crafton received an invitation to a party which a friend was about to give, says the Pittsburg "Chronicle-Telegraph." The invitation had been written by the small hostess. After surveying the note with delight for a few minutes the recipient said:

"Papa, I wonder if it is a birthday party."

"Let me see the invitation."

After a brief inspection he said:

"Yes; it must be a birthday party. It begins, 'Your presents is desired.'"

Japan's Quaint Ways.

Japanese cycle manufacturers conduct their business on decidedly quaint lines. They charge for their machine according to the speed at which they are capable of running—that is, what they term a "seven-mile bicycle" may be bought for $30, while a twelve-mile bicycle cost $50. At this rate, it would hardly be worth while to try to push American machines in Japan, although the "seven-mile bicycle" could be done considerably under $30 by some American bicycle manufacturers.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. How to Look Good.

Good looks are really more than skin deep, depending entirely on a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the liver be inactive, you have a bilious look; if your stomach be disordered, you have a dyspeptic look; if your kidneys be effected, you have a pinched look. Secure good health and you will surely have good looks. "Electric Bitters" is a good Alterative and Tonic. Acts directly on the stomach, liver and kidneys. Purifies the blood, cures pimples, blotches and boils, and gives a good complexion. Every bottle guaranteed. Sold at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store. 50 cents per bottle.

Don't be persuaded into buying liniments without reputation or merit—Chamberlain's Pain Balm costs no no more, and its merits have been proven by a test of many years. Such letters as the following, from L. G. Bagley, Hueneme, Cal., are constantly being received: "The best remedy for pain I have ever used is Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and I say so after having used it in my family for several years." It cures rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olagah, Ind. Ter. Chief. This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and la grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

"YES OR NO?"

Miss Tennant First Declined and Then Accepted the Great Explorer.

A pretty story of how Henry M. Stanley wooed and won Miss Dorothy Tennant, though coming to us from private sources has been made sufficiently public to avert the charge of undue personality. Miss Tennant, it is well known, was the original of Sir John Millais's famous picture. "Yes or No?" It seems that Stanley had asked the question and the reply was "No."

The great explorer went to Africa again, and after several years returned to London to find himself the most talked-of man of the day.

The thought of Miss Tennant was still uppermost in his mind, and he resolved that his first visit should be to her home. In his impatience for the morrow he turned over the cards and notes with which the table was strewn and, selecting one haphazard, decided to while away the time by attending a certain reception.

The first person he met there was Miss Tennant; they greeted each other formally, but later in the evening Stanley retired to a small anteroom, to find that Miss Tennant had likewise sought solitude. A somewhat embarrassing silence ensued, broken at last by the woman saying with the manner of one "making conversation":

"Do you find London much changed, Mr. Stanley?"

"No. I haven't found London changed, and I've not changed, either," returned the explorer with his usual intrepidity. "Have you?"

"Yes, I've changed," answered Miss Tennant, softly.

A few days later Millais received a note from his former subject, beginning:

"My Dear Sir John: The momentous question has been at last decided. It is a joyful and triumphant 'yes!'"

A CURIOUS COFFIN.

No Ordinary, Every-Day Affair to Hold the Remains of the Captain.

Capt. Lord Charles Beresford is nothing if not original, and is determined to be so even in death. For he has resolved to be buried, not in an ordinary coffin, but in a casket fashioned in the form of a boat, which has just been constructed for him by Messrs. Windram, of Liverpool. The build of the boat is of the style known as "caravel," the material being of pine, West African mahogany, oak and elm.

It is seven feet long, and looks like a double-ended lifeboat, without, perhaps, quite as much sheer as is usually found in such craft. She is provided with a wooden deck, or cover, extending fore and aft, and fitted lid-fashion to go over the gunwale. Life-lines are fixed round her, and she is supplied with a couple of cars, a rudder and a tiller.

The inside, upholstered by a leading London undertaker, is very inviting, and altogether the boat is one of the most attractive coffins that it is possible to conceive.

Lord Charles does not propose to follow the example of Sarah Bernhardt and of other notoriety-crazed actors and actresses who carry their coffins about with them, but has resolved to leave it in the care of his undertaker, with whom it is to remain until the time comes for the gallant and popular sailor to "slip his cables and to have his queer lifeboat moored until the Day of Judgment in the family valut of the noble house of Beresford at Curraghmore, in County Waterford, Ireland.—New York World.

STRANGE AFRICAN RACE.

One Time Invaluable as Slaves and Could be Captured in Thousands.

Queer stories are told of the Dokos who live among the moist, warm, bamboo woods to the south of Kaffa and Susa in Africa. But four feet high, of a dark olive color, savage and naked, they have neither houses, temples, fire, nor human food. They eat mice, and serpents, diversified by a few roots and fruits. They let their nails grow long like talons, the better to dig for ants and the more easily to tear in pieces their favorite snakes.

The Dokos used to be invaluable as slaves, and they were taken in large numbers. The slave raiders used to hold up bright-colored cloths as they came to the woods where these human monkeys still live, and the poor Dokos could not resist the attractions offered by such superior people. They crowded around them, and were taken in thousands.

These people have a queer habit of speaking to Yer with their heads on the ground and their heels in the air. Yer is their idea of a superior power, to whom they talk in this comical way when they are dispirited or vexed, or tired of ants and snakes. The Dokos seem to come nearest of all people yet discovered to that terrible cousin to humanity, the ape.

Microscope as a Thief-Catcher.

A curious use of the microscope was lately made in Prussia. It appears that on one of the railways a barrel, which should have contained silver coin, was found on arrival at its destination to have been emptied of its precious contents and sand substituted. Prof. Ehrenberg was consulted on the subject, and he sent for samples of sand from all the stations along the different lines of railways through which the specie had passed, and by means of his microscope identified the station from which the interpolated sand must have been taken. In due time the culprit was found to be one of the employes at that station.—London Echo.

THE JORNADA WELL.

JOHN MARTIN'S LONG STRUGGLE TO FIND WATER ON THE ARID PLAIN.

He Was Ready to Abandon the Work but Allowed the Men to Try One More Shot to Blast the Rock—This Last Effort Proved the Crowning One.

"Do you see that house and windmill off to the east?" said an old-time New Mexican to a New York tourist. The two were occupying the same seat in the Atchison train rolling southward over the Jornada del Muerto and had struck up a friendly acquaintance together. "That is Martin's well. The Mexicans called it Aleman, the word for German in their tongue. Martin was a German who came to New Mexico in early days when the Jornada had the worst name of any traveled region in the Territory, and deserved it. The trail from Santa Fe to El Paso crossed it, and the trip over this plain meant a seventy-mile stretch without water except the chance of finding a pool in the time of the summer rains. At all other seasons the plain was arid. Travelers undertaking to cross it gave their horses all the water they wanted at starting, drank all they could themselves, filled their water bottles, said their prayers then if they ever did, and rode upon the plain with their lives in their hands. There could be no delay with safety, for, with the best luck, thirst was oppressing them when at last the trail came down among the cottonwoods that border the Rio Grande and man and beast could drink their fill from the muddy current. Bands of Apaches swept the plain and lay ambush for travelers by the river bank at either end of the Jornada trail, and it is little wonder that the crossing of it should be dreaded and that it should receive the name it bears, the 'Journey of Death.'

"Martin was an original character, with lots of push and sand. After crossing the Jornada a number of times with wagon trains he made up his mind that water could be found by digging at a point about midway across it, and made his arrangements to sink a well there. He began with the rainy season, and with a force of diggers and blasters set to work in earnest. The Jornada rests on a foundation of hard volcanic rock, and after digging down a short distance he had to use powder all the rest of the time. It was a slow, expensive and dangerous piece of business. The men had to receive high wages to risk their lives in such a place, all supplies had to be brought fifty miles from Mesilla, and every spoonful of water used was hauled in barrels from pools left by the rains in hollows of the prairie. But Martin kept the work going through the rainy season and after until, one by one, the pools dried up, and it became very difficult to provide his crew with water. Still no sign of water could be found in the well as the men worked slowly downward through the rock.

"The end came one day when Martin rode in from Mesilla and looked down into the hole where the men were drilling in the solid rock.

"'Work till noon, boys,' he called down to them. 'When you come up to dinner bring your tools with you. We pack our wagons and start for Mesilla this afternoon.'

"'Shall we load up the holes we're putting in and try one more blast?' asked the foreman.

"'Yes, we'll waste one more round of powder on the thing,' answered Martin, and turning his back, walked away to think over by himself what a fool he had been to invest everything he had in an undertaking that all his friends had told him was bound to fail.

"The men filled and tamped the holes, and at noon came up out of the well, the last man staying behind long enough to light the fuses. The blast went off while they were seating themselves at dinner. The meal eaten, while some of the men helped to bring in and harness the mules, and others began to pack the wagons, one man sauntered over to the well hole and looked down to see what the last blast had done. He yelled as if Indians were in sight, and the men came running to see what he had found. The well was half full of water and the water was still rising. The last blast had opened the rock down to the water vein, and Martin's fortune was made.

"All the great wagon traffic and the stages over the Jornada had to pay him toll, and his well was a mine of wealth to him. The charge per horse or ox for watering was 25 cents, and with the long wagon trains constantly crossing the desert, the profits counted up fast. One class of travelers, the Apaches, never paid toll to Martin. They would come to the well, usually by night, water their horses, and ride away, never molesting the people in charge. This mutual understanding continued until these Indians ceased to go on the war path and kept to their reservations. Aleman was made a station of the overland stage route, and a railroad station near the well now bears its name. When, in 1880, the Atchison Company built their railroad across the Jornada and settlers coming out on the desert began to build reservoirs for rain water and to sink artesian wells, the glory of Aleman departed, and the place became the headquarters of a cattle company—New York Sun.

THE GOVERNORSHIP.

In the telegraphic columns of The Press today is printed the news that Gov. Griggs is surely to be appointed Attorney-General by President McKinley. As stated in The Press Saturday this means, from present prospects, that Senator Voorhees will become acting Governor after Mr. Griggs' retirement, by virtue of his being elected president of the Senate. The Senator declares he has every assurance of being selected for that position by his Legislative colleagues There are a large number of important official appointments to be made by the Governor during the coming year, and among them are the Prosecutorship and Judgeship of Union county.

The following editorial from the Trenton True American this morning has an important bearing on the Governorship:

Put this down as certain:

If Governor Griggs is to resign the Governorship, after the Senate elects its president to succeed him, Foster Voorhees will not be that president.

Every Senator may be in favor of his election to the presidency, but none of the bosses, whose tools the Senators are, will be willing to have him appointed as Governor even for a year.

The total value of property in Plainfield as assessed for taxation is $7,800,000. The amount of fees received by the city from retail liquor sellers this year is $7,700 (eleven licenses at $700 each). If next year no money is received from this source, how much will it increase the tax bills. It will increase them one-tenth of one per cent on the valuation. If a person pays taxes on property valued by the assessor at $1,000, it will cost him one dollar to do away with license fees. On $2,000 of property he will have an extra tax of two dollars, on $3,000, three dollars, and so on. If any voter has hesitated to make up his mind to vote no-license because it would seriously increase his tax bill, a glance at these figures will convince him that he can well afford to disregard the cost.

During the past few weeks communications concerning the issues of city election have come to The Press office in great numbers, and especially in reference to the liquor license question. Strangely, however, not one letter has been received in which the present license system is endorsed. To the correspondents who have favored us with their views for publication we state that if their letters have not appeared in print it has not been because they were unworthy of presentment, but simply because pressure of "live" news has made it impracticable to give the space to them.

GRAND JURY MAY INVESTIGATE.

Seven Contract Frauds in Elizabeth Likely to Cause Trouble for Some One.

The frauds practiced on the city of Elizabeth by certain contractors in the performance of sewer work is likely to engage the attention of the Union County Grand Jury, which meets in January. Judge Van Syckel, it is said, will be appealed to by the taxpayers and asked to order the Grand Jury to make a searching investigation. In this way alone it is believed all the facts in connection with the scandal will be brought to light, and there is no telling as yet what the extent of the frauds will prove to be.

Voters Attention

To the conservative voters of the city of Plainfield we appeal.

In the approaching municipal election in this city the Citizens' ticket presents the names of citizens well known and who are pledged to opposition of all forms of extravagance in city government. We condemn the present administration as being unnecessarily extravagant and unwise in the needless increase of salaries, and in unwarranted pressure of so-called improvements. This lack of judgment is reflected in our increased tax bills, which tend to retard the healthy progress of our city.

We favor the most rigid economy in all expenditures of public money, especially at a time when the earnings of the laboring man are lessened, and all burdens bear most heavily on the people.

The Republican ticket takes the the side of all the past extravagance by nominating in the present contest five of the present Council, who voted for all the measures that are now so great a burden on the people.

The nominees of the Citizens' ticket pledge themselves to see that all public monies shall be expended in such a manner that all classes shall receive equal benefits, without regard to location.

Citizens, we are in this contest for the equal rights of all, and on this platform we ask your votes. We, therefore, appeal to the manhood of our fellow-citizens to save our fair city from the disaster that overtook the cities of Rahway and Elizabeth.

Ex. Com. of Citizens' Ticket.

Voters Attention !

Frederic H. Andrews, one of the nominees on the Republican ticket for Councilman at large, is known as a very conscientious and just man. If elected to the position of Councilman, he would bring to it a ripe business experience, and could be absolutely depended upon to give the duties of the office that care and attention which the city at this time requires. The interests of all classes can safely be intrusted to his hands.

The case of D. H. H. Butler against Mrs. W. R. Littlefield, on contract, was tried for the second time by a jury in Justice Toucey's court Friday afternoon. The suit was brought to collect a bill for professional services rendered by the plaintiff to a cow owned by the defendant. At the former trial the jury disagreed. After listening to all the evidence, the second jury brought in a verdict in favor of the plaintiff. The attorneys in the case were Paul Q. Oliver for the plaintiff and Charles H. Angleman for the defendant.

The statement made in The Press of November 29th concerning injuries received by Natalie Brown, the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Brown, of Prospect street, was erroneous in several particulars. The fracture of the bone was at the elbow joint, making it an extremely difficult one to heal. The bone was set by two Westfield physicians and healed just as they predicted that it would. The stiffness of the joint was only the natural consequence of an injury of that sort. The child was taken to a hospital and placed under an anæsthetic, not to have the fracture broken and reset, but to have the elbow joint manipulated. The child has now almost wholly recovered the use of the limb.

LINCOLN.

Yesterday afternoon interesting exercises were held at Lincoln in the new hall over the school building in the dedication services of the Sunday-school. The hall was filled with children and parents. The superintendent, T. W. Sheldon, had charge of the meeting and Miss Emma Egel, the founder of the Sunday-school, assisted him. After singing, reading of the Bible and prayers, the superintendent called on S. D. Drake for an address who responded, saying that the Sunday-school was organized October 17th with 24 scholars and that today there was an average attendance of 60 scholars and teachers. Other addresses were made by Rev. T. E. Davis, pastor of Presbyterian church, Rev. J. W. Daly, pastor of Methodist church and Rev. J. O. Jones, of Congregational church, of Bound Brook, who all congratulated Lincoln on laying the corner stone of the town right in having a public school and Sunday-school, and also in not having any gin mill or saloon in the town.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manuufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. THE ARTFUL MRS. H.

BY FREDERICK PALMER.

Professor Hilsdrup tugged at the bell rope for the second time, and glared more savagely than ever at the beautiful thing in crispy brown and yellow lying between two sprigs of parsley. Such a frown when aimed at such an omelet was unworthy of any fair-minded man. All of Mrs Hodgson's omelets were wonderful, and this was one of her best.

When he had taken Mrs. Hodgson's drawing-room floor, with a sitting-room looking out on a delightful little garden and the bare walls of the British Museum, some three months before, just as the winter was breaking, and settled down to work on his "Isaac Newton and His Compeers," such an omelet had come up in the company of a well-loaded fruit-stand for his first breakfast. As he pushed his chair back from the plate with only a faint trace of yellow left on it, he determined to have that omelet's counterpart every morning. He had it, and enjoyed it with a leisurely taste that enriches life for a man of fifty-four, until a friend, who introduced him to mutton-pie luncheons in the British Museum restaurant, assured him that eggs were the making of biliousness.

In truth, between mutton-pies and hard work, the professor's stomach was quite out of order.

"Good morning, professor!" It was Mrs. Hodgson herself who had entered.

"Don't you know, he growled, "that I am of a bilious temperament, and omelets are not good for me?"

"One of my omelets?" she asked doubtfully. She had never seen the professor in such a mood before. She was at once indignant and chagrined.

"All omelets are alike, madam!"

"Mine are no better than anybody else's?"

"Madam," continued the professor in a cold, hard voice, "I told Harriet last night that I most especially wanted a mutton chop for breakfast."

"Then—I ate it!"

"You ate it!"

"Yes—I didn't know. Harriet didn't say anything to me about it. I supposed you would have an omelet, as you always had."

"Always! Always! For three months! It's a wonder that I have anything in my body except a liver!" He tried to annihilate the omelet with one glance and Mrs. Hodgson with another.

"When I saw only one chop in the larder," said Mrs. Hodgson, her natural snap and dignity returning, "I supposed it was for me, of course, as I usually have a mutton chop for breakfast."

"Ah! You don't eat your own omelets."

"You don't eat your own manuscripts!" she replied with asperity. "If you will wait only a few minutes I will send out for a chop," she added more pleasantly.

"No," said the professor, sitting down at the table with the air of a martyr. "No. I am a busy man, Mrs Hodgson. I will eat this now that it is here. And, Mrs. Hodgson, I wish you would not arrange my papers on my desk any more. Don't touch my desk. You can throw away anything you find on the floor."

"But, sir, you showed me how to arrange them when you first came, and you said I did it so nicely and saved you a lot of trouble."

This was too much. The professor felt that his dignity was at stake.

"Mrs. Hodgson," he thundered, "I shall leave when my week is up!"

She tossed her head and said, "Very well," with aggravating sweetness. The professor settled down to his breakfast muttering something about "impudent woman." Once out in the hall Mrs. Hodgson stamped her foot and exclaimed, "The old fool!"

That omelet tasted uncommonly well, as if to tantalize him. He ate it all, even to the last fragment, which tantalized him still further. Then he went over to his desk to write. His pen, his paper, his notebook were where Mrs. Hodgson had placed them, which was just where they ought to be. This also was most tantalizing. Yet he found himself a few moments later carrying his overcoat down stairs on his arm as usual, and harboring a faint notion that he ought to forgive Mrs. Hodgson. She was pruning the flowers on the stand in the hall, and Harriet was near her, receiving some orders.

"Mrs. Hodgson, would you—ah?"—he asked politely.

"Harriet," said Mrs. Hodgson, as she continued to snip off dead leaves, "help the gentleman on with his overcoat."

He was rudely awakened next morning by Harriet, who was sweeping and dusting in his sitting-room. Heretofore Mrs. Hodgson had made it a point to attend to this herself, doing it so quietly that the professor was never disturbed. However, he had his chop for breakfast and everything else, even to the overcoat lying on the chair where he had thrown it the night before, was as he had ordered.

After ransacking the drawers of his desk and pawing over the disorder of papers on top of it in a vain search for his notebook, which contained the fruits of three months' researches, he was anything but reassured by a hazy recollection of having nodded over it and having carelessly laid it on the chair at his side. This had happened before; but he had always found the notebook on his desk in the morning.

"Did you see a book on the floor?" he cried to Harriet, when she had answered the fierce ringing of the bell.

"You—you said anything on the floor"—

"Find it! Find it!" he thundered. "Don't dare to come back without it!"

The professor paced up and down with anger in his heart against Mrs. Hodgson and her omelets, until there was a soft knock at the door, which he recognized as Mrs. Hodgson's. He presumed she had come to apologize for what she would doubtless call an "unfortunate accident." He would let her know in plain terms that hers was the worst conducted house in London.

"Your book, professor," she said, holding it out to him. "Though Harriet had found it on the floor, I picked it out of the rubbish, thinking I could do no harm, any way."

"Er—ah! Thank you."

"And I have let the room for Saturday," she went on in a voice which he thought was assumed to annoy him.

"Er—ah! Very well."

His friend observed that the Museum mutton pie on that date was especially good. The professor ate of it heartily, but was soon feeling so badly that he concluded to devote the remainder of the afternoon to searching for rooms. After climbing the stairs of seven different houses, he began to speculate upon how in the world landladies were able to let such miserable, ill-kept apartments to anybody. At one place, in a moment of absent-mindedness, he actually asked if the cook could make good omelets. When the landlady said "Yes," he told her abruptly that he wouldn't think of taking her rooms. Weary and cross, he returned to his rooms. In the morning noisy Harriet robbed him of his sleep, and he went into his sitting-room to face a chop and a disordered desk again.

On Saturday morning when he went out to his chop and disordered desk, two strange trunks in the corner of the sitting-room reminded him that he had not engaged another lodging. Mrs. Hodgson came in. She hoped that his luggage was packed, as the other gentleman was coming in an hour. The professor did not reply. Twice he lifted his cup of tea and set it down without drinking.

"Then I may take it that you are ready?" she asked.

"No. As a matter of fact, I've been so busy that I haven't had time to look about much for a place. If you have a small room that I could have only for a week, it would"—he spoke with great reserve—"be in the nature—ah—of an accommodation."

It happened by mere chance," as Mrs. Hodgson was careful to explain, that this was possible. Harriet was sent to help him carry up his belongings. When the wreckage left by the wayside had been collected and everything he possessed was piled helter-skelter in the little room on the third floor, the professor concluded that he would make no attempt to put things right for so short a stay.

He heard a cab drive up in front of the house. The new lodger must have come. Prompted by a curiosity possibly inconsistent with the dignity of the author of "Isaac Newton and His Compeers," he went to the window. He stepped back in surprise. None other than his mutton-pie friend was to be his successor in the drawing-room floor. His misery was increased the following morning when he saw Harriet taking one of Mrs. Hodgson's works of art into the one who had sworn that omelets were the enemies of mankind.

He now fairly hated chops, and condescended to ask Harriet for an omelet for breakfast. She brought him one—of her own making. He was on the point of telling her of something that was not to be spoken of lightly, but he sighed instead. A work of art was not to be expected from Harriet.

He did not go to the Museum, and strategetically contrived to avoid a meeting with the base interloper all the week. But once he had a very narrow escape. He had to wait at the head of the stairs while he saw Mrs. Hodgson help the interloper on with his overcoat—convincing proof that a man who ate mutton pies would stop at nothing. Though he became the terror of the landladies of Bloomsbury, Saturday found him with strange trunks in his disordered little room, and still with no apartment engaged. It also found him meek as well as miserable.

He went down stairs and knocked on the door of Mrs. Hodgson's little room on the ground floor. There was no answer. Harriet came up from the kitchen to say that missus was making the other gentleman's omelet. She opened the door and offered him a chair. He waited in vexation, longing for revenge, longing to show up the mutton-pie interloper, who secretly ordered omelets, in his true colors. Finally, Mrs. Hodgson entered, flushed with the successful outcome of a work of art.

"Really, Mrs. Hodgson," said the professor, affably, "I have been so busy, and to get a room requires a deal of looking about, doesn't it?"

She did not say whether it did or not.

"If it would not be too much trouble—would you accommodate me again?"

"I'm—I'm sorry."

"There are the hotels, professor."

"Mrs. Hodgson—Mrs. Hodgson!" he burst out tragically, will you not go on making omelets for me forever?"

After a little blushing and parrying, she said that she would, and put the seal on her acceptance by immediately giving the base interloper a week's notice.—The Sketch.

HIS DOWNFALL.

He used to be a "ladies' man,"
Babbling and gay;
He wore his hair in bangs and had
A winning way—
He used to be a "ladies' man,"
But things are run on another plan
To-day!

Now he's just a woman's man,
Silent and meek;
His wife says men are fools, and he's Afraid to squeak;
She's big and strong and runs affairs
And sits upon him if he dares
To speak! —Cleveland Leader.

WHAT ROYALTY ENDURES.

Discomforts That Court Etiquette Imposed on the Czar and His Suite.

Those who imagine that all is couleur de rose for crowned heads little know the immense inconveniences and discomforts with which they are frequently obliged to put up by very reason of their exalted position. No more striking demonstration of this could well be found than is to be met with in the recital of the Russian Imperial family's trials at the time of the visit to Balmoral. The Emperor and the Empress, with the little Grand-duchess Olga, who was then about eight months old, left Denmark in the imperial yacht Standart, crossed the German Ocean and ran up the River Dee, coming to anchor about seventeen miles from the castle. They were met by the Prince of Wales, and his suite. A drizzling rain was falling as the imperial party disembarked, and hardly had they taken their places in the landaus—the Empress in the most dainty of white, lace-trimmed gowns, and the Emperor and his suit in their magnificent gold embroidered uniforms—when an order was given for the tops of the carriages to be thrown open, and despite the steady downpour into which the drizzle had now turned, the imperial cortege set forth in this manner. After some slight protest on the Empress' part, Her Majesty raised an umbrella, as did also the lady-in-waiting, who had the bare of baby Olga; and so, between alternations of drizzle and pouring rain, the seventeen miles were accomplished, gaping crowds lining the entire way to witness this most uncomfortable passage of royalty.

There was, however, consolation in the thought that, once the castle was attained, their trouble would be over. Vain hope! At the castle entrance stood a Court Chamberlain, who as each carriage drove up informed its occupants that Her Majesty requested the immediate attendance of its occupants in the great drawing room; and, all drenched as they were from the watery drive, they passed into the Queen's presence, the little Grand-duchess alone being carried at once to her apartment.

Seated on a large round ottoman in the centre of the room, her black draperies standing out about her in something of the form of a haystack, with the Princesses drawn up in a half-circle beyond, the Queen awaited the arrival of her imperial grandchildren, and most cordial and affectionate was her greeting when they appeared. Just as all were congratulating themselves upon their final release being close at hand, dinner was announced, and, taking the Emperor's arm, the Queen led the way immediately to the dining-room. Nor were the troubles of the guests ended with the dinner, for no sooner had the Queen and Empress retired with their ladies than the Prince of Wales led the Emperor and his suite to the smoking-room, where for a good half hour they stood gazing with longing eyes at the low Turkish divans and tempting easy chairs, in which their uniforms—unbending as steel harness with their resplendent gold embroideries—utterly prohibited their reclining. Surely the hour at which court etiquette permitted of their retiring must have been hailed that night with most devout thanksgivings from them all.

THE SPARROW'S REVENGE.

The Poor Pigeon Had to Suffer for a Crime of Which He Was Not Guilty.

This story deals with the sagacity and pugnacity of the English sparrow, and also shows how curiosity may get an innocent creature into trouble. The Riddle mansion that stands in Glen Riddle, Delaware County, has for some time been the nesting place of several families or sparrows, and the birds had become a regular pest. One day last week Miss Riddle decided to get rid of the birds, and mounting a ladder she tore out at least a dozen nests from the eaves of the porch. The old birds, returning later and finding their homes wrecked, held a noisy meeting on the roof, and then dispersed.

A stray pigeon that had been roosting around the place for several days came back late in the afternoon and flew under the porch eaves as usual. The pigeon evidently noticed something wrong, for several times he flew from the porch to where the dismantled nests lay. This caused the trouble, for the angry sparrows noticed it, and suspected the pigeon of being the cause of their despair. The first thing the unlucky pigeon knew he was attacked by at least twenty screaming sparrows, who began pecking at him, and despite a brave resistance the sparrows came off victorious and left a mangled corpse on the field.

Cash Register in Garfield's Tomb.

In the tomb of James A. Garfield is a cash register, which rings up a ticket for every visitor, showing that a dime has been paid to the association for the privilege of viewing the monument erected to the martyr President.

Cleveland, Ohio, has two great monuments, and an unenviable notoriety hangs around each. When Gen. Garfield was buried in Lake View cemetery the people of the nation set out to raise $200,000 to build a monument worthy of his memory. At the time of the dedication of the monument $50,000 of the fund was lacking. The deficit was raised by the nation and the monument was left clear of debt.

From the cash register $6,000 a year is extracted. But the thrifty association has another source of profit. Inside the tomb is a counter where relics of the dead President are sold. Here can be bought at a bargain bits of the marble of which the tomb is built and pictures of the monument and the man. From the sale table $500 a year is cleared.

THE CHURCH'S BAN.

WHAT IT MEANS TO BE THE SUBJECT OF A PAPAL EXCOMMUNICATION.

One Form Designated as By Bell, Book and Candle, a Solumn and Awful Rite to Those Who Were Under Ecclesiastical Displeasure.

The formal excommunication by the Pope of the Count of Turin and of Prince Henri of Orleans, because of their participation in the recent duel, which has challenged the attention of the civilized world, renews interest in one of the great powers claimed for the Papal see.

In its broadest sense ex-communication is an ecclesiastical censure by which a Christian is separated from the communion of the church. Catholic authorities hold that it is a power included in the power of the keys, or of binding and loosening, given by Christ to Peter and the Apostles.

There are two forms of excommunication recognized by the church, the major and the minor. The minor is an ecclesiastical censure by which the Christian is deprived of the right to participate in the sacraments. This is a religious discipline inflicted for relatively small faults.

In former times the victim of a major excommunication was a pariah, an outcast, from whose presence the faithful fled, shuddering. The sentence was pronounced upon him with the most solemn and awful accompaniments. The Church was clothed in black, the priests donned their most sombre habits. The organ was silenced. All the assistants held lighted candles in their hands. The officiating clergymen solemnly read from a book the curses which were to follow the offender, sleeping, walking or lying. When he was through a bell rang. The assistants reversed their candles and crushed the light out under foot, a terrible symbol of the fact that the spiritual light had been extinguished in the soul of the condemned one.

Hence the excommunication is still popularly known as excommunication by bell, book and candle.

If the victim were a sovereign and refused to make submission, the Pope released his subjects from their vows of allegiance, but made them in so far responsible for the acts of their ruler that services of all sorts were suspended throughout the whole country. No priest could say mass or celebrate a marriage, or hear confessions or grant absolutions, or give the sacraments even to the new born or the dying.

If the sovereign finally repented, his reception back into the fold was equally solemn. The Bishop, accompanied by twelve priests in surplices, met him at the door of the church. There the Bishop questioned the penitent whether he was truly contrite. Satisfied of this he and the assistant priests recited the seven penitential psalms, interrupting themselves from time to time to flog the victim with a whip or a staff. Then the formula of absolution was pronounced and more prayers were said, at the end of which the penitent was readmitted into the communion of the faithful.

The excommunication of Robert II., King of France, is perhaps the most famous instance of a wholesale excommunication of this sort. It was pronounced by a Roman council because of his marriage to his fourth cousin. Cardinal Saint-Pierre Damien, his contemporary, in a letter written to the Abbe du Mont-Cassin, reports that "the terror felt by the people at this sacerdotal edict is so great that everybody has fled from the presence of the King, and only two little slaves remain in the palace to care for him. Even these look upon the vessels from which he drinks or eats as having been contaminated by his touch and they throw them at once into the fire." Robert, a man of a gentle and pious character, eventually yielded to the Pope's demands.

Many sovereigns have suffered from the Papal interdict with less and less inconvenience to themselves as the centuries succeeded one another. Napoleon I. was naturally singled out at the time of his divorce and remarriage, when he not only defied Papal authority, but imprisoned His Holiness. The excommunication, however, did not affect him very grievously. He found quite enough complaisant clergy of his own creation not merely to perform the marriage ceremony in defiance of the Pope, but also to administer the sacraments to himself and to his subjects. Napoleon III. was also excommunicated at one time for having connived at the invasion of the States of the church. Victor Emmanuel, as the active agent in the final invasion, was of course under the ban of the Church until his very deathbed, and King Humbert has succeeded to his father's ecclesiastical condition.

The attitude of the Church toward duelling is an uncompromising one.

It is true that in early ages it was the custom to permit the accuser and accused to settle their dispute by duel, and this mode of decision was looked upon by the civil law as an appeal to the judgment of God.

Nevertheless, despite the example of individual churchmen, there had gradually been growing up in the Church a sentiment against this form of appeal to the God of Battles.—New York Herald.

A Fortune in Flowers.

A bunch of orchids presented to the Queen at Buckingham Palace recently represented a very comfortable little fortune. It contained over 50,000 blossoms, some of the spikes being almost priceless.

SHE FOOLED UNCLE SAM.

Particulars of the Dauntless' Recent Trip Are Made Public.

Jacksonville, Dec. 6.—The latest story relating to the last alleged filibustering trip of the Dauntless is in effect that the tug, after leaving this port on Nov. 19, reached the bar, where she and her tow were searched by officers from the cruiser Vesuvius. No contraband goods being found, both vessels were allowed to proceed to sea without further molestation.

The Dauntless towed the schooner to Savannah, and docked her, then turned back seaward, and, at a point on the Florida coast known as Fort Lauderdale, received a cargo of arms and ammunition and twenty-five men as an escort to the expedition.

The Dauntless sailed from Savannah on Nov. 21, took on the cargo at Fort Lauderdale on Nov. 24 and set her wheel directly for Cuba. She went to the southern coast of the island to land her cargo and made a landing at a prearranged point, being met by a body of Cuban troops.

Among the articles in her cargo it is said she carried several 12-pound Hotchkiss guns, 200,000 rounds of ammunition, 1,200 rifles and 500 dynamite shells. It is understood that a large quantity of quinine was landed.

MRS. M'KINLEY WASTING AWAY.

Her Death Expected at Any Moment—Watcher's Weary Vigil.

Canton, O., Dec. 6.—Mother McKinley has entered upon the fifth day of her illness with the spark of life still burning dimly. Her condition has continued one of wasting steadily away, the constitution growing weaker hour by hour under the assault of the disease. The family watched by her bedside all night prepared for the end at any moment.

Communication was established with the White House as soon as the President arrived there yesterday morning, and a telegraph wire is open constantly to Washington to advise the President of every occurrence in the sick room. Besides this, he has several times talked with his brother Abner by telephone.

The patient has taken no nourishment since Thursday. It cannot be administered by ordinary methods and the case is one in which heroic methods of administering food are not regarded justifiable. They could not restore health, would be distressing and annoying and might hasten the end.

ENGLAND STIRRED UP.

Will Not Let the War Lord Run Rampant in China.

London, Dec. 6.—The statement cabled a week ago respecting the cession of Chinese territory in order that the defenses of Hong Kong might be improved has been confirmed, but the small territorial concessions at Hong Kong are not for a moment considered to be a set-off to the German occupation of Kiao Chou or the French and Russian acquisitions elsewhere.

England means to bestir herself, and, as an earnest of this, she this week will probably dispatch a couple more cruisers to Chinese waters as a hint to the German Government, which is at present laboriously fitting out reinforcements for the same part of the world.

Indications multiply that the British navy will have work to do this Winter, even if it be nothing more than a peaceful demonstration of its vast latent strength.

GRIGGS WILL BE IN THE CABINET.

The Governor Has Accepted the Attorney-Generalship.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Through Vice-President Hobart the President has offered the position of Attorney-General to Gov. John W. Griggs, of New Jersey, and the offer has been accepted.

The sudden departure of the President for Canton on Friday evening prevented his meeting with Gov. Griggs on that occasion and making the offer of the place personally. There is no doubt that if this interruption had not taken place the announcement would have been made or authorized before now.

The President's return has furnished an opportunity of completing the selection which was in his mind as the result of the Vice-President's recommendations. Gov. Griggs is expected at the White House to-day.

Kid McCoy and Creedon to Fight.

New York, Dec. 6.—What should prove to be one of the greatest boxing contests ever pulled off in this country, will be the twenty-round bout between Dan Creedon, of Australia, and Kid McCoy, which is to be decided at the Long Island Athletic Club on December 17. This contest will practically be for the middle-weight championship of the world, as both men are the only boxers in that class who are entitled to fight for that title. From the moment these men were matched to box in Canada the bout has stirred up considerable interest among the sporting fraternity all over this country, and now that the contest is to be decided in this vicinity, it is expected that one of the largest crowds that ever witnessed a contest in this State will be on hand to see these two men battle.

Chicago Banks to Unite.

Chicago, Dec. 6.—On Jan. 1 the Union National Bank will absorb the Hide and Leather Bank, having taken up all of the latter's stock. President McLaren, of the Hide and Leather, says that the idea of consolidation came from the Comptroller's suggestion that it would be wise for some of the smaller banks to join their issues. Both are old banks, and their aggregate deposits will be about ten million dollars.

Uncle Sam Buys Ship Destroyers.

New York, Dec. 6.—Our Government is still ordering torpedoes to strengthen its naval power. The E. W. Bliss Company, of Brooklyn, has just received a contract for manufacturing $100,000 worth of the latest pattern of Whitehead torpedoes. They can sink the biggest English war ship at eight hundred yards distance.

Troops to Keep Order.

Washington, Dec. 6.—Capt. James M. T. Young, of the United States Marine Corps, has been directed to proceed with twenty-four marines to Juneau, Alaska, to maintain order during the term of the United States Court there.

USE ONLY BLACK PENCIL.

An Important Point in Voting on the License Proposition.

Tho question has been raised by a number of people in view of the city election, tomorrow, whether it is permissable to use any other pen or pencil than a black one in erasing from the ballots the proposition ihstructing the Common Council to continue the licensing of the sale of spirituous liquors. A reporter of The Daily Press interrogated Corporation Counsel Craig A. Marsh upon the matter today, and obtained from him the following opinion:

"For some purposes, the use of any other ink or pencil than a black ink or pencil to erase a portion of a ballot will invalidate the entire ballot. Whether that provision of the ballot reform law applies to the case of marking off or erasing a proposition submitted to the people is an open question."

"My own opinion is, that it has no application to the case of a ballot upon a proposition submitted to the people. However, in view of the fact that it is an open and debatable question, my advice is that every voter should avoid the use of any ink or pencil that is not black."

THEATRICAL.

There was a large and fashionable audience present at Music Hall Saturday night to witness the performance of Henry Dixey, and they were greatly pleased with the entertainment. Maze Edwards, the manager of Music Hall, is making every effort to improve the general class of attractions in local threatre circles and such an audience as the one of Saturday night is a great encouragement to him.

"The City of New York," a big scenic production, which comes to Music Hall tomorrow night, is said to be one of the most intensely interesting melodramas that have been produced in the last 20 years. "The City of New York" is by an American author and deals with American subjects, the principal scene being laid in New York city at Claremont on the Hudson, and in the mountains of Montana. The play is full of comedy and human nature.

Didn't Like His Father's Housekeeper.

William Ross did not like the appearance of the housekeeper who assists his father in the conduct of the Delmonico Oyster and Chop House on Park avenue, and he told his father in plain language what he thought of her Saturday evening. She was shocked and the irate father called in Patrolman Totten. Ross was led away and came up for trial this morning. The Judge heard his story and suspended sentence with a warning to keep away from the Delmonico establishment.

BIG SIX-DAY BICYCLE RACE.

New York, Dec. 6.—Thirty-seven of the speediest long-distance riders in America, England, Ireland, France, Austria, Sweden and Belgium are competing for international honors and gate money in the six-day bicycle race which began in Madison Square Garden shortly after 12 o'clock last night.

Never before has such a high class of contestants been entered in an event of this character, and good judges predict that, barring accidents, the record may be broken. Each contestant had received a special preparation for the race, and faced Starte Eddie Bald in the best of physical condition. The track, too, is of the kind conducive to record breaking. It is constructed on the very latest and most effective principles, speed and safety being the chief aim of the builders. It is ten laps to the mile.

There are representations from all corners of the globe almost, and the Americans will have to ride hard to keep the coveted title from slipping away from them, as it did last year. Teddy Hale, the winner of last year's six-day's race, when he broke all records by riding more than 1,900 miles, is the favorite. He is an Englishmen. He weighs about one hundred and sixty pounds, is a little more than five feet nine inches in height and 35 years of age. He is the typical Englishman, with all the bulldog tendencies of his race.

Jimmy Michael rode two miles in 4.02 2-5 before the big event was started. He tied his Chicago indoor record. Twelve thousand people cheered the riders at the opening.

Her Idea of God.

The little daughter of the Rev. Minot J. Savage had been taught that God was everywhere and manifest in everything and everybody. One day she opened the front door to admit the Rev. Dr. Bartol, the well-known Unitarian minister, who had come to make a call upon her father. Dr. Bartol was a man of magnificent physique, with an exceedingly attractive face. So deeply did his noble appearance impress the child that after looking keenly and admiringly up at him, she flew to her father, crying excitedly, "Hurry, papa! God is down here—all of Him!"

Little Elephants and Camels.

The smallest elephant is, according to a contemporary, one from Sumatra, which was recently exhibited in Berlin. Three years old, it stands only 36 inches from the ground. It is a little over one yard in length and weighs 168 pounds. The normal elephant weighs at the same age at least three tons. A pigmy race of camels exists in Persia, which are only 25 inches in height and weigh but fifty pounds, while an ordinary camel is larger than most English horses.

Government Purchases.

Comparatively little is known by the outside world of the enormous care and patience employed in testing every article purchased by the various departments of the Government. Recently the public has seen an instance of this in the case of the Commission appointed by the Navy Department for the testing of armor plate. The same pains-taking care which characterized the proceedings of this Commission is exercised by every purchasing agent and head of department in the Government service. Every manufactured article, no matter how insignificant, is subjected to most rigid tests and comparisons, and the best only is considered good enough. For this reason the Mason & Hamlin Company feel justly proud that since 1890 they alone have been deemed worthy of furnishing the pianos and organs required by the Government for the equipment of its Indian Schools and the ships of the New Navy.

NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED IN UP-TO-DATE LAUNDRY WORK.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered, and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular. We will give you just exactly what you want, if we can find out what that is. Perhaps you believe that it is impossible to have your laundry well handled without irritation and annoyance to you. We are sure that you are mistaken. May we have an opportunity of demonstrating it?

GOOD WORK IN SLUMS.

A SALVATIONISTS SHOWS THE POORER SIDE OF LIFE.

Adjutant Brewer Told of the Efforts of the Army to Help Those Who Have Fallen by the Wayside Trying to Prosper.

Adjutant Arthur T. Brewer, who during 1896 was in command of the Salvation Army Post in this city, gave an interesting address to a large audience in Salvation Army Hall on North avenue last evening on "Life in Darkest America." The talk was illustrated with stereopticon views taken by the Adjutant himself in the slums of New York and other cities.

At the beginning of the lecture pictures of General Booth, commander of the Army, and of Mrs. Booth and others prominent in the organization and its work, were shown and called forth much applause. A series of snap-shot views of the New York tenement districts, including Mulberry Bend, the Bowery, Baxter street and other similar places, were next shown. The lecturer then conducted his hearers within the tenemets, showing what the life of the average inhabitant of the slum districts is. A picture of Bottle Alley, with groups of bedraggled children, was next thrown upon the canvass.

The Salvation Army has been for many years carrying on a work among the dissolute women of the large cities, and this phase of the movement was next illustrated in a graphic manner, with pictures which showed the efforts that are made by the officers of the rescue band to reach this class.

The next series of views was designed to show the haunts of the criminal class and their ways of life, and the work of providing shelter for the homeless, was next set forth. This class is sought out by the Army's workers, and its needs are provided for by shelter stations and food depots.

The scheme of establishing farm colonies in this country, in accordance with the plan put into operation by General Booth in England, is about to be carried into effect. A view of the farm colony recently established near San Francisco was shown, and the details of the scheme explained.

AN EVENING OF WHIST.

The Compass Game Played at the Park Club Last Night.

The scheme of devoting one evening a week to whist is proving very successful at the Park Club. The experts find that there are numerous others who take an interest in the game and are glad of the chance to play with such good opponents. Last evening was devoted to compass whist and proved very enjoyable. Besides the members of the club, there were a number of local whist players who have been invited to meet with the Park Club men. T. E. Otis, of Orange, president of the New Jersey Whist Association, was also present and took part in the game. The results of the evening's play was as follows:

Elected to State Council.

The members of the Primary Teachers' Union held a meeting yesterday afternoon and discussed the coming of the Sunday school workers to Plainfield next month. The meeting was well taken up in planning for this great event in Sunday-school circles. The members re-elected Miss Nettie Beeching as a member of the State Council, and she will continue to represent the union in that body. Next Monday business of the greatest importance will be considered and every member is urged to attend.

THE WAR FOR BALLOTS.

TODAY DECIDES WHO WILL BE THE NEXT CITY OFFICIALS.

Both Sides Are Making Strong Efforts to Gather in the Doubtful Votes—Colored Voters Are an Important Factor.

Even if the campaign was a quiet one, Election Day shows a decided interest among the citizens of Plainfield as to who they are to be represented by in the government of the city. Today the charter election is being held in the different wards and districts of the city and eight Councilmen, two Chosen Freeholders, a City Treasurer and a School Trustee, besides the ward candidates, are being voted upon. The polls opened at 6 o'clock this morning and will close at 7 o'clock tonight.

The day was not exactly propitious but both sides were ready for the fray. The regular corps of workers from the G. O. P. machine was on hand at an early hour and every voter was looked after and provided with enough tickets and pasters to satisfy all his desires. There are, in fact, several gangs of Republican workers at each polling place, some working for one candidate and others for another. The Citizens' have no regularly organized system of workers but they were represented at most of the polling places.

It is in the Fourth ward, that the Citizens are strongest in organization and there they hope to make their best fight. Several of the former workers of the Republican party were out hustling at an early hour to win votes for the Citizens' ticket. In the Second ward, the Citizens' had their representatives in the neighborhood. The colored advocates of the Citizens' movement were on hand and were among the most active. They felt that they have burned their bridges behind them and that it is a struggle for existence for them against the G. O. P. machine.

Large transparencies with the inscription, "Don't Forget and Vote for George H. Frost for Councilman in the Second ward" on the sides and another inscription referring to the Republican ticket on the ends, was paraded about the North Avenue station platform, this morning, as the commuters were departing and drew forth considerable comment. Then the colored men in charge marched up and down the streets of Second ward.

Other transparencies advocating the candidacy of Fred H. Andrews for Councilman-at-Large were stationed at various places in the vicinity of the Third ward polling place. A watchman remained near them to see that they were not molested.

Even the most enthusiastic party men conceded that there would be many pasters used by both sides, and so they were circulated with a liberal hand. Ward workers sacrificed men on the city ticket to hold their ward candidate and what the result can be no man can tell. Meanwhile both sides are anxious, despite their protestations of confidence, and every effort is being made to get out the voters. A large vote will consequently be polled.

At 1 o'clock the vote in first district of the Fourth ward was 234.

The vote in the Second ward was heavy. Up to noon, 255 votes were cast in the First district of that ward, as against 190 at the State election. In the second district, 56 ballots were cast, 15 more than at the last election.

In the Third ward, 278 votes were cast up to 1 o'clock. That was much larger than at the State election.

In the Second ward, James F Buckle pasters are being largely used over the name of James C. Manning on the Citizens' ticket for Councilman at-Large.

J. P. Homan, the Citizens' candidate, is being substituted for Alfred Leviers on many Republican ballots. Leviers and not Fred H. Andrews seems to be scratched the most on the Fourth ward Republican ballots.

Walter L. Hetfield's boom for First ward Councilman on the Citizen's ticket is developing suddenly. Yesterday, it was generally supposed that Tolles would meet with little opposition, but now Hetfield appears to have acquired considerable strength.

In the first district of the Second ward 197 ballots were cast up to 1 o'clcok.

Their Wooden Anniversary.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Dellahunt, of East Third street, celebrated their wooden wedding anniversary last evening. There was a very large number of relatives and friends present, and a general good time was passed by the guests. The bride and groom received a number of very useful wooden presents, also the best wishes of all for many happy returns of the occasion.

COMMON COUNCIL TAKES AGGRESSIVE ACTION IN SEVERAL CASES.

Where Property Owners Have Neglected to Comply With the Law the Street Commissioner Will Surely Do the Work.

The usual crowd of politicians that gather previous to an election, was on hand last evening in the city offices previous to the City Council meeting, and the Councilmen were left busy dodging the various persons that were seeking an interview. As a result it was late when President Dumont called the December meeting of the Council to order.

A communication was received from E. M. French requesting the Council to look after the grade in the vicinity of Grant and Spooner avenues. A petition was received from citizens asking for an electric light on West Fifth street, between Lee place and Monroe avenue.

Street Commissioner Gavett reported 31 sewer permits granted during the past month, making 1,061 to date. Inspector of Buildings T. O. Doane reported 20 permits granted during November. The reports of the collector and city treasurer were received and filed.

Mr. Baker offered a resolution that a warrant be drawn for $61,127.88 to be paid to the county collector as county taxes. Another resolution was offered by Mr. Baker that the mayor and clerk be authorized to make arrangements to meet all notes maturing this month. Another resolution by Mr. Baker provided that the taxes collected for years prior to 1881 be transferred to the general fund. Still, another resolution by the same Councilman, provided that the city treasurer be authorized to pay $1,412 40 on account of the opening of Watchung avenue.

Mr. Frost reccommended the concurrence of the Council in the petition for a crosswalk on West Front street opposite Oxford place.

Mr. Barrows, for the police committee, made a report concerning a recent communication received from Mrs. Anna Serrell regarding the city leasing her building for court purposes. The police committee consider Mrs. Serrell's claim an injust one, as her husband, in the Council, was cognizant of the transaction of all business between the city and Mrs. Serrell. Mr. Runyon offered an opinion given by the Corporation Counsel regarding the payment of $25 to the members of the board of registry. Mr. Marsh holds that the city is not obliged by the law to pay the claim, and reported on the matter adversely. Mr. Westphal made a stand for the claim of $25 and thought the members of the board should receive the above amount. When the vote was taken all voted to sustain the opinion of Mr. Marsh except Messrs. Tolles and Westphal.

On a motion offered by Mr. Runyon, the contract for printing the city ordinances was awarded to the Courier-News. Nine hundred copies with paper covers and one hundred copies with board covers were ordered. Bids for the above work were received from The Daily Press and Elizabeth Journal, but the bid from the News was the lowest.

Mr. Serrell offered a motion that the tax on the property known as 140 and 144 East Third street, and occupied by the East Third Street Mission, be cancelled, as it comes under the provisions of the laws regarding religious societies.

Mr. Stebbins offered an amendment to the building ordinance. The same was adopted and ordered engrossed and advertised.

Mr. Runyon offered an ordinance providing for the appointment of an Overseer-of-the-Poor and three Commissioners of Appeals It provides that the above officers be appointed for three years by the Mayor, and that the Commissioners of Appeal each receive $5 for every day they are required to sit on cases of taxation, that one be appointed for one year, another for two years and the last for three years, that all shall not be selected from one political party, nor ward in the city.

Mr. Runyon called up the ordinance relating to theatrical shows and exhibitions, and the same was adopted on a third reading.

At this time Mr. Barrows called up the sidewalk ordinance, and suggested that the cases reported at the last meeting be taken up singly and adopted. The first case reported was that of W. A. Coddington, who has failed to lay a walk for a distance of 150 feet on Madison avenue near Eighth street. Mr. Barrows stated that Mr. Coddington had made a contract with Michael Powers to have a walk laid but some dispute resulted and the walk was never put down. He

VACATION FOR HOLIDAYS

SCHOOL BOARD TRANSACT CONSIDERABLE IMPORTANT BUSINESS.

Some Method to be Invoked to Guard Against the Spread of Contagious Disease in the Schools of the City in the Future.

The scarlet fever epidemic of several months ago that came near closing the public schools of the city has been the subject for considerable discussion by the Plainfield Board of Education since that time. At the monthly meeting of the Board last evening, a plan was proposed by the president of the Board, Dr. Probasco, to guard against the spread of contagious disease in the schools in the future. The Christmas vacation was also decided upon and numerous other matters of importance discussed.

All the members of the Board, except Mr. Abbott were present, and the usual number of bills occupied their attention at the opening of the meeting. The report of Tax Collector Bird showed that taxes amounting to $4438.55 had been collected together with interest amounting to $74.16, making a total of $4512.71 which had been deposited to the credit of the Board.

A notice was received from the Mutual Life Insurance Company, of New York, stating that the interest amounting to $625 on $25,000 of corporation bonds was due on December 19th. The interest was ordered paid, and according to a recent resolution a portion of the principal will be paid also.

The communication from the president, already referred to, was next read. To improve the health of the school children, check the spread of contagious disease and improve the sanitary condition of the schools, he suggested that two physicians be appointed to make inspections of the children and buildings once a month and report to the Board at the regular monthly meeting regarding their condition. A test of the sight and hearing of each child was to be made in October of every year and in April if desirable. And the Board was to call upon the physicians for advice in all matters of health and sanitation in connection with the public schools. He suggested that the yearly compensation of such physicians should be $200.

A letter from Superintendent Maxson, who was unable to be present at the meeting, expressed his hearty approbation of such a plan. He gave instances in which the proposed inspection would have had very beneficial results. Dr. Probasco thought that the question ought to be settled at once so that the physicians, if it was decided to have them, should begin their duties with the new year.

Mr. Lounsbury, while declaring the plan very desirable, inquired where the funds were to come from to pay the salaries as the yearly budget had been made up and no provision made for such a thing. It was decided to let the matter rest until the meeting of the new Board when it could be learned if there is sufficient money in the general fund or the portion set aside for incidentals.

Dr. Probasco told of his visit to the girls' gymnasium under the direction of Miss MacMartin and of the excellent work that was being done there. He informed the Board that Miss MacMartin had offered to take the girls of the Senior class at the High School $10 each instead of $18. He thought it an excellent opportunity and Clerk Clark was instructed to see Mr. Maxson and ask him to notify the Senior class of the offer.

A suggestion of Superintendent Maxson was read in which he advised that asChristmas and New Year's came on Saturday, that the schools close the Thursday before so as to give the teachers a chance to reach home in time for Christmas and begin again on the Tuesday after New Year's so the teachers might not be compelled to travel on New Year's Day or Sunday. A resolution was then passed that the Ohristmas vacation be from Thursday, December 23d, to Tuesday, January 4th, and that December salaries be paid on the last day of school in December.

There was a discussion as to whether there was a State law compelling the children to be vaccinated before coming to school. It was finally determined that such action could be done by the passing of a special rule by the Board of Education. The matter was laid over until another meeting.

Mr. Lounsbury, chairman of the building committee, told that the heating apparatus for the toilet rooms at the Washington schools was not a success on account of the long run of pipe. He recommended putting in a small hot water boiler and radiators and read estimates regarding their cost. D. W. Littell offered to put in

TO SAVE THE SONGSTERS

A STATE AUDUBON SOCIETY ORGANIN THIS C TY.

Former Mayor Gilbert is President and the List of Vice-Presidents Includes the Representative People of the State.

A meeting was held in the Crescent Avenue church chapel last evening to further the cause of the Audubon Society recently organized in this city by lovers of birds who desire to stop the practice of sacrificing the songsters to satisfy the demands of fashion.

The meeting was called to order by Superintendent Maxson, of the Public Schools, who said that at a meeting of bird lovers, held in the parlors of Mrs. D. H. Rowland last Friday, the Audubon Society of New Jersey was formed. At that meeting Mrs. S. R. Krom, A. J. Gavett, H. M. Maxson, Mrs. D. Howland and Miss Florence Tweedy were appointed a committee to complete the organization, and the first item in the programme last evening was the reading of their report. This consisted of the by-laws of the society and the following list of officers:

President, ex-Mayor Alexander Gilbert, Plainfield; honorary vice-presidents, Dr. James M. Green, president of Normal School, Trenton; Mrs. Charles B. Yardley, East Orange; Bishop Scarborough, Trenton; Gov. John W. Griggs; Prof. Wilson Farraud, Newark; Dr. Austin Scott, president of Rutgers College; Prof. John Gifford, Trenton; Hon. C. J. Baxter, State Superintendent of Schools; George Pfeiffer, president of New Jersey Fish and Game Association; Gen. Thomas L. James, Englewood; Prof. Frank M. Chapman; Mrs. Sophie B. Herrick; Mrs. Pierre Mali, Aaron M. Powell, Col. Mason W. Tyler, Mayor Charles J. Fisk, Plainfield; executive committee, Henry M. Maxson, Wm. M. Stillman, Esq., Mrs F. G. Mead, Stephen R. Krom, Miss Florence Tweedy, Mrs. D. H. Rowland, A. J. Gavett, Miss Caroline Haviland, Plainfield; Dr. Charles C. Abbott, Dr. A. C. Apgar, Trenton; Charles A. Shriner, Paterson; secretary and treasurer, Miss Mary A. Mellick, Plainfield.

After the reading of the report Prof. Frank M. Chipmon, of the American Museum of Natural History, in Central Park, New York, gave a very interesting lecture on the necessity of protecting the birds from the slaughter now being made on them to meet the demands of fashion. At the close the lecturer answered various questions brought up by the audience.

It is the purpose of the society to spread the work over the whole State by securing local secretaries in the various towns. It also desires money for printing leaflets, and members to create a sentiment in favor of birds and interest them in their study by young and old.

Any one interested should communicate with the secretary, Miss Mary A. Mellick, 319 LaGrande avenue, Plainfield.

PARTNERS QUARRELED.

Gerselparett Says "Count" Van Nest Threatened to Shoot Him.

John Gerselparett and "Count" John K. Van Nest have been running a farm on East Front street together on shares. Now they have quarreled and Gerselparett has had his partner arrested for threatening to shoot him and for using profane language. Last Saturday, the "Count" was up at the gravel pit working with the team and his partner came up and wanted the team. There were words and one thing led to another.

At last they went to the house, and then, it is claimed, VanNest ordered the other to leave the place. Words followed and Gerselparett says that VanNest threatened to bore him full of holes. He was arrested by Roundsman Frederickson on the complaint of Gerselparett and brought before City Judge DeMeza this morning, who set the case down for trial Saturday, December 18th.

WAGON AND CAR COLLIDED.

One of the Rear Wheels on MacDonald's Grocery Delivery Smashed.

A collision occurred between trolley car No. 6 and a delivery wagon of J. F. MacDonald, the East Front street grocer, on the West Fourth street line, yesterday morning. The wagon, which was in charge of Wilbur P. Henderson, one of MocDonald's clerks, was proceeding along Plainfield avenue at about 11:30 o'clock, and when Fourth street was reached, when the tracks had nearly been crossed, there was a sudden jolt, and the back of the wagon was caught by the trolley car and thrown from the track. One of the rear wheels was demolished, but no other damage resulted. The horse did not attempt to run away, and the wagon was removed to a repair shop and the injured wheel made as good as new.

TROLLEY IN DUNELLEN.

THE ORDINANCE MEETS WITH OPPOSITION IN THE COUNCIL.

When First Considered it Was Defeated, But on Reconsideration Only One Vote Was Against It—Big Crowd at Meeting.

There was a very lively time last evening at Dunellen when the Borough Council met to consider the ordinance introducing a trolley into the borough, and to hear objections to adopting the same. There was such a large crowd present that the Council was obliged to adjourn to the upper part of the Borough Hall where there was more room. There were fully 150 citizens present, but strange enough not one of that number objected to the trolley. The opposition came from certain members of the Council, which was not looked for.

The ordinance was introduced and placed on its first reading, and by a vote of 4 to 2 it was defeated. This surprised those present and there was a lively time. Borough Counsel Willis and Mayor Brakeley made remarks favoring the trolley and advised the members of the council to reconsider their vote, which they did. On the vote to reconsider the ordinance it was passed on its first reading by a vote of 5 to 1.

The Council will meet again in two weeks to adopt the ordinance on its second reading and consider amendments. The ordinance at present is a little vague and offers little as an inducement to the borough for the privileges they ask. It seems to be the general opinion at present that the trolley will not be operated in the borough for the reason that the Council will probably ask more than the Brunswick Traction Company is willing to give. This unexpected opposition from some members of the Council has placed matters in a very uncertain state.

Mr. Radel and Lawyer Voorhies, of the Brunswick Traction Company, were present and both said the company was perfectly willing to do all that is fair and right. They acted very just and made a good impression on some of the councilmen and those present in the lobby. An opportunity was given to those in the lobby to say a few words about the trolley and everyone spoke in favor of it.

LIVED HERE FOR SIXTY YEARS.

Death of Mrs. Betsy Fisher, an Old Colored Woman.

The death of Mrs. Betsy Fisher, of 529 West Third street, occurred this morning about 4 o'clock as a result of a third stroke of paralysis. The first stroke occurred about one year ago and since that time Mrs. Fisher was in feeble health. She was 69 years old, and was born at Bound Brook. She was a resident of Plainfield for sixty years, and was the widow of the late Benjamin Fisher, who died about ten years ago. An interesting fact concerning her life has just come to light. Mrs. Fisher was for twenty-five years a slave and was owned by Mrs. Alexander Gilbert's grandmother, when the latter lived at New Market.

The departed was one of the founders of the Mt. Olive Baptist church, and in early years she always entertained the visiting ministers at her home. She was an indefatigable work in the church of which she was a member. She leaves one son, William Fisher, also a sister and a brother, who live in Newark. Her sister is 80 years old, while her brother is in his 75th year. Her mother was 99 years old when she died. The funeral services will be held Thursday afternoon at 1:30 from the Mt. Olive Baptist church.

A BOUND BROOK MAN IN TROUBLE.

Trespassed On the Tracks of the Jersey Central, Warden Martin Arrested Him.

Michael Barrows, alias "Wheelbarrow Mike," one of the remarkable characters of Bound Brook, came to Plainfield last night by the way of the Jersey Central tracks. When the plucky little warden of the city jail, Thomas Martin, hailed him and told him to depart from the tracks, "Wheelbarrow Mike" answered in words unfit for print. Warden Martin took him by what remained of his collar and led him to a cell. Sentence was suspended on him this morning by City Judge DeMeza, on condition that he would leave town within nine minutes and fifty-nine seconds. He left.

To Report in January.

A meeting of the Martin Act Commissioners was held last evening in the Mayor's office. There were a few property-owners to appear before the meeting. The Commissianers are now trying to complete the East Side so that they can make a report in January.

THE APPROPRIATIONS

Secretary Gage Submits Annual Estimates to Congress.

THE TOTAL IS $462,647,885

This Is $32,000,000 More than the Appropriations for the Present Year—An Increase of $1,100,000 for the Military Establishment.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Secretary Gage has transmitted to Congress the estimates of appropriations required for the service for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1899, as furnished by the several executive departments. The total amount called for by the estimates is $462,647,885, which is about thirty-two million dollars in excess of the appropriations for 1898, including deficiencies and miscellaneous, and about forty-one million dollars more than the estimates for 1898. The recapitulation by titles is as follows, cents omitted:

Judicial establishment	687,620	836,607
Foreign intercourse ...	1,850,428	2,225,762
Military establishment	24,620,043	23,740,450
Naval establishment. ..	29,929,539	32,574,082
Indian Affairs.	7,375,617	7,668,073
Pensions.	141,257,750	141,264,405
Public works	73,364,134	38,127,847
Postal service.	6,048,112	6,058,794
Miscellaneous.	35,187,402	42,523,958
Permanent annual appropriations.	117,836,220	119,488,220

These amounts include estimates for rivers and harbors, $48,728,160, and fortifications and other works of defense, $13,378,571.

The Patent Office asks for increases amounting to about seventy million dollars, and the General Land Office asks for $4,800 for expenses of a Surveyor-General of Alaska. An additional $15,000 is asked for agricultural experiment station purposes, and $5,000 additional to continue the inquiry into the production of domestic sugar. Also an increase of $125,000 for the Bureau of Animal Industry. Twenty thousand dollars additional is requested to meet emergencies arising in the consular and diplomatic service, and $20,000 to enable the Government to participate in the Norway Fisheries Exposition in 1898.

The Secretary of War asks for an increase over the present appropriation for transportation of army and supplies of $100,000. This increase is made necessary by the sale of the Union Pacific Railroad. The total increase asked on behalf of the military establishment is nearly one million dollars.

The total amount asked for the support of the navy proper is $20,131,113, or about four million dollars in excess of the present appropriations, and for the increase of the navy the increase is about five million four hundred thousand dollars.

The total amount asked for on account of the Indians is $7,735,617, an increase over present appropriations of over three hundred and fifty-five thousand dollars.

The amount asked for on account of pensions is $141,257,750, a decrease from present appropriations of about six thousand dollars in expenses.

Under the head of Public Works the Treasury Department asks for $25,000 for a building for the laboratory of the Marine Hospital service, and $100,000 for the erection of a courthouse, penitentiary, etc., at Sitka, Alaska, also the following amounts for continuation or completion of public buildings:

Chicago, $1,000,000; Denver (mint), $200,000; Ellis Island, N. Y. (immigrant station), $450,000; San Francisco, $500,000.

Appropriations are also requested for two new steam lighthouse tenders for the third New York lighthouse district, to cost $85,000 and $95,000.

The whole amount of the River and Harbor estimates is $48,728,160, as against $19,516,412, the present appropriation.

THE BICYCLE RACE.

All Former Records Broken—Waller in the Lead.

Digging for nuggets in the cheerless Klondike may be a pretty hard job, but it strikes the average spectator in Madison Square Garden that it is a more perilous undertaking to chase the elusive dollar around the board-floor track on which more than two dozen cyclists are striving for tempting prize money and international six-day wheeling honors.

Up to date every indication points to this race as being the most wonderful in the history of long-distance contests—wonderful because records are falling like leaves from a chestnut tree in early Autumn. The pace has been a killing one, which accounts for half a dozen or more riders throwing up the sponge and crying "Enough!" Of these may be mentioned Titus, the well-known local rider; Schoch, the veteran; Albert, Cartwright, Foster, Busteed, Backe and Fallon.

But the men remaining in the race are in good condition, and the chances are that the most of them will remain so to the end. Racing sharps predict that more will remain in to the end than in any previous contest lasting six days.

Frank Waller is a favorite with the crowd. Every time he makes anything like a fast move the spectators applaud enthusiastically.

Six-day records are going by the board every minute of the race, and, barring accidents, a new mileage for 142 hours will be recorded when the gong sounds the signal for the men to leave the track on Saturday night.

Besides Waller, the men beginning to shine in the contest are Gaston, Rivierre, Miller, Stephane, Schinneer, Moore, Reading and Rice. It is true that the others are close up, but they do not seem to push along with the same freedom that characterizes the movements of the leaders.

Luetgert Will Testify.

Chicago, Dec. 7.—Attorney Harmon, chief counsel for A. L. Luetgert, the sausage maker and alleged wife murderer, has decided to put the prisoner on the stand to testify in his own behalf. He will probably be the first witness for the defense.

GERMANY-HAYTI CRISIS

Port-au-Prince Placarded With Rebel Manifestos.

TROOPS AT THE BARRACKS

Populace Inflamed at the Report that the Government Decides to Pay the German Indemnity—Serious Trouble Feared.

Kingston, Jamaica, Dec. 7.—Advices received here from Port au Prince show that serious trouble is imminent in Hayti. The streets of the capital are placarded with "Down with the Government," and the troops have been ordered into barracks.

Eight Hours to Apologize.

Port au Prince, Hayti, Dec. 7.—Two German warships arrived here yesterday morning and delivered an ultimatum from the German Government to the Haytian Government, giving the latter eight hours in which to comply with Germany's demands for an apology and indemnity for the arrest and imprisonment of Emil Lueders, a native of Hayti, who had become a German subject.

Hayti Makes No Resistance.

Port au Prince, Dec. 7.—The population of the city late yesterday afternoon, when this cablegram was sent, appear calm.

The present indications seem to confirm the supposition cabled earlier that the Government will accept the conditions imposed by Germany so far as money indemnity is concerned.

It is also probable that, yielding to superior force and in order to avoid internal troubles, the Government will accept the other conditions.

The trouble at Port au Prince is possibly connected with the release of Herr Emil Lueders from prison at the instance of the United States Minister, William F. Powell, some time ago. Lueders claimed to have been illegally arrested and imprisoned, and the German Minister, Count Schwerin, is alleged to have acted in a most arbitrary manner, even going to the extent of forcing his way into the presence of the president of the republic, Gen. Tiresias Simon Sam. This and the Lueders affair generally is said to have so incensed the populace at Port au Prince that the lives of foreigners were for a time in danger and threats against the life of the German Minister were made. The agitators also proposed to lynch Lueders, and it was at this juncture that Minister Powell intervened and succeeded in getting Lueders out of the country.

Since then, it is understood, the feeling against Germany has been growing and incidentally the report of Hayti's unwillingness to agree to the demands of the German Government may have still further inflamed the people against Germany and also against the Government for giving way in the matter.

Indemnity Report Confirmed.

Berlin, Germany, Dec. 7.—A dispatch to the Frankfort Zeitung from Washington says the republic of Hayti is ready to pay Germany the indemnity demanded in behalf of that country for the alleged illegal arrest and imprisonment of Herr Emil Lueders.

Surprised by the News.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The presence of two German warships in the harbor of Port au Prince for the purpose of collecting the indemnity demanded by the German Government on account of Lueder, a German subject, may complicate the situation when the United States cruiser Marblehead arrives there a few hours later prepared for the protection of American interests.

The intelligence received here last night that an ultimatum had been given by the German commanders, with the alternative of bombardment unless the $20,000 demanded was paid within eight hours, has had a rather disquieting effect in official circles, where no information of any character has been obtained from the Government's representatives at Berlin or in Hayti.

A Complete Cure Effected by Hood's Sarsaparilla

"My mother was subject to sick headaches and indigestion for over a year. She was unable to stand for any length of time, and was obliged to stay in a dark room as she could not bear the light. She had no appetite whatever and her stomach was so weak she could not retain what food she did eat. She also had severe pains in her head. She suffered so much that she became but the shadow of herself. One day I happened to read a testimonial about Hood's Sarsaparilla. It

Sounded So Truthful

I persuaded her to try this medicine. Before finishing the first bottle there was an improvement in her condition. She no longer threw up her food and her headache was not as severe. She took in all four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and several boxes of Hood's Pills and regained her weight. She is now enjoying the best of health. Her digestion is good and she can eat almost anything she wishes. She is 42 years old and says she feels as well as when she was 16. Hood's Sarsaparilla made a complete cure in her case." For past three years has been attending to business and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. How to Look Good.
Good looks are really more than skin deep, depending entirely on a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the liver be inactive, you have a bilious look; if your stomach be disordered, you have a dyspeptic look; if your kidneys be effected, you have a pinched look. Secure good health and you will surely have good looks. "Electric Bitters" is a good Alterative and Tonic. Acts directly on the stomach, liver and kidneys. Purifies the blood, cures pimples, blotches and boils, and gives a good complexion. Every bottle guaranteed. Sold at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store. 50 cents per bottle.

Don't be persuaded into buying liniments without reputation or merit—Chamberlain's Pain Balm costs no no more, and its merits have been proven by a test of many years. Such letters as the following, from L. G. Bagley, Hueneme, Cal., are constantly being received: "The best remedy for pain I have ever used is Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and I say so after having used it in my family for several years." It cures rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—There will be a meeting of Court Pride, A. O. F., this evening.

After hearing some friends continually praising Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, Curtis Fleck, of Anaheim, California, purchased a bottle of it for his own use and is now as enthusiastic over its wonderful work as anyone can be. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Protective Council of Heptasophs will meet this evening.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.
At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olagah, Ind. Ter. Chief. This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and la grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

CONGRESS AT WORK

Both Houses Reassemble and Prepare for Business.

OUTLOOK FOR LEGISLATION

Washington, Dec. 7.—Because of the fact that both bodies were organized and ready to proceed to business, the opening session of the Fifty-fifth Congress yesterday afternoon was almost as listless and perfunctory as any ordinary working day. Very little was expected besides the President's message and the recess nominations.

Nearly all the members were present. Floral tributes graced the Speaker's stand and the desk of the Vice-President, while "constituents" of a number of members had sent floral compliments to them. Both chambers have been remodeled since the close of the extra session, $50,000 being spent to enhance the comfort and please the eye of Congress.

Floral Tributes.

Among the floral tributes was one which attracted probably more attention than any other, on account of its unique character. It graced the desk of G. R. Grosvenor, of Ohio, and consisted of a huge tree of yellow chrysanthemums and American beauty roses, under the nodding branches of which stood an innocent looking toy lamb. It was a tribute from the National Wool Growers' Association.

Some one discovered that under the administration of pressure to a portion of the lamb's anatomy it would give forth a sound resembling a bleat, and much amusement and merriment followed this disclosure.

The representation of a huge gavel in red and white carnations stood upon the Speaker's table.

Senator Davis, of Minnesota, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Affairs, has called a meeting of the committee for to-morrow. The Hawaiian annexation treaty will be taken up then and reported favorably to the Senate.

Advocates of annexation in the Senate are polling that body to ascertain whether two-thirds are in favor of it. It is likely that the necessary vote will be secured before the holidays.

Among the first bills introduced was one by Congressman Cooney, of Missouri. It is an amendment to the Constitution prohibiting the admission of any State to the Union whose borders are not contigious to some other State.

The object of the bill is to prevent the admission of Hawaii as a State. "If we are to run mad on the subject of annexation," said Mr. Cooney, "we may as well begin now to discuss the question of a probable State whose borders are not contiguous to some other portion of the United States."

The Outlook for Legislation.

A session of Congress has seldom opened with so much uncertainty as to what is before it. Usually there is something definite to be done in line with a policy previously formed. Now there is a difference of opinion as to most things on the part of those who are responsible for forming a policy, and there is, as well, a conflict between what most people think ought to be done and what there is any possibility of doing.

It is fully recognized that in the economy of legislation—so far as there is such a thing—the policy of the House is shaped by the Speaker. In most things of importance his ideas are apt to prevail—especially when Mr. Reed is Speaker. It has already come to be pretty generally understood that Mr. Reed's judgment is that this session should be kept pretty strictly down to routine business, and that a short session should be aimed at. It is understood that he has no sympathy with the effort to have Congress interfere in the Cuban matter, and that he thinks it unwise to attempt general reform at this time. He would, it is understood, have this session marked for its conservatism and its business-like promptness. It is quite evident, however, that the spirit of conservatism is not as conservative.

The Cuban sentiment is strong, and there is quite a powerful faction who are determined to make a fight for financial legislation. The latter have the support of the President in his recommendations. The Cuban sympathizers have not this Executive support for action.

With the President and the Speaker both opposed to action as to Cuba, the sentiment of the House is apt to be held in check unless something unforeseen happens in Cuba. But, with a division of opinion on the policy with respect to attempting financial legislation, there is no telling what may be done.

There is likely to be considerable agitation of both questions before the session is old.

The question of enforcing economy of appropriations is one which will probably occupy the Speaker very seriously, and one which will be difficult to deal with. Some men in both Houses are urging the necessity of additional revenue legislation. They say that an abundant revenue must be had at once, and are urging an increase of the beer tax.

Bills Introduced in the House.

There was a large batch of bills introduced in the House yesterday. They included the following:

By Mr. Evans (Ky.)—Joint resolution pledging faith and credit of the United States to the payment in gold coin of certain of its outstanding obligations; to the maintenance of the par value in gold of all previously coined silver dollars and prohibiting the further coinage of any silver dollar unless it shall contain sufficient standard silver to make the dollar when coined intrinsically worth par in gold.

By Mr. Evans (Ky.)—To modify the Civil Service act by having it hereafter apply only to department clerks in Washington and those in public offices throughout the country whose salaries are from nine hundred to eighteen hundred dollars per annum, letter carriers and railway mail clerks.

By Mr. Henry (Tex.)—To define trusts, to punish corporations, firms, etc., connected with them, and to promote free competition in the United States.

At a meeting of the House Committee on Rules the rule for sessions every third day was vacated. This rule was adopted at the extra session in order to restrict business to the tariff bill and a few other important subjects. Hereafter there will be daily sessions, beginning at noon.

The general programme of business was not fixed, as considerable doubt exists as to when the appropriation bills, which have the right of way, will be ready.

Bankruptcy Bill May Pass.

There is before the House Judiciary Committee the Nelson Bankruptcy bill, passed by the Senate in the closing days of the last regular session, which provides for voluntary bankruptcy. Its general purpose is to prevent the creditor from taking unfair advantage and forcing his poor debtor into ruin. The creditor is not given preference in this bill.

Senator Mills believes that a bankruptcy bill will pass, but has no definite idea as to the character which it will assume.

Senator Cockrell thinks there will be a compromise bankruptcy bill.

Senator Vest says: "No bankruptcy bill with an involuntary clause will be enacted. A bill providing for voluntary bankruptcy can pass the Senate, and no other."

Senator Harris, of Kansas, says: "I think the result will be a compromise between the Torrey bill, favored by the House, and the Nelson bill, which has passed the Senate."

BANK NOTE CURRENCY.

No Longer Any Need to Restrict the Issue—Circulation Figures.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Comptroller of the Currency James H. Eckels says in his annual report:

"Whatever justification there was in the first instance for restricting the issuing of notes against the bonds of the Government deposited with the Treasurer of the United States, to 90 per cent. of the par value thereof, long since ceased.

"Not only should the Bank act be amended in this particular, but Congress should seriously consider such a change in the method of bank-note issues as will enable the banks of the country to more adequately meet the demands of trade and commerce in all sections of the country.

"On Oct. 31 last there were in active operation 3,617 banks, having an authorized capital stock of $630,230,295. The outstanding circulation of the banks then in operation was $229,199,880, of which $202,994,555 was secured by bonds of the United States and the balance by lawful money deposited with the Treasurer of the United States.

"The total circulation outstanding of all national banks on Oct. 31 was $230,131,005, of which amount $1,558,800 was secured by bonds held for account of insolvent and liquidating banks, and $26,205,325 by lawful money deposited for their account and by active banks reducing circulation. The net increase in the amount of circulation secured by bonds during the year was $12,584,334, and the gross decrease in total circulation was $4,851,292."

BIG FIGHTERS MAY MEET.

Dan Stuart Trying to Bring Fitz and Corbett Together.

New York, Dec. 7.—Bob Fitzsimmons and Jim Corbett may fight again, it is said. Dan Stuart is here from Chicago, with intentions of arranging another fight between Fitz and Gentleman Jim. Although nobody else does, Stuart thinks they are anxious to meet again.

Stuart practically says it is a public necessity for these men to face each other again in the roped arena. Everybody wants them to battle again, he says, and as a result he has come here fortified with articles of agreement, purses, inducements and three different locations in his mind where the fight could be safely pulled off.

Stuart will see both of the modern gladiators within the next few days, and will ask them to affix their signatures to articles of agreement.

In view of the fact that the public wants another meeting between Corbett and Fitz, Dan says he will do all in his power to bring it off. According to his calculations and the articles which he will submit, the fight would be pulled off some time in July at one of three places he has in view. He would not tell where, but said that the grounds would be more accessible than Carson City, one of the spots being within forty-eight hours' ride of New York City.

Representative Belden Has a Fall.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Representative Belden, of New York, fell down a flight of stone steps in the Capitol yesterday afternoon, striking his face full upon the tiled flooring at the bottom. His nose and forehead were badly cut and he bled profusely.

THE FROSECUTORSHIP.

City Judge George W. DeMeza has announced himself as a candidate for appointment to the Prosecutorship of Union county, to succeed Fred C. Marsh whose term expires this winter. The position is one of the most responsible and lucrative in the county and will attract the candidacies of several well-known Union county lawyers. Judge DeMeza is one of the youngest legal lights in this bailiwick, but by close attention to his studies and a ready mind to grasp the salient points of the cases he has been engaged in he has built up a large practice. It has been hinted that should Senator Voorhees become acting Governor, with whom the appointive power would rest, he would be liable to name his old chum, Mr. Marsh, to succeed himself. Such action seems quite improbable, however.

one for $85 and Galbraith & Walsh for $76.25. The latter bid was accepted and the committee given power.

The question of storm doors for the Lincoln school was discussed and John Abbott's estimate read. He offered to put one up for $83. The matter was referred to the building committee to get more estimates and then have the work done.

Mr. Lounsbury told how the children at the Whittier school found much enjoyment in turning on and off the switches controlling the electric lights on the first floor. It was suggested that one large switch box be placed in the hall and kept locked. Allan B. Laing offered to put one in the rear hall for $27 and in the front hall for $43. The building committee was given power in the matter.

Dr. Jenkins called the attention of the Board to the fact that some of the parents of the children in Miss McMair's class complain that the hours are too long for such small children and that they become tired and restless before they are allowed to go home. This matter was turned over to Dr. Jenkins and Superintendent Maxson, after which the Board adjourned subject to the call of the chair.

WITNESSES NOT HERE.

Justice Mosher Granted an Adjournment for the Sanitary Company.

Counsel in the case of Edward Clark, an engineer, against the Plainfield Sanitary Company, on contract, appeared before Justice Mosher this morning to argue the question of an adjournment of the case. The plaintiff argued through his counsel, City Judge DeMeza, that the case should be tried at once. In behalf of the Sanitary Company former Assemblyman Codington presented the affadavit of the vice-president of the company to the effect that certain witnesses who could give important evidence in the case were absent from the state. After hearing the arguments of counsel the Justice granted an adjournment of thirty days.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

Adam Dealaman is improving the grounds about his house.

Howard Manning, of Plainfield, was in town yesterday calling on friends.

Mrs. Anna Abbott is spending a few days in New York and Brooklyn with friends.

Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Giles, of Plainfield, were guests of friends in town yesterday.

Walter Runyon is in New York today looking after some matters of a business nature.

A. A. Lake and sister, of Somerville, were the guests last Sunday of Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Randolph.

Mrs. Josephine Dunham is expected to return from New York this week, where she is visiting relatives.

Charles Jennings and family will move this week into the house formerly occupied by P. C. Staats.

Alex. Dunham, of Westfield, is decorating the interior of Mrs. Josephine Dunham's house on Church street.

Clifford Fenner, of Pluckamin, spent Sunday with his sister, Mrs. Harry Swackhammer, of Church street.

It was reported yesterday that there is little prospects of a new freight house being erected this winter in the borough.

Rev. Mr. Mead, pastor of the M. E. church, occupied the pulpit of the M. E. church at Norton, Hunterdon county, last Sunday.

T. C. Bodine has completed the work of putting the heating apparatus in the Catholic church. The job is a very satisfactory one.

Last Sunday morning the pulpit of the M. E. church was occupied by Rev. Mr. Welch, and in the evening Rev. Mr. Burr preached. Both divines are from Westfield, and they gave interesting discourses.

Credit should be given to the section men on the Central Railroad for the work they performed last week in putting out the fire at the freight house. They were the men who carried the freight out of the burning house, and stood at the pump for two hours working to secure a sufficient amount of water.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The Fanwood Board of Education will meet tonight in the schoolhouse parlors.

The trustees of the Baptist church will hold a special meeting tomorrow evening.

Joseph Brown has returned to his home in Roselle after a week's visit with friends in Fanwood.

The Christian Endeavor Society of the Scotch Plains Baptist church will hold a special meeting this evening.

The new engine house of the Fanwood Fire Company has been completed for three weeks, and still, for some reason best known to the officers of the company, the fire apparatus has not yet been placed in the building. This state of affairs has aroused the ire of some of the residents of the borough, who claim that in the present condition of affairs the fire protection of the place is much impaired. The officers of the fire department are mostly New York business men, who are absent from the town all day, and the people who complain say that if a fire were to break out at midday there might be none in the place who could tell where the apparatus is stored. They ask that the engine be placed in the fire house, where it will be easily accessible in case of an emergency.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manuufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. MUST BUILD SIDEWALKS moved that the walk be laid according to law.

This action called forth a vigorous protest from Mr. Newman, who expressed himself in no uncertain tones. He said that if the Council intended to make distinction as to who shall lay walks and who shall not, he thought they had better stop before they begin. He held that it was the man with money who was allowed to say whether he would put down a walk, while the poor or laboring man was forced to lay a walk whether he could afford to or not. He knew of cases where men in medium circumstances had been obliged to borrow money to do the work. He said that the man with his thousands was no better than the poorest, and he should be made to comply with the law. The main point made by Mr. Newman was that all should be treated alike and no distinction should be made.

Mr. Barrows agreed with Mr. Newman and said that the street committee had experienced more trouble with the man of wealth as to the laying of sidewalks and it is the intention of the committee to treat all alike.

In answer to a question by Mr. Dumont, Mr. Barrows stated that the number of feet proposed to be laid in sidewalks was 2,969, and he didn't think that it would cost over 50 cents a foot. The following name and addresses were then read of people who have not complied with the law, and sidewalks will be laid in front of their property and a lein placed on the same for the payment of the work.

Francis and Nelson Runyon, 239 feet, Watchung avenue and Hillside avenue; J. E. Martine, Daniel Martine, Mrs. Myers and Miss Martine, 600 feet, Watchung avenue. Concerning the latter, Mr. Barrows said that he would give Mr. Martine credit for one thing and that is that he has been trying to make a contract to have the walks laid, and they would probably be down when the committee reached the property. The next property reported was that of Susan Moffett, 204-208 Central avenue. The next case reported was that of the Hotel Hunterston, Charles Hyde and Robert Hunter, owners. Owing to the fact that the council was not quite sure as to whether they could realize the amount of money expended in the laying of 683 feet of walk about the hotel property, the case was withheld until Mr. Barrows consults with the corporation counsel about it.

The other cases reported were as follows: J. E. Martine, 245 feet, East Ninth street; C. P. Sebring, 70 feet, West Front street; J. M. Moore, 95 feet, East Fifth street; J. H. Thomas, 375 feet, Watchung avenue, and Mr. Finch, 560 feet, Watchung avenue. A resolution was then offered that the Street Commissioner be authorized to lay the walks as described above as the law provides, excepting in the case of the Hotel Hunterston property. All of the Councilmen voted for the resolution except President Dumont, who did not favor the idea, as stated at the last meeting of the Council.

Mr. Frost made a statement regarding the city property at the corner of Third street and Plainfield avenue, and said that in his opinion the city should lay a walk at that place and thus set a good example. The matter will be attended to at once. After Mr. Barrows made a motion that when Council adjourn it be to meet Monday evening, December 20th, at 8 o'clock, the Council adjourned.

THE PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE.

An Exhaustive Review of Absorbing Public Questions.

To the Senate and House of Representatives:

It gives me pleasure to extend greeting to the fifty-fifth Congress, assembled in regular session at the seat of government, with many of whose Senators and Representatives I have been associated in the legislative service. Their meeting occurs under felicitous conditions, justifying sincere congratulation and calling for our grateful acknowledgment to a beneficent Providence which has so signally blessed and prospered us as a nation. Peace and good will with all the nations of the earth continue unbroken.

The public questions which now most engross us are lifted far above either partisanship, prejudice or former sectional differences. They affect every part of our common country and permit of no division on ancient lines. Questions of foreign policy, of revenue, the soundness of the currency, the inviolability of national obligations, the improvement of the public service, appeal to the individual conscience of every earnest citizen to whatever party he belongs, or in whatever section of the country he may reside.

Currency Question.

Tariff legislation having been settled by the extra session of Congress, the question next pressing for consideration is that of the currency.

With the great resources of the Government and with the honorable example of the past before us, we ought not to hesitate to enter upon a currency revision which will make our demand obligations less onerous to the Government and relieve our financial laws from ambiguity and doubt.

The evil of the present system is found in the great cost to the Government of maintaining the parity of our different forms of money, that is, keeping all of them at par with gold. We surely cannot be longer heedless of the burden this imposes upon the people, even under fairly prosperous conditions, while the past four years have demonstrated that it is not only an expensive charge upon the Government, but a dangerous menace to the national credit.

We have $900,000,000 of the currency which the Government by solemn enactment has undertaken to keep at par with gold. Nobody is obliged to redeem in gold but the Government. The banks are not required to redeem in gold. The Government is obliged to keep equal with gold all its outstanding currency and coin obligations, while its receipts are not required to be paid in gold. They are paid in every kind of money but gold, and the only means by which the Government can with certainty get gold is by borrowing. It can get it in no other way when it most needs it. The Government, without any fixed gold revenue, is pledged to maintain gold redemption, which it has steadily and faithfully done, and which, under the authority now given, it will continue to do.

With our revenues equal to our expenses there would be no deficit requiring the issuance of bonds. But if the gold reserve falls below $100,000,000 how will it be replenished except by selling more bonds? Is there any other way practicable under existing laws?

I earnestly recommend as soon as the receipts of the Government are quite sufficient to pay all the expenses of the Government, that when any of the United States notes are presented for redemption in gold and are redeemed in gold, such notes shall be kept and set apart, and only paid out in exchange for gold. This is an obvious duty. If the holder of the United States note prefers the gold and gets it from the Government, he should not receive back from the Government a United States note without paying gold in exchange for it. The reason for this is made all the more apparent when the Government issues an interest-bearing debt to provide gold for the redemption of United States notes— a non-interest-bearing debt. Surely it would not pay them out again except on demand and for gold. If they are put out in any other way they may return again, to be followed by another bond issue to redeem them—another interest-bearing debt to redeem a non-interest-bearing debt.

National Banks.

I concur with the Secretary of the Treasury in his recommendation that national banks be allowed to issue notes to the face value of the bonds which they have deposited for circulation, and that the tax on circulating notes secured by deposit of such bonds be reduced to one-half of 1 per cent. per annum. I also join him in recommending that authority be given for the establishment of national banks with a minimum capital of $25,000. This will enable the smaller villages and agricultural regions of the country to be supplied with currency to meet their needs.

Spain and Cuban Affairs.

The most important problem with which this Government is now called upon to deal pertaining to its foreign relations concerns its duty towards Spain and the Cuban insurrection. Problems and conditions more or less in common with those now existing have confronted this Government at various times in the past. The story of Cuba for many years has been one of unrest, growing discontent, an effort towards a larger enjoyment of liberty and self-control, of organized resistance to the mother country, of depression after distress and warfare and of ineffectual settlement to be followed by renewed revolt. For no enduring period since the enfranchisement of the continental possessions of Spain in the Western continent has the condition of Cuba or the policy of Spain towards Cuba not caused concern to the United States.

The instructions given to our new Minister to Spain before his departure for his post directed him to impress upon that Government the sincere wish of the United States to lend its aid towards the ending of the war in Cuba by reaching a peaceful and lasting result, just and honorable alike to Spain and to the Cuban people. These instructions recited the character and duration of the contest, the widespread losses it entails, the burdens and restraints it imposes upon us, with constant disturbance of national interests, and the injury resulting from an indefinite continuance of this state of things. It was stated that at this juncture our Government was constrained to seriously inquire if the time [illegible] rine when Spain, of her own volition, moved by her own interests and every sentiment of humanity, should put a stop to this destructive war and make proposals of settlement honorable to herself and just to her Cuban colony. It was urged that as a neighboring nation, with large interests in Cuba, we could be required to wait only a reasonable time for the mother country to establish its authority and restore peace and order within the borders of the island; that we could not contemplate an indefinite period for the accomplishment of this result.

Spanish Reforms.

Decrees in the application of the foreshadowed reform have already been promulgated. The full text of these decrees has not been received, but as furnished in a telegraphic summary from our Minister are: All civil and electoral rights of Peninsula Spaniards are, in virtue of existing constitutional authority, forthwith extended to colonial Spaniards.

That the Government of Sagasta has entered upon a course from which recession with honor is impossible can hardly be questioned; that in the few weeks it has existed it has made earnest of the sincerity of its professions is undeniable. I shall not impugn its sincerity, nor should impatience be suffered to embarrass it in the task it has undertaken. It is honestly due to Spain and to our friendly relations with Spain that she should be given a reasonable chance to realize our expectations and to prove the asserted efficacy of the new order of things to which she stands irrevocably committed. She has recalled the commander whose brutal orders inflamed the American mind and shocked the civilized world. She has modified the horrible order of concentration and has undertaken to care for the helpless, and permit those who desire to resume the cultivation of their fields to do so, and assures them of the protection of the Spanish Government in their lawful occupations. She has just released the Competitor prisoners, heretofore sentenced to death, and who have been the subject of repeated diplomatic correspondence during both this and the preceding Administration.

Not a single American citizen is now in arrest or confinement in Cuba of whom this Government has any knowledge. The near future will demonstrate whether the indispensable condition of a righteous peace, just alike to the Cubans and to Spain as well as equitable to all our interests so intimately involved in the welfare of Cuba, is likely to be attained. If not, the exigency of further and other action by the United States will remain to be taken. When that time comes that action will be determined in the line of indisputable right and duty. It will be faced without misgiving or hesitancy in the light of the obligation this Government owes to itself, to the people who have confided to it the protection of their interests and honor, and to humanity.

Sure of the right, keeping free from all offense ourselves, actuated only by upright and patriotic considerations, moved neither by passion nor selfishness, the Government will continue its watchful care over the rights and property of American citizens, and will abate none of its efforts to bring about by peaceful agencies a peace which shall be honorable and enduring. If it shall hereafter appear to be the duty imposed by our obligations to ourselves, to civilization and humanity, to intervene with force, it shall be without fault on our part and only because the necessity for such action will be so clear as to command the support and approval of the civilized world.

The Hawaiian Treaty.

By a special message dated the 16th day of June last I laid before the Senate a treaty signed that day by the Plenipotentiaries of the United States and of the Republic of Hawaii, having for its purpose the incorporation of the Hawaiian Islands as an integral part of the United States and under its sovereignty. The Senate having removed the injunction of secrecy, although the treaty is still pending before that body, the subject may be properly referred to in this message because the necessary action of the Congress is required to determine by legislation many details of the eventual union should the fact of annexation be accomplished, as I believe it should be.

While consistently disavowing from a very early period any aggressive policy of absorption in regard to the Hawaiian group, a long series of declarations through three-quarters of a century has proclaimed the vital interest of the United States in the independent life of the islands and their intimate commercial dependence upon this country.

If the treaty is confirmed, as every consideration of dignity and honor requires, the wisdom of Congress will see to it that, avoiding abrupt assimilation of elements perhaps hardly yet fitted to share in the highest franchises of citizenship, and having due regard to the geographical conditions, the most just provisions for self rule in local matters with the largest political liberties as an integral part of our nation will be accorded to the Hawaiians. No less is due to a people who, after nearly fifty years of demonstrated capacity to fulfill the obligations of self-governing statehood, come of their free will to merge their destinies in our body politic.

The Nicaragua Canal.

A subject of large importance to our country and increasing appreciation on the part of the people is the completion of the great highway of trade between the Atlantic and Pacific known as the Nicaragua Canal. Its utility and value to American commerce is universally admitted. The commission appointed under date of July 24 last "to continue the surveys and examinations authorized by the act approved March 2, 1895," in regard to "the proper route, feasibility and cost of construction of the Nicaragua Canal, with a view of making complete plans for the entire work of construction of such canal," is now employed in the undertaking. In the future I shall take occasion to transmit to Congress the report of this commission, making at the same time such further suggestions as may then seem advisable.

The Bimetallic Envoys.

Under the provisions of the act of Congress approved March 3, 1897, for the promotion of an international agreement respecting bimetallism, I appointed on the 14th day of April, 1897, Hon. Edward O. Wolcott, of Colorado; Hon. Adlai E. Stevenson, of Illinois, and Hon. Charles J. Paine, of Massachusetts, as special envoys to represent the United States. They [illegible] been diligent in their efforts to secure the concurrence and co-operation of European countries in the international settlement of the question, but up to this time have not been able to secure an agreement contemplated by their mission.

Our special envoys have not made their final report, as further negotiations between the representatives of this Government and the governments of other countries are pending and in contemplation. They believe that doubts which have been raised in certain quarters respecting the position of maintaining stability of the parity between the metals and kindred questions may yet be solved by further negotiations.

Meanwhile it gives me satisfaction to state that the special envoys have already demonstrated their ability and fitness to deal with the subject, and it is to be earnestly hoped that their labors may result in an international agreement which will bring about recognition of both gold and silver as money upon such terms and with such safeguards as will secure the use of both metals upon a basis which shall work no injustice to any class of our citizens.

International Arbitration.

International arbitration cannot be omitted from the list of subjects claiming our consideration. Events have only served to strengthen the general views on this question expressed in my inauguration address. The best sentiment of the civilized world is moving towards the settlement of differences between nations without resorting to the horrors of war. Treaties embodying these humane principles on broad lines without in any way imperiling our interests or our honor shall have my constant encouragement.

The Navy.

The present immediately effective force of the navy consists of four battleships of the first class, two of the second and forty-eight other vessels, ranging from armored cruisers to torpedo boats. There are under construction five battleships of the first class, sixteen torpedo boats and one submarine boat. No provision has yet been made for the armor of three of the five battleships, as it has been impossible to obtain it at the price fixed by Congress. It is of great importance that Congress provide this armor, as until then the ships are of no fighting value.

As there are now on the stocks five battleships of the largest class, which cannot be completed for a year or two, I concur with the recommendation of the Secretary of the Navy for an appropriation authorizing the construction of one battleship for the Pacific coast, where, at present, there is only one in commission and one under construction, while on the Atlantic coast there are three under commission and four under construction, and also that several torpedo boats be authorized in connection with our general system of coast defense.

The Alaskan Situation.

The territory of Alaska requires the prompt and early attention of Congress. The conditions now existing demand material changes in the laws relating to the territory. The great influx of population during the past Summer and Fall and the prospect of a still larger immigration in the Spring will not permit us longer to neglect the extension of civil authority within the territory, or postpone the establishment of a more thorough government.

The startling though possibly exaggerated reports from the Yukon River country of the probable shortage of food for the large number of people who are Wintering there without the means of leaving the country, are confirmed in such measure as to justify bringing the matter to the attention of Congress. Access to that country in Winter can be had only by the passes from Dyea and vicinity, which is a most difficult and perhaps an impossible task. However, should these reports of the suffering of our fellow citizens be further verified every effort at any cost should be made to carry them relief.

Pacific Railways.

The Union Pacific Railway, main line, was sold under the decree of the United States Court for the District of Nebraska on Nov. 1 and 2 of this year. The amount due the Government consisted of the principal of the subsidy bonds, $27,236,512, and the accrued interest thereon, $31,211,711.75, making the total indebtedness $58,448,223.75. The bid at the sale covered the first mortgage lien and the entire mortgage claim of the Government, principal and interest.

In so important a matter as the Government becoming the possible owner of railroad property which it perforce must conduct and operate, I feel constrained to lay before Congress these facts for its consideration and action before the consummation of the same. It is clear to my mind that the Government should not permit the property to be sold at a price which will yield less than one-half of the principal of its debt, and less than one-fifth of its entire debt, principal and interest. But whether the Government, rather than accept less than its claim, should become a bidder and thereby the owner of the property, I submit to the Congress for action.

Government Economy.

The estimates of the expenses of the Government by the several departments will, I am sure, have your careful scrutiny. While the Congress may not find it an easy task to reduce the expenses of the Government, it should not encourage their increase. These expenses will, in my judgment, admit of a decrease in many branches of the Government without injury to the public service. It is a commanding duty to keep the appropriations within the receipts of the Government, and thus avoid a deficit.

A Telling Advertisement.

A Kansas farmer who simply could not get harvest hands put this sign upon his fence: "Harvest hands wanted. Hired girl blonde and genial. Cabinet organ music in the evening. Pie three times a day. Three spoons of sugar with every cup of coffee. Hammocks, featherbeds or leather divans at your option for sleeping. Rising hour 9 o'clock in the morning. Three hours' rest at noon. Come one, come all."—Kansas City Journal.

CALIFORNIA OLIVES.

GROWERS HELPED BY THE NEW TARIFF AND AN INCREASING DEMAND.

In Time, It is Thought, This State Will Yield as Much Oil from the Fruit as Italy or Spain—The Finest Grades, However, Will Come Those Countries.

By the Federal census of 1890, the olive plantations of the golden state of California included 907,377 trees, and of this number 278,381 were bearing fruit. Olives to the amount of more than 9,000,000 pounds and the value of nearly $400,000 had been produced in California in the year previous. Such has been the development of the olive industry since, that in 1895, 500,000 olive trees were sold for planting from the nurseries of Pomona alone, and it is estimated that 600,000 olive trees were planted in California. It is predicted that at no very distant date California will produce as much olive oil as Italy and Spain together. The average annual product of oil in Italy amounts to 750,000 tons, in Spain to 300,000, in France to 185,000, in Portugal to 100,000, and in Greece to 65,000 tons, a total in these five countries of 1,650,000 tons.

The portion of California which is best fitted for olive culture is, of course, the southern part, on the Pacific slope, and it is computed that the counties of California where the olives may be acclimated constitute the largest and finest olive growing area in the world. It is from 600 to 700 miles long and varies in width from 30 to 125 miles, the total area being twice that devoted to olives in Spain. The demand for olives and olive oil in the United States is constantly on the increase, and the opportunities for an enlarged market for California producers are thereby made excellent and, moreover, the facilities for transit of freight between the East and the West are constantly being improved. Steamship charges between Texas and the North Atlantic points are lower now than they have been for many years, and a considerable portion of the product which comes to the East from California, and especially from southern California, is sent over the lines having a terminus in the Lone Star state. This temporary stimulus of an Eastern market for California olives and olive products is of less importance, in the judgment of dealers, however, than the fact that the demand for olives and olive oil is largely on the increase, and the necessity of importing olive oil, except of the very fine grades from Europe no longer exists. Under the McKinley Tariff law of 1890, olives in jars and barrels were free of duty. Under the Wilson Tariff law there was a duty of 20 per cent., but under the new law there is a duty of 25 per cent. on olives imported in barrels. On olive oil the duty has been raised under the new tariff from 35 to 40 cents a gallon and the effect of these changes, it is expected, will be favorable to an enlarged market for the American olive products. The average importations have been 400,000 gallons of olive oil in a year, and the reduction of this amount with constantly increasing American consumption will be to the benefit, it is believed, of the California farms.—New York Sun.

GATOR GRUNTERS.

An Accomplishment Attained for the Purpose of Hunting the Animal.

There are, in Florida, people who are known as gator grunters. They have practised this so long that they successfully imitate the grunt of an alligator. They act as guides to parties of Northern tourists during the winter, and often hunt 'gators on their own account. They take a big wagon, and, as a rule, go out to the edge of the glades. Through the flat woods around the margin of the glades there are many little lakes that in the dry season subside except directly in the middle, where the 'gators make a deep puddle, which is known as a "'gator hole.' The expert hunter takes his place near this hole, and, concealing himself, begins to produce that peculiar grunt in imitation of a 'gator. Pretty soon there is a slight movement of the water, and a long, black head shows up. Then another comes to the surface. Then the old bull 'gator crawls up into the mud along the water. The others follow him. They come in search of the sound, and when they are far enough from the water the slaughter begins.—New York Tribune.

Well-Trained Servants.

The imperturbability of the English servant does not compare with that of the East Indian if this story is a standard. During an Indian campaign a native servant had been told to prepare a bath at a certain hour. Meanwhile a fierce attack was delivered by the enemy, and in the thick of it the servant, who had made his way through the storm of bullets, suddenly appeared among the headquarters staff. "Sahib," said he, "your bath is ready." An almost better story comes from the Malakand, in Chitral, of a subaltern who was waked one morning by a brother subaltern's servant pulling at his foot. "Sahip!" whispered the servant, anticipating wrath, "Sahib, what am I to do? My master told me to wake him at half-past six, and he has not gone to bed till seven?"

Had No American Push.

"We were shocked," says a Georgia editor who has just been visiting Rome "to see a city in such a state of decay. They doubtless had a big fire there years ago, and many of the finest buildings are still in ruins. Here at home we would have replaced those buildings in short order. Give us America for push and enterprise!"

Speak Out.

The Search-light of Publicity is Pleasing Plainfield People.

Publicity is what the people want.

Let the public speak on the subject.

There has been too much claim, too little proof.

Claims made by strangers are not proof.

Claims endorsed by strangers are not proof.

There is only one kind of proof for a citizen.

The experience of people we know

When friends and neighbors endorse.

Make public statement of their case.

There can be no question about such evidence.

This is the proof we have

No other Kidney Pills, no other kidney remedy

Can produce such proof.

Mr. John Lindsay, of 424 West Front street, says: "From the effects of a bad cold which I contracted some years ago I have been troubled more or less with attacks of backache which has caused me a great deal of suffering. My work compells me to do a great deal of stooping and bending forward which aggravated the trouble. At night I had to keep changing about first from one position then to another trying to find some way that I could free myself from the pain, but it remained the same no matter what position I assumed. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by a friend who had used them and I got a box from E. W. Randolph's drug store. I found them just as represented and they relieved me in a short time I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone wanting a safe, reliable and convenient medicine to act on the kidneys."

Barry Knocks Young Croots Out in the Twentieth Round.

London, Dec. 7.—Sporting London last night saw a fight that it will not soon forget. The contestants were Jimmy Barry, of Chicago, and the English fighter Young Croots. They met in the National Sporting Club. Barry baited his man for eighteen rounds. In the nineteenth round he sailed in and hammered his man all around the ring.

In the twentieth round Barry knocked Croots out, and now Croots is lying in a private room in the clubhouse suffering from consussion of the brain, and Barry and his friends are wondering whether the young Englishman will die.

The battle was for the bantam-weight championship of the world. It was postponed from Nov. 15 because of the sudden death of Mr. John Fleming, manager of the National Sporting Club. The clubhouse was crowded. Barry, who was the favorite in the betting, scaled at 107 pounds, and Croot at 104. In the first ten rounds Barry did most of the scoring in a thoroughly scientific struggle. Then Croots made a determined stand, and in the eighteenth round appeared to have equalized matters. When the nineteenth round opened Barry immediately forced the work at a great pace, and finished much stronger than his opponent.

In the twentieth round Barry put in some excellent drives, and with a crushing right-hander on Croot's jaw knocked him out, when only forty seconds remained to the stipulated limit. Barry had sufficient in hand to have secured a verdict had the contest gone the full twenty rounds. The decisive manner in which he finished his rival stamped him as a dangerous puncher and also showed that he must have had something up his sleeve throughout the contest.

PENSION CLAIM REJECTED.

Widow Owned a House and Farm and Had an Income.

Washington, Dec. 7.—Assistant Secretary of the Interior Webster Davis, in an opinion just rendered, enunciated the policy of this Administration upon claims for pensions made by widows who already have property interests and settled incomes. It was in the case of Louise Wiemerslage, widow of Bernard Wiemerslage, late of Company D, Fifty-eighth Illinois Infantry. It was shown by the testimony of this appellant herself, corroborated by that of other witnesses, that she is the absolute owner of fifty-one acres of valuable real estate, situated about twelve miles from the city of Chicago, worth at her own valuation $150 per acre, from which she derives a net income of over two thousand dollars. It also appears that she owns and lives in a comfortable dwelling house, situated on her farm, which is worth nearly six thousand dollars over and above all debts and incumbrances, and has no family depending on her except one daughter, who is over 13 years of age and is fully able to contribute to her own support.

"It is clear," said Mr. Davis, "that this appellant is not without other means of support than her daily labor within the meaning and intent of the provisions of section 3, act of June 27, 1890, as construed by the decisions of this department, and is not entitled to pension thereunder as the widow of said deceased soldier. Therefore the claim is rejected."

POSTAL SAVINGS BANK BILL.

Measure Introduced Providing for Small Deposits to Draw Interest.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The establishment of a postal savings bank system is provided for in a bill introduced by Representative Lorimer.

Under this scheme money-order offices selected by the Postmaster-General are to be made branch postal savings banks, with an office in the department to be called the Central Bank.

Any person may become a depositor under this act, including married women and minors not under 12 years old. Deposits are limited to $1 and its multiples, not exceeding $300 each. Deposits accumulating to more than $1,000 will not draw interest. Postal savings stamps and cards of the denomination of five and ten cents are to be sold. Interest is to be at the rate of 2 per cent. a year, to be added to the principal on June 3 of each year. Passbooks are to be forwarded annually for examination.

The Secretary of the Treasury under this bill is required to invest in interest-bearing bonds of the United States or whose principal is guaranteed by the United States or in State bonds of municipalities and counties.

President Returns to Canton.

Washington, Dec. 7.—President McKinley and party left for Canton, Ohio, last evening, at 7.20. In the party were Mrs. McKinley, Mrs. Abner McKinley and Miss Mabel McKinley. There were numerous callers at the White House yesterday to extend their sympathy to the President in his present affliction.

The party occupied the special Pullman Newport, attached to the rear of the regular Western express. According to schedule, the train is due in Canton at 10 o'clock this morning, but upon the receipt of unfavorable news from Canton it may be rushed through on special time.

Mrs. McKinley yesterday afternoon regained consciousness sufficiently to recognize her family. It is expected that she will live until the President reaches Canton to-day.

Cleveland Baby Ill.

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 7.—There is consternation in the Cleveland household. Richard Folsom Cleveland, the heir and pride and pet, has a slight cold. It is enough to worry his father and mother, however, and every precaution is being taken that he shall grow no worse. "Little Dick," as he is already called, is five weeks and five days old, and is a healthy, robust child. This is the first illness he has had, and the former President and his wife are proportionately alarmed.

Nebraska Railroads Back Down.

Lincoln, Neb., Dec. 7.—The railroads have agreed to comply with the recent order of the State Board of Transportation reducing live-stock rates in Nebraska 10 per cent. The managers at first announced their intention of fighting the board, but they reconsidered their determination.

VENDETTA DROVE HIM TO DEATH

Hazard's Awful Secret Exposed by His Relentless Enemy.

New York, Dec. 7.—Many readers of newspapers will doubtless remember having read the following letter, found upon the body of Edward L. Burnett, formerly of Elmira, who committed suicide by drowning himself in Lake Canandaigua, Sept. 26 last:

To whom it may concern: Charles Hazard, A. De Witt and Judge Platt wrecked my life eighteen years ago. The vendetta is still open. I swore to drive Hazard to the end, and I have kept my word. They are dead, and I follow—into hell, if need be.

That there was some terrible secret hidden in the words written just before Burnett sought and found his death was apparent. Now the secret is out.

Charles Hazard, former proprietor and editor of the Elmira Gazette and later of the Elmira Telegram, committed suicide in the Hudson River near Fishkill Landing, Sept. 23, two days before Burnett drowned himself in Lake Canandaigua. As Burnett's letter told, the aged editor had been "driven to his end." Burnett possessed a secret of Hazard's early manhood and used it to hound Hazard to despair.

In 1868 Hazard, then a man of 24 years, acquired a half interest in the Elmira Gazette. Shortly afterward the young man, who was engaged to be married to a beautiful girl, met a young woman, the daughter of a blacksmith of Elmira.

Orrie Ersley, the blacksmith's daughter, accused Hazard of being the father of her child. Hazard feared the disgrace and in despair sought George Hall, a friend, and begged him to help him. Hall went to the girl and arranged with her so that he himself would accept the child's paternity. Hazard's fiancee broke off the engagement.

The Ersley woman's girl baby was placed in a foundling society and later adopted by the widow of a man who had been Postmaster-General of the United States. The baby girl grew up and finally married a handsome cowboy against the wishes of the lady who had adopted her. Orrie Ersley married a carpenter and became the mother of eight children. Hazard, too, married and had a daughter, a beautiful girl, who was a great belle in Elmira.

In 1878, ten years after the entanglement with Orrie Ersley, Hazard compelled Edward L. Burnett, a young school teacher of Elmira, to marry a servant girl he had ruined. She had been employed in the family of A. De Witt.

Hazard and De Witt forced young Burnett to marry the girl, but the day after the marriage Burnett left his wife. Then Hazard attacked young Burnett in the columns of the Elmira Gazette and had him arrested for desertion. Hazard's friend, Recorder Platt, sent Burnett to prison for six months.

Burnett swore then he would be revenged upon Hazard, De Witt and Platt if it took a lifetime. Burnett discovered the secret of Hazard's relations with Orrie Ersley and threatened exposure. Hazard wrote to his old friend Hall as follows:

Some one who hates me and has an old vengeance to win has found out the story which I thought was known only to you and to me. I had hoped it was among the things that were forgotten. Have you ever talked? I cannot believe this, because you were always loyal. Write me and relieve my heart of its wrong. Destroy this letter.

No answer came, and Hazard three days later drowned himself. Two days after that Burnett's body was found in Lake Canandaigua.

VOORHEES MAY DECLINE.

Succession to Gov. Griggs Means Ineligibility for Nomination.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 7.—Until the official announcement came from Washington that it was a fact, the politicians did not believe that Gov. Griggs was selected to succeed Attorney-General McKenna. When they found that it was so there was a flutter greater than when the first rumor of the selection reached the State House.

Up to the time of the announcement of Gov. Griggs' selection for the Attorney-Generalship it was pretty certain that Senator Foster M. Voorhees of Union would be the next presiding officer of the Senate. Since then there has arisen a disposition in some quarters to prevent the selection of the Union Senator. The names most prominently mentioned by those who think it would be well to select some other man are Senator Skirm of Mercer and Senator Ketcham of Essex. Those who will oppose Mr. Voorhees will probably have to cast their lot with the Mercer Senator, for Mr. Ketcham will probably decline to run. He was mentioned for the position months ago, and at that time declared he would not accept and that he favored Voorhees.

Appointment Generally Conceded.

Washington, Dec. 7.—The appointment of Gov. Griggs, of New Jersey, as Attorney-General to succeed Attorney-General McKenna, of California, is generally conceded. The members of the New Jersey delegation in Congress are naturally pleased because of the President's selection. Gov. Griggs, they say, will make a first-rate Attorney-General, being a lawyer of much ability.

There is still talk of opposition to the appointment of Mr. McKenna as Supreme Court Justice, but it is not believed that action on his prospective nomination will be delayed for any great length of time. It is probable the nomination will go to the Senate this week, but the nomination of Gov. Griggs will probably be delayed until after the confirmation of Mr. McKenna.

Ex-State Treasurer Indicted.

Tallahassee, Fla., Dec. 7.—The Grand Jury has indicted C. B. Collins, former State Treasurer, for embezzlement, and a Deputy Sheriff has gone to South Florida to arrest and bring him to Tallahassee. It is alleged that Collins is short in his accounts with the State over fifty-two thousand dollars and with the counties over thirteen thousand dollars.

Dawes, of Washington; Thomas F. Watson, of Jersey City; John B. Cottrell, of Newark; and George A. Squires, of Elizabeth. A number of representatives were present from other lodges throughout the State. The programme was varied with a number of musical selections, including vocal solos by Elmer E. A Political Blowout.

After completing its organization, the meeting passed resolutions affirming its allegiance to the Republican party and candidates. BASKET BALL.

The business men's basket ball team of the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. defeated the crack team from the Riverside Athletic Club, of Newark, last evening, at the gymnasium of the Riverside Club. The visitors were considerably handicapped by the unusual arrangement of the goals in the corners. The first half was hard fought. The Riverside team fouled repeatedly and gave Doane five free throws at the basket out of which he scored two goals. Egan threw one goal from the field adding two to the score and making a total of 4 to Riverside's 2. In the second half the home team played a harder game and scored two goals from the field. With five minutes more to play, the score stood 6 to 4 in favor of the home team. Then the visitors braced up and before the Riversides realized it, pulled out of the jaws of defeat and won handily by a score of 10 to 6. O'Donnell threw two goals from the field and Suffern one. The Plainfield team was composed of Doane, right forward; O'Donnell, left forward; Egan, centre; Johnston, right guard; Smith, left guard. Suffern took Doane's place in the second half. This was the first time this season the regular team has played together in a match.

Goes to Jail.

John McKelburn, of Newark, is an umbrella mender, and in the course of his travels he paid a visit to the borough yesterday. He found business a little slack and began to imbibe too freely. In consequence he fell into the hands of a marshal who promptly arrested him for being drunk and disorderly. This morning when McKelburn was arraigned before Recorder Thomas he was given his choice between $10 or thirty days. He decided to take the latter.

NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED IN UP-TO-DATE LAUNDRY WORK.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered, and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular. We will give you just exactly what you want, if we can find out what that is. Perhaps you believe that it is impossible to have your laundry well handled without irritation and annoyance to you. We are sure that you are mistaken. May we have an opportunity of demonstrating it?

CITIZENS' ON TOP!

The Republicans Suffer a Crushing Defeat for Their Ward Candidates.

G. O. P. City Ticket Carried Through By the Third Ward—A Big Majority in Favor of License—The Vote In Detail.

In the face of the many political difficulties that beset the Citizens' movement in the municipal campaign that closed Monday night, the independent voters come out with flying colors.

True, they have not gained control of the Council absolutely, but they are represented in such numbers as to guarantee an ample recognition of the policies in city government which they have advocated.

The Citizens' got four ward Councilmen and one Councilman-at-Large—the latter J. P. Homan.

The majority in favor of the present system of license was 757.

Yesterday's election was remarkable in more ways than one. An unusual amount of interest was shown in it by the citizens rich and lowly and although there were no fights about the polls, the contest for the supremacy of the city was an exceedingly lively one for all concerned. It was preceded by an unusually quiet campaign and the result was surprising for the voters turned out in numbers nearly rivalling that at the last presidential election. If the campaign that preceded the election was a quiet one, there was nevertheless much going on. There was still work accomplished by both sides and its results were apparent yesterday.

It is rare that the citizens have taken such a universal interest in the battle at the polls. The mutterings of the fight were to be heard many months ago when it was predicted that the G. O. P. machine would have to put up the fight of its life if it wished to remain in power. As the time drew nearer, there was a disinclination on the part of many to start the ball rolling. At last some of the more courageous ones in the Fourth ward started the Citizens' movement which resulted in the nomination by petition of the Citizens' ticket, which included the city ticket and ward tickets in all the wards but the Third where no one could be found to take the nomination for Councilman.

The day opened rather unpleasantly but the expected rain or snow did not come and the weather did not prove as objectionable as was supposed. The workers of the Republican machine were on the ground early and the less numerous ones of the Citizens' party came later. The first rush at the polls came as the men employed in the different factories and machine shops started for their work. Then came the commuters enroute for their train. During the day, the local business men dropped in at intervals. It was with the setting of the sun that the workers began to find their hands full. The Republicans came confidently to the scene of the fray but the evident strength of the Citizens in several of the wards dispelled that. Everybody was in earnest and there was no time for anything but hard work. Especially in the Second and Third wards, the Republicans had a squad of hacks at their command to go after the delinquent voters. They had the unpleasant thought, however, that those that they brought might vote against them for desertion came from unexpected quarters. The Citizens' lacked the organized band of workers and the hacks but they, in turn, were not sure of who their followers were.

The arrival of the trains bringing in many commuters made the last hours of the opening of the polls very lively. The hacks were kept busy and tickets "fixed" according to the ideas of the ward leaders were passed to all who approached.

The colored vote was an extremely uncertain quantity. Nobody knew what was becoming of the bulk of it although both sides claimed it. There was a few colored workers on both sides and their wordy controversies made excitement in the vicinity of the polls. There were loud and excited voices on street corners in the vicinity of the polling places of the Second and Fourth wards and on several occasions blows were narrowly averted, for the dusky advocates of the two parties were deeply in earnest.

Early in the evening a dispute over what was claimed to be a marked ballot occurred between the tellers in the second district of the Second ward. The person casting the ballot in question had evidently intended to vote against the proposition instructing the Common Council to continue the licensing of saloons, and in order

DIDN'T LIKE THE COACH

SUDDEN SQUALL RAISED IN THE GIRLS' BASKET BALL TEAM.

A Mother of One of the Fair Athletes Objected, and Now There Is Rank Mutiny Among the Young Women of the Team.

The girls basket ball team of the Third class of the Plainfield High School is minus a coach, and the members of the team are very much disgusted with the present state of things. At the beginning of the season when basket ball was first introduced among the girls of the Plainfield High School, there came the very important question as to who was to coach them. Walter L. Long, captain of the Y. M. C. A. basket ball team, and several other prominent players of the association were asked to take charge of the different class teams and instruct them in the principles of the game.

Walter L. Long was made coach of the Senior class and started work at once. Fred C. Bonny was put in charge of the girls of the Third class and made excellent progress at once. The girls in that class were particularly enthusiastic and showed considerable talent in the game. George Proctor Smith was the coach for the Junior class.

All went well until last week. Then complaint was made to one of the members of the Board of Education by the mother of a girl in the Third class that she did not want her daughter to play basket ball unless there was a charge in coach's. The complaint was handed down to Principal Travell and he informed the girls that they had better make arrangements to have another coach. Bonny was thanked for his services and told that it would not be necessary for him to help any more.

Now Bonny had been an effective coach and had, all admitted, behaved himself in a very gentlemanly manner at all times while coaching the team. The girls were very indignant that such action should be taken without any real cause, as they claimed. There is some talk of disbanding the team for the present for the girls declared that, after his success with the team, such action would be unfair to all. They declare that they will not sanction Mr. Travell's action by accepting another coach and there is some talk of bringing a written request from the parents of all the players giving their permission for their daughters to play under the coaching of Bonny.

BROKE A HEALING FRACTURE.

Painful Accident That Befell a Son of Nathan H. Guttman.

Milton Guttman, the three-year old son of Nathan H. Guttman, of West Second street, has been living under an unlucky star for a few weeks past. About three weeks ago the child had a bad fall in which he fractured his left arm below the elbow. A physician was summoned and the fracture was set. The parents have been very careful since that time, not to allow the child to break the fracture again and prevent its healing. It was mending nicely and all danger of a second injury to the limb seemed past, when a second accident happened which undid the work accomplished by the three weeks of careful treatment. Sunday afternoon the child was lying on a sofa when it rolled over and fell upon the floor, striking upon the injured arm. The child screamed with pain, and an examination showed that the fracture had been broken again. A physician was summoned and the bone was reset. The painful process of healing will have to be endured over again now.

Arranged for a Lecture.

The monthly meeting of the Catholic Club, which was held in the clubhouse at Liberty and Sixth streets on Monday evening, was largely attended by the members. The committee on membership reported favorably on four new names, and they were accordingly added to the roll. The committeee on entertainments reported that it had arranged for a lecture on "Ireland," to be delivered before the club by Rev. T. Logan Murphy, rector of Holy Cross church, on the evening of December 16th. The lecture will be illustrated by stereopticon views. A quantity of routine business was also transacted.

Assessment Papers Filed.

Yesterday in the Supreme Court at Trenton papers were filed in the case of the property owners against the present assessment made on Watchung avenue. They will be reviewed and argued at the February term of the Supreme Court.

—The Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church will celebrate its sixth anniversary Saturday morning with special services in the church.

BIG CHURCH WEDDING.

FASHIONABLES AT THE THIERS-DRYDEN MARRIAGE.

The Edifice Beautifully Decorated for the Occasion—Rev. E. M. Rodman Performed the Ceremony—Names of Bridal Party.

A large and fashionable audience gathered in Grace Episcopal church last evening to witness the marriage of Miss Marie Dryden, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Meredith Dryden, of 120 West Seventh street, and William J. R. Thiers, of North Plainfield.

The church was artistically decorated about the altar and chancel with white chrysanthemums, palms and smilax, and presented a picture in perfect harmony with the thoughts and feelings of the occasion.

The ceremony was performed at 7:30 o'clock by Rev. E. M. Rodman, rector of the church. At the time appointed the tones of the organ sounded forth in the wedding march, and the audience waited expectantly for the appearance of the bride. She came, accompanied by her bridemaids and maid of honor; all presented a charming appearance. The bride was attired in a white satin gown, trimmed with lace from her mother's wedding dress. In her hand she carried a shower bouquet of the lilies-of-the-valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Edith Scrymser, of New Brighton, S. I., and the bridemaids, Miss Ethel Green, of Mercer avenue, and Miss Fannie Dryden, a sister of the bride, were all attired in white organdie and carried bouquets of pink carnations.

At the altar they were met by the groom and his best man, Frank L. Hutton, of New York city. The ceremony was that of the Episcopal church. The ushers were Edward Hutton, of New York, Paul Nolting, of Richmond, Va., Frank Whitney French and Meredith Dryden, Jr., a brother of the bride.

At the close of the ceremony Mr. and Mrs. Thiers were driven to the home of the bride's parents, on West Seventh street, where a reception was held for the relatives of the families. The different rooms were decorated with evergreens, smilax and cut flowers. The colors in the library were green and red, in the parlor and dining room, green and pink. During the evening the guests were served with refreshments. Those present included a number from New York city, Staten Island, Brooklyn, Richmond, Va., and Baltimore, Md.

The presents received by the couple were numerous and of great value. After receiving the well-wishes of their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Thiers left on the 9:58 train for New York city. They will spend their honeymoon in the Southern states.

PRETTY HOME WEDDING.

Marriage of Mrs. Sarah A. Northup and Thomas B. Segar.

A very pretty home wedding was celebrated yesterday afternoon at 4:30, when Mrs. Sarah A. Northup, Providence, R. I., was united in marriage to Thomas B. Segar, of Hope Valley, R. I., by Rev. J. W. Richardson, pastor of the Park Avenue Baptist church. The wedding was celebrated at the home of the bride's daughter, Mrs. Albert W. Demarest in the Jackson building on West Front street, in the presence of relatives from Hope Valley, Westerly, R. I., and Plainfield.

In the parlor, where the ceremony was performed, there was a profusion of choice cut flowers and smilax arranged in a most attractive manner. The bride and groom were unattended. The bride wore a gown of pearl colored cloth trimmed with pasmentrie. She carried a bouquet of bridal roses.

After the ceremony congratulations were offered by those present and a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Segar left the city on the 8:30 train for New York, and tomorrow they will leave for the west. On their return they will reside at Hope Valley, R. I., where the the groom is engaged in a lucrative business. The bride formerly resided on East Front street for a number of years, and she has a large circle of friends and acquaintances in Plainfield who wish both her and her husband success and happiness.

Sycamore Avenue Improvement.

The side rails for the new Sycamore avenue bridge were placed in position yesterday, and the work on the bridge is now almost completed. The work of laying sidewalks and putting down the curbing is progressing most favorably.

Members of Board of Registry to Meet.

The members of the Boards of Registry of this city are requested to meet on Friday evening at Uhlrich's club house, to consider matters of interest to all the members of the Boards.

PROVED THEIR CAPABILITIES.

How a Colorado Man and Wife Secured Political Jobs.

Ex-Gov. Thatcher of Colorado, tells this: "I had been in charge of my office but a few days when I received one day a large bear that had been recently killed, accompanied by a note telling me that it was 'mighty fine b'ar meat.' This note did not give the name of the giver. A few days later a dozen wild turkeys arrived at the executive mansion. The next gift was a large box of fine mountain trout, along with some fresh berries. By this time I was a little curious, but had no way of learning who they came from. One day I received an extra large box. There was a large cake, some pies, bread, jams, and jelly, with small pieces of different meats finely cooked. This time the note informed me the unknown would call on me in a few days. I was anxious to see the person, and when one Saturday a long-haired man from the mountains came in I was somewhat surprised. 'Well, Governor, what do you think of my ability as a hunter and of my wife as a cook?' asked the stranger. Without any more talk he said he wanted the job of furnishing my household with fresh meats and his wife wanted the position of cook. As they had shown their abilities, I gave them the positions at once. He never failed to keep a good supply of meats on hand, and his wife furnished good home cooking. If all the office seekers were like that man a Government official's life would be a happy one."—Omaha Bee.

ENGLISH PUBLIC DOCUMENTS.

The British Government More Economical Than Our's.

The British Government sells all its publications. It gives nothing away. If you want a copy of a bill that has been introduced into the House of Commons, or a report that has been presented to the House of Lords, or any public matter in the London County Council or the Board of Aldermen of the city, you have to pay postage if it is sent through the mails. In our country nearly all official documents of this kind are given away, and are sent free through the mails under a frank. The British plan seems to be the more sensible. It saves millions of dollars every year that are wasted in the United States to furnish public documents to people who do not care anything for them, and who throw them into the waste-paper basket as soon as they are received. The charge for official publications is only sufficient to pay the cost and a small margin for wastage. Thus the Government Printing Office is self-supporting and the postal service pays a profit of $10,000,000 of $12,000,000 annually into the Treasury. On the contrary, on our side of the Atlantic, it costs $5,000,000 or more to pay for printing for which no one is the wiser, and our Post Office Department declares an Irish dividend of $9,000,000 or $10,000,000 every year, much of it is due to the transportation of "pub. docs."—Chicago Record.

Thoughtful.

"Didn't she seem at all affected when you told her how her refusal had wrecked your hopes?"

"No."

"Not even when you told her that you had become desperate and were going on an expedition to the North Pole?"

"Not a bit."

"Didn't she offer you any little parting token—any little memento of the past?"

"Yes. She did that. She said that if I wanted her to she'd work my monogram on a pair of ear muffs."—Washington Star.

Deceived by Appearance.

An old darky was arrested for stealing a silver dollar. The dollar was found on his person and produced in court.

"You stole this money?" asked the judge.

"Dat's whut dey says, suh!"

"Well, what have you to say for yourself?"

"Well, suh, nuttin' much, 'ceptin' dat I wuz driv ter it."

"Driven to it?"

"Yes, suh. You see, jedge, dat dollar had a bird on it, en it look so much like a game chicken dat I though it wuz in a hen roos' en des nachully bagged it!"—Atlanta Constitution.

Reliable.

"Yez know Casey, the conthractor," said Mr. Dolan.

"Oi do," replied Rafferty.

"Is he what ye'd call reliable?"

"He is the most reliable man Oi iver knew. Whiniver he tells yez anythin' ye kin depind an it's not bein' so."

A LAY OF THE SUMMER.

Oh! I'd like to go with Nansen
To the Pole.
Where the grizzly bears are dancin'
And they roll
In a chilly, frapped ocean
With a rhythmic sort of mot'on
That is droll!
Where Mrs. Seal cavorting
Wears her furs,
And Mr. Seal, though sporting,
Ne'er demurs;
Where the wind is wild, and freely
O'er the country found by Greely
Ever stirs—
O'er the country found by Greely
Ever stirs!
Oh! I'd like to be a blooming
Esquimau,
All his frozen airs assuming,
Don't you knau!
Then farewell to moods so melting,
With a snowball I'd be pelting
Every wau!
All of Greenland's icy mountains
I would do;
Drinking drinks that frozen fountains
Only brew.
There I know they'd ne'er be trotin'
Out that query, "Is it hot en-
Ough for you?"
Out that query, "Is it hot en-

AN ELEPHANT'S FOOT.

The Circumference Proved to Be Nearly Half the Animal's Height.

Any one who has even glanced at the foot of an elephant must be aware that it is a ponderous piece of anatomy, but its actual size is best illustrated by an anecdote.

Two men in the Central Park Zoo of New York were speaking on this subject, and one of them thought the circumference of the foot must measure at least four feet.

His friend laughed at this, but the younger man, after a second time guaging the size, insisted that his guess was correct.

"Nonsense—quite impossible!" exclaimed his friend.

And then, as the younger man still claimed that he was right, they laid a wager and referred the matter to the keeper.

"What is the circumference of the fore foot of that big elephant?" they asked.

"The circumference of an elephant's foot is very nearly half the animal's height," replied the keeper.

"Will you be so good as to measure it?" asked the amazed visitor.

And the keeper got a long cord and went in beside the monster, Bazzle, who stands eight feet, five inches in height.

"Of course I measure while the animal is standing squarely on all fours," he said. "If I were to take the foot up from the floor, it would not be quite so large; a small part of that size is caused by the spreading out of the soft matter of the foot by the pressure of the animal's own weight."

He drew the cord around the monster foot, held it up, and measured it with a tape line. The figures showed four feet, two inches.

The man who had lost the bet paid it, with the remark that he did not think he was paying too dearly for that curious bit of knowledge.—Golden Days.

EFFACED THE MOON.

A Story Which Many Persons Will Believe Quite Characteristic.

The story told about President Lincoln obtaining the dismissal of a client who was under arrest for burglary, and in danger of conviction because the prosecuting witness said he identified him in the moonlight, by producing an almanac to prove the moon did not shine that night, was not the first time the idea was worked to perfection.

John Philpot Curran, the famous lawyer, had a client who was identified under the same circumstances. The prosecuting witness saw the prisoner leaving a house that had just been entered by burglars on a moonlight night. Curran produced 13 almanacs, 12 of which he handed to the jury and one to the judge. The almanacs showed the moon was not visible on the night in question.

The prisoner was dismissed. After the trial Curran's client asked what his fee was.

"Twenty pounds," said the attorney.

"Isn't that pretty steep?" queried the client.

"No," said Curran. "I get only £2 of that; the other £18 goes to the fellow I got to print those almanacs with the moon left out."—Chicago Journal.

Indigestible.

Two Turks were once at a French banquet. Towards the conclusion of the feast a Frenchman selected a toothpick from the tray near him and politely passed the tray on to his neighbor, who, however, peremptorily declined the offer, exclaiming:

"No, thank you, I have already eaten two of the cursed things and I want no more."—Washington Star.

Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

How to Look Good.

Good looks are really more than skin deep, depending entirely on a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the liver be inactive, you have a bilious look; if your stomach be disordered, you have a dyspeptic look; if your kidneys be effected, you have a pinched look. Secure good health and you will surely have good looks. "Electric Bitters" is a good Alterative and Tonic. Acts directly on the stomach, liver and kidneys. Purifies the blood, cures pimples, blotches and boils, and gives a good complexion. Every bottle guaranteed. Sold at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store. 50 cents per bottle.

Don't be persuaded into buying liniments without reputation or merit—Chamberlain's Pain Balm costs no no more, and its merits have been proven by a test of many years. Such letters as the following, from L. G. Bagley, Hueneme, Cal., are constantly being received: "The best remedy for pain I have ever used is Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and I say so after having used it in my family for several years." It cures rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Clarence Sutphen, of West Second street, goes to Muhlenberg Hospital, today, to have an operation performed on his throat by Dr. Endicott.

After hearing some friends continually praising Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, Curtis Fleck, of Anaheim, California, purchased a bottle of it for his own use and is now as enthusiastic over its wonderful work as anyone can be. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—Commencing with next Wednesday the U. S. Express Company will run an extra wagon for the holiday rush. The office will be open every evening until 9 o'clock.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olagah, Ind. Ter. Chief. This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and la grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

JOKE ON ARTEMUS.

Mr. Ward, the Humorist, Gets the Worst of It in a Bit of Horseplay.

Artemus Ward was fond of telling stories and jokes at his own expense, and he had a habit when upon the lecture platform of purposely making people laugh at his own awkwardness, but he had one experience that he never referred to. During a part of the time that he lived in Cleveland he resided at a fashionable boarding house on Seneca street, and was in the habit of cutting up all sorts of capers there, to the amusement, sometimes, but as often to the consternation of the other boarders, most of whom looked upon him as a "half-baked fool."

One of his favorite jokes was to scare women nearly to death by pretending to fall down stairs. The parlor where the boarders congregated was connected by a large arch with the hall, where the stairway was, practically making one big room of both. Every time a new boarder or a stranger happened to be present, Mr. Browne, as he was known around the house, would cough at the top of the stairway to attract attention, then pretend to trip on something and go tumbling headlong downward, always managing to catch the railing and thus escape injury. The women would, of course, yell and make a great fuss over him when he picked himself up, and he would generally manage to get off some droll remark that would set everybody laughing.

But this sort of thing got tiresome after a while, and one day some of the men boarders decided to stop it. A young lady had just arrived at the house, and it was a foregone conclusion that Browne would take his customary tumble at the first opportunity. So, promising the landlady that they would have things properly repaired after the trouble was over, the joker's enemies sawed the spindles in the ballustrade almost in two, leaving the rail so that a slight wrench would break it loose.

That evening all the boarders congegated in the parlor, the newly arrived young lady, who had been let into the secret, among them. They didn't have long to wait for their victim. In passing up to his room Browne saw that a stranger was present, and, after making his toilet, he started to go downstairs. He coughed loudly several times while passing through the upper hall, and then, when he saw that everybody was looking at him, stumbled and shot out into the air.

But when he grasped the rail of the balustrade there was a sharp crack, followed by a crash, and the man who afterward became famous as A. Ward lay stunned at the bottom of the stairs, with a skinned elbow and a bleeding nose.

That ended the stairway joke, and Browne soon moved to another boarding house.—The Bookman.

DICKENS AND HIS CAT.

Williamina Put Out His Candle When She Desired His Attention.

Charles Dickens was a lover of animals, and, like all true lovers, he was likely to become the slave of his pets. Williamina, a little white cat, was a favorite with the entire household, but showed an especial devotion to its master. She selected a corner of his study for her kittens, and brought them in from the kitchen one by one. Mr. Dickens had them taken away again, but Williamina only brought them quietly back.

Again they were removed, but the third time of their return she did not leave them in the corner. Instead, she placed them at her master's feet, and taking her stand beside them looked imploringly up at him.

That settled the question. Thereafter the kittens belonged to the study, and they made themselves royally at home, swarming up the curtains, playing about the writing table and scampering behind the book shelves. Most of the family were given away; one only remained, entirely deaf, and known, from her devotion to Dickens, as "the master's cat."

This little creature followed him about like a dog, and sat beside him while he wrote. One evening Dickens was reading by a small table whereon sat a lighted candle. As usual, the cat was at his elbow. Suddenly the light went out Dickens was much interested in his book, and he relighted the candle, giving the cat a stroke as he did so.

Afterward he remembered that puss had looked at him somewhat reproachfully while she received the caress. It was only when the light again became dim that he guessed the reason of her melancholy. Turning suddenly, he found her deliberately putting out the candle with her paw, and again she looked at him appealingly.

She was lonesome. She wanted to be petted, and this was her device for bringing it about.—Philadelphia Times.

Didn't Consider It Paid.

Dumas the elder was not in the habit of counting his money, but did once, leaving it on the mantel while he left the room for a few minutes. When he returned and was giving some instructions to a servant he mechanically counted the pieces over again and found a louis missing. "Well," he said with a sigh, "considering that I never counted my money before, I can't say it pays."—New York Tribune.

A Whale's Throat.

Although whales grow to enormous size, sometimes 80 feet and even 90 feet long, the throat is so small that it cannot swallow a bite as large as a tea biscuit. This applies to the common whale, The spermaceti having a mouth large enough to swallow a man.

LONG-TAILED JAPAN ROOSTERS.

Washington Has One That Sports Tail Feathers More Than Ten Feet Long.

The Japanese are a proverbially patient people, and are continually astonishing the world with examples of the care they will bestow to bring about results taking years or even a lifetime to complete. They resemble the Chinese in this respect, and the success which crowns their efforts would only be possible in a country where the life of a human being is held greatly at a discount, where wages are infinitesimal, and where patience is one of the greatest inheritances received from previous generations. Many people are familiar with various examples of the uncomplaining resignation of the Jap and Chinaman to the belief of their more crude forefathers in the stunted feet of women. Many are also familiar with the minute horses which it has been possi- minute horses which it has been possi- generation of families following the same profession, and bending all their energies to breed a species of animal which, by gradually decreasing in size through the judicious crossing of years, finally results in a perfect animal.

The small trees with which we are coming to grace our Christmas tables in these later days is another example of this inherent patience. A tree so minute that it can be held in the palm of one's hand—a tree still growing and having life as perfect and productive as our own enormous apple trees—seems a tale almost beyond credence; but added to this is still another manifestation of the adaptability of nature, for on the wee branches are the most perfect of apples, so small as to be unrecognizable, but still as perfectly formed and as rosy as the New England apple.

The National Museum has received an example of the powers of the Japs in this mode of stock breeding which cannot be found anywhere else in this country. The fowl in question is a rooster. This rooster probably would not impress one as different from the ordinary barnyard chanticleer were it not for the enormous length of the tail. The tail is exactly 10 feet 6 inches in length, and remarkable for its great beauty. From the back of the rooster extend a dozen long filament feathers, any one of which would be long in the ordinary fowl, but three of the feathers reach the great length stated. They are of a bright peacock blue, and present a beautiful coloring, especially in the sunlight.

This fowl was the pride of a Japanese farmer and it took a large amount of money to induce him to part with the prize. Generation after generation he and his fathers had watched the fowls of the yard. Those developing an extraordinary length of tail were kept by themselves and tended carefully. In time were raised other chickens with longer tails than their progenitors, and from these were bred other fowls, until the farmer's labors were rewarded by the magnificent specimen now in this city. Every action of the fowl was watched so that no injury might come to the beautiful tail; the yard pavement was made as smooth and as free from vermin as the ingenuity of the breeder could suggest. No rough framework on which the feathers might tear was allowed, and that the rooster might be protected from danger to his adornments through the pugilistic tendencies of the other birds, he was isolated with only his mate for company.—Washington Post.

THE QUEEN'S JUBILEE CARPET.

The Design represents the Possessions of the British Empire.

Twelve women tied the 4,262,400 stitches in the special royal carpet used by the Queen at the great state ceremonies at Buckingham Palace, in commemoration of the sixtieth year of her Majesty's reign, says the New York Tribune:

The idea of a special carpet and its design were originated by H. R. H. Princess Mary Adelaide, Duchess of Teck, who took the greatest interest in every detail of the making. The design is symbolical of the strength, dominion and unity of the Queen's vast empire.

The ground of the carpet is of the richest crimson on which are found lighter shades of the same color. In the center is the Garter of royal blue and gold, surrounding the monogram "V. R. I.," and these encircled by the crown, from which flow two ribbons, bearing the dates 1837-1897. The four corners represent respectively, India by the tiger, Australia by the kangaroo, Canada by the beaver and South Africa by the elephant. Each animal is supported by a chaplet of oak, symbol of the mutual strength of Great Britain and her colonies, and each surmounted by the crown of imperial supremacy. Connecting these corners and entwined by a broad ribbon of blue are the rose, shamrock, thistle and lotus, on a ground of ivory color, the whole framed in with a band of oak leaves in gold or ruby.

The size is 16 feet and 9 inches by 16 feet and 5 inches. The yarn employed was the best English grown, and the pile is nearly an inch thick. This magnificent carpet was the combined gift of the Duke and Duchess of Teck, their family, and some sixty counties, represented by women secretaries of the British Silk Association, promoters of British industry.

"Do you know," he said, as he made a savage lunge at the mosquito that was boring a half-inch hole in his ear, "that a mosquito reminds me of a good Christian."

"How is that?"

"Well," with a slap at his other ear, "they certainly love those that hate them."—New York Journal.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., DEC. 8, 1897

COMING EVENTS.

December 9th—Parliamentary Club, 10 a. m., Y. M. C. A. building.

THE ELECTION.

Perhaps the leaders of the Citizens' ticket might have been hopeful of victory, but it is doubtful if the rank and file of the voters thought they would win in the various wards as the complete and correct returns published in the news colums of The Press today show. The Citizens' movement was not fitted with the political armour that the Republican opponents had acquired by virtue of a long succession of victories, but the votes were theirs and that was enough. If the Citizens' had put a ticket in the Third ward it seems more than probable, from the result secured in other wards, that every opponent to the present administration would have been induced into office by liberal majorities. The Republicans will still have a majority in the Common Council, but it will be one flanked with a strong minority who will see to it that its ideas are recognized.

President J. B. Dumont, of the City Council, who retires this year, has a record of which any Councilman might be proud. He has served the city for eleven years in all, although not continuously. His first term in the Council was in 1878, and it was during that year that the tracks of the Central Railroad were elevated in the city. As a financier he has been of great value to the city, and many a time he has saved the city not a few dollars by his skillful work and forethought. Previous to his election to the presidency of the Council it was always his aim to keep the city expenses within a reasonable distance from the appropriations, and on more than one occasion he has protested vigorously against increases and voted in the negative. The city will lose a valued city official who has given a large part of his valuable time to its interests.

JURORS FOR JANUARY.

Those Drawn May Have a Murder Case to Try.

The petit jurors for the January term were drawn yesterday by Sheriff Kirk in the presence of Judge McCormick.

An ordinary panel comprises 48 jurors, but it is expected there will be important trials in January, one of which will be in the trial of Louis Roener, who is alleged to be implicated in the murder of Farmer James Pitts at Summit. In consequence of this fact Judge McCormick directed that 54 jurors be drawn.

The following are the jurors from Plainfield and nearby towns:

Plainfield—William A. Woodruff, Abram Angleman, William T. Newman, Christopher M. Fine, Charles H. Hand, John W. Anthony, Edward J. Olsen.

Westfield—Peter J. Duboise. Edward Brown, Linus Hetfield.

Fanwood—Winfield Scott Terry, Joseph Clark, George Scudder.

A Bachelor's Club.

Twelve young men of this city, principally residents of the eastern end of the city, are preparing to organize a club among themselves, to be known as the Bachelors' Club. As can be easily guessed from the name, the club will be open only to members of the sterner sex. The meetings will be held once a week at the homes of the different members and the evening spent in progressive whist. A meeting will be held this evening when the club will be regularly organized and officers elected.

Made a Self-Denial Offering.

Last evening a "self denial" meeting was held at Warren chapel under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor Society. Each one attending made an offering, which was considered a self-denial. The proceeds will be devoted to missionary purposes. Several interesting speeches were made during the evening, and a social time followed, also the serving of refreshments.

An Embankment Wall.

Fine Shoes Cheap.

Doane & Edsall say their present stock of men's and women's fine shoes is entirely too large, and must be reduced at once, and in order to do so they will offer on Thursday next and for five days twenty-five different varieties at one-third and one-half the regular price. See show window. Besides this big "cut" in prices an "extra special" will also be offered. A free ticket to Edison's wonderful graphoscope entertainment at Music Hall, December 13th and 14th, will be given to each purchaser of every pair of shoes.

It May Be

that the "cheap" worthless boxes that are offered by many dealers make you skeptical as to the real worth of those HONEST PIANOS we are offering at $178 cash or $198 on easy time payments. If you are, we ask you to look at these. They are thoroughly good Pianos that we know will give satisfaction. All colors of wood. All improvements. Exchanged if not satisfactory. Made by one of the best known manufacturers in the country.

The proof of their popularity is shown by the imitators they have called forth. Contrast them with the Pianos(?) you are offered at other stores at around the same price. An equally good Piano would cost $275 anywhere else.

Fifty dollars mark-down on all regular lines, good t ll end of year.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

DUNELLEN AND NEW MARKET.

John Naylor, of Plainfield, has been visiting in the borough.

Mr. Pugh, of Plainfield, has been visiting borough friends.

Firman Gise has returned from a business trip out of town.

Mr. Segar, of Wilkesbarre, Pa., was a guest in town last Monday.

Miss Nelson, of New Market, was the guest of Plainfield friends yesterday.

Mrs. Staats, of North avenue, is confined to her home with a serious illness.

Mrs. J. B. Terry and Mrs. Sandford, of Brooklyn, are the guests of Mrs. William H. Terry.

Manning Randolph, of Piscataway, has been visiting Mrs. A. N. Randolph, of Washington avenue.

The tax rate in the borough is $2.38, which is considered rather high for the privileges enjoyed. The increase is occasioned by the increase in the county tax.

Miss Virgie Tunison, who has been living at the home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Dickson, of North avenue, for a year past, left today for her home at Glen Gardner, where she will remain until after the holidays. She will then return to the borough and take up her residence with Mr. and Mrs. A. N. Rundolph.

The death of George Mecklin, of New Market, occured last Monday after a long illness with pneumonia. The deceased was 50 years of age, and was well-known in the locality where he lived for many years. He leaves a wife and a daughter. The funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon from the house and Rev. Mr. Mead, of the M. E. church will officiate.

As yet, the Watchung Water Company has not secured the right to lay pipes in the borough for furnishing the town with a water supply. Another paper recently reported that the work was to be done at once, when for a fact they are not yet permitted to enter the town. The water company asked the Council some time ago for a franchise, but the petition was laid aside and nothing since has been done in the matter. It was thought that last Monday evening the Council might take the petition up, but they did not for some reason. The water company will agree to furnish water to the borough at the same rates that are now in force in Plainfield and other places. With the introduction of water into the borough there will be an increase in the tax to the amount of about $500 a year.

At the meeting of the Borough Council last Monday evening it was Messrs. Wilcox, Wyncoop, Gaston and Milliken who at first voted against the introduction of the trolley ordinance, and Messrs. Gaskill and Hunt voted for it. Three of those who voted against the project are connected with the Central Railroad and of course they could not be expected to vote away their own interests. However, they did vote in the affirmative on the second vote, with the exception of one member. The Brunswick Traction Company would only use about one mile and a quarter of borough road in running the trolley and it is an open question as to whether the Council ought to be so severe in the enforcement of certain rights aad demands. The company seem to be willing to do all that is fair but it would take them a good while to realize from their short line in the borough as much as the borough now want to demand. There is now a possibility that Dunellen may be left out in the cold by the trolley companies, and if she should, it would almost be a a death blow to the borough. The borough is not in a position to make any unreasonable demands from trolley companies and they should not vote away the interests of their town.

SCOTCH PLAINS AND FANWOOD.

The stone crusher on the mountain has shut down, and it will probably not commence work again until next spring.

The Fanwood Board of Education held a meeting in the school-house parlors last night and transacted routine business.

The new station on the south side of the railroad, for the use of passengers taking east-bound trains, is now completed, and the fence will be erected between the tracks to keep passengers from crossing over.

Mrs. George Reighton, of Park avenue, is visiting her sister at Lincoln.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manuufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, O. Sold by Druggists, 75c.

The Modern Drug Store.

In every community there is need of a drug store to which people can go with entire confidence—confidence in the goods sold, in the prices charged, in the accuracy of the service given.

In This Community We Try to Conduct That Store.

We try to give better goods for less money, better quality for less profit, better value with more satisfaction, better service in every way for less cost than can be had elsewhere. We would like to have you test the matter.

THEATRICAL.

Somehow there is an unspeakable strength in the trademark of Charles Hoyt which appeals with a sort of magnetic influence to the minds of the most fashionable as well as to the masses. This fact is forcibly demonstrated by the enormous demand for seats for the first presentation in this city of latest comedy success, "A Stranger in New York," which comes to Stillman Music Hall Saturday night. The new piece was written with the idea of making it a companion piece to a "Trip to Chinatown," which is pretty well known to theatre-goers as at one time the most popular success in the history of the comedy stage, and made more money for this popular playwright than any of his other efforts.

No decrease of popularity will "The Little Minister" suffer because of its removal from the Empire to the Garrick Theatre in New York. Mr. Barrie's pretty play is well suited to the smaller stage and the more contracted auditorium. It is, indeed, better fitted to the Garrick than the entertainments lately seen there. It bears close scrutiny well. Miss Maude Adams's portrayal of Lady Babbie, too, gains rather than loses when seen at the close range. The Garrick Theatre was well filled last night, and both the play and the actress were received with effusive cordially.

The bill offered at the Pleasure Palace in New York this week has the usual variety of attractions. The house has been filled every night lately, and the small prices asked at the matinees place them within the reach of all amusement seekers. Among the entertainers this week are Frederick Hallen and Molly Fuller, in the comedietta, "A Fair Exchange;" George Fuller Golden, monologist; the Baggesens in "The Juggling Waitress and the Funny Waiter."

Invention by Mr. Scott.

Walter Scott, the Plainfield press builder, has lately invented a press to print either a continuous web or sheets fed by hand. The web may be printed on one or both sides, or two webs may be cut into sheets, passed in together, and printed upon first one side and then upon the other, so that there will be two products, each printed upon one side only. The web attachment may be turned out of the way when feeding by hand is desired. —The Manufacturer.

THE NATURALIST.

CHAPTER I.

"Now, Mary, I have spoken!" Mr Peel threw himself back in his chair as if that settled the matter once for all.

"I heard you, dear," sweetly responded Mrs. Peel; "and now listen to me. I have accepted Herr Schmidt's offer, and he will enter the adjoining house as tenant to-morrow."

"Not if I know it, madam!" shouted Phineas, jumping from his chair and bringing his fist down on the table "Do you think I am to have Rhyd cottage turned into a menagerie, and my garden into a howling wilderness. The house may remain tenantless forever, but Herr Schmidt and his monstrosities shall not enter there."

"Herr Schmidt, my dear, is merely a naturalist."

"I know it!" stormed Phineas. "I've heard of these plaguey naturalists before. I've no desire to come down stairs some fine morning to find a ring-tailed monkey sitting on the window-sill, acting as referee while the kangaroos and crocodiles play leapfrog over the flower beds. No madam! No naturalists for Phineas Peel."

Pretty Mrs. Peel never allowed her temper to get the better of her. She laughed softly at her husband's fears and did not alter her determination in the least.

"Has it slipped your memory Phineas," she asked, "that Rhyd cottage is a portion of my property? If I choose to let it to a naturalist—even though he be a foreigner—I am perfectly justified in doing so,"

This was true enough, and Phineas calmed down.

"Herr Schmidt's collection of monstrosities, as you call it," went on Mrs Peel, "probably contains nothing more dangerous than a death's head moth in a bottle. Anyhow, I have no intention to disappoint him."

"But I—"

"You will treat him with the respect due from one gentleman to another, Phineas," broke in Mrs. Peel. "And now, dear, we'll dismiss the subject."

Phineas was—though at times he doubted it—a lucky fellow. He carried off a young and handsome woman from a host of suitors.

Why Marq Morsden had chosen to bestow her hand and fortune on such a plain, every-day sort of a fellow as the diminutive Phineas Peel was always a mystery to her acquaintances The wedding was an accomplished fact before her relatives had recovered from the shock caused by the announcement of her engagement.

Mary appeared to be happy enough too. Phineas, taken as a whole, was not a bad sort of a fellow. He was jealous, that was true, but his wife came to regard that as an extra proof of his devotion.

Had the proposed tenant of Rhyd cottage been an aged, decrepit, broken-down old man, Phineas would have stretched out the right hand of fellowship. But alas! Herr Schmidt was young and handsome—far too handsome, Phineas thought.

"Very well, Mary," said Phineas, taking his hat from the peg and making for the door; "you have overruled me as usual, and must be prepared for the consequences. In less than a week we shall have the house and garden overrun with every conceivable variety of reptile—from the beastly lizard to the boa constructor."

CHAPTER II.

A month or more had passed, and so far, the fears of Phineas had proved to be groundless. Herr Schmidt's "monstrosities" had been kept well within bounds, and as yet Mr. Peel had not seen so much as a strange caterpillar in his garden, which never looked better.

However, he was not happy. He had taken an aversion to the new tenant from the first, and would never be satisfied until he had got rid of him.

"Confound the fellow," muttered Phineas, one evening as he sat on an upturned bucket behind the peasticks, "he's prowling about on the other side of the hedge again. Hope he won't catch sight of me, for I'm about tired of his oily tongue, and eternal smile. Hullo! what the deuce is the meaning of this?"

Down the garden path tripped Mrs. Peel. The naturalist was evidently expecting her, and greeted her with a smile that almost brought tears into the eyes of the furious Phineas.

"Good-evening," he said. "You vos joost a leetle late!"

It was soon evident that this was no the first chat indulged in over the boundary hedge. Though Phineas strained his ears, he could not catch the drift of the conversation. Like a flash, he remembered that Mary had often of late taken a stroll in the garden at dusk. Was this the explanation?

Phineas had been glaring at the couple from behind the peasticks for ten minutes or so, when he saw his wife take a rosebud from his favorite tree and hand it over the hedge with a charming smile to the delighted Herr Schmidt. Then, with a pleasant "good-night," Mrs. Peel tripped lightly into the house.

"You villain!" hissed Phineas, savagely, jumping from his seat and shaking his fist after the retreating figure in the next garden. "I'll pay you out for this."

The rage of Mr. Peel was something to be remembered. Nothing but blood, he vowed, would obliterate his wrongs. But he would be cautious. He would smile and smile, and murder while he smiled. Seizing a peastick he terribly buried it in the heart of a unoffending cabbage, and played havoc with a stately row of sunflowers.

Half an hour later Mary saw him take down a huge old-fashioned duck gun from the hook in the hall.

"There's a German vulture in the neighborhood," he volunteered, impressively, "and I'm going to bag him at the first opportunity."

However, as nothing short of an earthquake would have induced the old gun to go off in any circumstances—and Phineas had made assurance doubly sure by dropping in the shot first and the powder afterward—the "vulture" in question was not likely to be seriously damaged, and Mary contented herself with expressing a hope that her husband would not hurt himself.

On the following evening Phineas took up his old position in the garden, with murder in his heart. Herr Schmidt, however, did not put in an appearance. After waiting some time Phineas re-entered the house and reared his duck gun up in the hall in a conspicuous position.

He had almost decided to run up to town and consult his brother John, the detective, with a view to having the movements of Herr Schmidt watched, when he was startled by the click of the letter box.

A scrap of paper lay on the mat. Picking it up, Phineas glanced at it, turned deadly pale, then hurried into the garden. Scribbled in lead pencil on dirty paper was the following:—

"Peel has discovered everything. We have not a moment to lose, and must clear out to-night. The front door is unsafe. Will met you at the back—10:30 sharp."

CHAPTER III.

There was no signature.

"Good gracious!" exclaimed Phineas, after reading the note for the third time. "I'd no idea matters had gone so far. Oh, yes, Mr. Schmidt," he added, grimly, "I'll meet you at 10:30 sharp."

It was about 10:45, and raining heavily. Phineas Peel, seated on a wall overlooking the back of Rhyd cottage, with his duck gun laid across his knees, was beginning to feel uncomfortable.

"The note said 10:30," he muttered. "It must be after that time now. What's that?"

Phineas had caught the sound of heavy feet moving cautiously over the gravel. He grasped his gun and peered into the gloom, but could distinguish nothing.

Suddenly he heard voices, evidently at the front of the house. He was about to quit his position under the impression that Herr Schmidt was leaving by the front door, after all, when one of the back windows was cautiously raised, and the lithe form of the naturalist dropped lightly to the ground.

Creeping along the side of the wall on which Phineas lay, he presented an excellent mark. Mr. Peel, however, could not bring himself to shoot a man down in cold blood. He would give him a chance.

"Stop, you scoundrel!" he shouted.

The effect of the challenge was scarcely what Phineas had anticipated. Herr Schmidt darted forward and seized the barrel of the gun. He was much the stronger of the two, and Phineas was pulled down from the wall in a twinkling.

"Keep your tongue still, you fool," he hissed, "or I'll brain you. Now, quick, help me over the wall."

Phineas hesitated, but the threatening attitude of the other induced him to rise. However, he had no intention of giving in.

Bracing himself for the effort, he exerted all his strength, and pulled Schmidt bodily from the wall. He fell flat on his face, and before he could recover himself, Phineas jumped on his back and seized him round the throat, emitting a yell that would have done infinite credit to a Sioux Indian.

The next moment Phineas was dragged off from behind, and found himself in the clutches of a burly member of the local police force.

Four or five others seized Schmidt, who struggled in vain to free himself.

"What am I arrested for?" gasped Phineas. "There's your man!"

Phineas would no doubt have been led off with the other prisoner but for the timely arrival on the scene of the last person in the world he had expected to see—his brother John!

"Here, what on earth is the meaning of all this?" he demanded, when, as the result of John Peel's interference, he found himself free.

John stayed behind a minute or two to explain that Herr Schmidt, the "naturalist," and Edward Harper—the notorious forger who had defied New Scotland yard for the past six weeks—were one and the same.

"It was a smart dodge of Harper's," said John Peel, "and he might have got clear away but for that clever wife of yours, Phineas. Mary suspected the man from the first, and supplied me from time to time with valuable information. It is to her entirely that the credit of the capture is due. Tell her I'll call round and thank her myself to-morrow. By the by, the gang of which he was the head got wind of our intentions, and a man was despatched with a warning. Harper doesn't appear to have received it."

Then Phineas began to understand things a little more clearly.

"I suppose this will be it," he remarked, producing the note and handing it to his brother. "You see, the messenger left it at the wrong door, and I—er—I thought I might as well see the fun.

For some time after Phineas was of the opinion that he had made a fool of himself. Lately, however, he has taken a different view of the matter, and is never tired of relating how he literally "dropped on" Harper, the forger, alias Schmidt, the naturalist, next door.

THE GREAT ENGLISH ROTHCHILD.

In One Consignment to the Duke of Wellington He Sent $15,000,000.

The greatest financial genius of the Rothschild family, though there have been many of great talent, was Nathan Mayer, of the second generation who established the house of N. M. Rothschild & Co., in 1798, in London. He flew to the stars and grovelled in the mud for money. He welcomed all transactions, big or little, wherewith to turn the banker's penny. He was the most daring speculator of his time on the stock exchange, and the most successful. He had carrier pigeons and fast sailing boats to bring him the earliest news from the war centers of Europe, and so help him to manipulate stocks. He followed Wellington's army to Waterloo in person and had relays of swiftest horses and a fast yacht lying in the harbor at Ostend So he arrived at the London stock exchange after the battle twelve hours ahead of any public announcement of the victory, and made $25,000,000 by one of the most tremendous series of speculations in history. In 1810, when the Duke of Wellington, then commanding in Spain, drew on the English government for $15,000,000, and the English treasury was short, Nathan bought the drafts at a big discount and at once sent the money. The stories about this remarkable man are almost endless and show how strangely he was alike equal to the most tremendous schemes and the pettiest tricks of avarice.—Harper's Round Table.

DON'T TOUCH ELECTRIC WIRES.

Unsafe to Allow Your Umbrella to Come in Contact with One.

The standard maxim of the electrician, "never touch a wire; it may be dead, but if it ain't, you may be," is generally followed, so far as actually touching the wire with the hand is concerned; but several recent accidents have taught the public that they must be just as careful to avoid contact between electric wires, and any conducting material held in the hand Not long ago a mechanical engineer who was inspecting the third rail system at Hartford, accidentally touched the conductor with his umbrella, which had a steel rod. The umbrella was badly burned, and its owner had a lesson in electrical conductivity that he will not soon forget. A similar incident is reported from a New Jersey town. Two brothers, standing arm in arm, were looking in a window while one held an umbrella. He raised it a little, and as the steel tip came in contact with an arc light wire above a shock was received that knocked both men over. In another accident the issue was fatal. A man carrying a steel rod umbrella, touched a live wire, which was lying almost out of sight near the edge of the pavement He was instantly killed. His hand was burned to a crisp, and there were livid marks all over his body. The umbrella had transmitted the full power of an electric lighting circuit.—St Louis Globe Democrat.

THE PARROT'S LOGIC.

Poor Poll Wondered if the Cat Had Also Given a Wrong Order.

A drummer for a big soap firm was entertaining a number of men with some first-class stories. No one can tell a story like a traveling man. This particular drummer told of a woman who owned a big green and red parrot of which she was very proud because of its all around intellectual powers One day a man rang the door bell and inquired if the lady would like a load of wood. Receiving a negative reply he started away, but no sooner had he reached the curb than he heard a woman's voice from the second story window telling him to unload the wood. In three minutes the wood was on the sidewalk and the man was at the door. The lady of the house declined having ordered it to be dumped there, but finally an idea struck her that the ordering might have been the parrot's work. So she paid the man, went upstairs, and in the shortest space of time had twisted the bird's neck and tossed him out of the window.

The parrot lay still for awhile, and then, with an uncertain effort, got on his feet and discovered himself a near neighbor to a dead cat. He squared around and looked the animal over and in a mosy sympathetic voice said:

"Hello, sport! Whose wood have you been ordering?"—Washington Post.

Rosa Bonheur's Philopena.

French papers tell an interesting story of Rosa Bonheur and the Grand Duke Michael of Russia. In the course of his last visit to Paris the Grand Duke attended a dinner, and had the famous painter on his right hand They became the best of friends, the Grand Duke declaring that he had not enjoyed conversing with a woman so much in a long time. Before the arose from the table they had, in fact eaten a philopena, and Mlle. Bonheur won. "What can I give you, Mlle. moiselle, which will really give you pleasure?" asked his Imperial Highness. "I cannot deny my weakness," was the reply. "Any little animal which I can use as a model will be welcome." Several months went by and Mlle. Bonheur had begun to believe that the promise had been forgotten, when a few days ago three mighty white bears arrived as the payment of the penalty.

A little fresh air child saw a herd of cows for the first time, and, after watching them chewing their cuds, in amazement, he said deprecatingly to the farmer: "Oh, mister, do you have to buy gum for all those cows to chew?"—Chautauqua Assembly Herald.

If I Were a Girl.

A Young Graduate of Cambridge University Tells What He Would Do.

William Dickson, of Cambridge University, England, recently told a bevy of girls, that if he were one of them, he would always have rosy cheeks, red lips, bright eyes, and robust health. Six months ago he was a physical wreck from overstudy. A friend offered him Capsuloids. He thought he could not take them because they contained iron, but he discovered that this form of natural iron or Haemoglobin, contained no acid and caused no indigestion or constipation. Capsuloids, by their natural non-irritating iron, in eight weeks, gave him such health and color that he was enabled to make the statement to the girls as above.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct for the same price by The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York.

SEWING MACHINES ON MEN-OF-WAR.

How a Sailor May Add Something to His Pay from Uncle Sam.

Visitors on board war vessels in the navy yard will very likely see among the sailors scattered about the decks smoking, talking and so on, a sailor at work with a sewing machine. It is a hand machine and has a pretty heavy base, so that it can be set down on deck and worked easily without shifting its position.

The machine is owned by the man working it. On a big ship like, for example, the battle-ship Indiana, carrying a crew of 400 men or more, there would probably be found as many as a dozen sewing machines; on a third-rate cruiser, a smaller vessel, there would be apt to be four or five sewing machines. The machines are oftenest owned by sailmakers and sailmakers' mates, but they may be owned by the sailors; any man on the ship might have a sewing machine if he wanted to. Space is valuable on a vessel, and so only hand machines are allowed, and to bring a machine aboard permission must be got from the commanding officer. It is not to be supposed that every man in the ship would want a sewing machine; as a matter of fact, comparatively few men do; and those who want to take one aboard are not likely to find any difficulty in the way.

A sailor who has a sewing machine makes and repairs garments for himself and he does work for others for pay. There are not so many sewing machines on the vessels of the new navy as there were on those of the old; the sailor nowadays makes up less of his own outfit than he formerly did; he draws more completed articles from the Government, but there is still plenty of work to be done aboard ship with sewing machines, and some money to be made with them yet.—New York Sun.

SHALL IT BE SEWARD ISLAND?

No Strip of Land in Alaska Named After This Statesman.

About one-half the distance between Seattle and Juneau, and lying close to the west coast of Alaska, is the Prince of Wales Island. It is about 200 miles long, and varies in width from ten to fifty miles. This island is heavily timbered, and is capable of cultivation. It has several lumber mills and fish canneries. It happens that there is not a strip of land throughout the vast Alaskan coast, nor within its boundaries, which bears the name of Seward, the statesman whose dream it was to annex this great land to the American Union, and whose persistence won the battle in 1867, eight years after the agitation of the subject of purchase began in the Buchanan Administration. Why should not this island, which bears the name of royalty, and of him who stands next akin to the greatest sovereign of the world, be changed to bear the name of William Henry Seward, the great Secretary of State during all of the Civil War?—Seattle Times.

APPLE KING OF THE WORLD.

A Man in Kansas Who Has 100,000 Trees in Three Counties.

Judge Wellhouse is called the apple king of the world. His orchards, in Kansas, says the Kansas City Times, consist of 1,630 acres, containing 100,000 apple trees and are located in the counties of Leavenworth, Miami and Osage. In thirteen years he has picked over 400,000 bushels of apples, and whenever he has a little money to spare he buys a little more land and sets out some more apple trees. Growing apple trees is his passion, just as gambling is the passion of some men and raising fast horses the passion of others.—New York Herald.

Book Typewriting Machine.

The usual failure in typewriters intended for book work is lack of simplicity, but a machine recently put on the market seems to possess many practical points While it is essentially a book typewriter, and is designed for making records in all sorts of large bound volumes, it will do everything done by ordinary typewriters, and a single sheet of note paper can be inscribed with the same ease as a book 2 feet long.

NOTES OF INTEREST.

In South Africa there is a great demand for donkeys, as they are proof against climate, plague and flies.

Russia is said to own 30,000,000 horses, or nearly one-half of the whole number in existence. Most of them belong to the peasants of that vast empire.

Lynch law is unknown in Europe because statute law is adequate to punish and to protect. When Justice makes no mistakes Judge Lynch adjourns court.

The government can buy postal cards for 23.95 cents a thousand and sell them for $10 a thousand. That's business.—Boston Globe.

The largest creamery in the world is said to be near St. Albans, Vt. It converts the milk of twelve thousand cows into ten thousand pounds of butter daily.

The high handshake is said to be no longer good form. As the high shake was one of the most absurd freaks ever foisted upon the silly set it may die hard.—New York Times.

The hair on the heads of most of the hundreds of thousands of dolls now being exhibited in shop windows is made from the hair of the Angora goat. This product is controlled by an English syndicate and is valued at £80,000 a year. After the hair is prepared it is sent to Munich and made into wigs by girls.

A CURIOUS SUPERSTITION.

Marine insurance underwriters always fight shy of vessels whose names end in "a." This has become especially true, since the total loss, with all on board, of the steamer City of Philadelphia, about a year ago. The City of Philadelphia left New York for San Francisco and went down, with all hands, off the Falkland Islands. A ship with the final "a" is looked upon pretty generally as a hoodoo. The most serious wrecks of the last year have been of vessels carrying the hoodoo letter. One day the telegraph announced that the British ship Androsa, from San Francisco to Liverpool, was lost with a very valuable cargo. The next day word was received that the Orealla, bound from Victoria for Liverpool, had been swept by heavy seas and badly damaged. Her mate and one sailor were drowned.

The wires told on the same day of the total loss of the British ship Villanta and the drowning of her master, near Freemantle, and a few days later the papers gave the news of the loss of the steamer Wallapa and of the beaching of the Dora. During the last two or three years the most serious wrecks on the coast were of vessels whose names ended with the hoodoo letter. Besides the wreck of the City of Philadelphia, the wreck of the Colima was the most horrifying of all. Then came the loss of the steamer Columbia, and a few weeks later the passenger steamer Umatilla ran ashore and narrowly escaped destruction.—Philadelphia Record.

TWINS OF THE SHERMAN HOME.

As most of us know, Mr. and Mrs. Sherman were childless. A time came when, after much consideration and thought, they decided to adopt a child and heir. Mrs. Sherman requested some of her intimate friends to assist in the search of a desirable infant, one honestly born, and without parents to follow on afterward and embarrass. A friend in New York subsequently telegraphed her to come at once and take her choice of two beautiful babies. There was great excitement in the Sherman home pending Mrs. Sherman's trip to New York after the baby. On the next day she telegraphed her husband: "Will be home this afternoon. Send carriage to the depot." The carriage went and the senator remained at home, walking the floor, looking at his watch, watching each carriage as it came in sight. The train was a little late. He was becoming nervously anxious.

Finally the carriage hove in sight; he marched out to meet it at the curb, threw open the door. There was Mrs. Sherman and a nurse, each stepping out with a baby in arms. Such an expression as came over that stern Sherman face was never seen before. It could not be described. He was at a loss for words for a minute or two and finally was able to stammer: "Wife, what does this mean?" She replied: "Husband, they were so pretty and so much alike that I could not make a choice, and so I selected both." They were twin girl babies. For the next few days it was a show to watch Mr. Sherman as he enjoyed and caressed the newcomers. One of the twins sickened and died within a few weeks, and the other is now his daughter, Mrs. McCullom.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

THE CHAMPION IN FRUGALITY.

Hopkins Had to Acknowledge He Had Met His Superior in Economy.

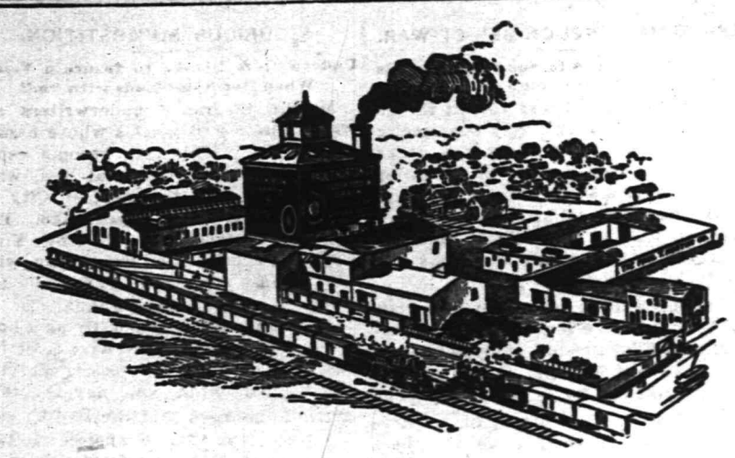
Guy, the founder of Guy's hospital in London, was as parsimonious in private life as he was munificent in public. A good story illustrative of this is told of him in connection with John Hopkins, one of his contemporaries, who was nicknamed Vulture Hopkins on account of his rapacious mode of acquiring his immense wealth. On one occasion he paid a visit to Guy, who, on Hopkins entering the room, lighted a farthing candle. Hopkins, on being asked the reason of his visit, said: "I have been told that you, sir, are better versed in the prudent and necessary art of saving than any man living, and I therefore wait on you for a lesson in frugality. I have always regarded myself as an adept in this matter, but I am told you excel me." "Oh," replied Guy, "if that is all you came to talk about, we can discuss the [illegible] dark," and thereupon he matter in the [illegible] with this blew out the candle. Struck example of economy, Hopkins acknowledged that he had met his superior in thrift.—Medical Record.

How She Kept Him in Subjection.

While stopping one night at a farmhouse in Missouri a traveler was astonished to see his hostess walk up to her husband about every fifteen minutes and box his ears or give his hair a pull. In the morning the guest, seeing the woman alone, asked an explanation of her strange conduct, and her reply was: "You see, stranger, me and the old man has been fightin' for ten years to see who shall boss this 'ere ranch, and I have jest got him cowed, but if I should let up on him for a day he would turn on me again, and my work would all go for nothin'."—New York Tribune.

A Heap Dead.

No one disputed the dictum of a Chinese physician who had been called to attend a Celestial who had fainted in a store at Portland, Ore., when the doctor said, after filling the prostrate man's mouth and nose with red paint: "Him blow out paint, him all same not yet dead; him no catch 'im wind, no blow out paint, him heap dead." The man didn't blow out the paint and the coroner was called.



Do You Think

That Grain that is thoroughly cleaned in a modern, up-to-date plant is better than when shoveled direct from a car (dirt and all), as is necessary by the small local dealer? Do you think that a firm operating its own purchasing offices throughout the west, its own distributing stores, and, most of all, the Largest and Most complete Grain Elevator and Cleaning Plant in New Jersey is able to give better goods at less cost than the small dealer who must buy from middlemen and handle his goods in the old way?

MARRIED ON THE SLY.

Bride and Groom Were First Cousins—Kept Their Secret Five Months.

Miss Alice Layton, the 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Layton, of 137 Grove street, made the startling announcement to her relatives Sunday that she had been secretly married last July to Charles W. Layton, her first cousin, who lives at 115 Duer street. When young Layton was questioned about the matter he confirmed the girl's statement, and they exhibited a marriage certificate bearing date of July 5th, and signed by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, pastor of the Monroe Avenue church, of this city.

On the momentous day indicated in the marriage certificate the young folks hired a carriage and started on a drive, informing their elders that they were going for a ride to New Market. This awakened no suspicion, and they were allowed to go unquestioned. Instead of driving to New Market, however, it now appears from their own confession that the couple proceeded at once to the home of Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, where, in the presence of two witnesses, Mr and Mrs. Frank Swick, of New Germantown, they were made husband and wife.

They agreed to keep the marriage a secret, however, as the relatives of the groom were opposed to his getting married.

After the affair became known both parties to the match were forgiven, and arrangements are now being made for the couple to take possession of a home of their own at the beginning of the new year.

THE CITIZENS' ON TOP.

to make his meaning certain, he had crossed out the proposition and then written "against" with a pencil on the margin of the ballot. One of the tellers maintained that it was a marked ballot and should be thrown out and not counted. The other teller objected emphatically to this, and refused to continue the count unless the ballot was counted. After a delay of about fifteen minutes, during which some heated remarks were passed, it was agreed to count the ballot, and the tellers proceded with their work.

The Second district of the Second ward resulted in a landslide for the Citizen's ticket. There were a dozen spectators gathered in the room and they frequently manifested their approval at the way the vote was going. John VanHerwerden, the candidate for Councilman, dropped in several times during the count. When the result was finally announced, the election officers and the spectators rose in a body and gave a wild cheer. Then Mr. VanHerwerden entered the room and the crowd gathered around to congratulate him. There were 94 ballots cast, of which 4 were rejected. 59 were Citizens' tickets, 31 were Republican, and 1 a Socialistic Labor ticket.

In the second district of the First ward there was the usual crowd of watchers at the polling place waiting to hear the result. As the votes began to roll up for Hetfield, expressions of surprise could be heard about the room. None of the candidates were present except Henry C. Corsa. When the final result was announced, several of the spectators shook hands and departed. There were 153 votes polled on which 1 was rejected. There were 96 Citizens, 52 Republican, and 4 Socialistic Labor tickets.

The total vote in the Third ward was 498, of which there were 358 Republican tickets, 133 citizens. There were seven rejected ballots.

The excitement was at fever heat in the first district of the Second ward as the votes were counted. At the start, Mr. Van Herwerden took the lead but Councilman Frost began to gain slowly until he was in the lead and in a fair way to catch up with the lead obtained by Van Herwerden in the other district. The room was crowded most of the time and all was excitement as the last fifty votes were counted.

VanHerwerden's majority in the ward variated from three to fifteen and the crowd was on the watch for a change. When the last vote was counted, it was announced that VanHerwerden had won by ten votes. His followers cheered and cheered. 457 ballots were cast of which 6 were thrown out. There were 284 Republican ballots, 159 Citizens' tickets and 3 Socialistic Labor ballots.

The following were the candidates on the Socialistic Labor ticket: For members of the Common Council at Large, Charles Grieb, Charles Burns, William E. VanNorden, city treasurer, Claus R. Wallanner.

The vote in the various districts was as follows: First ward, First district, 5; Second ward, First district, 3; Second district, 1; Third ward, 7; Fourth ward, First district, 10; Second district, 33.

In the first district of the Fourth ward there were 252 Republican tickets cast and 289 Citizens, and there were 6 rejected ballots. During the evening an uuusually large crowd gathered at the polling place and there seemed to be much satisfaction expressed over the success of the Citizens' ticket. Councilmen-elect Moffett and Liefke were present and received the congratulations of all.

In the Second district of the Fourth ward 452 ballots were cast in all, and six of these were rejected. The Citizens' ticket polled 220 votes, the Republican ticket 192, and the Socialistic Labor ticket, 33.

NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED IN UP-TO-DATE LAUNDRY WORK.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered, and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular. We will give you just exactly what you want, if we can find out what that is. Perhaps you believe that it is impossible to have your laundry well handled without irritation and annoyance to you. We are sure that you are mistaken. May we have an opportunity of demonstrating it?

DROWNED FROM A SHIP.

HARRY B. WILLIAMS WAS SEASICK AND FELL OVERBOARD.

Was on His Way to Maine With His Brother and Other Friends to Inspect a Mine.—Was Well-known in This City.

This morning's World published the following from Portland, Me.:

Harry B. Williams, of Plainfield, N. J., a law student, but until recently a newspaper man, fell from the steamer John Englis on her way from New York, and was drowned. The accident was due to sea-sickness.

Harry and his brother, W. Gordon Williams, of Plainfield, Edgar Chappell and Frank L. Swackhammer were on their way to Maine on a hunting trip and also to examine a vein of mica which Gordon Williams discovered last Fall at South Waterford.

Harry Williams evidently become seasick. Several times during the night he went out of his state room for fresh air. At 5:30 this morning, the steamer then being opposite the horseshoe, on the Nantucket shoals, Williams again went out. He was half leaning over and half reclining on the rail when the went overbeard.

Chappell, who happened to see him as he went over, gave the alarm. The vessel was stopped. The search-light was used and a boat was lowered, but a thorough search for half an hour revealed no trace of him. He was not seen after he struck the water.

Harry B. Williams was about twenty-seven years old and lived with his parents at Plainfield. He was at one time connected with the Elizabeth Daily Leader, and later with the Hackensack Leader.

When he was out west last year he met a fortune-teller who said to him: "You will never see 1898." Recently he said to his brother: "I wonder if that prediction will prove true."

S. S. Swackhamer, an uncle of the Williams brothers, received a telegram from Walter G. Williams last evening telling that his brother, Harry, was missing from the steamer. The telegram was from Portland, Me., and Williams said that he would leave there at once for Plainfield. He is expected tonight.

The following item was in type today when the account of Williams' death was received.

Lawyer Walter Williams, Harry Williams and Edgard Chappell, of this city, started Tuesday for Waterford, Me., where they will look after the interests of a mica mine which they recently purchased. They will also make arrangements for its development. The young men took their guns along with them and they may bring back some game. They expect to return home in about a week.

ON EARTH TWO SCORE YEARS.

Former Councilman Frazee Celebrated His Birthday.

Former Councilman Vincent L. Frazee, of West End Park, celebrated the fortieth anniversary of his birthday last Tuesday, and in the evening the festive occasion was celebrated in a very pleasant manner, when he entertained a few of his friends at his home. The genial manner of the host and his wife made the event a pleasant one.

The programme, interspered with both vocal and instrumental music, was complete with enjoyable features. During the evening a delightful spread was served to the guests and all indulged to the health and happiness of Mr. and Mrs. Frazee.

Those present included Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Cramer, of Dunellen, Mrs. Kenny, of Greater New York, Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Hetfield, Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Blatz, Miss Louise Keunlin, Miss Lena Keunlin, Mrs. Oller, Miss Addie Weaver. P. V. Weaver, Mr. and Mrs. V. L. Frazee and John Bolsterli.

Wild Geese Pay a Visit.

A flock of about sixty wild geese passed over Percy C. Ohl's farm in the southern part of the city yesterday afternoon, and seeing the beautiful sheet of water near his house they settled down into it. It was a beautiful sight to see the geese swimming on the surface of the water. Their stay, however, was only a short one, as they were frightened away by a couple of dogs who chanced to be at large.

Miss Anthony and her neice, of this city, left this morning for Texas, where she will remain for the winter.

A MINISTER TO DEPART.

REV. H. J. JOHNSTON WILL LEAVE GRACE M. E. CHURCH IN APRIL.

He Has Received a Call From Mariner's Harbor, S. I.—Present Charge Has Flourished Under His Pastorate.

The members of Grace M. E. church, as well as the many people in the city and borough who are friends of the church and its pastor, will learn with regret that Rev. H. J. Johnston, the pastor, will conclude his labors in that church with the ending of the church year in April next. This change has been under consideration by the pastor since he received such a flattering call from a church at Mariner's Harbor, S. I., with a much larger salary than he is receiving here. He will also have a parsonage at his disposal, and this will be a great advantage to him and his family.

Mr. Johnston has been associated with Grace M. E. church two years and has made many warm friends. His efforts in the religious field have been rewarded by scores of additions to the membership. The church is at present concluding a series of revival meetings that are giving grand results. It was through Mr. Johnston's labors that the church was led into the revival spirit. All departments of the church are in the best of condition and doing good work.

Last evening after the regular church prayer meeting a meeting of the official board of the church was held, and it was at that time that Mr. Johnston stated that he had received the call and had decided to accept it. The members of the board were somewhat surprised, but accepted the matter philosophically. Resolutions were offered and adopted expressing the sincere regret of the church in its loss, and extending to those with whom he will be associated a grand testimonial as to his usefulness and good Christian qualifications as a pastor and teacher of God's Word.

Mr. Johnston is not desirious of leaving Plainfield nor the church to which he has become very much attached, and says that if he had his way he would remain here. The church to which he is going has a membership of about three hundred and is in a flourishing condition.

CUPID DWELLS NOT HERE.

The meetings of the club will be held at the homes of the different members. The following officers were elected:—President Benjamin O. Bowers, Jr.; vice-president, George Proctor Smith; treasurer, Godwin Beard; secretary, Henry W Brower. The other members of the club are Ostermoor, John Hull, Aubrey Hull, Van R. The assistants in the dining room were Misses Waring, Daisy Shepard and Edith Smalley.

Lantern Reservoir Stolen.

Somebody appropriated the reservoir to the bicycle lamp of the wheel of E. Stanley Peck, of Second place, at the Plainfield High School, Monday morning. Peck rode his wheel to school that morning and left it in the cellar with the rest. His lantern was on the wheel. When he returned at the close of school, he found the reservoir gone Supposing it to be a practical joke, he paid little attention to it He has seen nothing of it since, however, and now believes that it was stolen.

Repairs on City Jail.

Since it was definitely decided that the city should not have a new jail at present, the repairs ordered by the Board of Health have been started, The building was connected with the sewer and sanitary toilet fixtures are being placed in the building. A new system of drainage is being put in and the plumbing is being all renewed. George J. Tobin has the contract and expects to complete the work this week.

PARING HEALTH FUNDS.

SMALL SIZED WAR CLOUD HOVERING IN BOROUGH OFFICIAL CIRCLES.

Though the Voters Authorized an Appropriation of $550 the Assessor Only Raised $400—Who Was Really to Blame?

There is a small-sized war cloud hovering around the municipal affairs of the borough over the failure of the Board of Health to receive the amount of money that was appropriated them by the Republican primary when the budget was made up and afterwards approved by the voters. Though the Board has been very active for the past few years in the attempt to preserve the health of the borough it has been badly handicapped by the lack of funds. The fault has been, it seems, in the failure to fix the tax rate at a percentage sufficient to raise the money appropriated by the voters.

Last spring the voters appropriated $550 for the use of the Board, but it now comes to light that the health officials will have to get along with about $400—$150 less than what they are entitled to. The matter was the subject of some lively remarks at the meeting of the Board of Health last evening.

It was stated that when Assessor Cooley was interrogated as to why the full appropriation was not raised, he said that Borough Clerk Arnold had notified him to raise only $450 for health purposes and he had taken this information as official. Mr. Arnold was seen, and, it is said, declared that he had written a letter to Assessor Cooley naming $550 to be raised. Then the letter was resurrected, and Secretary Honeyman told a Press reporter this morning it was found that the figure name by Clerk Arnold was only $450.

At the meeting last night the members of the Board expressed a determination not to drop the matter, since the paring of their appropriations had been going for some years—even sometimes so far that they got nothing when $500 was voted by the people. The Board authorized Borough Counsel Reed to look into the matter of appropriations and see if there is some way in which the full amount of the appropriation can be secured. Just what the outcome will be remains to be seen.

The only other important business of the Board was the appointment of Secretary Honeyman to go as a delegate to the State Sanitary Association convention to be held in Lakewood tomorrow.

The Library Directors.

The regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Public Library was held Tuesday evening. There were present Directors Mason W. Tyler, Wm. H. Larrabee, J. B. Dumont, J. Evarts Tracy and Wm. M. Stillman. The Library committee reported that they were perfecting arrangements with several of the larger manufacturing establishments for the introduction of books, and that the plan would soon be put in operation. The recommendation that the Library be open on holidays from 2 until 6 p. m., the same as the Sunday hours, was adopted. The art committee reported progress in the matter of shelving for the Cloisonne collection.

Privileges for Factory Men.

It is the intention of the Board of Directors of the Plainfield Public Library to provide special privileges for the employes in the local factories in regard to the circulation of books. The matter was discussed at the meeting of the Directors Tuesday evening and complete details will be made shortly. At the meeting it was decided to have the reading room open on holidays at the same hours as on Sundays, from 2 to 6 o'clock in the afternoon.

Girls Want a Gymnasium.

The members of the Girls' Athletic Club of the Plainfield High School will give an entertainment this winter to raise funds to equip the upper floor of the Whittier building as a gymnasium. While it has been decided to have an entertainment, the exact character is still to be settled. It will probably be held some time during February.

Meeting of Probationers.

At Grace M. E. church this evening there will be a meeting of probationers at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be of interest as the pastor is to assign each one to a class and present them with a certificate of membership.

Will Not Move Wires Till Next Spring.

The New York and New Jersey Telephone Company will not attempt to do anything in the way of placing their wires under grouud in this city this winter. Next spring the work will be done.

May Be Council President.

It is rumored about the city that Councilman Wm. N. Runyon is likely to be chosen president of the Council next year.

MONEY AND CYCLE GONE

BURGLARS ARE AGAIN PROWLING ABOUT THE CITY.

A Private House Looted Tuesday Night—Last Night Rogers' Sea Food Market was Invaded and Ransacked.

The fish market of David W. Rogers, at West Second street and Madison avenue, was entered by thieves last night and a bicycle and a small amount in cash were carried away.

At 6 o'clock this morning Burnett Rogers went to open the market, as usual, and discovered that the door at the rear was unlocked and standing open. He at once commenced an investigation, and had not continued this long before he discovered that a Crawford bicycle which is kept about the market was missing.

It was stated to a Daily Press reporter this morning that the bicycle had been left on the sidewalk in front of the market all night. The amount of cash taken from the money drawer was about a $1.50. No attempt was made to force the safe open, and this along with other indications point to the theory that the thieves were amateurs.

It is thought that the robbery was committed last night about 10 o'clock, as at that time some of the ladies in Mr. Roger's house heard a noise about the market. Later on it ceased, and the incident was forgotten until this morning when the fact of the robbery became known.

The home of the Misses Dunlap on East Fifth street was entered by burglars yesterday morning about 1 o'clock and $53 in money was taken from a spare room over the front porch. The money was drawn from the bank Tuesday by Miss Lizzie Dunlap and she placed it in the room from which it was taken. There is every indication that the person or persons who stole the money knew all about the location of it, and that it was their intention of taking nothing but the money. There was considerable jewelry in the room, but that was not disturbed in the least.

The Misses Dunlap retired early in the evening and they do not remember having heard any noises about the house. Between 12 and 1 o'clock Miss Lizzie Dunlap was awakend from her sleep by a toothache and she got out of bed to get some medicine to stop the pain. She thinks that while she was about the house the burglars were frightened away. Benjamin Schenck, who boards at the house, came home about 12 o'clock but he saw nothing unusual to attract his attention. The supposition is that the thieves secured a ladder and placed it against the side of the house whereby they were able to reach the roof of the porch and were then able to get in the room mentioned above. The lock on the window was found pushed back. There was in all about $75 in the room, but the thieves in taking the money dropped all but the $53 which they took with them. The rest of the money was found later. Miss Dunlap did not miss the money until she happened to think of a bill which she wanted to pay. She then went to the room for the money and found the $53 missing. The burglary was reported to the police and they are now investigating it. There are some suspicions as to who took the money, but as yet no arrests have been made.

Ladies, a Word to the Wise is Sufficient.

If this is not your paper secure a copy before they are all sold as it will entitle you to a reserved seat in Washington Hall tonight and enable you to see the hypnotic performance of the wonderful Sevengala Brothers, who are said to be the monarchs of all others in their particular lines. Ladies can attend these exhibitions as nothing will be introduced to offend anybody and must be quite interesting according to the following: "The performance given by 'Sevengala' is funnier than any farce comedy that has visited this city and should be seen to be appreciated."—Binghamton, N. Y., Herald.

The Foot Bridge Removed.

The small foot bridge that served temporarily in connecting Watchung avenue from the borough to the city over Green brook has been removed by Freeholder John Tier. It will soon be placed in position so as to provide a means of reaching Mr. Tier's ice cream pavilion from Watchung avenue. It will be a great improvement for Freeholder Tier.

Bridge in Position.

The new hand rails for the new Watchung avenue bridge arrived yesterday, and are now being placed in position at the sides of the footpaths on the bridge. The structure will then be complete, and there will be no fear that pedestrians will tumble off into the brook.

COCK FIGHT AT GARWOOD

ENDED IN A FREE SCRAP AMONG THE SPORTS WHO WERE PRESENT.

The Elizabeth Faction Did Not Like a Decision Favoring Rahway and a Blow Was Struck—Then a General Mixup.

An old barn in the neighborhood of Garwood was the scene of a lively time last night. The evening opened with a cock fight between birds from Rahway and Elizabeth. The fight had been heralded among the sporting class in all the towns in the vicinity and a choice collection of sporting men from Plainfield, Westfield, Elizabeth and Rahway were on hand to see the fun. The old barn was crowded with those who came to see the fun.

All went well during the first few matches and the excitement heightened by their closeness. The honors were about evenly divided and both sides became more and more excited as time went on and no decided advantage was gained by the birds of either city.

One match was particularly close and both sides claimed it. The referee decided in favor of the Rahway men and the Elizabeth faction immediately raised a howl that they were being cheated. High words followed and then one enthusiast forgot himself so far as to punch one of the other faction in the jaw. That was the signal for a free fight and blows were given and returned without delay.

The owner of the barn and promoter of the fight was in a quandary fearing that the disturbance would attract the attention of the authorities. As the fight had reached its height, some one in the rear of the barn raised the cry of "Police." There was a sudden cessation in the hostilides and everybody made a rush for the door. The entrance was small and those in the rear could make no way. Some jumped through the windows and others fled up the ladder to hide away in the hay in the loft. The crowd soon scattered and the barn was empty. No police showed up, however, and the owners of the birds returned and gathered their property together and departed.

DIDN'T APPEAR AT HEARING.

Bodenheimer's Bondsman Worried, but Former Finally Came Around.

Last Tuesday Mrs. Bodenheimer, of the borough, appeared before Recorder Thomas and made a complaint against her husband charging him with being abusive and coming home in an intoxicated condition. The Recorder issued a warrant for the arrest of Bodenheimer, and he was taken before the Recorder Tuesday evening. George Hummer was his bondsman. The time for the hearing was set for 8 o'clock yesterday morning, but at that time the defendant failed to appear, and a search was made for him. At first it was thought that the bondsman would have to forfeit the money. Later in the day Bodenheimer returned and the matter was adjusted in a satisfactory manner. Recorder Thomas set the time for the hearing at 4 o'clock this afternoon.

Bowling in Netherwood.

With the approach of winter, interest in bowling grows apace. A number of the young people living in and near Netherwood are considering the organization of a bowling club. They have secured the promise of the use of the old alleys in the rear of the Hotel Hunterston, which they can use if they place them in condition and provide them with the necessary pin boy. They are preparing to make the changes and open up the alleys to the members of the club for use every evening. The club will contain both young women and young men.

Dinner of the Princeton Club.

The first annual dinner of the Princeton Club, of Union county, will be given in the Casino of the Union County Country Club tomorrow evening. Chief Justice Magie will preside, and there will be speeches by Dean Murray, of Princeton; Rev. Dr. W. C. Roberts and Senator Foster M. Voorhees, of Elizabeth; Wm. R. Wilder, of New York; Wm. N. Runyon, of Plainfield, and others. Several old glee club men will be present to lead the singing.

Good Interest in Revivals.

The revival meetings at the Seventh Day Baptist church are still being continued. The meetings are held every evening under the direction of Evangelist E. B. Saunders, of Wisconsin. The attendance has been good and the meeting will probably be continued for several weeks longer.

CHASED BY A POLICEMAN

PATROLMAN M'CUE SUCCEEDED IN CATCHING HIS MEN.

Mike Finnerty Took a Pair of Shoes Surreptiously and Louis Hedemark Wouldn't Pay For the Drinks Which He Ordered.

Patrolman McCue was the hero of two exciting chases, yesterday afternoon, that finally resulted in the capture of two offenders against the peace of the city. Michael Finnerty went into Abram's shoe store on West Front street, yesterday afternoon, and looked over the shoes on exhibition there. At last he picked out a pair that suited him and walked out of the store. The proprietor thought it a rather one-sided game and yelled for the police. Patrolman McCue was in the distance and he began to run. So did Finnerty. Finnerty ran up Madison avenue and sought refuge in an outhouse at the coal yard of E. H. Holmes from whence he was dragged by McCue and taken to jail.

Louis C. Hedemark walked into Smith's saloon on West Front street yesterday afternoon and asked for drinks. He treated two friends and then walked out without paying. He came in again and treated. When the barkeeper suggested that he ought to settle his account, he offered to settle the bill for 5 cents, which, he said, was all he had. Then, it is alleged, Hedemark began to swear and raise a disturbance and Patrolman McCue was called in to take him to the lock-up. Hedemark went peaceably enough until he reached the jail and while McCue was unlocking the door, Hedemark took to his heels. Then the policeman followed and captured the prisoner after a short run.

Hedemark objected to being searched but the policeman finally ransacked his pockets and found a revolver and $1.30 in change. He was released on bail to await trial.

This morning both offenders were arraigned before City Judge DeMeza in the city court room. Finnerty told his story and pleaded guilty. The Judge sentenced him to pay a fine of $8 or go to jail for twenty days.

Hedemark explained that it was all a mistake. Mr. Smith appeared against him and told his side of the case. Councilman-elect Walter L. Hetfield represented Hedemark. The Judge reserved sentence in his case until Saturday morning and held him on bail to appear for sentence on that occasion.

Decided in the Negative.

The Plainfield Debating Society met Tuesday evening in Murphy's & Blatz's law office and had a debate "whether liquor license is a value to the city of Plainfield or a dis-advantage." For the affirmative were W. Sweeney, H. Linbarger, S. Mosher, H. DeMeza and E. Baker; for the negative were W. Swalm, W. Nash, Jr., Chas. Dunlap, R. Larew and G. Neilson. The judge was Chas. Dolliver and he decided that the negative side was the winner of the debate. The Society decided to have a mock trial next Tuesday and the subject will be "That one of the members stole a hat and coat from another member." For the prosecution H. Linbarger, and W. Sweeney will act as the defendant lawyer. The judge will be one the lawyers of this city.

Lehigh Trackmen's Time Cut.

The Lehigh Valley trackmen are complaining because of the reduction of time along the entire road. All the trackmen who had previously worked full time will only be allowed to work eight hours a day and three days of the week for 11 cents an hour. Many of the men are married and have large families to support.

Homes for Silk Mill Operators.

The last cottage of the twelve that have been built by the Sterling Silk Manufacturing Company is now rapidly nearing completion. There were not enough cottages for rent in Sterling to accommodate the employes of the company, so the company had twelve cottages built on Essex avenue.

Called to a Chicago Pulpit.

Rev. Dr. E. T. Tomlinson, who for the last ten years has had charge of the Central Baptist church in Elizabeth, has recently returned from a visit to Chicago, and has under advisement a call to a church in that city at an annual salary of $7,000, and it is thought that he will accept it.

Dr. Stearns Married.

Dr. D. M. Stearns, who conducts a bible class in Y. M. C. A. hall every other Monday night and is well known in this city, was married to Miss May Brodhead, of Delaware Water Gap, at Parkesburg, Pa., on November 25. The wedding was a very quiet one.

CUBA IN THE SENATE

Senator Allen of Nebraska Springs a New Resolution.

WANTS CUBA RECOGNIZED

He Declares That the Commercial Spirit of the United States Is Preventing Action—House Holds a Fifteen-Minute Session.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Mr. Allen (Pop., Neb.), introduced in the Senate yesterday a resolution declaring it to be the sense of the Senate that Congress should, with all due convenient speed, acknowledge the independence of Cuba. He followed it with a speech, declaring that the commercial spirit of the United States was preventing action.

He said that he had long urged recognition of the independence of the Cubans. He would not be content with the recognition of belligerency, but would insist upon the acknowledgment of absolute political liberty. He was satisfied that the people would not be content with the course advised by the Administration. Inasmuch as the Cubans, for more than two years, on many battlefields, had demonstrated their valor and love for liberty, he felt that they had earned a recognition of their political liberty, and that it ought to be accorded to them without further temporizing. If necessary, this recognition should be backed by a fleet of American vessels in Cuban waters. He expressed a belief that the owners of Spanish bonds in this country, American citizens holding property in Cuba which had been injured or destroyed by the insurgents, and the carrying trade of the country, which might be affected by such a step, had joined to prevent the recognition of Cuba's independence.

Mr. Allen said that he believed that President McKinley's statement in his message that the recognition of the belligerency of the Cuban insurgents is now unwise and therefore inadmissible, would be a great disappointment to the Republicans throughout the United States. The national convention of that party had declared in favor of the independence of Cuba, going farther than the simple recognition of the belligerency. He thought that the President was under obligations to carry out the pledge which his party had made—a pledge which had been made to seventy-three millions of people. The President, Mr. Allen thought, had been lulled to sleep by the declaration of Spain that she would give Cuba a semi-political existence. He expressed the belief that the President's neglect to take such action as would insure the political independence of Cuba was an exhibition of "rank hypocrisy" and a "flagrant neglect of public duty," which would be corrected by the "all-ruling power in His own good time."

Mr. Davis (Minn.), reported from the Committee on Foreign Relations, a bill prohibiting the killing of fur seals in the North Pacific Ocean. He asked immediate consideration for the bill, but Mr. Hale (Maine), objected on the ground of the importance of the measure and asked that the bill be printed.

Senator Gear introduced a bill authorizing the Secretary of the Treasury to enter a bid for the United States on bond-aided railroads and to clear off liens paramount to those of the United States and appropriating the amount necessary for this purpose. The bill is understood to have been framed by the Attorney General, and it is intended to open the way to settlement of the Kansas Pacific debt.

SHORT SESSION OF THE HOUSE.

Pension Appropriation Bill Reported and Adjournment Taken.

Washington, Dec. 9.—The session of the House yesterday lasted only fifteen minutes. W. A. Stone (Rep., Pa.), reported the pension appropriation bill, the first of the appropriation bills, and gave notice that he whould call it up immediately after the reading of the journal to-morrow. The Committee on Election and the Committee on Banking and Currency were given leave to sit during the sessions of the House. At 12.15 the House adjourned.

To Consider the House Rules.

Washington, Dec. 9.—The Committee of the Rules of the House, of which Speaker Reed is chairman, will get together during the holidays to consider such change of the House rules as has shown to be desirable. It is not expected that these will touch any vital points, but will be rather in the nature of routine changes to facilitate the dispatch of business.

The three House committees on elections are beginning to map out their work with a view to determining contested-election cases at the earliest possible day. There are twenty-one of these contests pending. Some of these will require extended hearings, but quite a number can be disposed of without much delay.

The House Committee on Foreign Affairs will hold its first meeting today, when Chairman Hitt will name the sub-committees which will consider the several questions of Cuba, Hawaii, etc. Thus far there has been no consultation on the general line of operation on the numerous foreign subjects before the committee.

France Is Aroused.

London, Dec. 9.—A special dispatch just received from Paris says that the French cruisers Jean Bart, Isly, Alger and Pascal have been ordered to be prepared for immediate dispatch to China. It is thought here that Germany's action in seizing Kais Chou Bay has something to do with the sudden naval movement.

1,000 Troops Reported Lost.

Halifax, Dec. 9.—A startling rumor is afloat here, but it cannot be confirmed, that the British troopship Avoca, from Jamaica for Cape Town, had foundered. She had 1,000 troops on board. Before sailing she was docked and cleaned.

Big Hardware Failure.

Chicago, Dec. 9.—Horton Gilmore, McWilliams & Co., wholesale hardware dealers, 172-176 Lake street, have assigned to the Illinois Trust and Savings Bank. The assets are $300,000 and the liabilities $210,000.

MONETARY COMMISSION.

Former Secretary Fairchild Says the Report Will Be Ready Soon.

New York, Dec. 9.—Former Secretary of the Treasury Fairchild stated to a reporter that the Monetary Commission, of which he is a member, will undoubtedly complete its report and recommendation on currency reform within a few days after it reconvenes next Wednesday.

"Our report," said he, "will go to Chairman Hanna, of the Executive Committee of the Indianapolis convention, and I presume that he will call the committee together at a convenient date to pass upon the subject finally. Of course, I cannot say what shape this report will ultimately take or to what extent the commission will differ in its recommendations from the views expressed in the President's message as to the steps to be taken towards reorganizing our national finances. President McKinley has started in the proper direction, and if he keeps right on something sound and beneficial will undoubtedly eventuate. He has not gone as far as some of us believe he should, but it is a long step forward when one of President McKinley's belongings and antecedents takes such a pronounced attitude in favor of safeguarding our finances, as is shown by his effort to have greenbacks offered for redemption kept in the Treasury unless gold is given the Government in exchange for them.

"I do not care to discuss now the probable line of suggestion to be made by the Monetary Commission," continued Mr. Fairchild, "but it is to be borne in mind, when comparing its recommendations with those of the administration, that one is dealing with the monetary problem as a whole, while the other is dealing with Congress. One is seeking to determine what must be done to solve the entire problem, while the other is confining itself to that which may possibly be accomplished under present conditions, for that evidently is what President McKinley has in mind. No one can tell, you know, what this Senate will do, even with the one suggestion the President makes."

PENSION LEAK MAY BE STOPPED.

Action Against Young Women Who Marry Old Soldiers.

Washington, Dec. 9.—The House Committee on Invalid Pensions yesterday took action to correct the abuse of young women marrying old soldiers and sailors for the purpose of securing their pensions as widows.

The practice was brought to light by a recent investigation of the pension rolls for the war of 1812, which showed that while there were but three survivors on the rolls, more than 3,000 widows were drawing pensions.

The committee authorized Chairman Ray to obtain from the Committee on Rules an order permitting an amendment to the Pension Appropriation bill, providing that no pension shall hereafter be granted to the widow of a soldier or other person who is married to such soldier or other person after the passage of this act, excepting, however, all soldiers, sailors, officers, etc., now in or who may hereafter enter the military or naval service of the United States.

The matter has aroused much interest among members of Congress, and many who would not vote to investigate or correct any other form of pension abuse are ready to aid in the fight against what Senator Wilson, of Washington, calls the "widow business."

A MILLION ON HIS LIFE.

The Largest Policy Ever Written for One Man.

New York, Dec. 9.—The largest life insurance policy ever issued by any company in the world has just been issued to George W. Vanderbilt by the Mutual Life Insurance Company. The policy is in the straight life, twenty-year class, and amounts to $1,000,000. Mr. Vanderbilt is to pay an annual premium of $35,000.

Until a few years ago a policy for $100,000 was considered the maximum amount any company would write upon the life of an individual. In the last year or two this sum has been, in a few cases, doubled on the lives of healthy men whose financial ability enabled them to pay the necessary premiums. But never before has the amount of a single policy reached anything like the sum carried on the life of Mr. Vanderbilt by the Mutual [illegible]

Neighbors Could Not Bear to Look Upon Her—A Grand, Complete Cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla After Others Failed.

"I was taken with neuralgia in my head and eyes. Not long after this, a scrofula sore appeared on my left cheek, extending from my upper lip to my eye. Other sores came on my neck and on my right arm and one of my limbs. They were very troublesome and painful and soon became great running sores. My face looked so bad that some of my neighbors could not bear to look at me and advised me to wear a bandage, but I feared this would irritate the sore and make it worse. So I Could Not Hide the Sores.

My niece, who was familiar with a case similar to mine, which had been cured by Hood's Sarsaparilla, urged me to try it. Finally I was persuaded to do so, and in a short time I saw it was helping me. The sores began to heal and the neuralgia in my head was better. In a few months the sores on my arms and limbs all healed; those on my neck gradually disappeared and now they are all gone. I have never had any symptom of scrofula since. One large scar on my right arm is all the sign that remains of my terrible affliction. The neuralgia is also cured." MRS. J. M. Consumption Positively Cured.
Mr. R. B. Greeve, merchant, of Chilhowie, Va., certifies that he had consumption, was given up to die, sought all medical treatment that money could procure, tried all cough remedies he could hear of, but got no relief; spent many nights sitting up in a chair; was induced to try Dr. King's New Discovery, and was cured by use of two bottles. For past three years has been attending to business and says Dr. King's New Discovery is the grandest remedy ever made, as it has done so much for him and also for others in his community. Dr. King's New Discovery is guaranteed for Coughs, Colds and Consumption. It don't fail. Trial bottles free at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

—The new residence of Dr. Frank S. Wells on Grant avenue, near Sherman avenue, is nearly completed and will soon be ready for occupancy.

How to Look Good.
Good looks are really more than skin deep, depending entirely on a healthy condition of all the vital organs. If the liver be inactive, you have a bilious look; if your stomach be disordered, you have a dyspeptic look; if your kidneys be effected, you have a pinched look. Secure good health and you will surely have good looks. "Electric Bitters" is a good Alterative and Tonic. Acts directly on the stomach, liver and kidneys. Purifies the blood, cures pimples, blotches and boils, and gives a good complexion. Every bottle guaranteed. Sold at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store. 50 cents per bottle.

Mrs. S. S. Taylor and Mrs. Wm. J. Browning, of Camden, are visiting Dr. Browning, of East Fifth street.

Mr. C. M. Dixon, a well known merchant, of Pleasant Ridge, Fulton Co., Pa., has a little girl who is frequently threatened with croup, but when the first symptoms appear, his wife gives her Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, which always affords prompt relief. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Mrs. E. C. Varney, of 23 Duer street, is still suffering from an attack of bronchitis.

After hearing some friends continually praising Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, Curtis Fleck, of Anaheim, California, purchased a bottle of it for his own use and is now as enthusiastic over its wonderful work as anyone can be. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

That genial personage, Editor Hugh Boyd, of the New Brunswick Home News, was a caller at The Press office yesterday.

Don't be persuaded into buying liniments without reputation or merit—Chamberlain's Pain Balm costs no no more, and its merits have been proven by a test of many years. Such letters as the following, from L. G. Bagley, Hueneme, Cal., are constantly being received: "The best remedy for pain I have ever used is Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and I say so after having used it in my family for several years." It cures rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Miss Edith DuBois, of Park avenue, is visiting at White House.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.
At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olagah, Ind. Ter. Chief. This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and la grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

MILLER IN THE LEAD.

Plucky Cyclists Keep Up the Struggle in the Six-Day Race.

New York, Dec. 9.—Only eighteen of the original contestants are left in the great six-day bicycle race at Madison Square Garden. Miller is a far-and-away leader of the big race. Rice, the Wilkesbarre favorite, is in second place, but his rivals, Rivierre and Schinneer, keep up their heart-breaking record and are crowding him closely for second position.

The marvelous work of Miller can only be fully appreciated when the fact is considered that after fifty-nine hours of riding he could take nine hours' rest and still remain in advance of the previous world's records, for he had then covered 1,028 miles, whereas Schock's best on record for sixty-eight hours was only 1,022 miles.

It may be interesting to note in connection with this contest that the greatest distance ever covered by man on foot in 142 hours is 662 miles. There seems every probability that with the aid of the bicycle a record of little less than four times this distance will be established.

Of all the eighteen men still left in the race only Gray, the colored youth, and the Frenchman, Stephane, show the smallest signs of serious distress. Waller, who went all to pieces Tuesday, after capturing many records and setting the pace which has made this race exceptional, was out again last night apparently as strong as ever. He is still confident of being in the van at the finish.

MURDERER'S NARROW ESCAPE.

His Attorneys Get a Writ of Error Just in Time to Prevent Hanging.

Pittsburg, Dec. 9.—Philip Hill, a negro, was to have been hanged here yesterday for the murder of George Lawrence at Unity Camp on April 27.

He was not hanged, as a writ of error was taken out by his attorneys, and the Sheriff's attorney at 11.45 o'clock decided that it stayed the execution of the sentence till after Oct. 1, 1898, when the writ is returnable.

Hill's attorneys made a desperate effort to find Gov. Hastings in time to secure a respite for the condemned man. The Governor is in Hot Springs, Va. The prisoner's mother sent a petition to Harrisburg asking for a respite of ninety days, that the case might be laid before the State Board of Pardons in an application for a commutation of the sentence to imprisonment for life.

On learning that the Governor was in Virginia, Hill's lawyers begged the Sheriff to put off the hanging till 12 o'clock, the legal limit. They went to the jail at 10.10 o'clock yesterday morning, however, and announced that they had given up all hope of reaching the Governor.

EXCITEMENT IN HAYTI.

Public Is Bitter Over the Government's Surrender to Germany.

Port au Prince, Hayti, Dec. 9.—Count Schwerin, the German Minister, was received by the President yesterday afternoon. The public mind continues agitated, and all the regulars and the National Guard are in readiness.

Shortly before 2 o'clock the President issued a proclamation to the people of Hayti, saying that for the second time Hayti had yielded to German force, contrary to its rights. The Government, according to the proclamation, had decided to resist even to the last, but owing to the lack of promised moral influence, the character of which is not indicated in the proclamation, it was obliged to accept the ultimatum.

The proclamation invites the Haytian people to stop internal quarrelings and to labor for the raising up again of the nation.

DURRANT'S LAST HOPE GONE.

Supreme Court Dismisses His Appeal and Orders Resentence.

San Francisco, Dec. 9.—Late yesterday afternoon the Supreme Court dispelled the last hope of W. H. T. Durrant, the murderer of Blanche Lamont and Minnie Williams, by disposing in a summary manner of his two appeals. In a written opinion from the pen of Chief Justice Beatty, which is concurred in by all but one of his associates, the court affirms the judgment of Judge Bahers in remanding the prisoner to San Quentin until the date set for his execution, but reverses the sentencing of Durrant to be hanged on Nov. 11, and remands the case to the Superior Court with instructions to proceed according to law.

As the remittitur was ordered issued forthwith and the court holds that execution can only be stayed now by the issuance of a certificate of probable cause, it only remains to resentence the condemned murderer, which probably will be done to-day.

For a Greater Postoffice.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Postmaster General Gary will wait for Congress to take the first step in the matter of the proposed consolidation of the postoffices in Greater New York under one head. He has caused data bearing on the feasibility of the scheme to be gathered for the guidance of Congress, and this will be transmitted to either house as soon as a resolution is adopted calling for it.

Girl and $30,000 Missing.

Atlantic City, N. J., Dec. 9.—Nothing has yet been heard of Maggie Kirkpatrick, of Philadelphia, who disappeared from a boarding house here on Sunday with $30,000 in Government bonds sewed in her clothing. She is believed, however, to have gone to her home. Since her brother's death in April last the young woman has acted strangely.

OUTLOOK FOR HAWAII

Friends of the Annexation Treaty Encouraged.

OPPOSITION'S PROGRAMME

Think They Can Defeat the Measure if It Is Discussed in Open Senate. Reed Said to Be Opposed to the Treaty.

Washington, Dec. 9.—There is to be a spirited fight against the annexation of Hawaii. The Democrats have been rated almost unanimously against the treaty. A large number of Republicans are also opposed to annexation. Speaker Reed is said to be one of them. He is credited with the statement that the islands would be a source of weakness to the country. Because of the opposition there is talk of substituting for the treaty now pending in the Senate a bill that would require only a majority vote. It takes a two-thirds vote to ratify a treaty.

The opponents of the treaty acknowledge that, while they have gained a vote or two on the Republican side, they have lost on the Democratic. The announcement that Gorman and Pettus are with Morgan for annexation is followed by the announcement that Turpie is also inclined that way. The statement that Senator Hoar was against the treaty is qualified by the announcement that the Massachusetts Senator has not declared himself and will not until after the discussion.

Plan of the Opposition.

The plan of the opponents of the treaty is to have it discussed in open session. They claim that if this is done they can get their arguments against annexation before the country and bring pressure to bear on the Senate against the treaty. The leaders of the opposition state that if the treaty is discussed in executive session it can be ratified in one month, but if it is discussed openly it will be killed. It is their plan to prevent the treaty's ratification and have the Morgan bill for annexation reported and taken up by both branches of Congress, thus securing an open debate.

The friends of the treaty, while acknowledging that they have not yet secured a two-thirds vote, state that they have every prospect of getting it by the time it is needed. The poll of the Senate shows 54 votes in favor of the treaty, 19 against it and 16 uncertain. From this it will be seen that the treaty needs only six of the doubtful votes for ratification.

The Senate Foreign Relations Committee did not consider Hawaii yesterday.

To Postpone Action.

The fact that the committee did not even discuss Hawaii indicates that the friends of the islands are going to postpone action for a short time. The Senators in charge of the treaty have concluded not to bring the matter up until next week, although Senator Davis intended to ask the Senate to consider it yesterday. The delay is to gain time so that the friends of the treaty can work on the doubtful Senators.

It is also stated that many Republicans favoring the treaty think that if by next week the two-thirds is not secured, it will be best to abandon the treaty and take up the Morgan bill for annexation. This bill was introduced on June 23 and referred to the Committee on Foreign Relations. It provides for annexation in the same manner as the treaty, and thus secures all that could be gained by the ratification of that agreement.

SUFFERING AT KLONDIKE.

Forcible Pen Picture of the Awful Condition of Affairs There.

New York, Dec. 9.—In the course of a letter to James R. Keene, the well-known broker, an expert mining engineer, who was sent to the Klondike region in the Fall to investigate, reports a frightful condition of affairs there. The letter is written from Dawson City, and is dated Oct. 3. In the course of the letter the writer says:

"Our steamer had barely tied up to her landing, when she was boarded and taken possession of by fifty armed men, who demanded all her stores and supplies for the starving people living in the vicinity of Circle City, some 183 miners. The list they presented called for all the delicacies of the season, but all case goods having been left at Fort Yukon, likewise wines, liquors and cigars, they only found staple articles, namely, flour, bacon, butter, ham and lard.

"They took about thirty tons of ham, bacon, butter, beans, potatoes—practically all that there was of these articles—and about two hundred sacks of flour. Private property was respected, otherwise we would have had a shooting match on the boat. After cleaning up the vessel armed guards were put on board by the miners, as well as on shore, to prevent any further robbery, though there was really nothing else to take, unless it was private property.

"Five-cent cigars cost 50 cents each, and flour, outside of the company's contracts, $125 for a 50-pound sack; candles, $1 apiece. Seventy-five dollars is paid for a five-gallon can of coal oil. In fact, none is for sale. Sugar is 36 cents and tea $1 a pound. Coffee, $1 a pound, and not fit for dogs. Ordinary dog meat, which means dried fish, $1 a pound. No man works for less than $15 for nine hours, and confers a very great favor upon you even at that rate. Cordwood, sawed and split, is $54 a cord in the yard."

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

(Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Probably Fair Tonight and Friday; Warmer Tonight.

At 2 o'Clock the Thermometer at Leggett's Pharmacy Registered 60 Degrees.

HISTORY REPEATS ITSELF.

The credit for Mr. Frost's defeat lies with the Netherwood people. Netherwood has come to the front in the past. The downtown end of the ward was a long time in offering recognition to the residents of that end of the ward. It will not be forgotten that some years ago Karl Polak was elected by the aid of the Republicans in Netherwood by four votes, and again two years later Mr. Spangenberg received a majority of 27 votes. In this election the Netherwood candidate, Mr. vanHerwerden, comes to the front with a majority of 10 votes. It may be well to state that the majority of the Netherwood people are Republicans, and when 75 voted the Citizens ticket the Republican majority of the ward is decreased 150 votes. The Republican party should by this time have learned its lesson.

THE PRESS ELECTION SPECIAL.

The special election edition of The Daily Press issued yesterday morning shortly after 4 o'clock was as complete in every department as though printed at the usual time. The story of the election and the tabulated forms of the vote were especially correct and concise. The demand for papers was not confined to the morning hours alone but all through the day papers were sold steadily to those anxious to know the exact results. Nearly 1,500 extra copies were printed and they were all sold—an ample expression of appreciation by the public.

LOOKING FOR THE PLUMS.

The contest for Speaker of the House of the Assembly remains unchanged. If anything, it looks more favorable to Mr. Watkins than ever. Ex-Assemblyman Charles N. Codding is a new candidate for clerk of the House. Ex-Assemblyman Hopkins has withdraw as a candidate for engrossing clerk, and now wants to be assistant clerk of the House.

Mr. Voorhees will not sit in the Senate after he assumes the functions of the Acting Governorship. A president pro tem will be elected and Union county will practically be without representation in the Senate. Union is willing to stand that deprivation under the circumstances. From a political point of view the only effect will be to deprive the Republicans of a two-thirds majority.—Tribune.

County Trolley Committee.

The following gentlemen have been appointed on the committees authorized at the Citizens' meeting held at the court house on the 30th of November to consider the matter of constructing a trolley road from Elizabeth to Plainfield. On the committee to confer with the Board of Chosen Freeholders, Messrs. A. B. Carlton, J. C. Hunt, James T. Pierson, George Kyte and F. A. Dunham. On the committee to promote the passage of the bill, Messrs. B. A. Vail, John C. Rankin, A. B. Carlton, Charles N. Codding, James E. Martine, H. G. Runkle. To this committee Mr. West was added by resolution of the meeting.

An Old Hatter Dead.

John Bromfield, an aged resident of this section, died at his home in Bernardsville Monday morning. He was a hatter by trade, and was for many years employed in the shop of William Coriell in this city. The funeral services were held yesterday afternoon at Mendham. The attendance of relatives and friends was very large, and included a number from this city.

A Y. M. C. A. Dinner.

THEATRICAL.

Next Saturday night at Stillman Music Hall, will be a red letter occasion, the event being the presentation of "A Stranger in New York," the newest work of Charles Hoyt, the popular writer of farce comedies. The new piece was produced late last season, and the unanimous verdict of all the critics was that "A Stranger in New York" was by far the best effort of this clever playwright. Mrs. J. B. Terry and Mrs. Sandford, of Brooklyn, who have been visiting relatives in the borough, returned home last evening.

The social gatherings at the home of Mr. Harris, of New Market, last Tuesday evening was a great success. There was a large attendance of young people who enjoyed the festivities of the occasion until the early morning hours.

Copies of The Daily Press were in great demand in the borough yesterday as they arrived early in the morning. Residents knew all about the Plainfield election long before the other Plainfield paper was published.

Last evening a union prayer service was held in the Presbyterian church and the attendance was large. Rev. A. I. Martine was in charge and made a short address. Tomorrow evening the meeting will be in the Baptist church at New Market.

Last Monday evening at the council meeting Mr. Wingers asked the members what street he lived on, and he was informed that it is Bound Brook avenue. This offers a valuable suggestion that it would be well if the council should make a point of having the streets in the borough rightly named. The street that by rights should be known as Front street is called North avenue, and there are several other cases where an improvement could be made. Mr. Wingers made a good point for he really did not know the name of his own street as it has never been named properly.

Property Rights of Women.

At the meeting of the Parliamentary Club, which was held in the Y. M. C. A. building this morning, Mrs. M. H. Eaton, chairman of the club's committee on local affairs, rendered an interesting report upon the laws of New Jersey which pertain to the property rights of women. The report ended by drawing a comparison between these laws and similar laws in Germany. The club appointed Mrs. Stephen Cahoone chairman of the Congress committee, which is to arrange a meeting some time in February, at which bills are to be presented and acted upon after the manner of the Congress of the United States.

There were 96 absences from sickness during the month, and eight pupils left school. The question of the Christmas holidays was discussed, and the board decided to close the schools from December 24th to January 3d. The district clerk was authorized to discount notes amounting to $2,100 for the payment of teachers' salaries for November and December, and all bills were laid over until the next meeting by which time it is thought that the collector will have sufficient school money on hand to meet all objections now due.

Miss Cisneros Sees the Graphoscope.

During the recent visit to Washington, D. C., of Miss Evangelina Cisneros, the handsome Cuban lady who was rescued from the tortutous Spanish prison in Cuba through the efforts of the New York Journal, she was given an opportunity of witnessing an exhibition of Thomas A. Edison's wonderful graphoscope. The young lady expressed her great delight by saying, "That it did not seem possible to attain such wonderful results through a system of photographing, but that it seemed more like life itself." This is the general opinion of most everybody that goes to see this marvelous machine, as it has less of the disagreeable shaking motion so common among all other machines. All of the views have been selected with great care, and are bound to please the most severe critics. The graphoscope will be seen at Music Hall next Monday and Tuesday evenings. Popular prices will prevail, 25 and 35 cents.

A Sensible Suggestion.

How many of us cannot look back on countless past Christmases and think of the vast number of dollars that have been spent on trifles that did no real good to anybody? It seems to be the general policy in many families that each should receive a little, but Lauter Co. have a sensible suggestion to make that should appeal to the thoughtful parent. Why not, instead of giving a small present to each member of the family, combine the sum set aside for that purpose and let it act as a first payment on a piano? If solved in this way, the Christmas present problem will trouble you no more. In most instances a first payment of ten dollars will put a thoroughly good piano in your house at once. Why not act on the suggestion? Their immense business, five times larger than any one in New Jersey, and greater than any in all New York and Brooklyn, puts them in a position to offer advantages to the buyer. Their warerooms at 657-659 Broad street, Newark, are open till six o'clock, on Saturdays till nine. Profit by their suggestion.

Blind?

Probably not, but why not run the risk of seriously injuring your eyes by the use of incorrectly fitted glasses when you can be skillfully fitted by Leech, Stiles & Co., of Philadelphia, whose eye specialist is at 107 East Front street every Thursday. He will not charge you to determine if glasses will improve your sight.

—Since the opening of Edward White's new toy bazar it has been crowded every day and everyone is amazed at his large assortment. He invites every parent to bring their children to see the pretty toys. Children can mail their letters to Santa Claus at White's, where the letter box is.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. BRANDY FARMERS.

A Paying Business for Peasants Who Often Become Wealthy Therefrom.

The brandy farmers of Charente are a distinct class. Every one of them, even if he owns a patch of no more than six or seven acres, has his own still and manufactures his own spirits. Most of the stills which I saw were mere shanties of the most primitive type, like Highland bothies or the rude huts in which illicit "potheen" used to be, and I dare say even now is, manufactured in some wild parts of Ireland. The apparatus is of the simplest kind—just a boiler, with receiver and the "worm" or serpentine, a mere tube thrust into a big cylinder of cold water. There are usually two of these humble stills in operation, and wood is generally used as fuel. When the farmer commences making his brandy he continues working his stills day and night until he has converted all his wine into spirit. The brandy at this stage is perfectly colorless, and contains the whole of the essential oil, which subsequently has to be removed by a drastic process of filtration. This, however, the farmer leaves to the merchant to whom he brings his brandy for sale.

Many of these brandy farmers are very wealthy. I was told of one worth £100,000, another £80,000, a third £60,000, and a considerable number with £30,000 and £20,000 apiece—sums which figure out magnificently in francs. But to look at them you would never guess that they possess as many pence as they have pounds. For, however rich they may be, they still retain the dress and style of peasants. They make no attempt to ape the manners and fashions of those above them. Each generation is content to live as its predecessor did—a frugal, hard-working life, with its occasional holidays and junketings, and the exercise of that thrift which is a French peasant's highest pleasure.—Chamber's Journal.

TOY MAKING.

America Makes Playthings by Machinery, and Germany by Hand.

A great many toys are now made in this country, including many mechanical devices. Many toys are still imported. Such things as woolly sheep and dogs, now as highly prized by children as ever, come from Germany, as do the skin-covered horses. They could be made here, but they can be produced cheaper abroad.

As a rule, whatever can be made by machinery is made here, while toys made by hand are mostly imported. The minute a thing is brought within the reach of machinery, American manufacturers can pay their higher prices for labor and still beat the world. With the low prices of labor in foreign countries, hand-made productions can be made cheaper in them. As a result of this there are toys of some kinds which in their completed state are partly American and partly foreign. Among these are toy vehicles with horses attached. The vehicles and everything in and about them may be the product of American machinery, while the horse standing between the shafts may be from Germany.—New York Sun.

NO FAKIRS NEED APPLY.

Managers Compelled in Mexico to Live Up to Their Promises.

One Mexican trait that might be profitably imitated by Americans is their uncompromising antagonism toward amusement fakirs. In that country a showman must do what he promises to or go to jail, if a circus management does not faithfully reproduce all the features glowingly depicted on the show bills, the manager finds himself in the hands of the officers after the show is over. The result is that circuses and other amusement enterprises visiting that country have an entirely distinct set of show bills made and it goes without saying that they are much more modest than are those displayed on this side of the Rio Grande.

NOTES OF INTEREST.

Travelers in the wilds of Africa will do well to take a plentiful supply of umbrellas with them, according to Professor Pechuel-Loesche, the German explorer. He says they are the best protection against the wild beasts, tigers and lions espesially being afraid of them when suddenly opened.—New York Tribune.

Panjaschkovtzi is the name of a new religious sect that has started up in the Russian province of Saratov, and is called after its founder. They believe that while the soul is immortal the body belongs to the devil, and should be neglected. They therefore never wash nor shave nor cut their nails or hair, never change their clothes nor clean their houses. They also leave the flesh to its own wicked courses.

A writer in a magazine has made the prophecy that in 300 years from now the world will know only three languages—English, Russian and Chinese. The English language will be spoken all over North and South America, in Australia, India, Africa, New Zealand and the islands of Australia and the Pacific. The Russian tongue will have conquered all Europe except Great Britain, and all Asia except India. Chinese will hold sway over the rest of the world.

THE RICHEST BABY IN THE WORLD.

The Little Lady's Wealth is Beyond "The Dream of Avarice."

The greatest heiress in the world is the baby Grand Duchess Olga, daughter of the Czar and Czarina of Russia. Already she is one of the richest persons in the world and what she will inherit is beyond computation.

The Czar's will is the only law in Russia and he has absolute control of all the money that can be extracted by taxation or otherwise from his vast empire. But he has also what is called private property. This consists of the Crown domains, including more than a million square miles of cultivated lands and forests, besides gold and other mines in Siberia, all of which produce a vast revenue. The actual amount of this is unknown, as no reference to the subject is made in the budget or finance account, the Crown domains being considered the private property of the imperial family.

The Grand Duchess Olga was born November 3, 1895, and is the older of two daughters, the Czar as yet having no sons. The week she was born $5,000,000 were settled on her. This sum was invested in British, French and other foreign securities, as the Czar, like other monarchs, is not absolutely certain of the future, and does not wish the family to be in need at any time of the necessaries of life.

The imperial infant has been inundated with costly presents from all the monarchs of the world and from the wealthy noblemen and barborous chieftains, who rule, under the Czar, some of the great countries in his empire. These presents alone are worth millions of dollars.

Her bassinette is studded with precious stones and she has a doll whose dress is ornamented with priceless emeralds. Every pin used to fasten her imperial garments is made of pure gold.

If the Czar shall have no son it is possible that he will make his little daughter heir to the throne. In any case she will inherit a large share of his incalculable private fortune. Beside her wealth that of a Vanderbilt or a Rockefeller becomes absolutely insignificant.

CLOSELY RELATED SENSES.

It is Proved that Cinnamon has No Flavor Except Through the Nostrels.

The senses of taste and smell are so closely allied, it's almost impossible to say where one ends and the other begins. Some articles of food have taste and no smell; some have both; some have smell only. For instance, cinnamon belongs to the latter class, and has smell only and no taste. Absurd, you say! Very well, just put it to the test.

Take a small piece of cinnamon, hold your nose tightly, rather high up, between thumb and finger, and begin chewing. You will find yourself chewing an absolutely tasteless bit of bark. Then let go your nose. Immediately you will find it "tastes" strongly, though it is really only the perfume which rises to the smelling-chamber of the nose.

One thing you may remember, for your comfort. Nature has given to every poisonous leaf, fruit or nut, an unpleasant taste of some sort—acid or bitter. Thus the tongue warns us against poison; and so it is that savages and animals rarely die from indulgence in the many poisonous plants which surround them.—Golden Days.

Lynched the Sparrow.

A successful lynching took place on a farm in Michigan, the other day. In the barn a swallow's nest was seen clinging to the side of a beam, from which was suspended an English sparrow, hung by the neck with a hair from a horse's tail. While two men were sitting in the barn they noticed a sparrow go into the swallow's nest, from which he began pitching the young birds. Three swallows, attracted by their outcry, immediately pounced upon the intruder. After confining him to the nest for a few minutes, they threw him out. He dropped about a foot, there was a jerk, and Mr. Sparrow was hanged as nicely as though an expert hangman had been in charge. The hair was wound around his neck several times, and, after a few ineffectual struggles, he kicked his last.—Grand Rapids Herald.

A Sad Accusation.

Some Japanese seem to fear Christianity. The Yorodzu Choho, Tokio, says: "In the long history of Christendom we know of not a single country saved by it. With Montezuma's Mexico and the Inca's Peruvian empire, the course of Christendom was absorption, destruction, annihilation. It has killed India, politically, at least. It has killed Burmah and Annam. It has killed Hawaii, after keeping it alive some forty years. It has killed Madagascar, and it will yet kill Abyssinia, Egypt and Morocco. What security have we that Christendom will not kill China, Corea, and even Japan, if the opportunity offers? Christendom does its destructive work not only by guns and bayonets, but by means much more formidable. It kills non-Christian countries by its rums and its whiskies and by its foul diseases."

To Show His Skill.

"So you are the music teacher that answered my advertisement?"

"Yes, sir."

"Well, sit down there and play a couple of duets, so I can see what you can do."—Harper's Bazar.

The Queen is Considerate.

"I see where the Queen of England has sixty pianos, and doesn't play any of them."

"That's a good girl. I know a woman who has only one piano, but she plays like sixty."—Cincinnati Tribune.

HOW ONE WOMAN GREW RICH.

A Mere Treasury Clerk, She Bought a Fine House and Rode in Her Carriage.

The case of Thomas Martin, the Treasurer employee who was arrested on a charge of substituting lead slugs for silver in the Treasury's bullion, recalls that of a woman clerk years ago who became rich by theft and escaped punishment when detected. She was employed in counting bank notes sent in for redemption and destruction.

A bunch containing a certain number of bills of a given denomination all showing the effect of long and rough usage would be given her to count. She would begin at the top of the stack and, after turning over the first few would tear an inch or so off a bill.

In a few seconds she would tear two or three inches off another bill and paste on this the small piece torn from the first bill. By this process of tearing and pasting she would soon have a whole bill abstracted and in its place a number of shortened notes, but none so mutilated as to attract attention. The bunch as counted would be correct in every detail.

It was estimated that in this manner she abstracted one note in every ten that she handled. The woman became rich, bought a fine residence and drove to the department each morning in her private carriage. Her sumptuous mode of living was her undoing. Her house was searched and a large sum in bills found. However, all the bills she had mutilated had long before been macerated, and not the slightest bit of evidence could be found on which to base a criminal charge. After making restitution of what cash had been recovered she was permitted to go free.

The idea on which she based her thefts and the manner of its execution are to this day the admiration of Treasury officials and experts.—New York World.

ORIENTAL SALUTES.

In Siam the Inferior is Liable to Get Kicked for His Impoliteness.

The people of the Orient salute one another in many queer and amusing ways. One of them is called the salam, or salaam, which is a very low bow, accompanied by a horizontal movement of the arms toward the person saluted until the extended hands meet edge to edge. Another form is a low bow, with the palm of the right hand to the brow. In Persia the subject salutes the monarch by throwing himself on the ground and kissing his feet.

In China, says the Philadelphia Times, an inferior on horseback, on meeting a superior, dismounts and waits until the superior has passed. In Japan an inferior removes his sandals when he meets a superior, places his right hand in his sleeve, thus crossing his arms, and rocking himself to and fro, cries: "Don't hurt me! Don't hurt me!"

They have a very funny fashion in Siam. When an inferior comes into the presence of a superior he throws himself upon the ground. Then the superior sends one of his attendants forward to see whether the prostrate man has been eating anything or has any offensive odor about him. If he be blameless in this respect, the attendant raises him from the ground, but if he be guilty, the attendant straightway kicks him out.

Some of the Indian tribes have a way of saluting one another by rubbing their noses together. This is also the form in the Friendly and Society islands, after which each man takes the other's hand and rubs it upon his own nose and mouth.

Philadelphia's Horse Policeman.

A mounted policeman of the Twenty-ninth district of Philadelphia, rides a handsome horse, who is known on the force as Jags. It was during a raid on a gang of tramps early one morning that Jags covered himself with glory. The scene of the raid was Fifty-ninth street and the Pennsylvania Railroad, where about twenty of the hoboes had camped out. The policeman had dismounted and Jags, who was standing near, noticed one of the tramps slinking behind a freight car. The horse commenced neighing, and it was thought something was wrong. Finally, Jags, seeing that his neighing was not noticed, went after the escaping man and seized the prisoner firmly by the collar until his master came up and placed him in handcuffs. The man was somewhat relieved when the officer released him from Jags's grasp.—Philadelphia Record.

Fox a Queer Character.

Henry Stephen Fox, one of the earliest English ministers at Washington, was so eccentric as to make himself the laughing stock of the whole town. He generally did not arise until other people were almost ready to go to bed. When duty compelled him to rise earlier, he was like an owl in the daytime. "How strange," said he to Mme. Caldron, one morning at a state "function"—"how strange we look to each other by daylight." His debt compelled him to economy, and he rarely gave dinners. He once invited a large party to his house—Mr. Clay, Mr. Calhoun, Mr. Webster and all the giants—and when they were all assembled, he said: "Gentlemen, now be good enough to put on your hats and follow me." And then he led them into a neighboring eating house.—Ohio State Journal.

Taking Her Literally.

"Edward, what do I hear—that you have disobeyed your grandmother, who told you just now not to jump down those steps?"

"Grandma didn't tell us not to, papa. She only came to the door and said, 'I wouldn't jump down those steps, boys,' and I shouldn't think she would—an old - y like her."

NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED IN UP-TO-DATE LAUNDRY WORK.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered, and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular. We will give you just exactly what you want, if we can find out what that is. Perhaps you believe that it is impossible to have your laundry well handled without irritation and annoyance to you. We are sure that you are mistaken. May we have an opportunity of demonstrating it?

Mr. John Lindsay, of 424 West Front street, says: "From the effects of a bad cold which I contracted some years ago I have been troubled more or less with attacks of backache which has caused me a great deal of suffering. My work compells me to do a great deal of stooping and bending forward which aggravated the trouble. At night I had to keep changing about first from one position then to another trying to find some way that I could free myself from the pain, but it remained the same no matter what position I assumed. Doan's Kidney Pills were recommended to me by a friend who had used them and I got a box from L. W. Randolph's drug store. I found them just as represented and they relieved me in a short time I can recommend Doan's Kidney Pills to anyone wanting a safe, reliable and convenient medicine to act on the kidneys."

MURDERER ON TRIAL.

His Accomplice Betrays Him—Cold-Blooded Crime.

Bridgeport, Ct., Dec. 9.—Charles Bonai, accused of the murder of George Marcus Nichols, near here, last July, is on trial for his life. His companion-in-crime, David Weeks, who is also charged with murder, took the stand yesterday and told all the details of one of the most brutal murders that ever occurred in this puritanical commonwealth.

Weeks said that Bonai fired two shots, one of which killed the aged farmer and the other nearly ended the days of Mary Nichols, the dead man's sister. His story of the crime was a startling tale of feasting over the body of a dying victim.

Bonai had reasons for believing that his partner was going to betray him, and he trembled violently as Weeks took the stand. Weeks would not tell the story until he had made sure that Bonai was securely guarded.

Besides Weeks, the principal witness for the prosecution will be Miss Mary Nichols, sister of the murdered man, who was alone with him in their house the night of the crime, and was herself shot by the assassins.

The murder of Nichols was a particularly cold-blooded crime. He was an old and wealthy farmer, and lived at the hamlet of Daniels Farms, nine miles from this city. With his sister, who is 58 years old, he had lived on his farm of 140 acres all his life. His neighbors looked upon him as eccentric and a little miserly.

On the morning of July 21 last Nichols and his sister were awakened about 1 o'clock by a noise in the house and started down stairs to investigate. Nichols went first and his sister followed, carrying a lamp. They had reached the dining-room and started to walk to the door leading into the yard when it was suddenly burst open and two masked men rushed in.

Both carried revolvers and fired at once. One bullet struck Nichols and the other his sister. Nichols sank to the floor with a groan. Miss Nichols, who was struck in the shoulder, dropped the lamp and started upstairs to her room. One of the robbers followed her and forced her to give him all the money she had, $85, and to tell where her brother had $100 concealed.

The robbers then ransacked the house, securing a small sum, and afterwards sat down by their victims and made a meal on cider, bread and cheese they found in the pantry. About 3 o'clock they left the house and two hours afterwards Nichols died. Miss Nichols fainted and did not revive until 8 o'clock, when she gave the alarm.

Bonai and Weeks were arrested several weeks afterward, having been pursued all over the county.

HOW HAYTI COME DOWN.

Berlin Receives Official Report of the Republic's Humiliation.

Berlin, Germany, Dec. 9.—The official account of the collection of an indemnity from Hayti, accompanied by a salute of the German flag, etc., at Port au Prince, on Monday last, owing to the alleged illegal arrest of Herr Emil Lueders, says that after the ultimatum of Germany had been delivered to the Haytian Government, giving the latter eight hours in which to comply with the demands, the German cruiser Stein, which, with the Charlotte, was sent to enforce the contention of the German Minister, cleared for action, and took up a position close to the Haytian war vessels.

A diplomatic request for delay in the execution of the ultimatum was refused, and, half an hour before the expiration of the stipulated time, all the demands of Germany were conceded, and the sum insisted upon as an indemnity ($30,000 to be paid to Herr Lueders), was on board the Charlotte before 4 p. m. The Haytian Government's letter of apology to Germany arrived shortly afterward.

TO STOP FILIBUSTERS.

Gage Shows What an Efficient Ally We Have Been to Spain.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Secretary Gage has submitted to the Department of State his report upon the action of the Treasury Department in suppressing filibustering expeditions to Cuba.

The Secretary points out the significant fact that during two years and a half out of 13,585 vessels plying in Southern waters only six American vessels, of an aggregate of 1,331 registered tons, are alleged to have successfully landed expeditions from the United States in Cuba.

Eight revenue cutters, with crews of 317 men, armed with fifteen guns, have cruised 75,768 miles, patrolling the coast. They have captured seven vessels and 115 men; have broken up two expeditions and have held under surveillance thirteen suspected vessels.

GLASS DISPUTE NOT OVER.

The Window-Glass Workers Have Lost $24,000 by Their Dissensions.

Pittsburg, Dec. 9.—The acceptance by the glass workers of the scale offered by the manufacturers does not mean a permanent agreement on all points. A U. Freezee, general selling agent the glass manufacturers, and several other members of the association say that changes will be demanded in the arbitrary shop scales, which now limit the output, restrict the trade and confine apprenticeship to a narrow limit.

"The time is ripe," said one member, "to see whether we or the workmen will manage our factories." The window-glass workers balanced their books this morning and found that their internal dissensions had been costly, their clear loss amounting to $24,000.

Depositors Want Their Money.

Altoona, Pa., Dec. 9.—Six hundred depositors of the defunct Gardner, Morrow & Co.'s bank, at Hollidaysburg, have called a mass meeting to set on foot means of discovering what has become of the $500,000 deposited by them. Each of the depositors has received a circular letter inviting him to the meeting. The meeting is expected to be rather exciting, as the depositors are very bitter.

Sold Brass for Gold.

Albany, Dec. 9.—Gov. Black has issued requisition papers upon the Governor of Ohio for the surrender of Saul Jacobs. It is charged that Jacobs swindled Marx Bernstein, of Cleveland, out of $12,000 by selling him seventy-seven pounds of brass, which he said was 16-karat gold.

CURRENCY REFORM

Secretary Gage to Put His Bill Before the Committee.

MORE REVENUE IS NEEDED

Sharp Debate in the House—Republicans Say the Treasury Department with a Surplus Could Hold Greenbacks.

Washington, Dec. 9. — The House Committee on Banking and Currency held its first meeting yesterday and outlined its general plan of action. In view of Secretary Gage's recommendation for a comprehensive revision of currency and banking laws, a resolution was adopted inviting the Secretary to embody his views in a bill. The committee was informed that the Secretary was now at work on a measure, and that it would be available for the committee in about a week.

Mr. Hill, of Connecticut, then precipitated a sharp debate by moving that the committee act at once by reporting to the House a bill embodying three of the financial features which had the President's approval. These were embodied in a bill, heretofore offered by Mr. Brosius, of Pennsylvania, and Mr. Hill now proposed that the first three sections be placed before the House immediately. The three sections provided: Bank circulation up to the par value of bonds deposited; reduction of the tax on circulation to one-fourth of one per cent.; the establishment of small banks in rural communities. Mr. Hill said that the committee would do well not to go through the tedious processes of considering and dividing on these three propositions, which appeared to meet with general acceptance, and had received executive approval.

Mr. Johnson, of Indiana, earnestly opposed such hasty action. He said there should be time to hear from the gentlemen forming the Monetary Commission and to weigh all propositions. Precipitate action on such a vital subject would, he said, seriously prejudice it before the House and the country.

Mr. Mitchell, of New York, also opposed such speedy action. The debate was proceeding with animation when, at 12 o'clock, the meeting went over, a vote on the Hill motion not having been reached.

The Walker Bill.

Chairman Walker announced four sub-committees and assigned the banking and currency bills introduced. The sub-committees will begin work at once on the bills before them. The Walker sub-committee will have charge of the Walker bill, which has attracted considerable attention in banking circles. It proposes to introduce the New England Suffolk Bank system, adding a government guaranty for all notes issued by banks, and imposing a small tax on bank notes as a safety fund.

The bill of Mr. Hill also goes before this committee. Mr. Hill says he has endeavored to draw it on conservative lines, meeting the financial ills which most needed reform without going to a radical extent. He provides for an increase of bank circulation to the par value of bonds deposited, reduces the taxation on circulation to one-fourth of one per cent., provides for the establishment of small banks in rural communities and does away with the restrictions on the free issue and withdrawal of National bank notes. Except in the last particular, the author of the bill feels that is he in line with President McKinley's recent currency recommendations. This sub-committee will also deal with the bills of Representative Cox, the ranking Democrat of the committee.

Says Legislation Is Unnecessary.

Washington, Dec. 9.—Some of the leading House Republicans have concluded that legislation will not be necessary to authorize the Secretary of the Treasury to withhold from circulation, except when reissued for gold, greenbacks that have been redeemed in gold. Though the President asked for legislation to authorize this course, it is thought that he can do it just as well without authorization whenever the revenue is sufficient.

A prominent Republican of the Ways and Means Committee said that it was probable that there would be no attempt to secure the legislation the President suggested. Instead of that, he said, the committee would probably endeavor to secure the necessary revenue to enable the President to handle the matter without any special authority from Congress.

Poolrooms Their Prey.

Indianapolis, Dec. 9.—Charles Moran, Frank Sommerville, George Ward and Frank Connegan came to this city with a complete outfit of tools and telegraph instruments, intending to tap the wires to a racing poolroom. The men found that they could not get enough to satisfy them.

The police gathered them in, but afterward released them. Moran said that the quartet had worked poolrooms all over the country for $100,000 in the last eighteen months.

AN IMPOSITION, MR. PHILLIPS SAYS:

City Will Now Pay $70 Instead of $4 as First Asked.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I see in last night's issue of your paper by a report made at the last meeting of the School Board that trouble had been experienced in connection with the scholars and the switches for the electric lights in the new Whittier School building, and that a proposition had been made by the electrical contractor to place the switches in switch boxes for the sum of $70. This I consider an imposition on the taxpayers of Plainfield, inasmuch as my estimate for this work covered whatever was necessary to keep the switches away from the scholars' hands, and was only $4 over the amount given to another contractor, and for which he now wants $70 to do, almost the entire amount of original contract. He should be made to complete his contract.

Wants Her Insurance Money.

Several months ago the house of Madame Louise Mungot, a wealthy resident of Martinville, was destroyed by fire. The house was insured by the Niagara Fire Insurance Company, of New York, to the amount of $3,000. The cause of the fire was not exactly known and the insurance company investigated. The claim was sent in, but they refused to pay the insurance. Madame Mungot has been represented in the matter by her lawyer, City Judge George W. DeMeza, who has now brought suit for her in the New Jersey Supreme Court for $3,000 against the Niagara Fire Insurance Company, of New York.

Want an Employe to Pay $4,000 Damage

The Plainfield Sanitary Company has filed a counter-suit against its former engineer, Edd- L. Clark, in the Union County Circuit Court. The suit is for $4,000, the amount of the alleged damages that Clark has done to the company. It is claimed that he misrepresented his abilities and damaged the company to a large extent by his inefficiency. The suit was brought by Codington & Swackhamer, attorneys for the company. City Judge DeMeza represents the defendant. The papers in the case were served today.

The Barry-Croot Affair.

London, Dec. 9.—The Daily Chronicle editorially demands a thorough sifting of the Barry-Croot affair. It admits that the proceedings of the National Sporting Club are "always conducted with propriety," but fails to see the difference between these fights and the old-time prize fights. The Daily News whose editorial comments are in the same strain, says: "We hope this great scandal will put an end to the National Sporting Club."

Fall River, Dec. 9.—The Fall River cotton manufacturers at a special meeting held yesterday afternoon voted to reduce the wages of the operatives. The cut will not be less than 10 per cent. and will affect about 25,000 employes. The cause of the reduction is the depressed condition of the cotton market, which does not enable print cloth to be manufactured for the price now prevailing, which is the lowest on record.

POOR START FOR PARKS

WON ONE AND LOST TWO GAMES IN THE JOURNAL BOWLING LEAGUE.

The Roselle Team was the Opponent and the Game was Rolled on Their Alley—New Man on the Park Team This Year.

The Park Club opened its season in the Central Journal Bowling League, last evening, by losing two games to the Roselle Casinos and winning one by the closest kind of a margin.

The games were rolled on the Roselle alleys, and the Casino team is supposed to be invincible there.

The Roselles had had one chance in the league to give them some practice, while it was the first match of the Park team. Three games were rolled. There was only one new face on the Park team. Allan B. Laing rolled his first match game. The old and ever reliable "Doc" Thiers was on hand and so were the Balls, father and son, both of whom did such good work last year on the alleys. George Worth, one of the veterans of the club, was back with the team again and completed the five.

The first game was an easy thing for the home team after the first few frames. The new man on the visiting team met with a little bad luck and lost his nerve, rolling only 104. Subsequently, he improved and rolled a much better game. With more experience, he will make a strong man for the team. The first game went to the home team by 76 pins.

The visitors took a brace in the second game and started out to win. The game was close throughout and frame after frame was rolled with the two teams side by side. F. O. Ball, who is captaining the team, rolled a great game and finally scored 203. It was neck and neck throughout the last frame and "Doc" Thiers sustained his reputation by winding up in fine style and leaving his side three pins in the lead. Hibbard, of Roselle, broke badly during the game, rolling only 110, which pulled down Smith's score of 212 and Warner's score of 193.

In the third game, the narrow margin of victory in the preceding game seemed to demoralize the visitors for they rolled the poorest game of the evening. The Roselle team also went down, but managed to win out by 77 pins.

The next game will be rolled in this city Wednesday, December 15th, when the team from the Westfield Athletic Club will roll in this city.

The scores of the games last evening were as follows:

The bazaar which opened at Bethel chapel Wednesday evening, under the auspices of the Earnest Workers' Society of the chapel, was continued last evening with great success. The last part was a jack 'o lantern drill by the following: Thomas Bowser, Victor Bowser, Walter Peterson, Wm. Dunham, Seymore VanBlake, Henry VanBlake and Samuel Bolden. The entire programme was greatly enjoyed by all.

IN A HYPNOTIST'S POWER

PROFESSOR SEVENGALA AGAIN MAKES AN APPEARANCE IN THIS CITY.

Plainfield Boys Did All Sorts of Strange Things—Stone Breaking Test Made on the Chest of a Rigid Cataleptic Subject.

Some of the wonders of hypnotism were shown at Washington Hall, last evening, by Prof. Sevengala, before an audience that partially filled the hall.

Prof. Sevengala made his appearance in this city some time ago and demonstrated his wonderful power as a hypnotist. His entertainment last evening was somewhat different from that of his preceding appearance. He asked for subjects from the audience, and two young men responded. Two of his assistants also came forward to aid. The young Plainfielders succumbed at once to the hypnotic influence and did all sorts of strange things.

The stone-breaking test was also tried. One of the professor's assistants was placed in a state of rigid catalepsy and laid over two sawhorses. A heavy stone was placed on his chest and a Plainfielder in the audience who knew how to handle a sledge-hammer was called to the stage and struck the stone several blows with all his might. The subject remained perfectly rigid. Prof. Sevengala challenged anyone in the city to perform the same feat without the aid of hypnotism.

The favorite tricks of the so-called spiritualists were exposed.

This evening he will place one of his subjects in a hypnotic sleep that is to last for twenty-four hours. During the time that the subject is sleeping he will be on exhibition in the window of Patrick Marron's place of business in the Elkwood building, on West Second street, next to the entrance to Washington Hall.

ABOUT TRADING STAMPS.

STATUTE UPON WHICH THE BUSINESS WAS DECLARED ILLEGAL.

Comes Under the Head of Gift Enterprises in the District of Columbia and is Declared an Illegal Business There.

The following dispatch from Washington, D. C., will be of great interest to the merchants of Plainfield:

The decision of the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia declaring the business of the Trading Stamp Company illegal in the District was based on an act passed Feb. 17th, 1873, and entitled "An act prohibiting gift enterprises in the District of Columbia." This was embodied in the revised statutes for the District of Columbia, becoming sections 1,176 and 1,177 thereof, as follows:

"So much of the act of the legislative assembly of the District of Columbia, entitled 'An act imposing a license on trades, business and professions practiced or carried on in the District of Columbia,' approved Aug. 23d, 1871, as authorizes gift enterprises therein, and licenses to be issued therefor, is disapproved and repealed, and hereafter it shall be unlawful for any person or persons to engage in said business in any manner as defined in said act or otherwise. Every person who shall in any manner engage in any gift enterprise business in the District shall, on conviction thereof, in the police court, on information filed for or on behalf of the District, pay a fine not exceeding $1,000 or be imprisoned in the District jail not less than one nor more than six months, or both, in the discretion of the court.'

It is said that the Trading Stamp Company, which has been doing business in Washington, will appeal to the Supreme Court.

GAS RATES LOWER.

A Saving of 10 Cents Per Thousand Feet to the Consumer.

The Plainfield Gas and Electric Light Company has reduced the price of gas from $2 per 1,000 feet to $1.80. The former discount of 20 per cent is discontinued, and an allowance of 10 cents per 1,000 feet is now made for payment within ten days, making a net gain to the consumer of 10 cents per thousand. A net reduction of 5 cents per thousand is also made on fuel gas.

Surprised by Her Friends.

A surprise party was given to Mrs. J. H. Saunders, of North avenue, last evening. There were about thirty friends present, who spent a very enjoyable evening in a social manner.

To Use Association Stamp.

The local branch of the National Horseshoers' Association met last evening and received one new member. It was decided to put the stamp of the association into immediate use.

Judge H. B. Herr, of Flemington, was the guest of S. S. Swackhamer, of Summit avenue, Wednesday evening.

PET DOG HAD RABIES.

BOY WHO WAS HANDLING THE ANIMAL WAS SEVERELY BITTEN.

Finally Rescued by His Father Who Killed the Canine With a Club—The Injured Lad Taken to Pasteur Institute in New York

A little black-and-tan dog, for several years a pet in the household of George Giddis, of 108 Duer street, attacked Graham Giddis, the eleven-year old son of Mr. Giddis, yesterday morning, and badly lacerated his hand and wrist. It is supposed that the dog was suffering with the rabies.

There have been several mad dogs in the borough of late and owners of other canines have been anxious for the welfare of their pets. Several evenings ago Giddis' dog came into the house with one of his ears torn and bleeding. It was thought that he had been in a fight with another dog. Yesterday morning the little dog began acting in a strange manner, far from his usual behavior. There was a strange look about the dog's face that Mr. Giddis did not like and after breakfast he told his son they had better put the dog down stairs and tie him to see if anything was the matter.

While Mr. Giddis went out in the yard for a box in which to put the dog, the lad carried the canine down the cellar. As he turned to leave the dog, the animal gave a growl and sprang at the retreating boy, seizing him by the seat of the trousers. Frightened by the sudden attack, the boy screamed and rushed at the stairs trying in the meantime to push the dog away with his hand. The animal made another spring and set his fangs deep in the lad's wrist. Graham tried to escape up the stairs, but the dog held fast and cruelly tore the flesh. He finally released his hold to make another jump and again set his fangs further up the boys arm. The sharp teeth tore open the arm leaving a dangerous wound from which the blood flowed freely.

Mr. Giddis heard his son's screams and hurried to the rescue. He tore the snapping, snarling dog away and hurled it across the cellar. Then he caught the animal and tied a rope around its neck and broke the dog's back with a club.

Dr. Zeglio was called at once and attended the wounds of the lad. He found that the injury was a severe one. He called in Dr. Carman and the two decided that it would be best to prevent all chance of future trouble to have the lad sent to the Pasteur Institute in New York. This morning Giddis took his son to that institution for treatment. He will remain there two weeks. At the request of the physicians at the Institute the remains of the dog were taken there for examination. Mr. Giddis is employed at the grocery store of Vincent L. Frazee, on West Front street.

ANOTHER CADET COMPANY.

Pupils at Leal's School to Indulge in Military Tactics.

Plainfield is to have another cadet company, or rather an old one is to be reorganized after several years of quietness. The Leal Cadets, composed of most of the boys who attend Prof. John Leal's school, was yesterday afternoon started again under the direction of Captain George F. Edwards. There is much interest being shown in the new cadet company and thirty of the boys have signified their intention of joining. It will be conducted in connection with the work of the school as in former years. The first drill was held yesterday afternoon. Mr. Leal has already a stock of rifles for the company which will be used as soon as the cadets are ready to take up the manual of arms.

HORSE SCARED BY VOLUNTEERS.

The Owner Says He Will Seek Redress From Authorities.

Early last evening while the American Volunteers were passing along East Front street in front of Rand's restaurant, a horse owned by Lloyd Nelson, of New Market, became frightened and it was with great difficulty that a serious runaway was prevented. The tie strap and the bridle were broken and the horse was just preparing to make a dash down the street when Dennis Kane stopped the animal. The wagon was somewhat damaged and the harness was broken more or less.

At the time of the accident Mr. Nelson was upstairs in the restaurant. His attention was called to the accident by the great confusion of a large crowd that had assembled in front. He at once appeared on the scene and took charge of his rig.

This morning Mr. Nelson called on Lawyer Codington, of the firm of Codington & Swackhamer, and it is his intention to seek redress from the proper authorities.

Conductor Henry McCormick, of the street railway, spent yesterday with friends in Newark.

CLASSICAL MUSIC GIVEN

PHILHARMONIC CLUB CONCERT WAS A PLEASING AFFAIR.

The Hit of the Evening Was Made by Miss Bessie Silberfeld, a Child Pianist—Mme. Maconda an Excellent Vocalist.

The large and fashionable audience which gathered at the Country Club Casino last night, to listen to the first of the series of subscription concerts given in this city by the New York Philharmonic Club, was treated to a number of pleasant surprises, and at the close of the programme went away with its expectations more than fulfilled.

The hit of the evening was undoubtedly scored by Miss Bessie Silberfeld, who by her exceptionally fine performance as a piano soloist won the admiration of her audience. She is only twelve years of age, but conducted her renderings of difficult classical pieces with the experience and fine taste of a veteran pianiste. Her first selection was "Perpetual Motion," by Weber. The union of speed and accuracy of touch with the most perfect expression which was shown in this piece convinced the audience that the little soloist should be called upon to give a second piece at once, and she consented, playing for her encore "Berceuse," by Chopin. Later in the evening she rendered two piano solos, Concert Sonata, by Scarlatti, and the Spinning Song, by Wagner-Litz. She was recalled to the piano twice after this, responding with Pierretta Chaminade, and "The Butterfly," Grieg.

The vocal work was accomplished in a highly excellent manner by Mme. Maconda, who is not unknown to Plainfield audiences, having appeared twice in this city two years ago. The applause which she received when first coming upon the stage showed that many of the audience had not forgotten her former appearances here. Her singing showed a soprano voice of rare compass and power. The Aria, "Thou Brilliant Bird," which was sung with a flute obligato by Eugene Weiner, the director of the club, was a superb performance, and won favorable comment on all sides. As an encore she sang "'Twas April," by Nevins. Her other piece was 'Chanson d'Amour," by J. Hollman. It was rendered in French.

The programme consisted of nine numbers, and each one was a highly excellent rendition in its way. The sextette consisted of Eugene Weiner, flute; Herman Brandt, violin virtuoso; Paul Mende, viola; Sebastian Laendner, violin; Louis Heine, cello-virtuoso, and Henry Lehman, double bass. Among the numbers which received unusually favorable comment was the violoncello solo by Louis Heine and the sextette Serenade, composed by S. Jadassohn and dedicated to the Philharmonic Club.

The series of concerts is given under the management of H. O. Newman.

5,000 SHEEP MISSING.

They Were Owned by a Former Resident of Plainfield

About 5,000 sheep that have been ranging near Rand Springs, White Pine county, Utah, and owned by A. Kayser, formerly of Watchung avenue, this city, but now of Salt Lake City, Utah, have disappeared. The most diligent search has failed to discover them. The facts of the case as near as could be ascertained are that two Chinese herders employed by A. L. Parker, who is managing the sheep for Mr. Kayser, while ranging the sheep within a few miles of the home ranch, were shot at and driven away from their herds one night about three weeks ago by several men.

The Chinamen returned to the ranch, where they found Messrs. Kayser and Parker, accompanied by two Utah sheep buyers, who were in that locality for the purpose of buying Kayser's sheep. To these gentlemen the Chinamen told their story.

A party of seven or eight immediately started out to locate the abandoned flocks, and are still searching the vast range. At last reports no trace of them could be found.

Mr. Laing Replies.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In reply to the article in last night's issue of The Press, signed A. D. Phillips, I would say that it is evident he does not know what he is writing about, since his statement is painfully twisted from first to last and shows too plainly that some one was hurt. I do not consider the article worth the time to give facts and figures to refute the charge since the owners of the building are fully satisfied as to the contract and workmanship. They and not Mr. Phillips are to be suited. Hoping that in the future my highly respected colleague will adhere more carefully to the truth. I remain,

Allen B. Laing.

FUNDS FOR YULETIDE.

THE OBJECT ENGAGING THE EFFORTS OF ALL SOULS CHURCH WOMEN.

The Sunday-School Room Beautifully Decorated for the Affair—The Fair Faces Presiding Over the Various Tables.

At All Souls church on Park avenue the Ladies' Sewing Society of the church are conducting a very successful Christmas sale for the purpose of raising funds to celebrate Christmastide. The sale opened yesterday afternoon, was continued last evening and will be continued this afternoon and evening. The Sunday school room, where the sale is being held, is prettily decorated with greens, while various tables present an attractive appearance.

Perhaps the most attractive table is that containing the fancy articles. It is in charge of Mrs. W. F. Adams, Miss Brown, Miss Reynolds, Mrs. J. F. Buckle and Mrs. Durar. The table for the children is presided over by Mrs Nickerson, Mrs. E. H. Mumford, Mrs. Phillip VanWyack, Mrs. L. B. Woolston and Mrs. Edgar Smith. Those who are dispensing candy and toothsome sweets of all kinds are Mrs. Brownell, Miss Ella Osgood and Miss Ada Woolston.

One of the features of the fair is the supper, and a most excellent one it is. Mrs. H. B. Wells is in charge, and assisting her are Miss Caroline Hall, Miss Mary Wells, Miss Dorothea Wells, Miss Thompson and Miss Catherine Wells.

The decorations are the work of Mrs. Nickerson, and she made the room very bright and pleasing in appearance. The attendance at the fair yesterday afternoon and evening was most gratifying and the sale of goods and the patronage received at the supper tables encouraged those in charge very much, and it is hoped that a still larger attendance will be recorded today and this evening.

CARING FOR THE CHURCH

TRINITY CONSISTORY ARRANGING FOR ALTERED INTERIOR OF EDIFICE.

New Chairs Selected and Ordered for the Lecture Room—To Flag and Macadamize a Street Along the Church Property.

The consistory of Trinity Reformed church met last evening in regular monthly session at the home of Elder G. L. VanEmburgh, East Second street. They had a long session and transacted a large amount of important business, after which the brethren were regaled with refreshments by the host and hostess.

The building committee submitted samples of chairs with book rack on back and hat rack on the bottom, for the lecture room and primary department of the Sunday-school. The consistory ordered enough for the lecture room and for the primary department. They embrace two sizes, one for the little tots and one for the Misses.

The contract was awarded to the lowest bidder, A. Kane, for relaying the present stone and brick sidewalk on Second street in front of the church, and for laying new stone walks in front of the two church entrances, and also for a new walk from the front of the church to the primary department, on Exchange alley side. The alley will also be graded and macadamized the entire length of the church property by George Staats, of Netherwood, and an effort will be made to induce the other property owners to grade, macadamize and flag the remainder of the street to Front street.

The pastor announced the various standing committees for the year. P. W. Young, a member of the church, was selected from a list of seven applicants for the position of sexton of the church.

As the new lecture room of the church is nearly finished, it was the opinion of the consistory that it would be ready for occupancy on or before January 1st, and that the congregation, as well as the Sunday-school, would meet in that part of the building as soon as it was furnished, which will be done as rapidly as possible.

Catholic Woman's Club.

The ladies of St. Mary's church are planning to organize a club, and with this end in view an informal meeting was held in the clubhouse of the Catholic Club, yesterday afternoon. After discussing the question of organization the meeting was changed into a social, and ice cream and cake were served. The contemplated organization will probably take place shortly.

After a Carload of Turkeys.

Last evening Andrew Lutkins and John Case, of the borough, started for the south, where they will get a carload of turkeys. They will return with the turkeys in about two weeks.

DROWNING OF WILLIAMS

HIS COMRADES RETURN HOME TO TELL THE SAD TALE.

The Young Man Lost His Balance and Fell Into a Rough Sea—Ship Officers Are Not Blamed for the Fatality.

The party who started for Maine several days ago to visit a mica mine there, one of whose number, Harry C. Williams, of this city, was lost overboard enroute, returned to Plainfield last evening greatly broken up over the sudden loss of their companion. Walter Gordon Williams went to his home at once and will not return to his office for several days. The others have not yet recovered from the effects of the shock.

Mr. and Mrs. W. C Williams, of Grove street, father and mother of the young man who was drowned, were kept in ignorance of the awful catastrophe that had overtaken their son until yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Williams was prostrated by the shock. The telegram was received by their uncle, S. S. Swackhamer, Wednesday evening, but he did not inform the family, hoping that some mistake had been made and that his nephew had only been left behind or had finally been rescued.

A Press reporter called at the office of Walter Gordon Williams in the Marsh building this morning, but Mr. Williams was not there. Frank L. Swackhamer, of Atlantic county, N. J., an uncle of the Williams brothers, and one of that fated party, was there and told the circumstances surrounding the loss of the young man.

The party had boarded the "John Englis," of the Maine Steamship Line, at New York. At the time, Harry had complained of not feeling well. He occupied a stateroom with his uncle, and Walter G. Williams and Edgar Chappell, another Plainfield young man, occupied an adjacent stateroom. During Wednesday night Harry had been ill and had gone to the deck several times saying that the fresh air made him feel better. His uncle had accompanied him.

It was 5:30 o'clock Wednesday morning when Williams again complained of feeling ill and went on deck accompanied by his uncle. Williams went to the side and was half sitting, half reclining on the rail. He was suffering from nausea. Swackhamer was not looking at him for Williams seemed able to take care of himself. At that moment Chappell appeared through the cabin-way and gave a shout. The ship lurched and Williams plunged into the ocean, head first. Swackhamer turned in time to see Williams disappear beneath the waves. Then he turned and rushed to the stateroom on the lower deck, awakened Walter Williams and demanded a life-preserver which Walter handed to him. Swackhamer rushed on deck and prepared to go to his nephew's rescue. Walter had followed him and finally persuaded him to remain on board as he could do no good.

The steamer was at once stopped and a boat launched and the search light used to discover the location of the missing man. The fog was quite heavy at the time. The steamer was several miles from land when the accident occurred. After searching in vain for half an hour, the steamer continued on her way.

The rest of the party do not blame those in charge of the steamer for the fatal accident, as they say that they did all they could to find the young man. It is supposed that he sank at once. The sea was quite rough at the time and the steamer was rolling quite heavily. It is thought that Harry, not being used to keeping his balance in a rough sea, had fallen over the rail when the steamer gave a sudden lurch. When the rest of the party landed in Portland they had no wish or inclination to continue their trip to the woods of Maine, but took the first train for Plainfield, arriving here last evening at 8 o'clock.

Walter C. Williams, father of the missing young man, left this afternoon to investigate all the coast off which the accident happened, hoping to get some trace of the man, either alive or dead. He will visit Nantucket, Martha's Vineyard and Buzzards Bay.

Taken Ill on the Street.

An elderly women was taken ill on West Front street, last evening, about 9 o'clock. Chief Grant and Sergeant Kiely happened in the vicinity and sent for Dr. Long, who ordered her to the Muhlenberg Hospital. She was taken in the ambulance. She gave her name as Miss Margaret Lynch, and said that she had been boarding at Mrs. Lindsey's, on West Front street.

Dr. Carman, who is in charge at the hospital, says that Miss Lynch cannot recover. She has been in an unconscious condition since she was taken to the hospital last evening, and is rapidly failing.

NEGRO MURDERED FIVE

Planter's Wife and Five Children the Brute's Victims.

ONE RECOVERS AND TALKS

Family Well Known in Mississippi and a Great Hunt for the Culprit Is Going On with a Pack of Bloodhounds.

Wesson, Miss., Dec. 10.—The wife and four children of Brown Smith, a planter living in Simpson County, twenty miles from here, were murdered Wednesday night, while a fifth child was injured terribly. Mr. Smith, who is a son of ex-Representative Edward Smith, went to a nearby town Wednesday afternoon, leaving his family at home. Yesterday morning when he returned he found his wife and five children covered with blood and apparently all dead.

An alarm was raised and the whole neighborhood turned out to hunt for the criminal. There being no telegraph connections details of the murder came in slowly, but it was reported last evening that one of the little girls supposed yesterday morning to have been dead, has revived enough to tell what she knew of the occurrence. She said she knows the man; that he was a negro, and she described him.

A posse is now on the track of the murderer, and it is probable that he will soon be apprehended, and there can be little doubt that he will meet speedy justice when caught without waiting for the formality of a court.

Later messages confirmed the statement that Mrs. Smith and her four children were dead.

Sheriffs McNair of Lincoln and Thompson of Copiah Counties have gone to the scene of the murder, each with a pack of trained bloodhounds.

GIRL ACCUSED OF POISONING TWO.

Her Mother Dead, Her Brother Dying—Insurance as a Motive.

Rochester, Dec. 10.—Otillia Kunder, 21 years old, was arrested yesterday on the charge of attempting to murder her brother, who is dying from the effects of poisoning. She is also charged with murdering her mother, who died a month ago from the effects of an irritant poison.

No motive is assigned for the alleged poisoning, but the girl's brother carried a life insurance policy which was assigned to her.

The death of Mrs. Kunder occurred on Nov. 4. She and her two sons and two daughters, including the one arrested, were taken violently ill on Wednesday evening, Nov. 3, after eating supper. Mrs. Kunder seemed to be affected worse than the others, and she died in great agony. The others recovered.

After the woman's death a relative intimated that poison may have killed the woman, and that it was administered by her daughter, Otillia, who helped her mother to prepare the meal.

This aroused the young woman, and she promptly informed the Coroner of the circumstances attending her mother's death and demanded a full investigation. An autopsy showed that death was caused by poison.

The authorities took the matter up and the girl was accused of administering the poison.

BATTLE IN HAVANA PENDING.

Havana, Cuba, Dec. 10.—An important battle is expected hourly. The insurgents have planned the most formidable demonstration against Havana for a year.

Gen. Parrado started from this city with strong columns of troops to meet the Cubans. Senor Canalejas, the confidential agent of the Spanish Government, went with him to ascertain the real condition of Havana Province.

Mayia Rodrigues, with the combined Cuban forces under Juan Delgado, Nodarse and Rafael de Cardenas, is encamped on La Luisa plantation, near Guira de Melina, about twenty miles south of here on the railway to Pinar del Rio. He has fully one thousand men, who are well armed and are said to have a Hotchkiss rapid-fire cannon.

The topography of the country about Guira de Melena is favorable to the Spanish troops.

MRS. M'KINLEY STILL LIVES.

She Is Very Low—President at Her Bedside Throughout the Night.

Canton, O., Dec. 10.—Mother McKinley survived the night, but the morning found her very weak. The period of wakefulness about midnight was followed by a sinking spell, very depressing in its effects, during which it was thought death was a question only of minutes. This collapse was followed, however, by a deep lethargic sleep, in which the last hours of the night were passed. The President was at his mother's bedside nearly the entire night.

When Dr. Phillips visited Mrs. McKinley this morning he found no material change. The doctor said she might live throughout the day.

The patient has taken no nourishment since yesterday morning, and has not even taken a sip of water for many hours. That she still maintains life so long without any nourishment is the surprising feature of the case.

Here's a Dreyfus Plot!

Paris, Dec. 10.—La Petrie prints the sensational statement that the Dreyfus agitation is the outcome of an international plot to divert France's attention from events abroad. An international syndicate, it declares, with this object in view, backed by foreign gold, commenced operations in Belgium and developed them in Germany.

Pictures by Telegraph.

St. Paul, Minn., Dec. 10.—Ernest A. Hummel, a jeweler, has just completed a successful test of his device for sending photographs by telegraph. By it pictures can be sent as fast and as accurately as words are now. The machine is about the size of a typewriter. A photograph can be sent in twenty minutes.

MILLER KEEPS AHEAD.

Rice and Rivierre Hot After Him in the Bicycle Race.

New York, Dec. 10.—The weary six-day grind at Madison Square Garden continues. Miller still has a good lead over Rice, the second man, while Rivierre, the Frenchman, is only a short distance behind Rice. Records continue to go by the board. Miller has lowered all previous figures.

The terrible strain the racers have been under is beginning to tell on them. Their faces are haggard and seamed and there are dark circles under their eyes. The spectacle of riders falling asleep as they spun around the track and pedaling mechanically on until they fell off or were aroused by their trainers had ceased to be a novelty this morning.

Hale was the freshest looking of the seventeen contestants this morning. His eyes were bright and clear, his cheeks glowed with healthy color and his movements were skillful and graceful. He expressed the utmost confidence in his ability to win out.

"I don't think that the leaders can hold out at the pace they have been going," he said.

Hale is maintaining about the same pace in this contest that he did in the six-day race last year, when he won from Rice.

At the end of the eightieth hour last December Hale had put 1,161 miles behind him. His score at 8.15 o'clock yesterday morning was 1,149 miles, only twelve miles short of last year's record. Most of the experienced long-distance bicycle riders agreed with Hale that Miller, Rice, Schinneer and Gaston Rivierre had been doing entirely too much sprinting for a six-day contest, and predictions were numerous that there would be some breakdowns before midnight to-morrow.

THE HAWAII TREATY.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The native Hawaiian Commission, headed by Dr. Richardson, were at the Capitol yesterday, bearing with them the monster petition, signed by over 20,000 natives, against annexation. The Commissioners, who have been in consultation with ex-Queen Liliuokalani, were greatly delighted when they received a request from Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, to be allowed to present the petition to the Senate, and when the Senate met he offered the document.

This act on the part of Mr. Hoar has been seized upon by the opposition as indicating without doubt Mr. Hoar's position on the treaty, and has had a very disquieting effect upon the Republican Senators. The chances for the ratification of the treaty are growing less each day, and many are in favor of abandoning it at once and using all their efforts to pass the Morgan annexation resolution. The Administration Senators, however, will not consent to this programme just yet, and Senator Davis, at the meeting of the Foreign Relations Committee after the formal meeting had adjourned, had some very plain words to say to some of the Republican Senators who seemed to be weakening on the treaty. He called attention to the Republican national platform and how it was pledged to annexation, and told the Republican Senators they were bound by that pledge.

BRIEF SESSION WANTED.

Speaker Reed Says Business Interests Need Little Legislation.

Washington, Dec. 10.—"The business interests of the country demand little legislation and a brief session of Congress," said Thomas Brackett Reed, Speaker of the House of Representatives, to a correspondent.

As the Republican majority in the House believes in Mr. Reed implicitly and follows his advice in everything, it is safe to say that, so far as the House programme goes, the programme thus tersely outlined by the Speaker will be followed. Over in the Senate an entirely different condition of things prevails. The Southern and Western Senators, particularly the former, prefer remaining in Washington to returning to their provincial homes and they always favor a protracted session of Congress, and previous predictions as to a short term for the long session of Congress have generally been wrong.

Sugar Magnate May Die.

New York, Dec. 10.—Henry O. Havemeyer, the sugar king, is in a critical condition. He may die. Some time ago Mr. Havemeyer was compelled to undergo an operation for appendicitis. The facts were kept from the public for several days, until the operation had been performed.

Last night it was reported that the wound incident to the use of the surgeon's knife had not healed, and that it was found impossible with safety to sew the edge of it. The patient is compelled to remain in one position, and, it is said, has lost courage. His general condition is extremely serious.

Big Wire Trust.

New York, Dec. 10.—The several controlling interests in the new Steel Wire Trust are now here to confer with J. P. Morgan & Co. respecting the financing of the concern. It will be known as the American Steel and Wire Company, and it will operate under a New Jersey charter with a capital of $70,000,000, half common and half preferred. Thus far all that has been done has been the naming of three appraisers to report on the plants in different parts of the country. March 1 has been set as the date for the launching of the new trust.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olagah, Ind. Ter. Chief. This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and la grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. THE DAY IN CONGRESS

Chairman Cannon's Statement on the Estimated Deficit.

REASON FOR ITS EXISTENCE

The Result of Expenses Not Included in the Last Estimate—Senator Gallinger Protests Against Private Pension Bills—Bankruptcy Bill.

Washington, Dec. 10.—After some preliminary business yesterday the House went into committee of the whole, Mr. Payne, of New York, in the chair, for the consideration of the pension appropriation reported yesterday.

The bill carries $141,121,830, of which $1,121,830 is for fees of examining surgeons, salaries of agents, clerk hire and the other items for the execution of the pension laws. Mr. W. A. Stone (Rep., Pa.), in charge of the bill, explained the different items.

Mr. Stone then yielded to Mr. Cannon, chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, who made a general statement on the estimates by Secretary Gage for the purpose, he said, of disabusing the members and the country of a false impression made by a comparison of these estimates with those of preceding years. The estimated revenues for 1899 were $482,000,000, the expenditures $504,000,000, showing an estimated deficit of $21,000,000. Under the last sundry-civil act the Secretary of the Treasury was compelled to estimate this year for $48,000,000 of river and harbor work, $33,000,000 of which had not been authorized by law. If this sum not heretofore included in the estimates were deducted there would be an estimated surplus of $8,000,000, instead of a deficit.

Last year the estimated deficit under the last tariff act was $46,000,000. If the $17,000,000 for river and harbor work, for which the Government then stood bound, had been included, the estimated deficit would have been $63,000,000. Mr. Cannon said it might be that the expenditures for pensions for 1899 would exceed the estimates. The Commissioner of Pensions estimated the expenditures at $148,000,000. If he should prove to be right, Mr. Cannon pointed out that the $140,000,000 appropriated by this bill would pay all pensions for the first eleven months of the fiscal year, and a deficiency appropriation could be easily made. In conclusion Mr. Cannon solemnly warned the House that the large anticipatory importations would keep the revenues under the present law down to the minimum, and he appealed to his colleagues to see to it "that, while the public service was sufficiently supplied with money, not one dollar is appropriated which is not absolutely necessary to the best interests of the public service." This statement of Mr. Cannon was warmly applauded on the Republican side.

Mr. Allen (Dem., Miss.) attacked Mr. Cannon statement. He read from Commissioner Evans' testimony before the Appropriations Committee predicting a deficit of from $8,000,000 to $10,000,000 in pension expenditures during the next fiscal year.

DAY IN THE SENATE.

Resolution Providing Relief for the Yukon Miners Introduced.

Washington, Dec. 10.—In the Senate yesterday Mr. McBride (Oregon) presented and asked for immediate consideration of a joint resolution for the relief of American miners and other sufferers in the valley of the Yukon and tributaries. The resolution authorizes the Secretary of War to transport supplies to the suffering miners, and provides that not more than $250,000 be appropriated to carry out the purposes of the resolution. It went over on objection.

A resolution was offered by Mr. Chandler (N. H.) and referred to the Committee on Naval Affairs, providing for an investigation of the question of dry docks and naval stations.

The resolution reported by the Pacific Railroad Committee asking the Attorney-General for information concerning the Kansas Pacific was adopted.

After the introduction of a few minor bills, the Senate began consideration of a private pension bill under the special order.

PLAN FOR WORK IN THE HOUSE.

Appropriation Bills to Have Right of Way at Present.

Washington, Dec. 10.—Although no formal action has been taken, a general understanding has been reached by the House leaders as to the course of legislation. The appropriation bills will be disposed of as fast as they are ready for consideration. After these the bankruptcy bill will be advanced. It will be reported by Chairman Henderson, of the Judiciary Committee, before the holiday recess, but it will not be taken up by the House until after the recess. It is understood that Speaker Reed and the Committee on Rules will give this bill every advantage in the way of securing early debate.

It is equally well understood that for the present there will be no effort to take up financial legislation on the floor of the House. This is due mainly to the strong impression that the Committee on Banking and Currency will not be able to reconcile the many conflicting interests inside of the committee. These represent all shades of financial opinion, and are so much at variance that it is not expected a majority can be rallied for any proposition.

The Ways and Means Committee will do nothing at present in the way of framing financial legislation. If, however, it becomes evident that the Committee on Banking and Currency is at a standstill then the Ways and Means Committee will enter the field of financial legislation and will frame a bill on broad lines. In the meantime the subject will be kept in the background as much as possible, as it is felt that agitation without action would be fruitful of bad results.

The bankruptcy bill was framed by Mr. Henderson, of Iowa, and is substantially similar to his bill which passed the House once before. It is on the lines of the old Torrey bill, providing both voluntary and involuntary bankruptcy. At the same time, the objections made to the Torrey bill that it was a "collection agency" have been overcome by a smoothing down of the harsh features.

Aside from bankruptcy and appropriation bills some emergency measures, such as that relating to Behring Sea, introduced by Mr. Hitt, will have a hearing, as they involve questions of general policy and are not likely to meet with opposition. With these exceptions, the disposition of the House leaders will be to keep radical legislation to the rear.

Work on the Indian appropriation bill will begin immediately in the House Committee on Indian Affairs, and the bill will be reported to the House early in January. There are many important matters before the committee, but everything now will give way to the appropriation bill.

The Committee on Foreign Affairs of the House held its first meeting yesterday and outlined its line of work on the several important foreign questions now pending. Chairman Hitt announced the following sub-committee to deal with Cuban affairs: Adams, of Pennsylvania; Heatwole, of Minnesota, and Berry, of Kentucky. The sub-committee to consider Hawaiian affairs: Hitt, of Illinois; Smith, of Michigan, and Dinsmore, of Arkansas. The committee determined to report at once the bill prohibiting American citizens from conducting pelagic sealing in Behring Sea, and an understanding was reached that the bill would be pushed to final passage before the holidays. It was also determined that the members of the committee would call in a body on Secretary of State Sherman to-day at 11 o'clock.

SWEARS HER HUSBAND'S LIFE AWAY.

Bornay's Wife Testifies Against the Accused Murderer.

Bridgeport, Ct., Dec. 10.—Yesterday's proceedings in the trial of Charles A. Boinay, charged with the murder of George Marcus Nichols, of Daniels Farms, produced another sensation even more remarkable than that of Wednesday, when David A. Weeks, Boinay's alleged accomplice, made a full confession.

Yesterday Mrs. Charles A. Boinay, wife of the accused man, took the stand and testified against her husband to save Weeks, her brother. On cross-examination if was impossible to confuse her.

After a few unimportant witnesses had been examined Mrs. Boinay was called, and told a story which finds no parallel in the criminal history of Connecticut, not flinching beneath the glare of her husband. Mrs. Boinay said:

"I was at my home in Huntington on the night of the murder. Charley and David went out early in the evening and returned about 4 o'clock the next morning. Their clothes were wet and muddy, and I took them both up to my room. As we reached the landing Charley said: 'We have been to Trumbull. We have been to Mr. Nichols' house and we robbed him. We forced in the door, and as we did it Nichols fired. I returned the shot and struck him. Then Miss Nichols fired and I fired at her. She put out the light, and just then Nichols said: "Oh, God! I'm shot!" We then robbed the place and came home.'

"After I got them into my room Charley and David divided the money. I do not know how much they had. Both remained until Sunday. Charley and I took David to Shelton, and he went on to New Haven. Monday morning I went with Charley to Stratford. On the way over he took his revolver to pieces and threw the barrel into a pond at Stratford, and later took the train for New York. I next saw my husband on the Saturday following, when he came home at night and remained until Sunday morning. It was in August before I saw him again, when he appeared late at night. He asked me how things were and I told him all right. He came in September and stayed all night. During the night he was aroused by an imaginary noise and jumped out of bed, saying: 'The jig is up. If they are officers I wil make it warm for some of them before they catch me.' It proved to be a false alarm. That was the last I saw of him until October, on the night of their arrest."

When asked why she told the story Mrs. Boinay said: "I made up my mind that I could not save my husband, anyway, and decided I would do my best to save my brother. So I told David to throw himself on the mercy of the Court."

New York Banker Pardoned.

Albany, Dec. 10.—Gov. Black has granted a pardon to Albert H. Smith, who was convicted on Dec. 3, 1890, in New York, for the crime of forgery in the first degree, and sentenced to Sing Sing Prison for seventeen years. Smith was a member of the firm of Mills, Robeson & Smith, stock brokers. By a series of forgeries he defrauded his partners out of more than $300,000, causing their financial ruin.

Many prominent citizens of Brooklyn asked for the pardon, and it was earnestly recommended by Austin Lathrop, Superintendent of Prisons, and by the officers of Sing Sing Prison. The judge who sentenced Smith and the District Attorney also were favorable to clemency.

Three San Francisco Fights.

San Francisco, Dec. 10.—Negotiations have practically been completed for three more pugilistic contests. Peter Maher and Peter Jackson are to meet in February, Choynski and "Tut" Ryan in January, and George Green and "Billy" Gallagher at a time to be set later. The Occidental Club has secured the Maher-Jackson contest and the National the others.

Maher will weigh something like thirty-seven pounds less than Jackson, who has also the advantage in height and reach. Maher has the advantage in age, however, by eight years, and is in better condition.

War on Civil Service.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The fate of the civil-service law and the merit system in filling public offices rests largely upon the result of the caucus of Republican Congressmen called for tomorrow evening. Few of the House members agree with the President that the merit law is a good thing, and they intend to force through the bill repealing it at this session, thus opening up 100,000 places. Congressman Grosvenor, of Ohio, Administration spokesman in the House, is to be the leader of the anti-civil-service fight.

MUST GUARANTEE AGAINST LOSS.

Referring editorially to the statement made by Senator Voorhees before the Westfield Township Committee in reference to the county ownership of a trolley road, in which he said he would not support the scheme, The Tribune's New Jersey editor says:

If Mr. Voorhees has announced such a determination and should adhere to it, the scheme could not possibly receive legislative sanction. But the Senator is not silly enough to prejudge in advance a proposition in which his constituents are vitally concerned and the whole State deeply interested. What he did say was that he could not favor the bill in its present shape. He is right enough about that. As the bill stands now Union county might build a trolley road and then find it a white elephant for which the taxpayers would have to pay handsomely. What must be done to protect the county and the citizens is to insert a clause in the measure prohibiting the letting of any contract or the expenditure of money until a lease has been signed, sealed and guaranteed for the rental of the proposed line on such terms as will absolutely protect the county against loss or expense. With a bill so framed there need be no fear of the Legislature, and Senator Voorhees will not dare oppose it.

THEATRICAL.

Manager Edwards wishes it known that the office of Music Hall is open daily and that he can always be found there to transact business with.

The performance of "A Stranger in New York," in Music Hall tomorrow night, promises to be a distinctive society event in theatrical circles. Hoyt's pieces are popular among all classes and the fact that Plainfield will have an opportunity to witness the same play that is now the reigning comedy success of New York will doubtless draw a large and fashionable audience to visit Music Hall tomorrow evening. Manager Edwards is to be complimented in his success at securing such fine attractions.

"A Stranger in New York," the latest musical farce-comedy from the pen of America's foremost comedy author, Charles Hoyt, will be the offering at Music Hall Saturday night. Theatre-goers are familiar with Mr. Hoyt's methods, and no recommendation is necessary. The author of such originally clever and humorous farces as "A Texas Steer," "A Trip to Chinatown" and "A Contented Woman," cannot have failed in his new play, "A Stranger in New York," and it is safe to say that it is inspired with all the humor, wit and livelinesses that is so characteristic of his other successes.

A SMALLER BUILDING PLANNED.

Woolston & Buckle Alter Their Plans for a Business Structure.

Woolston & Buckle have altered their plans concerning the construction of a building on the vacant lot adjoining their present property on North avenue. It was their original intention to build a large three-story structure, but after careful consideration they felt that it would be too great an undertaking at the present time. They have notified their architect to stop working on the plans for such a building and instead plan a building one story high, containing four stores fifty feet deep and fifteen wide each. This will leave the two present small frame structures unmolested. The fronts of the new building will be handsome and substantial, and when finished will be a great improvement to North avenue. In a few years, however, it is the intention of Woolston & Buckle to put up such a building as they originally planned.

Considerable complaint is being made of late by certain residents of Scotch Plains concerning the howling of dogs in the village. It is claimed by the objectors that the nuisance has become so bad of late that it is almost impossible for persons in the village who are easily awakened to secure any sleep at all, as the dogs seem to have agreed upon the night season as the time for giving vent to their noises. It is hinted that complaint will soon be made against the owners of some of the animals if the annoyance is not abated.

PASSING COMMENT.

In the last issue of Young Men of Harlem, a weekly published by the Harlem branch of the New York Y. M. C. A., is the following account of a lecture delivered there by E. R. Ackerman, of this city:

The hall was well filled last Monday evening by an enthusiastic party prepared to take a "Trip around the World," under the leadership of Hon. E. R. Ackerman. Dr. S. H. Virgin was present and introduced Mr. Ackerman, who in a very pleasant manner, by the aid of beautiful stereopticon views, guided those present on this delightful journey. The beautiful scenery, the magnificent temples, characteristic views in the lives of peasants and princes of the Nations of the world were thrown upon the screen and described by Mr. Ackerman. The incidents of a Japanese dinner party were especially pleasing. At the close of the lecture many were the expressions of delight, and all agreed that Mr. Ackerman had provided a pleasant and most profitable evening's entertainment.

The theatre-hat question, as related to churches, is likely to be seriously considered if the autumn fashion lasts through the winter. A young woman came into a church pew last Sunday wearing one of these enormous cartwheel hats, and when she had taken her seat those directly behind for five or six pews back lost all view of the preacher. The accommodations of the pew in which she was seated were also reduced from five to four persons by the presence of her enormous headgear. The two other occupants who sat on either side of her had to edge away to give her room for the turning of her head with its stupendous adornment. These hats are a nuisance in the theatre even when they are removed. They are too large to be left in the lap, and women are strangely reluctant to leave headcoverings in the dressing rooms of the theatre. The only thing to do with them for convenience to their wearers is to leave them at home, except for promenade or driving.

Several women uptown in New York have organized what they call "The Wedding Ring Club," the object of which is to compel married people, both men and women, to wear wedding rings, in order to prevent their posing as bachelors and maids more or less young. These charming enthusiasts believe that they have thus discovered a scheme that will abolish many evils and reconstruct the social fabric. The only trouble is that should such a custom be introduced, the honest married men would comply with it, but the rascals would not (at least on certain occasions), and the old tragedies consequent on woman's faith and man's duplicity would be enacted over again. Nay, even certain of the fair sex, would, I fear me, do their share in dispensing with the tell-tale circlet. I am afraid that paradise will not return to earth as a consequence of the formation of the new "bund." Still the object is a praiseworthy one.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Adjourned regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the County of Union held Thursday, Nov. 18th, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed all members present except Freeholder Ehrlich.

The minutes of the previous meeting, (reading of bills being omitted) were on motion approved as read.

COMMUNICATIONS, PETITIONS, ETC.

Freeholder Swain presented the following:

New York, Oct. 26th, 1897.

Mr. Wm. Swain, Summit, N. J.

Dear Sir:—At the request of Mrs. Arnold, as one of the authorities of the town, I write you in regard to the dumping of water through a culvert on her land at Summit. In making your street you deliberately conduct upon her land all the water accumulated from a long run of the Boulevard in both directions. This absolutely destroys the value of that portion of her lot for building purposes. If she should fill it in and attempt to build it would not help her, as the water would soak through and it would flood all your street at that point.

I do not pretend to understand or criticise your sewerage. In most towns one of the duties of a sewer is the carrying off of surface water from the streets, but to deliberately turn upon a person's property the accumulated surface water of a long line of street is, I venture to say, reserved for the wisdom of your street builders only. I am told you claim that there was at one time an ancient water course in that place, and justify your action thereby Now, water courses are for the country, and when you turn country into city and build sewers and avenues and tax the adjoining owners of land therefore it is for the improvement of the land, and water courses give way to sewers and cesspools properly placed to carry off the water and redeem the land for building purposes. Even did the rule applied to water courses apply, I think you would find great difficulty to supply any legal authority for gathering the water together from a distance and throwing it upon her land. You have built your Boulevard; you have entirely obstructed the original course of any water course, if any was ever there, and you undertake to supply the water from an entirely different source, and in quantities according to the weather. I believe that a cesspool properly built under the street and sidewalk would carry off all the water that accumulates at that point during the rain, but in any event the present arrangement is a nuisance, and must cease.

It cannot be possible that you contemplate to forever render that portion of Mrs. Arnold's land unavailable for building and little better than a marsh, and I trust that your sense of what is due to a land owner and of the properties generally will lead to an immediate change in this very primitive and absurd mode of disposing of the surface water of your streets.

Yours respectfully,

Philip L. Wilson.

On motion of Freeholder Roll received and referred to the committee on legal questions and the county attorney.

NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED IN UP-TO-DATE LAUNDRY WORK.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered, and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular. We will give you just exactly what you want, if we can find out what that is. Perhaps you believe that it is impossible to have your laundry well handled without irritation and annoyance to you. We are sure that you are mistaken. May we have an opportunity of demonstrating it?

In Time for Holidays New Easy Payment Plan 75c a Week===

Glad we hit on this plan when we did. It took resolution, but you "folk" who want to do lots of gift-buying, yet haven't enough cash to match the "want," should have a chance.

So here it is—your 75c each week will now let you choose what you will, when you will, how you will, from this, New Jersey's grandest, most elaborate furniture display! And prices as low—often lower than "Cash Houses!"

Here is one of dozens of departments:

A Superb Fancy Chair Stock==

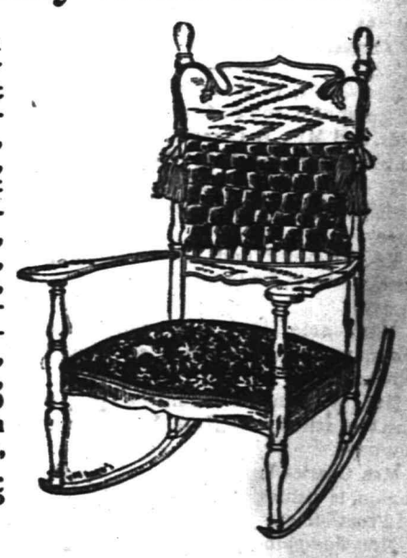

Nothing to equal it in all Newark—a display reaching from Market to Campbell street—every sort of wood, covering, shape, price, naught but newest styles. Fine gilt cornet and tete-a-tetes, maple, oak, mahogany, cherry, enamel rockers, seats and odd chairs—plain and richly upholstered, all colorings, and materials. Yes, there are fully 200 sorts—and all worth having for the choicest, most sensible gifts. Priced as low as $1.75 to $30.00.

Want a Stove or Range?

Best save time, energy and dollars, by coming where stoves and ranges are made a special thing—not of second importance. We're generally conceded to be the city's stove as well as furniture centre.

We can't help adding a word on "Portland Ranges"—the pen always slants that way! It's the one worthy range now on sale—9,000 bought!

28,000 OPERATIVES MAY STRIKE.

Fall River, Mass, Dec. 10.—The action of the Manufacturers' Association in deciding to reduce the wages of about 28,000 operatives in this city has caused no end of excitement. The operatives have been expecting a cut for the past three weeks.

The cut will mean a loss to the operatives and tradesmen of about $180,000 weekly. Cloth is quoted at 2¼ cents, the lowest in the history of the trade. The mills have a surplus on hand of 2,000,000 pieces of goods, and the surplus is still increasing.

Several well-attended meetings of operatives have been held, and officers of the different unions say that they are well prepared financially to resist the cut in wages.

Not merely Fall River alone, which is the leading cotton manufacturing city of America, but other large centres in New England, are likely to be affected. It would surprise no one to see a general reduction of wages, followed by a general strike in Lawrence, Lowell, New Bedford and other cotton centres, affecting perhaps 150,000 operatives.

This is by no means a remote possibility, and there is no outcome in sight save a general strike on Jan. 1. The general feeling here is one of gloom, for Southern competition has been increasing of late years and makes new gains from every industrial disturbance here.

Low wages and long hours in the South are the reasons invariably given by the New England manufacturers for every cut in wages and every other step tending to increase the hardships of the Eastern operatives.

CUBANS TAKE A PORT.

The Capture of Carinanera by the Insurgents Is Admitted.

Havana, Cuba, Dec. 10.—It has been announced from Spanish headquarters that a "group of rebels" entered Caimanera, near Guantanamo, "favored by the treason of an officer."

Caimanera is the port of Guantanamo, and is situated fifteen miles by rail from the latter place. Caimanera is on the Bay of Guantanamo, otherwise Cumberland Harbor.

The insurgent force, the official report adds, consisted of forty guerillas, volunteers and natives. They are alleged to have plundered a store and to have carried of $30,000 which was on a wharf, and which had recently arrived at Caimanera from Havana. It is also said that the insurgents killed the police inspectors and two gendarmes on duty, and seriously wounded a Spanish paymaster named Jose Vigil.

More Spanish guerillas have joined the insurgents.

The Spanish troops at Roque, Santa Clara, according to an official announcement, have engaged a number of insurgents, several of whom were killed. The troops captured seventeen insurgents and a quantity of arms and ammunition, while the insurgent Col. Sanity and an insurgent major surrendered.

LYNCHERS DEFY THE SHERIFF.

Will Blow Up Bonanza Mine if Arrests Are Attempted.

St. Louis, Dec. 10.—A special from Little Rock, Ark., says: "The report is received from Jenny Lind, Sebastian County, that the miners at Bonanza have acknowledged their participation in the lynching of Constable Murray. It is said they have sent word to Sebastian officers that if they want to arrest any of their number to come down into the shafts of the mine and get all they want. They are well supplied with dynamite, and it is known that their purpose is to blow up the mine if an effort is made to apprehend them. The mine is surrounded by a strong posse, the Sheriff being in command. He says he will force the miners to capitulate, even if he has to fire the mine. There are about 300 miners believed to have had a hand in the lynching, and bloodshed is expected to follow the apprehension of the culprits.

GARY FOR GOVERNOR'S SEAT.

The Postmaster General May Run for the United States Senate.

Baltimore, Dec. 10.—Postmaster-General Gary may be a candidate for Gorman's seat in the United States Senate. He is not saying anything, however, and his most intimate friends in this city are in the dark as to his desires and intentions.

It is certain that if it becomes evident that Gov. Lowndes cannot be elected the Lowndes, Wellington and Gary forces will unite, but whether they will unite on Gary or on some other man cannot now be known.

At present the members of the Baltimore delegation to the State Legislature seem to be unable to agree on anything, and unless they do there is a grave possibility that the Democrats may vote for the Republican least objectionable to them, and that he may be Congressman Mudd.

TRIED TO KILL THE SULTAN.

Two Soldiers, Failing in the Attempt, Are Tortured to Death.

London, Dec. 10.—The Athens correspondent of the Daily Chronicle says that on Monday last two soldiers in the imperial service at Yildiz Kiosk, the palace of the Sultan, made an attempt on his life. This was frustrated by the attendants of the Sultan.

His Majesty had the men tortured, in the hope of extracting the names of the instigators, but both succumbed without revealing anything.

Cleveland Baby's Debut.

Princeton, N. J., Dec. 10.—Bolstered up in his cradle and cooing among the downy coverlets, Richard Folsom, infant son of the former President and Mrs. Cleveland, made his debut in society in one of the great parlors of Westland yesterday. He is the little lion of the swell set. This was the first time little "Dick," as he is called by members of the Cleveland household, has been shown to a formal gathering of guests.

Crusier Marblehead at Hayti.

Washington, Dec. 10.—The Secretary of the Navy has received a cablegram from Commander McCalla, commanding the cruiser Marblehead, announcing his arrival at Port au Prince, Hayti. The excitement over the German incident is somewhat abated.

HARRISON ON BUSINESS

The Ex-President Returns From the Adirondacks.

SEES BUSINESS IMPROVE

No Opinions to Give on Currency Reform Measures—Too Soon to Judge the Tariff Bill by Its Revenue Results.

New York, Dec. 10.—Ex-President Benjamin Harrison, of Indiana, is at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, where he will remain for the next two or three days. Gen. Harrison never looked better in his life than he does to-day. His face has lost most of that peculiar whiteness—the pallor of the student—which formerly seemed to add several years in age to his appearance. There is now a tinge of color in his cheeks. His hand clasp is warm and sturdy. The ex-President bowed to several acquaintances when he came down to the corridor of the hotel to get his mail and the morning papers.

"General," said a reporter, "the people are much interested in the plan of financial reform, as outlined in the report of the Secretary of the Treasury to Congress. Do you care to give your views upon the proposed methods of relief?"

"Not at this moment," was the reply. "I have not kept myself sufficiently in touch with affairs of such great importance as the currency question to be able in a few minutes' talk to give the subject the careful and considerate treatment which is its due. My thoughts of late have been directed towards other lines and in other channels."

Tariff and Business.

"Will the Dingley tariff act produce the revenue expected of it?"

"It is too soon yet to determine that. A great quantity of goods was rushed into the country before the measure became a law, and the difference in the duties was lost. That always is the case when the proposed bill raises the duties."

"Do you see any improvement in the business conditions throughout the country?"

"Yes; there is a marked change in the feeling from what there was before the return of the Republican party to power. There is a much better tone, and the business interests are more confident than they were that times are to improve. Of course, the Christmas shopping will create a large amount of business for the time being. But there is a general improvement all along the line, and the farmer and agriculturist now feel it the most."

There is one topic upon which Gen. Harrison talks with considerable animation, and in which he is deeply interested. That is his Summer home near Valley Forge, in the Adirondacks. The ex-President's cottage is in Herkimer County, and he smiled when ex-Senator Warner Miller claimed him as a citizen of the county of which he at one time was the Republican leader.

SNUBBED AMERICA.

Hayti Ignored Claim of United States for Insult.

Washington, Dec. 10.—A remarkable contrast is shown in the policy pursued by Germany in securing indemnity from Hayti for damages inflicted upon one of her citizens and that taken by the United States in the case of Bernard Campbell, a citizen of this country, who, in 1889, was maltreated and thrown half dead into the sea because he refused to enlist on a Haytian man-of-war.

A demand was made for indemnity. The last reference to the case on record was made in 1895, when Hayti not only refused to pay indemnity, but ignored the demand.

Senator Kyle has made the case one of official investigation, he having called upon the State Department for a report upon what has been done in the case. He called attention to the prompt action taken by Germany in the Lueders case, and said that time for forbearance on the part of the United States in the case of Campbell seems to have passed.

Novel Request from a Minister.

San Francisco, Cal., Dec. 10.—The Rev. Edward Davis, pastor of the Central Christian Church at Oakland, has sent a letter to Thomas H. Williams, president of the California Jockey Club, asking him to set apart a day at the Emeryville track when Christians may attend. The letter reads in part:

"I believe an interest in horse-racing is not entirely due to commercial avariciousness. Indeed, I believe there are many Christian people who would enjoy the races, under consistent circumstances. I, therefore, request you to consider and inform me of your opinion as to the possibility of having a Christian day at the races. This, of course, would preclude drinking and gambling."

Railroad Crossings at Grade.

Albany, Dec. 10.—The State Railway Commissioners will ask the next Legislature to appropriate $250,000 to be expended in meeting the State's share of the gradual abolition of all railroad crossings at grade. Already fifty applications from different localities for the abolition of grade crossings have been received.

The Commission intends to rearrange its office and outside force and create a new bureau to have charge of the grade-crossing question. Charles R. De Freest, the present clerk of the Commission, will be put in charge of this bureau. John R. Kenyon was recently appointed to succeed Mr. De Freest as clerk of the Commission.

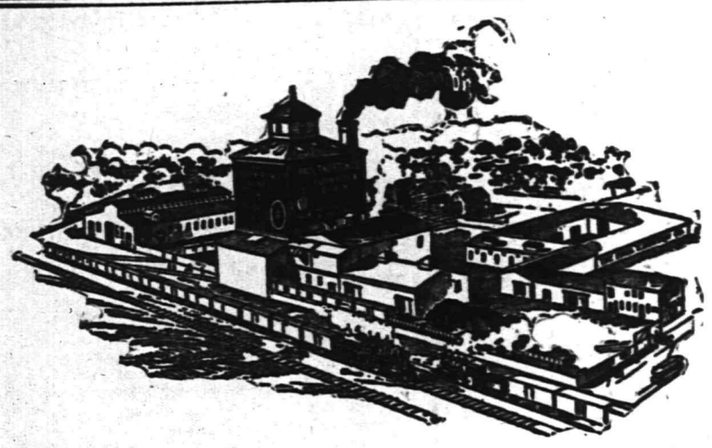
German Warship for West Indies.

Kiel, Dec. 10.—The German cruiser Geier sailed for the West Indies yesterday. The other warships here bade her an enthusiastic farewell.

The Geier is a third-class cruiser of 1,776 tons' displacement. Her armor-plated deck is three inches in thickness; she carries eight 4.1-inch quick-firing guns and seven smaller rapid-fire guns. The cruiser has two torpedo tubes.

Raise in Miners' Wages.

Creede, Col., Dec. 10.—Since Dec. 1 wages for miners have been $3 a day, instead of $2.50. The increase was made voluntarily by the mine owners.



Do You Think

That Grain that is thoroughly cleaned in a modern, up-to-date plant is better than when shoveled direct from a car (dirt and all), as is necessary by the small local dealer? Do you think that a firm operating its own purchasing offices throughout the west, its own distributing stores, and, most of all, the Largest and Most complete Grain Elevator and Cleaning Plant in New Jersey is able to give better goods at less cost than the small dealer who must buy from middlemen and handle his goods in the old way?

WAITING FOR PIPES TO BE PUT IN.

The Watchung Avenue Approach to the Bridge is Not Macadamized.

There has been considerable talk as to why Watchung avenue, between East Front street and the bridge, has not been macadamized. It has been said that the Council did not have the funds to do the work and would not accept the offer of a Plainfield contractor to let him do the work and have the city pay when they are able. The true facts are that a sanitary sewer is to be laid in that portion of the avenue as soon as possible. Patrick Christmas, who has the contract, will complete the Stelle avenue sewer as soon as the weather permits and then, if the good weather continues, he will start on that work this winter. Otherwise it will have to lay over to spring. The macadamizing will follow the completion of the sewer.

AN INVASION OF TRAMPS.

TRAMP DEPREDATIONS TOO FREQUENT IN WESTFIELD.

The Hoboes Invade Residences and Intimidate the Women Folks—Offenders Are Being Gathered in and Sent to Jail.

The town of Westfield is now suffering from an invasion of tramps. The hoboes frequent the streets in large numbers and call from house to house, demanding food and clothes of the women.

At several houses the tramps have grown insolent when refused food and have threatened vengeance. One of them called a few nights ago at the residence of Dr. William Gale on Elm street and made an insolent demand for eatables and clothing. His manner did not impress the servant favorably and he was asked to leave the place. The fellow flew into a rage and threatened to return that night and rob the house. The families in the neighborhood have been on the watch for several nights, expecting an attempt at robbery would be made.

In order to suppress the tramp nuisance the authorities have taken the matter in hand and several arrests of hoboes have been made. Monday night Constable Eugene Chamberlain arrested two men who gave their names as Joseph Clark, of Elizabeth, and Frank Brady, of Jersey City. Both men were intoxicated and acting in a disorderly manner. They were begging when the constable arrested them. Tuesday morning the men were arraigned before Justice Toucey and sentenced to 30 days and 20 days respectively in the county jail.

Wednesday afternoon Constable Todd was informed that two more tramps were acting in a disorderly manner about the town, and he shortly after arrested them both. Before Justice Toucey yesterday morning they gave their names as Patrick McGee and John Williams, and their residence as "any old place." McGee, who had resisted arrest, was sentenced to the county jail for 60 days and his companion was given 30 days.

The tramp nuisance has grown to be so serious in the town that the authorities have determined to break it up if possible, and all the wandering Willies who now enter the town are in danger of falling into the meshes of the law and being severely dealt with.

CENTRAL LODGE'S ANNIVERSARY.

To be Celebrated December 23d, But Not in a Public Manner.

An important meeting of Central Lodge, A. O. U. W., was held last evening. Four candidates were initiated. The anniversary committee reported that the anniversary would be celebrated December 23d with an entertainment and collation but owing to the fact that there were some candidates to be initiated on that date, it had been decided not to invite the public to attend the exercises. The members of Columbia Lodge of this city and Bernards Lodge, of Basking Ridge, were invited.

The election of officers was held and resulted as follows: Past master workman, Clark T. Rogers; master workman, James R. Dunham; foreman, Edward M. Mosher; overseer, William L. Larabee; recorder, Norman C. Magne; financier, William Newcorn; receiver, Charles H. Randolph; guide, A. E. Curtis; inside watchman, George Blythe; outside watchman, George W. Clark; trustee, L. J. Spicer; representatives so the Grand Lodge, W. George Gray and Clark T. Rogers; alternates, T. C. Smith and William Newcorn.

DON'T LIKE THE COLORED OFFICER.

Councilman Barrows Wroth Because Ed Martin is in Uniform.

Councilman Barrows, chairman of the Police Board, is exceedingly wroth over the action of the Central Railroad of New Jersey in uniforming Special Officer Edward Martin, a colored porter for the railroad, and detailing him for duty on the station platform. Martin is a diminutive piece of humanity and makes a queer looking sight with the police uniform and helmet on.

This morning Chief of Police Grant, evidently acting on Barrows' orders, went to Martin and demanded his badge. Martin refused to give it up. The colored officer says that the only way it can be taken away from him is to prefer and prove charges against him. He claims his record prevents this.

An Attempted Burglary.

Last evening, at a late hour, an attempted burglary was committed at the home of Mrs Price, on Sherman avenue, near Clinton avenue. The burglars were experts, so says Chief Grant, who examined their work. Their operations were confined to a front parlor window, where with the use of tools they succeeded in throwing the catch back. In opening the window the weights on the sash cords made a considerable noise and awakened a young woman in the room above. She got out of bed, and when the burglars heard someone moving about the house, they escaped, and it being very foggy at the time, it was impossible to see who they were. Nothing was taken from the house.

FOR CHRISTMAS TRADE.

FINE SHOWING MADE BY THE PLAINFIELD MERCHANTS.

The Spirit of the Yuletide Season is Apparent on Every Hand—No Need to Go to New York to Do Your Shopping Now.

The approach of the holiday season is already apparent in this city to anyone making a visit to the various dry goods establishments and the big general stores. On every hand the spirit of the approaching season is having its effect upon shop windows and interiors, which are artistically decorated and burdened with goods appropriate for holiday gifts. All the stores have been compelled to place extra clerks on duty to meet the rush of the holiday trade, and all indications point to a busy Christmas season.

At the department store of Edward White more attention is being paid to toys and dolls this year than ever before. The book department has also been made a feature. That section of the store which was formerly occupied by the millinery department is now turned into a complete picture gallery, where there is an excellent display of colored medallion pictures. On the upper floors are to be found a profusion of imported rugs and art squares, which are attracting the favorable notice of buyers.

At Woodhull & Martin's everything is bustle and activity and the stock includes many special Christmas lines which are attracting attention. All the holiday specialties, including linen handkerchiefs, books, art calendars toilet novelties, are to be found here in profusion, and all bear the marks of having been selected to meet the wishes of fastidious buyers. The toy department is replete with miniature express wagons and fire engines, dolls, sleds, and a profusion of novelties designed to strike joy into the hearts of the youngsters.

At the store of VanEmburgh & Son the show window is particularly worthy of attention, and is surrounded by an admiring crowd of shoppers constantly. The stock within the store includes everything essential to a thorough holiday display. It is all new, and gives the visitor the impression of having been selected with the greatest care and judgment. The basement of the store presents a very fine appearance, and shoppers who fail to visit it will miss a rare treat.

At Peck's the windows are artistically decorated with art linens, laces and fine handkerchiefs. The assortment of hand-painted fans is particularly fine at this store, which is making a specialty of this very appropriate holiday gift. There is also in stock a showcase of sterling silver goods in the latest and most approved designs. Other features of the stock at Peck's are the hand embroidered linen handkerchiefs, a line of extra fine linen aprons and an assortment of handkerchief cases, hand-painted, and other novelties.

Boehm's store presents a busy appearance, and the holiday assortment is as complete as in past years. A special run is being made upon artistic lamps for holiday presents, and the toy department in the basement is thoroughly stocked with games, dolls, children's story-books, toy-furniture, and the various articles suitable for gifts to children. The entire stock presents an inviting appearance.

At Lederer's there is a display of handkerchiefs which will attract shoppers. The front part of the store is hung and drapped with the fine pieces of linen, giving an effect very appropriately suggestive of a winter landscape. Another part of the store is stocked with novelties appropriate for a place in my lady's boudoir. The assortment includes hand-painted handkerchief cases, glove cases, artistic clocks and other articles tempting to buyers. The fine appearance of this store is commented upon frequently by visitors.

The store of Putnam and DeGraw is crowded to overflowing with goods appropriate to the holiday season. The assortment of novelties, including collar and cuff boxes, handkerchief boxes, smoking sets and manicure sets, is unusually large here. The firm is also handling a choice line of silk and linen handkerchiefs, ladies fine embroidered aprons and holiday umbrellas.

MINOR OFFENDERS ONLY

CITY JUDGE D'MEZA METED OUT JUSTICE THIS MORNING.

Small Boys Accused of Breaking Car Windows—Man Accused of Using Insulting Remarks—Hugh Boyd Awed by Chief Grant.

The Cadi was down in his court room at the rookery this morning to administer justice to the few offenders that were arraigned before him. The first group consisted of three small boys, Ephriam Saums, Monroe Squires and Edward Duck. They were charged with shooting at passing trains with sling shots. Several windows had been broken and the boys were held in consequence. They admitted that one of their number was practicing but they did not think he hit the train. The Judge dismissed them with a warning and a promise to pay for the broken windows.

David White came up for trial. The complaint against him was made by Mrs. John Van Nest, who said that he had insulted her at a ball recently held in Washington Hall. Her husband backed her story. White admitted that he had used some language not exactly polite, but explained that it was not meant for Mrs. Van Nest who he said he did not know. His testimony was corroborated by two of his friends. The Judge reserved his decision in the matter for a week.

Hugh Boyd, the man accused of shooting Goorge Studer's pigeons, was the next to be arraigned. Chief Grant told the Judge how Boyd had rushed into the house and locked all the doors at the appearance of Roundsman Frederickson and kept the officer out in the cold for two hours when he finally unlocked the door, finding that the policeman intended to besiege the place. Boyd tried to explain that he was waiting for his wife.

"Ah!" exclaimed the Chief, "I'd a mashed in your door if I'd been there and taken you out baldheaded." At which remark, the prisoner looked about to see where he might take refuge if the Chief carried his threat into effect at once. Boyd admitted shooting in the city limits and was fined $5. He paid the fine with trembling hand and departed to get out of the reach of the Chief as soon as possible.

Christopher Hedemark, the man who would not pay his bill at "Charley Smith's," came up for sentence. The Judge lectured him soundly and then suspended sentence deeming that he had suffered enough.

PRINCETON INN DEFENDED BY OLD NASSAU'S ALUMNI

INTERESTING TOASTS MADE AT THE DINNER OF THE UNION COUNTY PRINCETON CLUB.

Chief Justice Magie Termed the Attack a Cruel One on the Institution—Other Speakers Also Defended the Inn—But Withal It Was a Happy Gathering.

If that fabled tiger of Princeton had wandered into the Casino of the Union County Country Club last evening the great feline would have howled in delight to see such a brave gathering of his old and trusty friends, now members of the Princeton Club of Union county. It was the first annual dinner of that organization of the lovers of Old Nassau. On every side of the Casino hung the familiar colors of the orange and the black. Princeton banners were arranged about the hall, while a large Princeton flag was stretched over the stage where, behind a screen of ferns, the friends of the diners gathered later in the evening to listen to the speeches. There were about fifty in all of the Princeton men and their guests, and a congenial gathering it proved to be. A dinner the culmination of the art of the chef, was served at 7 o'clock, and continued for nearly two hours. The table was charmingly decorated.

During the intervals between the courses, some of the Princeton men, led by Gardner Miller, of Roselle, sang some of the good old Princeton songs and gave again its well-known yells.

The dinner was arranged by a committee, composed of Dr. E. W. Hedges, Leonidas Dennis and Dr. W. H. Murray. Everything passed off smoothly and without a hitch.

The speeches were to begin at 9 o'clock, and at that time the stage and gallery began to fill with the wives and friends of the diners who came to enjoy the speeches.

Chief Justice J. W. Magie, as toastmaster, made a few introductory remarks. He referred to the movement against the Princeton Inn and its promoters. A more cruel attack had never been made, he said. At the last meeting of the board of trustees, of which he was a member, he said that it reported never had the university been so free from dissipation and vice, and then this outburst against the institution. It was entirely undeserved, he declared. Princeton University had no more to do with the establishment of Princeton Inn than any of the other business enterprises of that city. He had heard much criticism, he continued, because some of the faculty did what they had a right to do as citizens. As a member of the board of trustees, Judge Magie said he would never oppose any professor in exercising any right he might have as a citizen. The charges attacked the undergraduates in a very unfair way, and he told his experiences among the students during the past.

Dean Murray was then introduced as the first speaker, his toast being "Princeton." He told something of the growth of the university. He touched on the Princeton Inn question and paid a glowing tribute to the manliness and honor of the Princeton undergraduates, saying that they were equal to any in the country and that the attack against them was uncalled for. He spoke of the methods in vogue at Princeton and how American methods, instead of those of the German university, were being used to Educate the American youth. He last touched on the future of the institution, which, he declared, would be bright, indeed.

Hon. Foster M. Voorhees was introduced as the representative of Rutgers and the coming president of the State Senate and acting governor. Then the musically inclined sang a Princeton song arranged for the occasion. The Senator was at his best and his wit and humor kept his listeners in continued laughter. After wittily touching on the attack against Princeton, he seriously expressed his great regret that any such unfounded charge should have marred the records of this State. There was far more vice in the Dutch settlement of New Brunswick, he declared, than in Princeton, on account of the safeguards thrown after the students in the latter place. Then the Senator talked of the sturdy little college on the banks of the Raritan and said much in its praise.

Rev. Dr. W. C. Roberts spoke next for the Elizabeth alumni. He told of the faculty and of the strange doings of the students in his college days. Athletes of earlier days were described and Dr. Roberts expressed himself as being thoroughly in favor of systematic athletes. He, too, touched on the Princeton Inn question and declared that he believed that while it was impossible to keep the young man from partaking of spirituous liquors, he believed that there was less of it in Princeton than in any other of the colleges.

The representative of Yale, Councilman William N. Runyon, was the next speaker. He was received with another "exhibition of Princeton's fertile brain work" as he expressed it. The song was appropriate to the speaker. He told how he had been invited to speak and told that he need not speak on football if he had any delicacy on the subject. He told humorously of his experience with Princeton men and at Princeton. He concluded by telling of the great principles that bind Yale and Princeton together.

Dr. Ellis W. Hedges was the speaker for the Plainfield alumni. He related the mishaps of his class, and how the faculty of the college had proposed to work radical reform beginning with his class, and how his class had been reduced one-half in numbers. As a result the class, he explained, lost its brilliant members, and the remaining ones had never done anything wonderful.

"At Large" was the subject assigned to William B. Wilders, the last speaker. He told of his regret at learning that his friend, Senator Voorhees, was not yet married. He explained that he had started late in life in the matrimonial career, and told the Senator that he still had a chance. This discussion of the Princeton Inn question, he said, would result in a stronger union among the Princeton men. The great improvement of the Princeton Inn over the "joints" of other days he commented on. It is a trying time, he explained, for the university, and when all Princeton men should rally to her support.

After a farewell song the guests departed.

OATH OF OFFICE TAKEN.

NEWLY-ELECTED OFFICERS SWORN IN BY MAYOR FISK.

His Honor Was in a Happy Mood and Did the Duty in a Graceful Manner—The Officials Were Prompt in Appearing

Yesterday afternoon and evening between the hours of 5:30 and 8:30 o'clock the newly-elected city officials called at the office of Mayor Fisk and took the oath of office. Among the first to call at the office were Councilman J. P. Homan, Treasurer Arnold, Freeholder Tier, Councilman Liefke, Councilman Hetfield, Councilman VanHerwerden, Constables George F. Greder, Robert Mattox, Councilman Moffett and School Commissioner Lovell. The others who arrived later in the evening were Councilmen Barrows, F. H. Andrews, and Constables Yaeger, J. C. Kirkner, and Councilman J. F. Buckle.

Mayor Fisk was in a very happy mood and received the new officers, as well as the old ones, in a cordial manner.

The act of swearing the officials in required only a short time, but most of the members of the city government were on hand promply, a trait which it is to be hoped they will carry with them during the next year.

Their was evidenced the best of feeling on the part of all, and no doubt this feature will continue during the time the men are in office. Mayor Fisk is to be congratulated in attending to this important matter so promptly. The law gives him ten days to perform the task, but he considered it wise to act promply in the matter.

Freeholder Hubbard does not take the oath of office, as the law excuses him. He can, however, go through the rite at Elizabeth, if he chooses.

Mr. Samelson married his wife in California. Mr. Samelson was for several years in the employ of Edward Love, the wall-paper dealer, of North avenue.

EXPLOSION OF A LAMP.

A THREATENING FIRE IN AN EAST SIXTH STREET RESIDENCE.

R. J. Jackson and Family the Sufferers—Family Worked Heroically and Subdued the Fire Without the Firemen

A threatening fire occurred last evening about 11 o'clock at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Jackson, 409 East Sixth street, when a lamp exploded and set fire to inflammable material, causing damage to the amount of about $100.

Mrs. Jackson's brother, who lives at the house, was writing in his bedroom until nearly 11 o'clock. When he retired he turned the light out, as he supposed, but instead the flame went down into the oil and in the course of a short time the lamp exploded. The noise occasioned by the explosion awakened Mrs. Jackson's brother. His room was soon one mass of flames and full of smoke.

The family went to work with a will to extinguish the flames, which were by this time well under way. The lace curtains at the windows caught fire and were rapidly consumed, and the carpet on the floor and many other valuable furnishings in the room also ignited. It was with difficulty that the fire was kept in the room.

An unfortunate loss was that of all of the clothing of the man occupying the room. There was not a single piece of his clothing left. For over an hour the family worked hard and they finally succeeded in putting the fire out. All of the bedding and quilts were burned and the furniture in the room was very badly scorched.

The family did not send in an alarm of fire. Chief Doane called at the house, investigated the fire, and informed Mrs. Jackson that she should have sent in an alarm of fire. The goods lost were insured for the full amount. That greater damage did not result is a mystery to Chief Doane, and he says that the family did great work in putting the fire out.

THEIR SIXTH ANNIVERSARY.

Seventh-Day Baptist Senior Endeavor Society Celebrated.

The Senior Christian Endeavor Society of the Seventh-Day Baptist church celebrated its sixth anniversary today by appropriate services, which took the place of the regular morning church service. The president of the society, J. Frank Hubbard, presided at the services.

The principal address of the morning was delivered by Evangelist Saunders, who is the president of the Seventh Day Baptist denominational work. Interesting annual reports were presented by President Hubbard, by Miss Spicer, secretary of the society, and by Mrs. H. M. Haxson, superintendent of the junior work. The members of the junior society were all present, and during the morning they favored the meeting with one of their hymns. Rev. A. E. Main, D. D., and Rev. A. H. Lewis, D. D., were present and participated in the services.

Death of Sineas Coon.

Joseph McKelvey and Rev. G. Kennedy Newell officiating.

Death of a Young Woman.

The death of Miss Mary F. Hill, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. Alonzo Hill, of West Fourth street, occurred last night about 11 o'clock after a long illness with consumption. The deceased was 17 years, 8 months and 15 days old. She was confined to the house September last and during that time rapidly failed. The funeral services will be held next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 from Bethel chapel, East Fifth street.

Just Enough.

Curiosity is an attribute of human character that should never be allowed to get the best of one, and yet it is well enough to have just enough of it to impel your going into Collier's to see the attractive array of Christmas novelties displayed there, and to avail yourself of the trading stamp benefit.

To Talk on Christian Citizenship.

In the chapel of the First Presbyterian church next Tuesday evening Rev. W. E. Davis, of Lebanon, Hunterdon county, will deliver an address on "Christian Citizenship," before the Christian Endeavorers of Plainfield. An open parliament will follow to be conducted by Mr. Davis.

SHOT BELOW THE HEART

NARROW ESCAPE OF WILLIAM RAMSEY FROM INSTANT DEATH.

Was Handling the Weapon When It Exploded and Made an Ugly Wound—Taken to the Hospital—Ramsey Will Recover.

William Ramsey, a pattern maker, who was formerly employed at the Pond Machine Tool Works, in this city, was seriously injured by a shot from a revolver in his room at 140 North avenue yesterday afternoon about 4 o'clock. Ramsey was in possession of a revolver, and was in his room with the weapon when a report was heard and he fell heavily to the floor. Those who rushed to his aid discovered that the revolver which he held had just been discharged, and a stream of blood trickled from an ugly wound in his left side just below his heart.

Dr. M. S. Simpson was hastily sent for, and until his appearance Ramsey was given what relief it was possible to administer. Those who were present at the time the accident occurred and saw the injured man were of the opinion that his death was only a question of a short time. When Dr. Simpson arrived he made a hasty examination, and ordered the man taken to Muhlenberg Hospital.

The examination there showed that the wound was not so serious as was at first feared. The bullet had entered the left side just below the heart, and after ploughing its way through the flesh without injuring any vital organ, it had lodged in a fleshy part of the back. Cocaine was injected into the wound and the bullet was probed for and removed.

The injured man bore the operation very well, and it is now thought by the physicians that if no complication of the injury results he will make a rapid recovery.

When a representative of The Daily Press attempted to secure the facts surrounding Ramsey's injury this morning, he was met with a mysterious reticence on the part of the hospital authorities and also the people with whom the man boarded. Everyone questioned by the reporter seemed afraid of divulging some information which ought not to get into print, and the general conduct of those concerned was such as to give the impression that it was a case where secrecy was desirable.

Verdict for Plaintiff.

The case of Thompson against DeMott, in Justice Newcorn's court, was tried yesterday and a verdict rendered for the plaintiff for the full amount. Execution was issued. The case of Kingston against Appleton was also tried and judgment rendered for the plaintiff, no defence being made. After the trial, the attorney for the defendant arrived and moved that the case be re-opened as he had been unable to get their on time owing to a delay in the trains. After considerable argument, the attorney for the plaintiff agreed to try the case again on December 17th.

Still Alarm of Fire.

Chief T. O. Doane and Driver Townley, of Alert Hose Company, were called to the home of George W. McIntyre, West Second street, this noon about 12:45, to look after a supposed fire in the house. The house was full of smoke, and Mr. Macintyre felt confident that his house was on fire. Investigation proved that there was a back draft in the chimney caused by a stoppage. The difficulty was soon remedied before any damage resulted.

NEWS FROM ALASKA

Dog Train Has Left Dawson City for Skaguway.

LIVES LOST IN THE RAPIDS

A Party of Gold Seekers Probably Drowned—One Woman Making Her Way to the Gold Fields with the Mercury 40 Below Zero.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 11.—The steamer Rosalie has just arrived from Skaguay and Dyea, Alaska, with thirty-five passengers. The Rosalie brings the news that James B. McAuley, of Victoria, is on his way out from Dawson City with a dog train, and is expected to arrive at Skaguay in a week or ten days.

At a meeting held at Skaguay Dec. 1 steps were taken to form a municipal government. Seven candidates were nominated for Councilmen.

Four tramways are being constructed at Dyea. Seven miles of wagon road between Skaguay and Lake Bennett have been completed.

The Canadian police have warned all persons bound for Dawson to turn back unless they have 600 pounds of provisions.

Five or six, and perhaps seven, lives have been lost in the White Horse Rapids during the last two months, according to John Hepburn, who has arrived from there. A boat built for four or six men was found below the rapids one morning, but there was no trace of the occupants. They must all have been drowned. There is now very little open water between the rapids and the lakes, most of it being frozen over.

At White Horse Rapids there are about thirty persons and there are thirty-five at the foot of Marsh Lake. There are at least one hundred more below White Horse and many others have gone into the Hootalinqua country to prospect during the Winter.

At Tagish House the weather was bitterly cold. The thermometer registered 42 degrees below zero. Persons were met making their way along the route at the head of the Lake Bennett. Among the gold seekers was a woman, who was pulling her sled all alone, and she was making fair time.

Lake Bennett was still open fifteen miles from the foot on Nov. 27, and the mercury stood at 24 below.

Schooner Augusta Missing.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 11.—The schooner Augusta, from Copper River, Alaska, is ten days overdue and some anxiety is felt on her account. Monday night a heavy storm prevailed. The steamer Farrallon passed a steam schooner answering the description of the Augusta off Victoria.

A passenger spoke the vessel and her master told him that they were from Copper River, with five passengers on board. One of the five passengers is George Bennicks, who in a recent letter to James Warder told of a rich quartz find in the Copper River district. It was a ledge sixty-five feet wide, free milling and assayed $20 to the ton. The Augusta left Seattle the latter part of October for Copper River.

DINGLEY'S REVENUE ESTIMATE.

Says the Present Tariff Law Will Produce the Sum of $390,000,000.

Washington, Dec. 11. — Chairman Dingley, in a speech before the House yesterday afternoon, said that the tariff law would produce ample revenue. He said that estimates based on present business conditions showed a revenue of $390,000,000, without including postal revenues, and of $482,500,000 including postal revenues. A larger estimate than this was warranted, he thought.

Mr. Dingley explained the estimates submitted and why they were so large. He said they were due to the estimated appropriation for public works, principally rivers and harbors. The law requires the Secretary of the Treasury to submit these in detail. He stated that if the Secretary's estimates of revenue were correct, and if Congress did not allow these excessive appropriations, but gave the usual amounts, the surplus would be at least $10,000,000. He had faith in this Congress to believe that it would follow this course and not go to excess in appropriations.

He stated that the estimate of over $73,000,000 for public works had never been made to Congress before, and that the amount would not be appropriated. He hoped Congress would keep the appropriations down to between $380,000,000 and $390,000,000.

IS MRS. LUTGERT ALIVE?

A St. Louis Editor Positive She Was in Boston and Will Be Found.

Boston, Dec. 11.—The Globe says: "Mrs. Luetgert, the supposed victim of the sausage manufacturer murder, so-called in Chicago, is alive and well. She was seen in this city during the month of July at No. 7 Bulfinch place, and acknowledged her identity, besides giving more or less explanation relative to the reasons which caused her to leave her husband, who is again to be tried for her life."

This startling declaration was made by Editor John H. Schofield, of St. Louis.

The Globe has interviewed Mrs. Moss, of Bulfinch place, who says the woman supposed to be Mrs. Luetgert went by the name of Millie Barker. One day she seemed distressed after reading an account of the trial of Luetgert, and when questioned by Mrs. Moss said: "You would be surprised if I told you who I am." Then she added: "Why, I am Mrs. Luetgert."

Mrs. Moss said that when she began questioning the woman the latter got frightened and refused to say more. The next day she left the house, and has not been seen since.

Greco-Turkish Treaty.

London, Dec. 11.—The text of the definitive treaty of peace between Turkey and Greece, which will be published here to-day, contains about two thousand words, including two protocols referring respectively to the commercial convention and consular immunities. The treaty amplifies the preliminary peace terms, all the points of which have already been published.

LAST DAY OF THE BIG RACE.

Miller Still Holds the Lead, But Is in a Pitiable Condition.

New York, Dec. 11.—Pedal and push and pump; pump and pedal and push. All of the pathetic weariness and hopeless drudgery of Hood's old "Song of the Shirt" was witnessed in the faces of the poor slaves who still lived this morning to continue the inhuman task imposed upon them in the six-day bicycle race in Madison Square Garden. And that was not all. The poorest toiler for his daily bread never underwent such torture as was the lot of the unfortunate mannikins who were set like dummies astride their wheels and goaded on to heart-breaking exertions by rapacious and unscrupulous alleged "trainers." The latter are, indeed, trainers, but only in the same sense as was the brutal slave driver in "Uncle Tom's Cabin."

Rivierre had a bad tumble late yesterday afternoon, the result of beckoning to a policeman. He labored under the hallucination that somebody was jeering at him and desired to have the policeman interfere. An examination of Rivierre at a late hour showed that he had broken his leg at the time of his fall just above the knee. Notwithstanding this fact he mounted his wheel and rode three laps, not knowing that his leg was broken. His state of mind was such that he was insensible to the terrible pain.

Miller is half paralyzed in the lower limbs, and, besides, has delusions that people are trying to cripple him so as to throw him out of the race. He rides on still, but with a dazed expression on his face and with his eyes bent upon the floor. He has the idea, not uncommon with cyclists in six-day events, that spectators are throwing sticks and stones in his course.

Rivierre, a raving maniac, dragged off the track by his trainers; Moore, injured to a degree that it will take weeks of nursing to cure him, ordered out of the race by Inspector Brooks; Pierce, a jabbering idiot, shocked into sensibility by an electric battery; Elkes, Enterman and Gray ordered from the track for rest by the police, is the recapitulation of the fifth day's brutality at the bicycle "race."

If beasts of burden—nay, if a dog—were subjected to the degradation and abuse of which these so-called trained athletes in Madison Square are the victims, a howl would go up from the throat of outraged civilization that would pierce the very skies. Let one college lad break a bone in a football game, or let a drop of superfluous blood flow in a boxing bout, and the land rings with indignation while zealous legislators fall over themselves to impose the prohibition of the law upon the sports.

But this is different. This is a contest of endurance, in which the limit of danger to health and morality is in no danger of being passed—save the mark!

CROWD LYNCHES A NEGRO.

Child of Five Years Charged Him with Quintuple Murder.

Wesson, Miss., Dec. 11. — Charley Jones, said to be the negro who on Wednesday murdered Mrs. Brown Smith and her four children near this place, has been captured and lynched by an infuriated mob.

While Smith was working at a gin, a few miles from his home, about two and a half miles from Pearl River, on the east bank, in Lawrence County, on Wednesday afternoon, Jones, or some other negro, went to Smith's house, assaulted Mrs. Smith, brained her with a club, and then, to conceal his crime, he began on the six children, only sparing a baby, which he left untouched.

The fiend's work was not done as well as he thought, for one of the children, a girl, 5 years old, regained consciousness, and when her father entered after his day's work, she described the negro.

A posse was organized, and late Thursday afternoon Jones was captured, and taken back to the scene of the crime, where he was fully identified by the little girl. He was promptly lynched after the identification, by a large number of citizens, who had joined in the search.

It is feared that a wholesome lynching may take place in that neighborhood, as the country is excited to the highest pitch.

Poisoned by Ivy

Was in a Dreadful Condition

Happened to Read About a Similar Case—Followed the Other Man's Example and Was Cured.

The following incident is given by Charles Morris, general jobber, 52 Lexington Avenue, North Cambridge, Mass.:

"Several years ago I became poisoned by ivy. I tried many medicines, spending a large sum of money without obtaining a particle of good. My children were also afflicted with the same disease. We were all constant sufferers with an awful itching sensation, and it seemed as if I should tear myself to pieces. I picked up a paper in which I found printed a testimonial from a man in Vermont who had been similarly afflicted and had taken Hood's Sarsaparilla with benefit. I bought a bottle, which we took and it did

Me and My Children

so much good I purchased another supply. We continued taking Hood's Sarsaparilla until we used five bottles and I can safely say that neither myself nor children have any signs of the poison. It has entirely left us and we are perfectly cured. We give the whole credit to Hood's Sarsaparilla. Before resorting to this medicine I was reduced in weight, but now I weigh 175 pounds. Hood's Sarsaparilla has not only done much good but has been the means of saving me a great deal of money. I would not be without it in my house and I heartily recommend it to all who are afflicted. I have written this statement for publication, of my own will, as I want others to know what has done for us." CHARLES MORRIS.

Hood's Pills are the only pills to take with Hood's Sarsaparilla.

How to Look Good.

Secure good health and you will surely have good looks. "Electric Bitters" is a good Alterative and Tonic. Acts directly on the stomach, liver and kidneys. Such letters as the following, from L. G. Bagley, Hueneme, Cal., are constantly being received: "The best remedy for pain I have ever used is Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and I say so after having used it in my family for several years." How to Prevent Pneumonia.

At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olagah, Ind. Ter. Chief. This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and la grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

RAILWAY MAIL ROBBED

Secret Service Men Working on the Case in New York.

MORE THAN $30,000 TAKEN

Being the Total Shipments for Two Days—New Jersey Banking Concerns the Shippers—Mail Clerk Missing Since Nov. 9.

New York, Dec. 11.—Major Charles F Lewis, of the Philadelphia branch of the Government Secret Service, is in the city investigating what is supposed to be one of the biggest robberies in the history of the New York postoffice The robbery is said to be in the railway mail service, and confined exclusively to registered letters.

The exact amount cannot be learned but it is unofficially stated to be in the neighborhood of $100,000. This figure is declared to be excessive by several who are investigating the case; but they admit that the amount is a big one, the largest ever taken at one time in the registry department. The robbery is confined, so far as investigation has shown, to that section of the Central Railroad of New Jersey which is known as the New York, Somerville & Easton branch.

The discovery was made on Nov. 9 but the secret was quietly kept by the postoffice authorities until yesterday, when the news crept out. It is known, so the statement is made, that $30,000, the total amount carried in two bags, was taken. This sum was missing on Nov. 9.

How long the defalcations had gone on prior to that time has not been ascertained.

A Missing Clerk.

On the day the robbery was discovered Robert E. Lang, a clerk employed on the New York, Somerville & Easton branch, disappeared, and has not since been found. In addition to Lang there were employed in the railway mail service of this road since the date mentioned, W. J. McLaren, P. S. Tooker and J. D'Arcy. The latter served as a substitute for George W. Daily, a regular clerk, who had to temporarily abandon his runs because of injuries sustained in the fall of an elevator at the general postoffice here.

The system of dispatching registered letters is simple, and except in this instance, thought to be an ample safeguard to the Government. The clerk in charge of the registered letter pouches is obliged to give a receipt for the same, and in return get a receipt when he delivers the charge to some other official. It was through these receipts that the defalcation was discovered. On the day of the discovery Lang failed to report for duty for his regular trip, and, as is customary, an investigation into his account was made. Then the Secret Service continued the investigation, and it has lasted ever since.

Money Sent by Banks.

Th New York, Somerville & Easton section of the Central road embraces calls at such ambitious cities as Newark, Elizabeth, Plainfield, Bound Brook and Annandale. The statement is made that certain bankers along that line were in the habit of sending as much as $15,000 on one trip to this city under registered covers, in order to save the extra expense of express charges. In this way comparatively big sums were frequently carried, and always with the knowledge of the railway clerks, it is said. Since Nov. 7 hundreds of complaints have reached the postoffice, making inquiries after registered letters that never reached their destination. The chief inspctor and his staff at the postoffice here have several files filled with these complaints. One of the Secret Service men says that, in his opinion, the defalcations in this particular instance will reach a total of $100,000.

Lang lives on East 137th street and is unmarried. He had been in the railway mail service for the last ten years during which time his work was almost wholly confined to the runs between this city, Somerville and Easton. He is known by sight to thousands of travelers along the line.

Major Lewis, who is one of the most successful men in the Secret Service of the Government, is in Jersey City working on the case. No charges are made against any of the men now engaged in the service on this particular section, but the money is missing, and the postoffice authorities are leaving no stone unturned to get at the bottom of the robbery.

SCHEME TO GRAB ERIE CANAL.

Railroads Seeking to Crush Out Competition on Freight Rates.

There is a big scheme on foot among the railroads connecting New York and Buffalo to grab the Erie Canal after the citizens of this State have spent $9,000,000 in deepening and widening it to suit the fancies of the magnates.

This grab is to be worked through an innocent looking amendment to the law whereby the capital stock of corporations engaging in the canal business is no longer to be limited to $50,000, as the law now provides. It is proposed that they be allowed to increase their capital to $4,000,000, which practically means indefinitely. The object of the present law is to prevent the organization of big concerns which would drive the small boatmen out of business by the power of superior capital.

With the small canal trade crushed the railroads would be able to advance grain rates between Buffalo and New York at will. The railroads alone could profit by the change. It is expected that the scheme will be brought up at the next session of the Legislature.

Naval Officer Badly Hurt.

Washington, Dec. 11.—Prof. Philip Alger, of the navy, received a severe wound in the head at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon in his office in the Navy Department. Prof. Alger is the expert on small arms attached to the Bureau of Ordnance. He was examining a new rifle, which was prematurely discharged. While working a ball cartridge in the breech he pulled the trigger. The ball struck an iron window frame three feet away, shattering it into many pieces. Several struck Prof. Alger and one of them severed the temporal artery.

SPAIN IS THREATENED

Carlists Planning Revolution to Uproot the Present Regency.

COUNTING ON GEN. WEYLER

He Is Expected to Head a Strong Faction of Robledo's Partisans. Senor Sagasta Defies Intervention of the United States.

London, Dec. 11.—From secret information furnished by a prominent supporter of the Carlist cause, it is safe to state that important developments are to be expected at any moment. The Spanish Government is believed to be too weak to make any effective reprisals, and the Carlists believe most of the Spanish politicians and public men would cheerfully throw the Regency overboard.

Calling for Weyler.

Madrid, Dec. 11.—The Robledoites announced to-day a meeting of Robledo's partisans. It will be attended by sixty or seventy Senators and Deputies, and nine hundred municipal and county councillors. The programme of this new party will be to adopt the principle of fighting war with war as the best solution of the Cuban problem; to defend the integrity of the national territory; to protect stoutly the national resources and industries. As stated, Weyler's leadership will be proclaimed if he cares to accept it.

Sagasta Defies Intervention.

Madrid, Dec. 11.—At a Cabinet council yesterday, at which the Queen Regent presided, the Premier, Senor Sagasta, outlined the opinions of the European press regarding President McKinley's message to Congress, the majority of which the Premier said were favorable to Spain. He further declared that in the vent of the United States wishing to intervene in Cuba, it would find the Government prepared to defend the rights and honor of Spain. The Premier also said he did not attach importance to "the attitude of certain American Senators."

MILLIONAIRE FLEISCHMAN DEAD.

Big Distiller, Politician and Turf Patron Passes Away.

Cincinnati, Dec. 11.—Charles Fleischmann, the millionaire distiller, politician and turf patron, died yesterday. He was stricken with paralysis Thursday evening and his condition was such that very little hope of his recovery was entertained.

Mr. Fleischmann has for many years been an important figure in Cincinnati's affairs. He was born in Hungary in 1834, and came to America in 1866. He was employed in a distillery in this city until 1869, when he went to Cincinnati. He invented an improved apparatus for distilling which was generally adopted, and laid the foundation of his fortune. Later he became a partner in the distilling firm of Gaff, Fleischmann & Co., which also engaged in the manufacture of compressed yeast.

Since 1880 Mr. Fleischmann was the sole owner of this concern and his income from it was estimated at $1,000,000 a year. He was also part owner of the Buffalo (N. Y.) Distilling Company and the Baltimore (Md.) Manufacturing Company. Since 1888 he has been president and principal owner of the Market National Bank, Cincinnati.

Gov. McKinley made him a member of his staff in 1892-93. He was a member of the Ohio Senate in 1880, and for a number of years was a fire commissioner of Cincinnati.

THE END IS NEAR.

Mother McKinley Is Expected to Die at Any Moment.

Canton, O., Dec. 11.—Mrs. McKinley is still living this morning, but is exceedingly weak. The conditions of several days past continue—a gradual sinking away. She passed a rather restless night and the family momentarily expected the end. She shows scarcely a sign of life and gives every evidence of having nearly reached the end. She is still unable to take nourishment.

Dr. Phillips stated this morning that Mrs. McKinley was likely to die at any moment. He said it was almost impossible that she could live through another day.

BODY IN A FURNACE.

Paris Collector Killed and Robbed by a Man and a Woman.

Paris, Dec. 10.—The mystery of the disappearance of a bank collector named Lamare a week ago has been explained by the arrest and confession of a couple named Carrara, who were engaged in the business of growing mushrooms.

Lamare on Nov. 30 called on the Carraras to collect some money, when Carrara hit him on the head with a piece of iron, killed him and hid his body in the evening, when it was thrown into the furnace used for preparing mushrooms.

THE MARTIN ACT.

Mayor Hoos, of Jersey City, has just sent a veto to the Council of that city on a matter that will interest Plainfield more or less. Like Plainfield, Jersey City has been taking advantage of the Martin Act for the collection of delinquent taxes, only that Jersey City is nearer the end of the matter than Plainfield. A few days ago the Council sent a resolution to the Mayor for approval, authorizing the finance committee to borrow sufficient money to pay for the "unsalable" property purchased by the city at the recent Martin Act sale. The Mayor declined to approve the resolution, stating his reasons as follows:

I cannot approve of the practice of issuing bonds for property purchased by the city at tax sales. It is so purchased because private parties are not willing to pay the liens, for which the property is sold. To make the purchase by the city a basis for increasing our bonded debt is not, in my opinion, commendable. If the law does not compel this course, and I am advised that it does not, it seems the better policy would be to let the purchase stand without further action until the time comes for absolute sale. Resolutions of this kind are but the first step toward the issue of "subsequent tax bonds."

The finance commissioners smiled at the Mayor's objections. It is said there can be no absolute sale until the city has purchased the property at the preliminary sale and acquired title to the property. The system is a simple one, a mere transfer of checks, and was introduced to get rid of property that cannot be sold because the city's liens exceed the actual value of the property. The law prohibits the sale of property for less than the amount of the city's claim at the preliminary sale. To get rid of it the collector sells it to the Mayor and Aldermen. The finance board issues temporary loans for the amount of the purchase, and borrows the money on these bonds from the sinking fund commissioners. The money is paid to the city collector and, being for past due taxes, goes back to the sinking fund, whence it came. By this system the city gets title, the same as an individual. If the owner fails to redeem it within a year then the city sells it at what is termed the absolute sale, when it goes to the highest bidder, for there is no restriction as to the lowest price.

AN OUTSIDE VIEW.

The New Brunswick Home News prints the following explanation of why the Republicans met with defeat in the city election:

The opposition to the present Republican regime is based upon the fact that many costly improvements have been begun in the past year or two. First the sewer system, then the water, then a building ordinance caused expense to householders, and finally the repairing of sidewalks and roads was added to the list, which brought the tax rate up to $2.52, an increase of 20 points in one year of hard times. This was too much, the taxpayers thought, and they elected men who will attempt to lower the rate of taxes, even if improvements have to be stopped.

Councilman Barrows called at The Press office this morning and stated that the report that he was wroth with the Central Railroad because they put Special Officer Martin in uniform, was erroneous. Mr. Barrows says that the innovation met with his approval, but he admits that he did not think that it was quite proper that Martin should be equipped with a belt and club the same as the regular police, and that he told Captain Grant to ask Martin to give up those articles.

Junior Mechanics in various parts of New Jersey are signing a petition asking Senator Sewell to use his influence to secure the appointment of Robert Carson as Collector of the Port at Perth Amboy.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manuufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. THEATRICAL.

Hoyt's new play, "A Stranger in New York," has proven an enormous success, and indications are that it will pass the wonderful popularity achieved by "A Trip to Chinatown," which, up to this time, has been the popular playwright's chef-d'euvre. In constructing "A Stranger in New York" Mr. Hoyt has picked up the outline plans of the famous "Chinatown" and built his new play accordingly. It appears in Music Hall tonight.

Edison's graphoscope caters to all of the different tastes of the theatre-going public. Father can take his wife and children, a son can take his mother, sister or best girl, and never feel that anything will be said or done that will in any way offend. The graphoscope, with all up-to-date subjects, will be seen at Music Hall Monday and Tuesday evenings.

Monday, December 20th, the Henshaw-Ten Broeck Company and John E. Henshaw then will again be candidates for popularity with theatre-goers. Mr. Henshaw needs no introduction, for he has played here often, and has become a prime favorite. Last season he was the star of the big "Passing Show" and his famous catch line, "A good thing push it along," will be remembered. It is said that "Dodge's Trip to New York" is very funny, the complications arising from the visit of a rural New Jersey bank president to the famous French ball of New York.

THE SUNDAY LESSON.

INTERNATIONAL SERIES, WITH COMMENTARY BY DR. STEARNS.

Golden Text:—I have fought a good fight I have finished my course, I have kept faith.—2 Tim. iv: 7. Dec. 12, 1897.

1. "I charge thee therefore God, and the Lord Jesus Christ, who shall judge the quick and the dead, and by His appearing and His kingdom." These are some of the last words of Paul by the Spirit to Timothy, his dearly beloved son in the faith (chapter i, 2), of whom he said that he had no man so dear unto him (Phil. ii, 20, margin). He had been urging him to be strong in the grace that is in Christ Jesus; to endure hardness as a good soldier and please Him who had chosen him; to study to show himself approved unto God.

2. "Preach the word. Be instant in season, out of season. Reprove, rebuke, exhort with all long suffering and doctrine." In chapter iii, 16, 17, he had said that all Scripture is given by inspiration of God and is profitable that the man of God may be thoroughly furnished unto all good works, and now he exhorts him to use that word faithfully, the word which he had known from childhood (iii, 15). Paul teaches to hold fast the faithful word (Titus i, 9); to hold forth the word of life (Phil. ii, 16), and to rightly divide the word of truth (II Tim. ii, 15).

3. "For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine, but after their own lusts shall they heap to themselves teachers, having itching ears." How long we have already been in those times I cannot say, but that we are in them no one can question. Lovers of self, lovers of pleasure more than lovers of God, having a form of godliness, but denying the power thereof (chapter iii, 1-4), are things too plainly seen. Some men who have the rule in church affairs do not hesitate to ask for pastors who will give them the thought of the age rather than the word of God, and there are pastors who are more ready to please the people than to preach the preaching which God bids them. False prophets as in the olden time.

4. "And they shall turn away their ears from the truth and shall be turned unto fables." Then because they receive not the love of the truth that they might be saved, God shall send them strong delusion that they should believe a lie that they all might be judged who believe not the truth, but had pleasure in unrighteousness (II Thess. ii, 10-12). It is surely a woeful sight to see large congregations gather to listen to those who discard portions of the word of God and call other portions myths.

5. "But watch thou in all things, endure afflictions, do the work of an evangelist, make full proof of thy ministry." There is no pattern for a minister or evangelist but the Lord Jesus Himself. He was filled with the Spirit, led by the Spirit, spoke the words which the Father told Him and did always those things which pleased the Father (John xii, 49; viii, 29). When He suffered, He said, "Even so, Father," and He finished the work which the Father gave Him to do (Math. xi, 26; John xvii, 4).

6. "For I am now ready to be offered and the time of my departure is at hand." Long before this he had said, "I am ready—not to be bound only, but also to die for the name of the Lord Jesus" (Acts xxi, 13). It was his constant desire that Christ should be magnified in his body whether by life or death (Phil. i, 20). He knew that to die would be gain and to be with Christ would be very far better (Phil. i, 21, 23). But now he seemed sure that he was soon going home. He speaks of it as his departure. The body would die, the tabernacle be taken down, but he, Paul, the person in the body, would depart to be with Christ, and would be absent from the body and present with the Lord.

7. "I have fought a good fight; I have finished my course; I have kept the faith." It is the fight of faith, and the life of faith, and the walk of faith (I Tim. vi, 12; Gal. ii, 20; Col. ii, 6). It is believing God all the way through and all that He has said. As Paul put it elsewhere, "Believing all things that are written in the law and in the prophets" (Acts xxiv, 14). It is not a faith that can ever be made to suit the times. As Dr. Weston says, "If Christ taught as many teach to-day, He would never have been crucified for it." We must earnestly contend for the faith that was once for all delivered to the saints, and remember that Paul said, "If any one, even an angel from heaven, preach any other gospel, let him be accursed" (Judge iii; Gal. i, 8, 9).

8. "Henceforth there is laid up for me a crown of righteousness which the Lord, the righteous judge, shall give me at that day, and not to me only, but unto all them also that love His appearing." Crowns, as I understand it, are rewards for service to be given to those who earn them, that they may have somewhat to cast at His feet in that day (Rev. iv, 10). They are not given to us when we die, but only at the appearing of our Lord at the resurrection of the just (Luke xiv, 14; I Pet. v, 4; Rev. xxii, 12). I have often referred to the other four to be given to the faithful for four distinct kinds of service, but this one is for those who in all their service carry with them a certain attitude of soul—viz, loving His appearing.

16. "At my first answer no man stood with me, but all forsook me." To stand alone for the right is intimate fellowship with our Lord, who said to the eleven, "Ye shall be scattered and shall leave me alone, and yet I am not alone, for the Father is with me" (John xvi, 32). David was awfully alone when his faithful 600 turned against him and talked of stoning him, he being at the time in like painful circumstances with themselves, but it is written that David encouraged himself in the Lord his God (I Sam. xxx, 5).

17. "Notwithstanding the Lord stood with me and strengthened me, that by me the preaching might be fully known, and that all the gentiles might hear, and I was delivered out of the mouth of the lion." He hath said I will never leave thee nor forsake thee.

NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED IN UP-TO-DATE LAUNDRY WORK.

We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.

We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.

Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered, and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.

We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for YOU, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular. We will give you just exactly what you want, if we can find out what that is. Perhaps you believe that it is impossible to have your laundry well handled without irritation and annoyance to you. We are sure that you are mistaken. May we have an opportunity of demonstrating it?

A Doctor's Discovery.

Realizing the Necessity of Iron in the Blood, He Prescribes Capsuloids in a Stubborn Case With Marked Success.

A newspaper man while talking to a local physician casually asked his opinion of Capsuloids, the new medicine, the use of which introduces an entirely new and original method of restoring natural iron or Hæmoglobin to the blood. The doctor replied: "I believe it is the true method of curing disease. Iron has ever been a strong factor in my practice. Previous to the discovery of Capsuloids the best form of iron physicians had at their command failed of its purpose because of its insoluble nature. On the other hand it discolored and ruined the teeth, rasped the stomach, and not infrequently did more harm than good. I recently had a case that illustrates this point.

"Nearly eight months ago I was called to see two girls, twins, aged fourteen, suffering with anæmia or pale blood. Their mother told me that they had been very pale for nearly two years and no medicine seemed to do any good. I tried iron medicines but all to no purpose. I read of Capsuloids and learned that they contained dissolved Hæmoglobin or natural iron extracted from the blood of healthy bullocks. This seemed to me an ideal form of iron medicine and I prescribed Capsuloids for these two girls. In one week I could see the change, in two weeks the mother was delighted, and to-day these girls are as rosy cheeked, bright-eyed and merry as any two girls in the country."

Since their discovery Capsuloids have gained world wide fame for the marvelous manner in which they have cured diseases of the most stubborn nature.

Dr. Campbell's Red Blood Forming Capsuloids are sold by all leading druggists at 50 cents per large box, or six boxes for $2.50, or sent direct at the same price from the office of The Capsuloid Company, Downing Building, 108 Fulton Street, New York City.

CIVIL SERVICE SCORED.

Brown Attacks It While Discussing the Pension Bill.

Washington, Dec. 11.—The House on the opening of the session yesterday agreed to set aside the session of Dec. 18 for the delivery of eulogies upon the late Representative E. D. Cooke, of Illinois.

It was voted, on motion of Mr. Dingley, that adjournment yesterday would be until Monday next.

The general Pension Appropriation bill was then taken up. It is usually disposed of at one session. This most unusual treatment of the subject is due, not to objection to the bill in itself, but to the criticisms concerning the abuses of the law and the flood of private pension bills which engage the attention of Congress.

The discussion was not confined to the Pension bill, but incidentally the Civil Service law was made the subject of review.

The debate was begun by Mr. Brown, of Ohio. He complained that the Commissioner of Pensions was unable to appoint an Examining Board in his county that would do justice to the veterans of the war of 1861, "because of the abomination known as the Civil Service law."

Mr. Grosvenor (Rep., O.), said if he could he would abolish the pension-examining boards and much of the expense of administration in the Pension Office and substitute a general-service pension system, carefully safeguarded.

Mr. Grosvenor reviewed the records of the two parties on the pension legislation of Congress, showing that in the aggregate 1,304 Republican votes were cast in Congress for general pension legislation and but 2 against it, while 412 Democratic votes had been in favor of such legislation and 816 votes in opposition.

Democrat and Republican Caucuses.

Washington, Dec. 11.—Both the Democrats and Republicans will hold caucusses to-night for the purpose of outlining their future policy regarding legislation. It is expected the Democratic factions in the House will make an effort to come to an amicable understanding. In the Republican caucus the policy of the party on the Civil Service question is expected to lead to an exciting time. Gen. Grosvenor is very earnest in his efforts to have the law repealed, but the Republican leaders will use their influence to prevent the caucus from taking adverse action.

HANGED FOR NINE MURDERS.

Atrocious Career of a Georgia Negro Ends on the Gallows.

Macon, Ga., Dec. 11.—Henry Nersby, the negro who has been confined in jail here under sentence of death, was hanged in the jail yard yesterday.

When Henry ascended the gallows he said: "I don't blame the white folks. They have always been my friends. But I would kill negroes as long as I lived." The execution took place without any further ceremony.

The most satisfied looking lot of negroes ever seen were those who witnessed the execution. They felt safer that he was out of the way.

Nersby in his career of crime had killed nine men and wounded and crippled as many more. All his victims were of his own race, which, he said, he abhorred. He not only admitted having killed three men, but his wife gives authenticated instances of six more. When asked for a catalogue of his victims recently, Nersby gave the names of these three, but said there might be others, which he could not remember.

He had never been touched by a bullet, but there was not an inch of whole skin on his chest, so thick were the knife wounds. He said he did not fear death, as he had faced it so often that he had become accustomed to it.

FITZ OUT OF FIGHTING.

Says He Will Not Give Corbett Another Chance.

Milwaukee, Wis., Dec. 11.—Notwithstanding an interview with a representative of an afternoon paper, in which Mrs. Fitzsimmons, wife of the champion pugilist of the world, was made to say that she would put no block in the way of another meeting between Corbett and Fitzsimmons, Mrs. Fitzsimmons, in a card, states that Fitzsimmons will never enter the ring again with her consent, and she is sure he won't without it.

Rock Island, Ill., Dec. 11.—Bob Fitzsimmons said the statement that his wife, who is now in Milwaukee, had consented to his going into the ring again, providing he would first meet Corbett, was untrue. "My wife never said any such thing," he said, "and, even though she had given her consent, I would not give Corbett another chance. As I have said many times before, I am through prize fighting."

Seventy-eight Miles an Hour.

Cheyenne, Wyo., Dec. 11.—A record-breaking fast run was made by the Union Pacific east-bound fast mail train between Cheyenne and North Platte. The train, which was run as the second section of east-bound No. 2, made the run between Tipton and Wamsutter station, on the Wyoming division, at the rate of seventy-eight miles an hour.

From Cheyenne to Sidney, a distance of 102 miles, the running time was ninety-seven minutes. From Sidney to North Platte, 114 miles, the time was 117 minutes, being the fastest run in the history of the road.

Extension of Chicago University.

Chicago, Dec. 11.—Negotiations are said to be under way looking towards the affiliation of the University of Chicago and the Rush Medical College. President Harper, of the University, has gone to New York to visit John D. Rockefeller, and it is believed the visit has an important bearing on the question.

$10,500 for a Book.

London, Dec. 11.—Mr. Pickering has paid £2,100 ($10,500) for a single book. The volume is Caxton's translation of "A Booke of the Hoole Lyf of Jason," and was produced by Caxton's press about four hundred and twenty years ago.

DUN'S WEEKLY REVIEW.

Notwithstanding the Opening of Congress Markets Are Stronger.

New York, Dec. 11.—R. G. Dun & Co.'s Weekly Review of Trade of to-day says the opening of Congress, with the annual message and reports, has not discouraged business as some predicted, but all speculative markets are stronger than a week ago. The productive industries, even in the season usually about the dullest of the year as to new orders, meet a definite improvement in demand for important products, presumably the fruit of a prevailing conviction that new business will begin to crowd the works after the new year starts. The outward movement of wheat and other products continues so heavy that foreign exchange has fallen three-quarters of a cent, and instead of exports of gold, which have marked December in recent years, imports would come if gold were wanted.

The sudden rise in December wheat at Chicago to $1.09 would do harm were it not based on avowed contracts to ship some millions of bushels to Europe. That fact, and the continued foreign demand in spite of such contracts, has helped a rise of 1½ cents here. So great is the foreign shortage that the outgo of corn last year, far greater than ever before, is again exceeded, 3,313,086 for the week against 3,055,780 a year ago, with the price nearly 1 cent higher for the week. The report that Western supplies are running low is discredited by receipts from farms. The demand for woolen goods has clearly improved, and more wool has just been purchased abroad and is being imported, the sales in domestic markets having been for the past week only 2,660,000 pounds at Boston, and in two weeks 11,050,400 pounds at the three markets. While some grades have been sold largely at prices lower than a month ago, quotations are generally maintained.

There is more demand for iron and steel products in preparation for railway work, bridges and buildings next year, and on contracts for export, including one for a Government bridge in Holland and others for bridges in Japan, with large shipments of various products to England and other countries. Foreign contracts for 40,000 tons rails are pending, 15,000 for Mexico. In and about New York bridge and building contracts call for 25,000 tons, and Chicago works are figuring on numerous contracts for 5,000 railway cars. The formation of the American Steel & Wire Company is expected to strengthen prices, and causes some buying.

The shoe manufacture surpasses all records in shipments, which have been in five weeks 25 per cent. more than last year, and 32.5 per cent. more than in 1892, and yet many of the shops have orders for some time ahead.

Bituminous coal miners, of Ohio, threaten to strike about wages payable after Jan. 1. Connelsville coke production is 151,000 tons weekly against 149,000 in November, and no advance is now expected above $1.50 for furnace coke early next year. Anthracite coal is weaker and sells here at $3.75 to $3.85 for stove.

In spite of enormous diversion of new capital for the erection of more works, the stock market is, nevertheless, rising as it used to rise when the time came for investment of annual interest and dividends. Extensive payment of debts throughout the country, including some of Northwestern elevators to New York banks, has made money abundant and brought over $2,000,000 here within the week, reducing commercial loans to a minimum. Failures in the first week of December were but $2,617,240, manufacturing $739,420, and trading $1,791,570. Failures for the week have been 312 in the United States against 380 last year, and 29 in Canada against 43 last year.

Providence, R. I., Dec. 11.—The recently reported consolidation of wire manufacturers is of local interest, as the American Electrical Works at Phillipsdale is one of the factories included. It has been learned that the following additional Eastern firms are among those to be taken into the new trust:

A. Roebling, Trenton, N. J.

Brooklyn Woman Has Quadruplets.

New York, Dec. 11.—Four children were born to Mrs. Lena Breslan, wife of Barney Breslan, of 189 York street, Brooklyn, between Tuesday and Thursday. All of the four infants are boys, but one that was born Thursday, however, was dead.

Mrs. Breslan is 23 years old and her husband is 24. They had two children before this wonderful new collection arrived. Mrs. Breslan is doing very well, the midwife says, despite the extraordinary conditions. She said that there were indications of a probable further addition to the family. The couple are Hebrews.

New Protest from Japan.

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 11.—The Tacoma brings news that another protest against the annexation of Hawaii has been forwarded by the Japanese Government. The protest is said to be quite similar to that on the subject given once before by Count Okuma. The Russian far Eastern squadron is now leaving Vladivostock for the South. The vessels will be divided up for the Winter among Chemulpo, Shanghai, Nagasaki, Kobe and Yokahama.

Protest of Native Hawaiians.

Washington, Dec. 11.—The delegation of native Hawaiians called on Secretary Sherman at the State Department yesterday and presented a memorial in behalf of 20,000 native Hawaiians, protesting against annexation of Hawaii by the United States. Secretary Sherman, without making any promises, said he would lay the petition before the Senate, which body now had the annexation treaty before it.

Cubans Accused of Atrocities.

Madrid, Dec. 11.—A storm of indignation has been provoked here by news of tortures inflicted by the Cuban rebels upon the inhabitants of Guisa, women and children being bound and burned alive. The details are given by the Imparcial, a paper by no means favorable to the present government's policy, and the news is now officially confirmed.

The Minister states that as far as is known at present, the only crime the unfortunate creatures appear to have been guilty of is that they favored the acceptance of autonomy.

STORES THROUGHOUT THE CITY BURDENED WITH HOLIDAY GIFTS.

Merchants Vie With One Another to Win the Patronage of Shoppers—The Brisk Trade Promises Busy Holiday Time

Christmas shoppers can find many points of interest in Plainfield as the holiday season draws near.

One of the big stores which is a credit to the city is the establishment of Joseph A. Gavett and Garret Q. Packer. The stock of handsome furniture which can be found there is a source of great attraction to buyers of Christmas presents. The specialties for the holiday trade are ladies' writing desks, Morris reclining chairs, ladies' sewing tables, gold reception chairs and onyx tables. The display of artistic lamps is also very complete in this store, and other articles to tempt buyers are the stock of Dorflinger's cut-glass, artistic after-dinner sets, chocolate sets, five o'clock tea sets and chafing dishes The store is beautifully decorated with a profusion of palms which lend the finishing touch to the appearance of the establishment.

The furniture store of Powlison & Jones is another of the places which is attracting buyers of holiday goods. The stock is so arranged that many things can be seen to advantage without entering the store, but those who fail to investigate the inside will gain but a faint idea of the large assortment that is now kept on the two large floors of the establishment. The stock includes special lots of book cases, reclining chairs, ladies' writing desks, couches and china cabinets, as well as a select assortment of pictures.

The druggists of the city are not behind other business men in their efforts to meet the demands of the holiday trade. At Leggett's pharmacy the windows have been trimmed in pure white, the effect being exceedingly tasteful. In them is shown a select stock of perfumes and atomizers and fine cut-glass bottles. A specialty of Huyler's candies is made at this store.

At Randolph's pharmacy the windows are also finely decorated and displayed with a fine stock of perfumes and toilet water. The celebrated Roger & Gallet toilet soaps and perfumes are kept in stock here and prove a popular line with buyers. As in former years the patrons of the popular store will find here a complete assortment of celluloid toilet articles.

A full line of Wallace's candies and Wallace's, Whitman's and Allegretti's chocolates are kept in stock at Armstrong's pharmacy. Artistic cut-glass bottles, perfumes and atomizers, and novelties suitable for the season are also being shown. Among the staple goods which are having a large sale are the palm oil soap and the white pine cough cure, manufactured by Mr. Armstrong for his own trade.

At the drug store of Frank Rowley, on Somerset street, can be found a fine holiday assortment of sachet powders, perfumes and cologne waters. A special run is also being made on fine grade writing papers, which are being closed out at remarkably low prices. Toilet articles of various sorts, appropriate for the holiday trade, are also in stock, and the store makes a specialty of its own medical preparations, which have gained a well-deserved popularity.

An assortment of Christmas goods that is attracting buyers is the collection of fine furs to be found in the establishment of H. Kohn, on West Front street. The stock includes fancy fur collars and muffs for misses and children, fur collarettes and neck scarfs, ladies' electric seal capes, and some extra fine specimens of sable and mink capes. The assortment of leopard and angora parlor mats is also very large here.

The store of A. L. and M. D. Gorsline, on West Front street, has assumed an attractive holiday appearance. The stock, which has evidently been selected with care and judgment, includes many fine specimens of art embroidery, linen handkerchiefs with embroidered initials, stamped linens and art calendars.

Cut Down in Her Youth.

Mamie Frances Hill, daughter of Alonzo and Jennie Hill, of 519 West Fourth street, died at her home Friday night. She will be greatly missed by her many friends. She was greatly beloved by her parents and all who knew her for her goodness of soul and her lovable disposition. She died trusting in the Master. During her short life she was very devoted to her studies, and would have graduated in about two years.

—Edward White will offer a great bargain in silk initial handkerchiefs for men. There are over 1,500 in the lot, all letters, and will be sold at half their real value.

"THE SALOON VICTORY."

Rev. C. E. Herring's Terse Comments on the Liquor License Question.

The following is the substantial part of Rev. C. E. Herring's remarks on "The Saloon Victory" in the First Presbyterian church yesterday morning:

"The saloon problem has been presented to the people for the expression of their desire and they have returned their answer. It appears they wish the continuance of license.

"The late election impresses the lessons of the danger of compromise. There was a time when many good men saw in high license the partial solution of the problem. High license has been weighed in the balance and found wanting,—but once in power, the public find it such a help financially that they are loath to part with it.

"The statement of the issue on the ballot was not an admirable one. It clearly favored the saloon. We never so count ayes and nays in a public meeting. We definitely call for the ayes and then for the nays. In this election every man who did not nay was counted as voting aye. It might have been different if the issue had been stated. I disapprove of the present system of license. Why not a separate ballot or such phrasing as would signify for and against.

"This is a city of churches and these churches should be centres of moral influence in our city. The 16,000 saloons in greater New York are centres of political influence and rule the city. The good people of Plainfield are somewhat paralyzed.

"I should like to see all of our churches combine with more earnestness on this question—Catholic and Protestant. We know the service of Father Matthews—and Father Zurcher says: Catholics and Protestants should forget all other differences and unite in suppressing this one great menace to our institutions."

WRENCHED HIS LEG.

Tried to Jump a Fast Moving Coal Train and was Thrown.

Robert M. Morley, a machinist, living in this city and employed in one of the Garwood factories, received an injury to the right leg while attempting to board a fast-moving coal train at the Liberty street bridge Saturday night.

Morley is a member of the night gang at Garwood, and was about to leave for his work when the accident occurred. He attempted to steal a ride upon an east bound coal train, and in boarding it slipped and was thrown heavily to the grouud, his right leg being badly wrenched by the fall. If Morley had fallen a little nearer to the cars, it is probable that his life would have been lost. He was able to summon assistance, and was taken to his home on West Fourth street, where the injury was attended to.

The Death of Mrs. S. J. Samelson.

The Fresno, (Cal.) Republican printed the following about the death of Mrs. S. J. Samelson, of which mention was made in The Press Saturday: "The many friends of Mrs. Agnes Samelson will be pained to hear of her death, which occurred at the residence of her father, James Madden, near Easton, at 5:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. The deceased was well known in Fresno and Easton, where she was loved by all who knew her for her kind, loving and pleasant disposition. She had been a patient sufferer for three years with consumption."

Favorably Impressed With Sewer Beds.

Four residents of Plainfield, two Republicans and two Democrats, paid a visit to the city sewer farm yesterday afternoon. Before they started, three of the number were prejudiced against the present system of sewage disposal. They inspected the sewer beds and the entire plant and were very favorably impressed. They visited the families living in the neighborhood and found the children as healthy as could be wished.

Received a Call.

The many friends in this city of Rev. Garrett M. Conover, of Hawthorne, will be pleased to learn that he has received a unanimous call to the large and flourishing Clarkstown Reformed church, situated at West Nyack, N. Y. It is understood that Mr. Conover will accept.

Robert Rein, of New York, will lead a temperance and good citizenship meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church, this evening. The meeting will be held in the small hall at the Y. M. C. A. building.

Trolley to Bound Brook.

The officials of the Brunswick Traction Company have announced that the line to Bound Brook from New Brunswick will be opened in about a week. The contractors still have two miles to string trolley and feed wires.

Y. M. C. A. WORKERS DINE

AND TALKED ABOUT CLEARING AWAY THE DEBT ON BUILDING.

Over a Thousand Dollars Was Raised Among Those Present, Which Did Not Represent Any of the Wealthier Class.

A pleasant event of last Saturday evening was the dinner given to the committeemen at the Y. M. C. A. building by the ladies' committee of the association. The dinner was given for the purpose of having a good social time and to hear reports of the association work, and also to consider the debt on the building and devise ways and means to liquidate the same. There were about forty-six members present, comprising the young men who are active in the association work. Stephen Cahoone, who is chairman of the finance committee, presided. He first called on President W. D. Murray, who gave a brief outline of the building project, the cost of the building and grounds. He spoke of the burden resting on the association and of the interest being paid on the debt, which adds much to the general budget.

Brief reports were then given of the religious work by A. C. LaBoyteaux; physical work, John Valiant, and Prof. Maxson reported for the entertainment committee. The chairman of the meeting gave a report on the educational work, and Nelson Runyon submitted a report for the committee on rooms. The latter report showed that the building is largely used by religious and philanthropic societies, and that in this way the building is used nearly every day in the year.

Chairman Cahoone, in his report for the financial committee, stated that the total indebtedness to January 1st, 1898, would be $8,735, towards which $3,450 has been raised. An opportunity was then given those present to make their subscriptions towards extinguishing the debt, and in a very short time $1,005 was subscribed, leaving $4,285 yet to be raised by January 1st, which the officers hope can be accomplished. An interesting fact concerning the amount of money subscribed Saturday night is that most all of those contributing are young men, who are clerks and working for moderate salaries. The $1,005 raised does not represent the wealthier class of men in the association. Another fact is that those who contributed Saturday night have given before quite largely of their means, and this is very encouraging to the officers and members of the association. It means much as anyone can see. The officers are very anxious to raise the balance of the debt by January 1st, and they would appreciate speedy assistance on the part of the friends of the association.

The dinner was a very enjoyable feature of the affair and it was served by Mrs. J. W. Gavett, Mrs. L. M. French, Mrs. Roger F. Murray, Mrs. S. R. Struthers, Mrs. J. H. Manning, Miss Carrie Dewey, Miss Adelle Kirby, Mrs. J. O. McKelvey and Miss Mabel Bonnell. Much praise is due the women for the great part they assumed in the affair.

The dinner was given in the small hall and the decorations were very unique. There was displayed a large American flag, while through the use of flowers and several banquet lamps, the room was made to present a charming appearance.

EMBRYO MECHANICAL ENGINEERS.

Stevens Institute Students Will Conduct a Test at the Pumping Station.

Walter B. Rittenhouse, of East Sixth street, and his classmate at Stevens Institute, M. P. Walker, are preparing to make a test this week of one of the Worthington high-duty compound duplex pumping engines at the pumping station of the Plainfield Water Supply Company at Netherwood. The engine is the larger of the two at the station. They will also make a test of the battery of three return tubular boilers. The young men are now seniors at Stevens Institute and will make the test the subject of their graduating thesis. They will be assisted by eight of their classmates.

Firemen to Celebrate.

Next Wednesday evening the members of the Exempt Firemen's Association will go to Bayonne to help the association at that place celebrate the initiating of the two hundredth member. Some time ago the Bayonne firemen were guests of the Plainfield association, and they are now going to return the compliment.

A Big Blacksnake.

Wm. H. VanWinkle, the Somerset street grocer, called at The Press office Saturday evening and exhibited a blacksnake five feet four inches in length. Mr. Van Winkle shot the snake near Mt. Bethel last Friday. The snake will be relieved of his skin and the owner will make a walking stick of it.

AFTERMATH OF ELECTION

A REVIEW OF THE CAUSES OF DEFEAT FOR THE REPUBLICANS.

It Was Not the Personal Unpopularity of the G. O. P. Candidates, But Their Identification With Present Law-Makers.

The excitement attendant on the municipal election of last Tuesday has gradually disappeared, and now people are wondering what the new Council will do and what will be the result of the election of five of the Citizens' candidates. The great surprise over the landslide to the Citizens' movement is still a topic of conversation for many.

It has been generally conceded that it was the acts of the last Common Council combined with the enforcement of the Martin Act that so swayed popular opinion against the Republican party and its candidates. Early in the season, some of the wise ones high in power in the G. O. P. declared that the machine must turn down the Council of 1897 that it elected or else meet with defeat. The other leaders were confident in their ability to win out in the fight and five of the Councilmen were nominated to run again. Against four of the five, the Citizens' named candidates, Barrows being the only one to run without opposition. It was not that he was popular with the leaders of the Citizens' movement, far from it, but in the short interval from the inauguration of the movement, it was impossible to find the right man for the place.

All of the leaders of the machine admit that the result of the election was a great surprise to them. They expected a fight but not a rout. G. O. P. politicians not in the Fourth ward conceded that the Citizens' might elect one man there. The Second ward was also pointed out as the battle ground for a close conflict. Until the day of election, however, there were very little thought that the Citizens' had much strength in the First ward. Republicans pooh-poohed the idea of Tolles being defeated and declared that he would poll two to three times the number of ballots that Hetfield would. Even at the headquarters of the Citizens' movement, it was admitted that Hetfield was almost certain of defeat. A wonderfully quiet movement, but one of great strength, made its appearance on election day and literally swamped the Republican candidate.

Councilman Frost felt the defeat keenly as he thought that his acts in the Council had been to the best interests of his ward. He says that he is satisfied, however, that he did right and would not change had he the chance. His supporters in the ward were so absolutely sure of re-electing him that the defeat stunned them. There was general rejoicing in Dunellen, Wednesday morning, when the election extra of The Daily Press informed the people there of the defeat of Councilman Frost. Mr. Frost has been particularly unpopular there for reason of his connection with the location of the sewer beds in that vicinity.

There is no doubt but that the Third ward was the important factor in the election. The large majority that it gave to the regular Republican ticket undoubtedly saved the city ticket from defeat. The leaders in the Citizens' movement are now mourning that they did not know in time that John B. Brown would have stood for Councilman against Councilman Barrows. There was considerable opposition to Barrows and they believe that he could have been defeated. As it was, some voters cast Republican ballots with Barrows' name scratched. Had there been a contest for the ward Councilman in that ward, it would have undoubtedly strengthened the rest of the Citizens' ticket and, perhaps, elected it. It was the Third ward, by using J. P. Homan pasters over Councilman Leviers' name on the Republican ticket, that gave Homan the election as Councilman-at-large and defeated Leviers. Had the Citizens' organization made a strong fight, the majority of 150 that the G. O. P. secured, would have been greatly reduced and the general result affected.

Both of the Republican candidates in the Fourth ward were popular men but, as in the First, the people wanted a change and cast their ballots so as to secure one. Councilman Westphal felt his defeat. He had been praised for his actions in the Council and supposed that his party was firm in his support. When he found that the tide had turned against him, he was greatly surprised and hurt. He felt that he had been betrayed.

There was one noticeable feature of the campaign. The machine had plenty of money and the independent party had very little, only that contributed by the candidates themselves.

HELPING THE CHURCH.

Trinity Reformed Little Folks Raised a Sum for a Good Purpose.

The little folks as well as the older members of the Trinity Reformed church Sunday school are to be commended for their efforts in assisting to raise funds wherewith to furnish the Sunday-school room of the church. Last Saturday night, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Holder, 207 West Fifth street, some of the younger folks in the Sunday-school gave a most creditable entertainment under the direction of Bessie Randall, Anna Randall, Anna Holder and Perry Holder. As a result $2.50 was received for the above-mentioned object. The house was well filled with people who were delighted with the entertainment. The programme was as follows:

Song, "Red, White and Blue;" recitation, "The Crow's Children," Miss Anna Holder; recitation, "How to Make a Shoe," Master Percy Holder; tableau, "Waiting for Mamma;" recitation, "Ready Sympathy," Miss Anna Holder; song, "A Passing Policeman," Anna and Bessie Randall; recitation, "Politeness," Master Percy Holder; tableau, "The Frost Wagon;" recitation, "Orphan Annie," Bessie Randall; reading, "The Decorating Mania," Anna Randall; violin solo, A. Matsurger; recitation, "Advice," Master Percy Holder; tableau, "Secrets;" recitation, "Miss Caterpillar," Bessie Randall; song, "Farewell."

FOR AGED ENGINEERS.

Central Railroad to Find Easy Berths for Several of Them.

The story that has been going the rounds of the State newspapers during the past week to the effect that on and after January 1st next the Central Railroad of New Jersey will retire all engineers in their employ of the age of fifty-years and over has been declared untrue says the New York Journal. The only ground for the story lies in the fact that a few very old engineers will be affected by an order of the company having for its object the greater efficiency of the service.

About a half-dozen very old engineers, who have performed long and faithful service, will be placed in minor positions where the work will not be so laborious or the hours and duties so exacting. One of these, Steve Winner, the patriarch of the road, is eighty years old. He will be given an easy birth on a shifting engine at the West Fifteenth street, New York, freight transfer station. Engineers "Joe" Case, "Pony" McLaren, John McCall and "Jerry" Goodwin, all of whom are over seventy years of age and have been steadily running passenger locomotives for over a quarter of a century, will be given "bobtails," drilling around the main yard at Jersey City.

CHANGE IN OLD FIRM.

A. A. Marsh Retires From Paint and Wall Paper Business.

A. A. Marsh, one of the members of the well-known firm of Marsh, Ayers & Co., will sever his connection with that firm today and start in a new line. His change of business is made necessary by ill-health. The firm of Marsh & Ayres started on Park avenue in 1887 and continued to 1891, when W. F. Adams was bought out and the firm of Marsh, Ayres & Company formed. They were first established on East Front street but recently moved to there present headquarters at the corner of Park avenue and East Second street. After the departure of Mr. Marsh, the firm will still retain its old name and will continue the business without change.

RANSACKED TWO RESIDENCES.

Burglars Operated in the West End But Took No Booty.

Two more burglaries are reported to have occurred at Evona, last Thursday night, at which time an attempt was made to enter the Price residence on Sherman avenue. The house of Daniel Manning, at Evona, was entered by the burglars, who ransacked all the rooms on the lower floor, but departed without having discovered anything which they cared to take away. The house of Mr. Baisen, next door, was also entered and ransacked in a similar manner, but nothing of value was taken. In neither case was the act of the burglars discovered until the next morning, when the families arose for the day. When they departed the invaders left both doors and windows open.

A Little Tot's Birthday.

Charlotte Martin, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Martin, of the West End, celebrated the anniversary of her sixth birthday last Saturday. In honor of the event a number of her young friends assembled at the house and spent the afternoon in a jolly manner. The young hostess received a number of useful presents as reminders of the happy event.

WHAT WILL SOLONS DO?

THE PRESIDENCY OF COMMON COUNCIL NOW FOOD FOR GOSSIP.

Councilmen Barrows and Runyon Are Mentioned for the Honor—Citizens Are Hopeful of Support From One Republican

There is much conjecture at present on the part of the politicians as to how the new Council will organize. E. T. Barrows and W. N. Runyon are prominently mentioned for the presidency and it is safe to predict that either one of the two will occupy the chair. It all depends as to how the organization is effected, as regards the work to be done during the coming year. It has been intimated that the Citizens' are now counting on the support of a Republican member and that they hope to accomplish much in this way. There has been much talk as to changes, but as yet nothing of a definite character has been given out.

The police department comes in for a share of comment, and it would not be surprising if some radical changes are made. It is certain that all of the members are not satisfied with the department and its management. There has been some talk of cutting expenses, but it is believed that there are good reasons why some things outside of salaries should be cut. One city official wanted to wager that the tax rate next year will be much lower than it is this year. At all events there is good reason to expect that the various departments will be fully organized and up-to-date. In the meantime many are kept on the anxious seat awaiting results. The official that says very little and does his duty is possibly the one who will be thought of most by the next Council.

STRUCK WITH A BRICK

Henry Nolan Got Too Critical to Suit the Man He was With.

One of the most disgraceful fights on record in the borough occurred yesterday afternoon on Greenbrook road about 3 o'clock. The principals were Henry Nolan and "ex-Mayor" Ned Kennedy, of Bull Frog City. For some time past the two men have been working at Reed's brick yards, at Netherwood, and have managed to get along fairly well. Yesterday afternoon the two men came down from Netherwood, and while here Nolan commented on some of Kennedy's acts. A lively fight followed, in which Nolan got the worst of it. His head received a cut about two inches long as the result of a brick being thrown at it. Chief Marshal Wilson heard of the disturbance and hastened to the scene of the trouble. When he arrived he found Nolan in the road looking for his adversary. The officer promptly took charge of the offender of the law and locked him up. Later, Dr. Carman was called and he took several stitches in the cut on Nolan's head. This morning Nolan appeared before Recorder Thomas, and he was given his choice between $10 or thirty days. As yet Nolan has not made up his mind what to do. Kennedy made his escape from the law's hands.

GERMANS HAD A GOOD TIME.

Families and Sweethearts Gathered to Hear an Entertaining Programme.

There was a sort of a family reunion at Saengerbund Hall last evening when the members, their wives and sweethearts, gathered to enjoy the second of a series of Sunday evening entertainments. A very interesting programme, consisting of dialogues, singing, recitations and instrumental music, was rendered. Messrs. Postler, Myer, Dresselt, Keller, Steuerwald and Henry Haurand took the various parts in the dialogues and received hearty commendation. There was vocal music by the singing section under the direction of Prof. Eichhorn. The above programme was interspersed with general sociability and refreshments, and when the happy crowd departed for their homes they all carried with them pleasant remembrances of the occasion.

A Temperance Sermon.

Last evening at the First Church of Christ, the pastor, Rev. Mr. McKane, delivered an appropriate sermon before the members of Howell Division, Sons of Temperance. The discourse was an especially strong one, and the speaker urged all to vote for temperance as well as to talk about it.

Case Was Dismissed.

The case of Mifford against Welch, on contract, which was set for trial in Justice Mosher's court today, was dismissed before coming to trial.

John Wilson and Charles Wilson, of Summit, rode their wheels to Plainfield yesterday and spent the day with their cousin, Chief Marshal Wilson, of the borough.

MRS. M'KINLEY DEAD

Sleeping Peacefully When Death's Messenger Came.

PRESIDENT'S VIGIL ENDS

Funeral Takes Place To-Morrow at 2 P. M.—Canton in Deep Mourning—Cabinet Officers and Others Will Attend the Services—Sympathy for the President.

Canton, Dec. 13.—Mrs. Nancy Allison McKinley, mother of President McKinley, died at 2.30 o'clock yesterday morning. Her end was beautiful in its peacefulness. Mrs. McKinley seemed to sleep so soundly that it was difficult to tell whether she had yet breathed her last. This condition continued for half an hour. There was no struggle. She seemed to sleep her life away. The President and all of her family were at the bedside. There were no recognitions, however.

Funeral services for Mrs. McKinley will be held in the First Methodist Episcopal Church of this city at 1 o'clock to-morrow afternoon. Interment will follow in West Lawn Cemetery, just west of the city, and on Tuesday evening President McKinley and his wife and officials from Washington who attend the funeral will leave here for the capital, reaching there about noon Wednesday.

Mrs. Nancy Allison McKinley was born at New Lisbon, Columbiana County, Ohio, in 1809. Her father was a German by birth and her mother was of Scotch descent. She became the wife of William McKinley, Sr., in 1827.

When, on Jan. 29, 1843, the present President of the United States was born, the McKinleys were living at Niles, Trumbull County, Ohio. The father at that time was one of the pioneer iron manufacturers of the Buckeye State.

"MOTHER" M'KINLEY.

Of their children William, Jr., was the third. The eldest was David, while the second son, James, died, and the others were Anna, Mary, Helen and Sarah.

When William was 5 years old the McKinleys moved to Poland, Ohio, where the educational facilities were much better. From the academy there young William McKinley was sent to Alleghany College. He returned to Poland after the close of the war and entered the bar there.

It was in 1868 that the final move of the family was made, this time to Canton, where Mother McKinley has since had her home. It was here that her distinguished son's political career was begun and here she has lived happy in her family ties and beloved by all her neighbors.

Sympathy for the President.

Washington, Dec. 13.—Although the death of Mrs. McKinley has been anticipated for more than a week, the news of the final scene has produced a feeling of sadness in Washington, and the President has the sympathy of the community in his affliction. Nothing is known here as yet of the preparations for the President's return to Washington beyond the fact that he will leave Canton immediately after the interment of the remains at Canton. It is probable that the President will start for Washington about Tuesday or Wednesday.

Of course, the death of the President's mother will necessitate the abandonment of the receptions which had been planned for the coming Winter at the White House, and it is likely that the Cabinet circle will follow the same example. The annual New Year's reception will probably be held, as this reception is more in the nature of an official ceremony than of a social gathering.

TO ATTEND THE FUNERAL.

Many Cabinet Members and Others Start for Canton.

Washington, Dec. 13.—All the members of the Cabinet whose official duties will permit their leaving Washington at this time will start for Canton this evening to attend the funeral of Mrs. McKinley. The party will include Secretaries Alger, Bliss, Wilson and Gary, Attorney-General McKenna and Secretary Sherman, if he is feeling well enough to make the trip. Secretaries Long and Gage are detained in Washington by pressing departmental duties. Vice-President Hobart will also remain here, his presence being necessary as the presiding officer of the Senate.

The ladies of the party will be Mrs. McKenna. Mrs. Gary, Mrs. Alger and Mrs. Porter. The arrangements for the journey are being made here by Mr. Porter, secretary to the President.

Barry's Lucky Escape.

London, Dec. 13.—The Coroner's jury has returned a verdict of accidental death in the case of Walter Croot, the English bantam-weight who died on Tuesday morning last from injuries received during the contest for the bantam-weight championship with Jimmy Barry, of Chicago, at the National Sporting Club on the previous night.

According to the medical testimony Croot's skull was fractured at the base, due to a fall after a blow in the twentieth round.

Will Buy Breweries.

Toledo, Ohio, Dec. 13.—A syndicate of New York men is negotiating for the purchase of Toledo breweries for $4,000,000. Ex-Gov. James E. Campbell represents the syndicate in the deal.

EMBEZZLER ARRESTED.

Left Shortage of Nearly $30,000 While Treasurer in Nebraska.

New York, Dec. 13.—Eugene F. Cashman, a foreman in the Street-Cleaning Department, has been arrested on requisition papers issued by Gov. Silas A. Holcomb, of Nebraska, and honored by Gov. Black. Cashman was treasurer of Greeley County, Nebraska, until about three years ago, when, it is said, a shortage of more than twenty-five thousand dollars was discovered in his accounts, and he disappeared.

Cashman is accused of misappropriating county funds, which he used, it is said, to make loans to farmers to tide them over financial difficulties. Then the crops failed, and the farmers were unable to meet their obligations to Cashman. Under the circumstances an exposure of his alleged methods was inevitable and he fled. An investigation followed, and it is said that discrepancies were discovered in his accounts aggregating between $25,000 and $30,000.

The affair created great excitement in the county, but the treasurer's bondsmen, it is asserted, made good the alleged shortage. They are the plaintiffs against Cashman now. He will be taken back to Nebraska to-day.

THE BIG WIRE TRUST.

Appraisers Appointed to Fix the Selling Prices.

Cleveland, Dec. 13.—The announcement of the names of the three appraisers who are to fix the selling price of the properties of the constituent companies of the great wire combination has revived gossip concerning the formation of the company.

S. T. Wellman is one of the most famous rolling-mill engineers in the country. Julian Kennedy is a blast-furnace expert of Pittsburg, and Robert Forsythe was vice-president of the Illinois Steel Company and superintendent of the erection of several of its plants.

It is proposed to divide the country into districts, to each of which one of the appraisers will be assigned. They are expected to complete their work as quickly as possible, for the reason that the options taken upon various properties will expire March 1.

The American Steel and Wire Company is to be the name of the new corporation, which will be incorporated under the laws of New Jersey, and it will have a capital, it is now said, of $70,000,000. It is believed to be certain that Harry W. Oliver, of Pittsburg, will be president of the company.

WOULD KILL ALL THE SEALS

A Representative Has a Sure Way of Settling All Future Disputes.

Washington, Dec. 13.—Representative Johnson, of North Dakota, is preparing a bill providing for the complete extermination of the seal herd of Behring Sea. It is on the lines of the bill proposed last year by Representative Dingley, but is much more brief and makes the extermination as an alternative if pelagic sealing was not stopped.

Mr. Johnson says the recent Behring Sea negotiations demonstrated the impossibility of stopping seal poaching. The seals are yielding the Government nothing, he says, as the exclusive privilege of taking seals granted by the Government has yielded only a few thousand dollars since 1890.

In the meantime, Mr. Johnson points out, the Government has spent hundreds of thousands of dollars in commissions and in maintaining a patrol of ships in Behring Sea. He says it has been amply demonstrated that the seals are a worthless asset, and that their extermination will be in the interest of peace among nations and of economy for the United States.

JUSTICE CAME QUICK.

Negro Killed by Relative of Woman He Assaulted.

HANNIBAL, Mo., Dec. 13.—Bill Underwood, a negro recently released from the penitentiary, on Friday night called at the home of Christian Pabst, a farmer, living four miles southwest of here, and demanded money. Pabst refused to give him any, and Underwood drew a revolver and made him lie down on the floor.

He then pressed the revolved against Mrs. Pabst's temple and compelled her to bind her husband's arms and feet with twine. The man then assaulted her. Yesterday morning she managed to elude him and ran to the house of her brother-in-law, Louis Pabst, a mile distant.

Louis returned with a shotgun and killed the negro.

Klondike Ship Lost.

Seattle, Wash., Dec. 13.—The greatest anxiety is felt here for the Cleveland, formerly one of the North American Transportation and Trading Company's Klondike treasure ships, which sailed from San Francisco for Seattle one week ago.

The Pacific Coast Steamship Company's Umatilla, which left San Francisco Tuesday, has arrived here, but she saw nothing of the Cleveland. It is believed here that the Cleveland encountered the storm which raged Monday night with such violence off Cape Flattery, and was driven on the coast of Vancouver Island and either sunk or disabled.

Germany's State Lotteries.

Berlin, Dec. 13.—The magnitude of the profits of Germany's five State lotteries makes the anti-gamblers despair of success in their demands for their suppression. The tax on each ticket sold will in 1897 bring more than 16,250,000 marks. The private lotteries add several millions. Prussia makes 10,000,000 marks annually out of the lotteries.

Miss Gertrude Snodgrass, of Central avenue, returns from the Women's College at Baltimore, this week to spend her Christmas vacation at home.

Don't be persuaded into buying liniments without reputation or merit—Chamberlain's Pain Balm costs no no more, and its merits have been proven by a test of many years. Such letters as the following, from L. G. Bagley, Hueneme, Cal., are constantly being received: "The best remedy for pain I have ever used is Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and I say so after having used it in my family for several years." It cures rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.

At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olagah, Ind. Ter. Chief. This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and la grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

The Discovery of the Day.

Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discoverey is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits." Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and today stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

—The boys' branch of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew will hold a meeting this evening at Grace P. E. church.

Robbed the Grave.

A startling incident of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken, tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicans had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

MILLER RODE 2,093 MILES.

Conclusion of the Great Six-Day Bicycle Race.

New York, Dec. 13.—Charles W. Miller, of Chicago, is the new hero of the bicycle track—the world's champion six-day racer! So he was acclaimed Saturday night when he finished the great race many miles ahead of the world's record made by Teddy Hale, of Ireland, in the last great race. The following was the score at the end of the race:

	Miles.	Laps.
Miller	2,093	4
Rice	2,026	5
Schinneer	2,000	7
Hale	1,929	2
Waller	1,883	1
Pierce	1,828	0
Golden	1,778	0
Gannon	1,760	6
Enterman	1,753	7
Rivierre (out)	1,746	7
Elkes	1,660	7
Kinz	1,616	8
Julius	1,503	5
Moore	1,495	4
Beacom	1,350	8
Johnson	1,278	4
Gray	1,229	0

Miller in the 142 hours rode 183 miles more than Hale's championship record of last year, which was 1,910 miles. But if the track is short, as has been stated, his record will be at least a hundred miles less than the official figures.

From start to finish the race was the most entrancingly interesting one witnessed by mortal man, and it is doubtful if ever again so much interest will follow an endurance contest. Truly, it was a great affair, and stands unprecedented in athletic history in all details. It has been an absorbing topic for the public of the entire country, and one of the greatest crowds that ever filled Madison Square Garden witnessed the closing scenes Saturday night.

Thousands upon thousands poured into the place day after day and night after night, until it is safe to say that close on to 10,000 people have seen the remarkable race. The gate receipts will reach $60,000, leaving the management a good profit.

With the exception of Rice, Enterman, Miller and Schinneer, none of the men seemed to have suffered any mental effects from their long ride. All of the men named had to be given narcotics to quiet them. Physically all of the riders were in as good condition as could be expected.

Miller, in winning the six-day race, has earned, after deducting his expenses, a little more than a dollar for each mile he traveled, not taking into account the arrangement made last night with the managers for a share of the gate money. He will receive:

First prize	$1,200
Prize for breaking record	200
Bonus from manufacturer of tires	500
Bonus for wheel	250
Bonus for saddle	200
Bonus for handle bars	100
Engagement at Proctor's	1,000
Total	$3,550

As against this, Miller's training expenses and race expenses are roughly estimated at $800.

Joe Rice's share of the purse will be $800, while Schinneer will get $500. Teddy Hale will receive $350 and "Dutch" Waller $50 less.

Pierce gets $200, Golden $150, Gannon $125, Enterman and Rivierre $100 each, and Elkes $75.

All the riders who covered 1,350 miles will receive a prize, probably $50 apiece.

HIBERNIANS REUNITED.

Factions Accept the Decision of Bishop McFaul, the Arbitrator.

Trenton, N. J., Dec. 13.—At last there has been a settlement of the differences between the Ancient Order of Hibernians of America and the Ancient Order of Hibernians of the United States of America, in affiliation with the international association of the Board of Erin. This understanding was brought about through a decision rendered Saturday by the Right Rev. James A. McFaul, Bishop of Trenton.

The split among the Hibernians came about in 1884. One of the principal questions to arise at the time of the misunderstanding was the question of descent. The Hibernians thought that one Irish parent was sufficient to entitle a person to membership in their ranks, but the Board of Erin stuck to the rigid rule of admitting only those applicants who were of direct Irish descent.

A committee representing the A. O. H. of the United States of America, in affiliation with the Board of Erin, was in session with Bishop McFaul all Saturday afternoon and ratified the findings of the Bishop.

According to the decision all divisions, either of the Board of Erin and others, shall remain undisturbed and organized units of the consolidated Hibernians. Each organization shall be superseded by a single board, composed of an equal number of representatives from both organizations. The next convention will probably be held in Trenton, and will be subject to the call of Bishop McFaul.

ALIVE IN HER COFFIN.

Woman Came to Life After Preparations for Her Funeral.

Rochester, N. Y., Dec. 13.—A case which is attracting considerable interest in Western New York is that of Mrs. Robert Drew. Mrs. Drew was taken ill at her home in Middleport about two weeks ago. She sank rapidly, and last Sunday apparently died. Preparations were made for her burial, which was to have taken place Wednesday.

As her friends were near her Tuesday night they were startled by hearing a groan from the coffin. Doctors were hastily summoned, and she revived enough to partake of a little stimulant. She sank rapidly, however, during Wednesday, and was pronounced dead that night. Since then she has apparently died and returned to life several times. Physicians have been brought to her bedside from Buffalo and Rochester.

They are still at a loss to know whether she is dead or alive. She will be kept for some days. Mrs. Drew was, or is, the richest woman in Niagara County.

Shot a Peddler for a Bear.

Buffalo, N. Y., Dec. 13.—A special to a newspaper here from Halifax says: Lyman Dartt, the 17-year-old boy who at Truro was sentenced to death for the murder of Asard Deuer, an Armenian peddler, has confessed to killing the man, but claims it was not intentional. The details of the confession have not been made public. One story is to the effect that the gun carried by Dartt, who was hunting, was discharged accidentally by the boy falling over a log. Another story is that he mistook the peddler for a bear.

SPEAKER REED'S PLANS

He Hopes to Make the Present Session Brief.

MAY GET THROUGH APRIL 1

Appropriation Bills Ordered to Be Hurried In—Cuba's Friends May Block the Speaker's Schemes—The Civil-Service Fight.

Washington, Dec. 13.—It is given out upon the authority of members very close to Speaker Reed that all the appropriation bills, save two—the Sundry Civil and Deficiency bills—will be put through the House before the 15th and possibly before the 1st of April. The chairmen of the several committees having charge of the annual appropriation bills besides the Committee on Appriations have been notified by Speaker Reed to prepare and report their bills not later than Feb. 1. The Speaker is determined to beat the record of short sessions if possible, and as the House rules effectually choke off filibustering there is the best of reasons to believe that he will succeed in carrying out his policy so far as the House is concerned.

There will, of course, be a sharp contest over the River and Harbor bill, and in spite of the Speaker's efforts the bill reported from the committee, of which Mr. Hooker, of New York, is chairman, will be loaded down in the Committee of the Whole and further increased in the Senate. The terms of several Senators expire with this Congress, and they will, it is believed, "pool their issues," and as usual secure large increases for rivers and harbors in their respective States, most of which will disappear in conference, for the bill, as it reaches the Senate, will greatly exceed a prudent and proper limit.

The extra session called by President Cleveland Aug. 7, 1893, did not adjourn until Nov. 3, while the second, or what is known as the regular or "long" session, which commenced on Dec. 4, did not terminate until Aug. 28, 1894. Several of the leading Senators have expressed the opinion that Congress will certainly remain in session a part of the Summer and that there is little likelihood of an adjournment before Aug. 1. The Senate, however, will determine the time of adjournment, as it has nearly always done.

If the opposition, which includes the Democrats, Populists and Silver Republicans, shall decide to push the currency question forward and also to hold up two or three of the more important appropriation bills until a vote has been reached in the House on the Cuban question, then it is certain that Speaker Reed's policy of an early adjournment will come to grief. The Speaker is said to urge very earnestly the argument that an early adjournment means less appropriations as well as less trouble for the Administration, though it is given out that the Speaker will antagonize the President on the question of the annexation of Hawaii.

ANNEXATION IN THE SENATE.

Supporters of the Bill Will Consider It in Executive Session.

Washington, Dec. 13.—The supporters of Hawaiian annexation have definitely decided to consider the question in executive session of the Senate. In order to do this it will be necessary for them to take up the annexation treaty rather than a joint resolution providing for annexation. Some few of those who support Hawaii in this matter were at first inclined to believe that unless it became evident that the two-thirds vote necessary to secure the ratification of the treaty was assured from the beginning it would be a waste of time to take the matter up at all upon the basis of the treaty, but they appear to have changed their minds, and to be at least disposed to defer to the opinions of the majority, who oppose this course. It is now stated on behalf of the pro-annexationists that to abandon the treaty at the present time would create the impression that they had surrendered the fight entirely.

The stanchest friends of annexation admit that it will be well nigh impossible to secure the two-thirds vote necessary to ratify the treaty, but they contend that they will come very near reaching the necessary number.

The House bill to prevent the free use of timber on the public lands for commercial purposes is being considered by the House Committee on Public Lands. The bill was passed by the House heretofore, but killed in the Senate. Mr. McRae, of Arkansas, the author of the bill, is confident of its passage in the House, and believes that the recent aggressions on the Government's timber in the Western States will tend to secure favorable action in the Senate.

ATTACK CIVIL SERVICE.

Republican Congressmen Devising Means to Alter the Present Law.

Washington, Dec. 13.—A meeting of Republican Representatives in Congress was held Saturday night at the River and Harbor Committee rooms to devise means for securing a change in the present civil-service law. About sixty members were present, representing most of the States having Republican delegations in Congress. It was noticeable, however, that Speaker Reed, Mr. Dingley and other leaders of the House did not attend. Representative Hepburn acted as chairman. The discussion took a wide range. The main speakers were Grosvenor, Connolly, Evans, Faris, Mahaney and Darr.

It was determined to name a committee to "examine the bills pending before the Committee on Reform of the Civil Service and report to a subsequent meeting of this conference by bill or otherwise."

Mr. Grosvenor is chairman of the committee. The advisability of attacking the civil-service items in the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill, which will come before the House this week, was discussed, but opinion was against that course.

Representative Brosius, who is chairman of the Committee on Reform of the Civil Service, said yesterday morning that the law would not be modified to any appreciable extent, and he doubted if any legislation would be enacted on the subject of civil service at this session. Other leaders, including Dingley, of Maine; Cannon, of Illinois, and Johnston, of Indiana, expressed the same opinion.

PUBLISHING THE LAWS.

The issue of printing the laws in the State newspapers is coming up again. There is no more reason for abolishing the publication of the public laws in the people's newspapers than there would be in abolishing the publication of Sheriff's sales, Surrogate's notices, etc. This does not assume that all the laws, with all their verbiage, should be printed in all papers and all be paid alike; but that an intelligible, official summary of each law enacted should be published wherever such law is operative there can be no reasonable doubt. The facts are, however, that the newspapers are themselves largely to blame for the ridiculous and unjust system that obtained until grounds were created for abolishing the whole system. All official public doings, of what Legislature or executive body soever, should be made public officially, and not by the grace of newspaper enterprise. The public have never yet grumbled over any reasonable expense whereby they were made acquainted with the acts of their official servants, but the servants themselves—and notably the Republicans—have conspired to deprive the people of this information, ostensibly in the interests of economy. Following the State's example, there are numerous other inferior bodies that now refuse to publish in the newspapers full reports or even condensed reports of what they do. This is not only unjust, it is unsafe. The State, and every official body in the State, should get back to a reasonable system of publishing its acts in the newspapers.—The Elizabeth Journal.

"If advertising does not pay why is it that the Youth's Companion gets over $800 a year for one inch space in each issue? How is it that the Ladies' Home Journal gets $4,000 for a page 'ad?' Why do four advertisers pay $6,000 each for a quarter-page 'ad' on the back cover of Munsey's Magazine? Are the advertisers throwing away money like this, or does it really pay them?"—Advertising Sense.

A woman has applied for a position as motorman on the Port Jervis street railway. But we do not see how any woman could properly attend to the duties of such an exacting job and keep her hat on straight at the same time, remarks an exchange.

On a question of license or no license the voters of Plainfield voted two to one in favor of license. If a vote were taken in New Brunswick the vote would probably be even greater for license.—Home News.

PASSING COMMENT.

Some of the prominent society women who compose the City Improvement Society of New Brunswick, are seriously contemplating the emulation of their sisters in Rahway by making an attempt to provide a theatre building for New Brunswick. A year ago the opera house was destroyed, and although several projects of forming a stock company to rebuild the theatre have been talked of, nothing has resulted.

* * * *

The unusually fine display which the merchants of Plainfield are making in holiday goods this year should make it unnecessary for the people of this city to endure the loss of time and temper which is involved in a shopping trip to New York. A fallacy has long existed that the finest goods and the best bargains must needs be shopped for in the metropolis, and this was perhaps true once upon a time. In the present year of grace, however, it is a real fallacy, thanks to the intelligence and enterprise of Plainfield merchants.

NO MONEY FOR BURIALS.

Red Men's Funeral Benefit Association Winds Up Its Business.

The Funeral Benefit Association connected with the Improved Order of Red Men in New Jersey has collapsed. The association fund has been declared insolvent, and the liabilities for unpaid death claims amount to $3,000. The claims will be presented for the consideration of the Great Council of the State in February. General interest has been awakened in the order and among fraternal insurance orders conducted on the same plan.

The fund flourished for several months. Then the death rate took a jump and the trouble began. Triple assessments were made and desertions became general. There were no restrictions or penalty for withdrawal. The final blow came when the Camden members withdrew, and President Douglass convened the board and issued an insolvency notice.

The Great Council has approved of a bond issue to pay obligations, but a number of the tribes who held aloof from the fund decline to be bound by the council's decree, as part of the obligation to pay off the bonds would fall upon them.

They talk of appealing to the Great Incohoner, the supreme representative in the United States.

The claims will be held in abeyance pending a decision.

—The members of the Twilight Social Club are making great preparations for their tenth grand ball, to be held in the Crescent Rink on New Year's Eve.

It May Be

that the "cheap" worthless boxes that are offered by many dealers make you skeptical as to the real worth of those HONEST PIANOS we are offering at $178 cash or $198 on easy time payments. If you are, we ask you to look at these. They are thoroughly good Pianos that we know will give satisfaction. All colors of wood. All improvements. Exchanged if not satisfactory. Made by one of the best known manufacturers in the country.

The proof of their popularity is shown by the imitators they have called forth. Contrast them with the Pianos(?) you are offered at other stores at around the same price. An equally good Piano would cost $275 anywhere else.

Fifty dollars mark-down on all regular lines, good till end of year.

Mr. and Mrs. Applegate, of Elizabeth, are guests at the home of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer.

Workmen have completed the task of putting new stained glass in the windows of the Presbyterian church.

Rev. Mr. Mead, of the M. E. church, preached two very eloquent sermons yesterday, and the attendance at both services was large.

Two large audiences gathered at the Baptist church, New Market, yesterday, and listened to two good sermons delivered by the pastor, Rev. Frank Fletcher.

Mayor Brakeley, the borough Council and Counsel Willis met Saturday night and went over the trolley ordinance, and it is said they agreed to certain reasonable demands.

The union services will be continued this week on Wednesday evening and Friday evening. One night the meeting will be in the M. E. church and the other night in the Seventh-day Baptist church.

One week from tonight the Borough Council will meet again in adjourned session and take up the trolley ordinance, and it is fair to presume that something satisfactorily will be done. Those who have heretofore opposed the trolley are now beginning to consider that it would be a good thing for the borough. The idea expressed in The Daily Press recently, that the borough is not in a position to make any unreasonable demands, has made quite an impression on the opposition.

The Epworth League of the M. E. church will hold an entertainment on Thursday evening, December 16th, in the audience room of the church at 8 o'clock. The attractions will be William N. Runyon and Alfred Holmes, vocal soloists, of Plainfield; William Applegate, banjoist, of Elizabeth. A trio of mandolins will furnish some excellent music, as well as the Ladies' Orchestra. The programme will be concluded with a pantomime, "Going to London for a Wife," by local talent.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society will meet in the church parlors Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

James Buckley, of North avenue, Plainfield, spent Sunday with his mother, Mrs. James Buckley.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Scotch Plains Baptist church gave a pleasant reception to Miss Lydia Hayes, its recently elected superintendent, Saturday afternoon. About thirty friends were present at the reception, which lasted from 2:30 until 4:30 o'clock. The programme included an address by Miss Addie Johnston; recitations by the Misses Sadie Mesler, Ethel Marsh, Addie Savage and Edith Elliott; piano solos by Miss Cora Miller and Miss Florence Darby, and a vocal duet by the Misses Cora Miller and Ethel Marsh. Late in the afternoon refreshments were served. The society how has seventeen members and is in a flourishing condition.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manuufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. A RURAL LYRIC.

Talk about your city life—what is it to the rills
Of sunshine gleaming, dreaming on the valleys and the hills?
What is it to the river banks where honeysuckles swing—
To the peach fields where the mocking birds are primping up for spring?

Talk abo t your city life—what is it to the light
That is tangled in the woodlands, where the purple and the white
Of springtime's earliest blossoms seem blowing into you,
With the rumpled maples bending and bowing "Howdy-do!"

Oh, the brightest light is beaming from a wilder, sweeter sod
Where the dew-wet violets dreaming send messages to God!
—F. L. S. in Atlanta Constitution.

PUNISHED BY A LION.

We had come down off the mountains near Fremont's Peak—the six of us who had been prospecting for three months—and we had scarcely struck the trail when we ran upon a mountain outfit. There were three white men, two half-breeds, a Mexican, and a negro, and the party had six pack mules with them. They had just gone into camp for the night, and after hearty greetings all around we pitched our tents alongside and cooked our suppers at the same campfire. The strangers were bound up to Little Squaw Mountain, on a hunt for gold. The leader was Jim Williams.

There would have been no trouble between the two outfits but for the cards which were introduced after supper. And as it was, only a portion of the men cared to play, as the day had been a tiresome one to all. Our chief, Frank Johnson of Nevada, sat down with Williams, and both were in great good nature as I wrapped myself up in my blanket and fell asleep. I had slept for two hours when aroused by the sounds of a quarrel. I was the last man of the thirteen to roll out, and I found every one of the twelve with a gun in his hand. It seemed that the two leaders had begun playing for money, and luck being with our man he had won heavily. Then there came a dispute as to some point, the lie was passed, and the men of both outfits were ready to open fire on each other. It was the other crowd which backed down. Williams realized that he could not depend upon the Mexican and the negro, and was therefore overmatched. After a moment he flung down his gun and said to Johnson:

"The crowd has nothing to do with this row, and I reckon we are men enough to settle it between ourselves."

"In any way you choose," replied Johnson.

"Well, then, I'll tell you my plan in the morning. One of us has got to go under for what has passed, but to-morrow will be a long day. Let's call it off for to-night."

The men of both camps slept peacefully during the remainder of the night, and as we prepared and ate breakfast nobody had a word to say about the trouble of the night before. The two leaders gave each other "good morning" and chatted about the weather, and I would have wagered my all that the hard words had been forgotten and forgiven. I was looking for the order to pack up and move on as soon as breakfast was over when Williams took a seat beside Johnson and quietly observed:

"You are in no great hurry, I take it, and a day or two will make no difference to our men."

"We can stop here a week as well as not," was the reply.

"Just ahead of us, to the north, is Jackson's Basin."

"Aye! I've passed through it," said Johnson. "It is a natural sink, which was once the bed of a lake, but is now grown up with a perfect tangle. What's your plan?"

"One of us is to leave here at 9 o'clock. It will take him an hour to reach the far side. At 10 o'clock the other will leave. We will hunt for each other in the basin. The one who lives to get out will return here and notify the camps. Do you understand?"

"Perfectly. We are to hunt for each other in the basin, and to shoot on sight. One of us will be left there. The one who goes first turns on his trail and returns. We can stick to the trail or take to the woods. We may be hunting each other for half a day or half a week."

"That's the idea, and now we'll toss up to see who goes first. Is it heads or tails?"

"Heads," said our leader.

The coin which Williams tossed into the air fell tail up, and he rose up and said:

"It's for me to go first. Boys, you all understand this matter. Only one of us is to come back, and there's to be no hard feelings about it. If I'm left behind you'll push on with Bill here for you're leader. What I've got in my packs you are welcome to divide between you. I've got fifteen minutes to get ready in."

I had heard every word of the above as had every other man in camp, but it was hard for me to realize that the men were in sober earnest. It was to be a man-hunt to the death, and they had talked it over as coolly as if the subject of discussion was a bear or deer. Williams took with him a rifle, a revolver, a knife, fifty extra cartridges, and some bread and meat. When ready to go he shook hands with the two white men of his party, nodded to the others and to us, and said to Johnson:

"In an hour I shall reach the far side and be ready to turn back. Sorry the earth isn't big enough for both of us, but we happen to be built that way. It's a fair show for both, and there'll be nothing to kick over."

During the hour allowed him Johnson cleaned his firearms, overhauled his pack, and gave some instructions as to what should be done with certain interests in case he did not return. When the hour was up he shook hands all around, had a word with the men of the other camp, and he was whistling as he disappeared from view.

When Williams had crossed the basin he turned and headed back to the south, but not on the trail. He knew Johnson too well to suppose that he would make his way to the centre of the basin on the trail. He entered the woods on his right, and made his way along through the tangle and over the boulders with the stealth of an Indian. As our leader entered the basin he also entered the woods to his right. The two men thus made a half circle, and were as far away from each other as the limits allowed. The basin contained about 500 acres of land, and was walled in on every side. The trees were not large, but the undergrowth was very thick, and there were also many great boulders lying about.

As Williams circled to the south and Johnson to the north, each made a half circle before finding the other's trail. The distance covered by this half circle was about two miles, and such was the caution with which the men moved that it was afternoon before they came upon "signs." Each one's plan was now plain to the other and both at once changed. That is, each returned over his own trail, or within reaching distance of it. This change simply prevented a meeting. When one had reached the north end of the trail the other was back at the south end, and it was 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Then each took the trail and held it to a point within 200 feet of the centre, and Williams left it for the woods to his left and Johnson for the woods to his right. Without suspecting each other's presence they crept carefully forward until only fifty feet separated them. Then a wolf dashing out from the space between them gave both men the cue, and each began to work for a shot. Johnson had before him three or four vine-covered boulders, and he crept under the vines and was so well hidden that even the eyes of a fox could not have made him out. Half an hour passed, and it was growing dark in the forest, when Williams rose up alongside a tree and began peering about. His uprising was like that of a shadow, and for ten minutes he did not expose a finger as a target. Then he either became impatient or figured that Johnson was not at hand, and his head left the shelter of the tree to get a better look. It was too dark for Johnson to take accurate aim, and the bullet meant for William's eye passed through and knocked the cap off his head. In a second Williams had fired in return, taking a snap shot at the flash, and his bullet tore through the cloth on Johnson's shoulder.

Those were the first and best shots fired. Each man drew away after firing, and they were probably a mile and a half apart as they made camp for the night. As the sun came up the hunt was on again. They were now east and west of the trail and more than a mile apart. They seemed to locate each other by intuition, and one moved to the right and the other to the left to make a rear approach. At 11 o'clock, as Johnson crept forward on hands and knees and started to lift himself up beside a tree, he came face to face with Williams, who was about to do the same thing from the opposite direction. Both sprang up and began firing. The range was too close, and the sudden encounter had also upset them. Each man fired five or six bullets, each had his clothing perforated, and then each retreated. Taking the tree as a common centre they began circling around it and must have passed each other at least twice. Then the circle was broadened until the tree was half a mile from its outer edge, and it took in a mass of rock which both men had marked for a strong position.

At about 1 o'clock in the afternoon Johnson was creeping toward the rocks from one direction and Williams from another, but Williams gained the shelter first. Johnson caught a glimpse of him as he crouched among the shadow of the rocks, but waited to get a better view before firing. He lay on his stomach, his rifle over a stick on the earth and his eye at the sights, and he felt sure of his man. Let Williams but move a foot one way or the other and a bullet would find him. For ten minutes stillness reigned throughout the basin. Then, as sudden as a thunderclap there was an angry scream from a wild beast, and Johnson saw some object cross his line of vision and descend upon the crouching man. It took him a full half minute to understand what was happening and that it was no trick of his adversary. There were growls, shouts and screams, with two bodies rolling over and over in the undergrowth, and Johnson at length made out that a mountain lion had sprung upon the man who was watching and waiting for him. As soon as this became clear he dashed forward, got in two shots, and then flung away his rifle and attacked the lion with his knife. The beast had received seven stabs from Williams and two bullets from Johnson, and yet the latter was severely clawed before the beast gave up its hold on life. In lighting upon its victim it had seized him by the throat, and though the man had made a wonderful fight of it he was dead ere Johnson had finished the lion.

Half an hour before dusk our leader came staggering into camp, his clothing in rags and his body bleeding from a dozen wounds. We rushed forward for an explanation, and bracing his back against a tree he said:

"It was a mountain lion. He killed Williams and almost did for me. Thank God, I am no murderer!"—New York Sun.

A BARGAIN SALE IN ENGLAND.

The Eager Hunters Gather at the Doors as Early as 5:45 O'clock.

A bargain sale is a pretty serious business in England. The Newcastle Chronicle recently contained the following item: A remarkable fatality occurred in Mare street, Hackney, on Saturday. A sale at a local draper's was announced to begin in the morning, and a large crowd of women assembled long before the doors were opened. Some were there as early as 5:45 o'clock. Among them was an old lady who succeeded in getting into the shop and fell fainting at a counter while making a small purchase. With the assistance of the police she was got out and a doctor sent for, but life was found to be extinct. The body was removed to the Mortuary. A large force of police was on duty throughout the day to control the crowds, and at intervals it became necessary to close the doors. The excitement did not subside until the place was finally shut up at 11 o'clock on Saturday night. Some persons declared that such scenes were never before witnessed at a sale.

A Little Story with a Big Moral.

Here is a very old story that has been told time and time again, but that will bear telling again:

A man asked his neighbor why he was so careful to save a certain old horseshoe. The neighbor replied:

"I may find the other three shoes."

"And what then?"

"I may then find the horse which cast them?"

"And what will you do then?"

"Why, I will build a stable for him."

"No, you won't. Your horse might kick my children, and so I won't have a stable near my house."

"Yes you will, if I choose to build one."

"No I won't."

"Yes you will."

And then they began to fight like cats and dogs.—Golden Days.

NOTICE TO ALL INTERESTED IN UP-TO-DATE LAUNDRY WORK.
We run the laundry and take care of all details, but you "boss" it. We do what you tell us to do. It may give you a new sensation to find that you get a domestic finish when you ask for it, and to discover that your collars are actually ironed in the way that the maker intended them to be ironed.
We are running a laundry with the most improved methods and appliances. We use pure water and good soap. We are using two things that are not commonly used in laundries—care and intelligence. If you have found a laundry that pleases you perfectly, we have nothing to say to you. If you have any reason to be dissatisfied, we would like to give you a practical demonstration of our way of running a laundry.
Tell us where and when to call for your work, when you want it delivered, and let us know any particular thing that you would like to have done with it.
We want you to understand that we are running this laundry for you, and that your wishes are to be regarded in every particular. We will give you just exactly what you want if we can find out what that is. Perhaps you believe that it is impossible to have your laundry well handled without irritation and annoyance to you. We are sure that you are mistaken. May we have an opportunity of demonstrating it?

BIG FIRE IN PHILADELPHIA.

Six-Story Building Occupied as a Carpet Warerçom Destroyed.

Philadelphia, Dec. 13.—Fire broke out shortly before 10 o'clock Saturday night in the six-story building, 809 and 811 Chestnut street, occupied by the carpet manufacturing firm of John & James Dobson as their wholesale and retail salesrooms. The fire started in the basement and quickly shot up the elevator shafts. When the firemen reached the scene the three upper floors of the building, which extended half a block back to Jayne street, were a mass of flames, and there was every indication that the building as well as those adjoining were doomed. By heroic work, however, the fire was confined within the walls of the Dobson Building.

General Manager Berry, of the Dobson carpet house, stated that the stock in the building would amount to about five hundred thousand dollars. The loss is total, the entire six floors having been burned out completely. The building was owned by the firm, and was valued at about sixty thousand dollars. The loss is fully covered by insurance, which is carried by quite a large number of companies.

Sharpless Bros.' large drygoods establishment adjoining the Dobson's on the east sustained considerable damage by water, as did also the Commonwealth Title Insurance and Trust Company and William H. Hoskins, stationer, who occupied 813 and 915, respectively. The two large hotels, the Girard House and Continental Hotel, both in close proximity to the fire, sustained no damage whatever.

NEW LIGHT ON DREYFUS CASE.

Said to Have Been Retained in the German Army.

Paris, Dec. 13.—The Intransigeant announces that it has ascertained the real story of the Dreyfus affair, which is as follows: Dreyfus, owing to the anti-Semitic campaign, determined to leave the French army, and wrote to Emperor William asking to be admitted to the German army with the same rank he held.

The Emperor replied through the German Embassy that it would be preferable for Dreyfus to serve Germany in the post he then occupied. He would be regarded as a German officer on a mission to France, and in the event of war would take his rank in the German army. This Dreyfus accepted.

The Intransigeant says it is informed by the military attache that before the arrest of Dreyfus eight letters were stolen from the German Embassy. Count von Munster, the German Ambassador to France, called upon M. Dupuy, the Premier, to restore the letters, declaring that if his demand were not complied with he would leave France within twenty-four hours.

The letters were restored, but were first photographed. These photographs were submitted at the trial by court-martial. Seven of the letters emanated from Dreyfus and the eighth from Emperor William.

PREACHER KEPT A BAR.

Convicted of Selling Whisky on the Sly.

New Haven, Ct., Dec. 13.—For several days past the town of Niantic has been stirred up over the trial of Rev. Charles H. Gates, charged with illegal liquor selling. Gates is a regularly ordained minister, and has preached at various places in this State, but finding there was not money enough in the ministry to make such a living as he should have he left off preaching and leased the Bayview Hotel at Niantic.

The hotel was run like the general average of country hotels, and is said to have been a place where a guest could get a drink of whisky if he wanted it. As a result stories soon got abroad that liquor was sold on the sly, and finally this matter culminated in Gates' arrest. The trial has been the sensation of the little town, and has finally resulted in the conviction in twenty-one counts against Mr. Gates, for which he has been fined $20 on each count.

LOVERS WERE MURDERED.

Miss Failes Gets Twenty Years and Kern Twelve.

Waverly, Iowa, Dec. 13.—Judge Clyde has sentenced Delilah Failes and Will Kern, aged 20 and 17 respectively, to twenty and twelve years in the penitentiary. Young Kern and Miss Failes were lovers, but the father of the boy objected to the match. Miss Failes planned to murder young Kern's father and persuaded the son to assist her. On Aug. 23 she wrote the elder Kern a note to meet her in the woods about five miles from Cedar Falls, and when he arrived at the place she shot him three times, killing him. With the help of the son she covered the body with brush and burned it.

Young Kern was arrested for the murder, and a short time ago confessed, declaring that Miss Failes had shot his father. She was immediately arrested and shortly afterward she confessed her guilt.

Coal Miners to Confer.

Pittsburg, Dec. 13.—The coal miners and operators of the Pittsburg district issued a call to-day for a joint convention to be held next Monday. This convention will agree upon a price for digging coal after Jan. 1.

In a separate circular the miners' officials say it is their object to bring about an interstate joint convention at Columbus, and they ask that delegates come to the convention with instructions concerning all matters in dispute. The most important of these is differential between the Pittsburg and Ohio districts, and an effort will be made to abolish it.

Weyler Wants Our Notes.

Barcelona, Dec. 13.—Lieut.-Gen. Weyler has asked the Government to submit to the Chamber the notes exchanged with the United States on the subject of President McKinley's message to Congress. The General declares that with the elements in Spain and the heroic courage of her soldiers she need not fear war with the United States.

Knights Must Pay $10,000.

Kansas City, Mo., Dec. 13.—Lenna Winslow, who sued the Knights of Maccabees for $25,000 for causing internal injuries while initiating him into the local order four years ago, has been awarded $10,000 by a jury in Judge Gates' division of the Circuit Court.

SAGASTA ON MESSAGE

He Hadn't Expected so Much From the President.

SPAIN CAN FIND NO FAULT

The Message Open to Criticism in Some Details, but the Premier Thinks It Will Affect the Cuban Cause Adversely.

London, Dec. 13.—It is chiefly because attention has been distracted towards China that Europe has taken little interest in President McKinley's message. Spain alone has looked to it as embodying the fate of that nation during the next few months. There was at first some erratic comment in Madrid, but the Sagasta Ministry has made extraordinary efforts to impress the mildest possible interpretation of the President's language upon Spanish minds. Senor Sagasta himself has done this publicly and privately in a most assiduous way. This is a sample of his language:

"I did not expect so much from President McKinley. The question of the rights of nations is dealt with in an excellent manner. As regards the President's utterances in respect to work achieved by the Spanish Government we can find no fault with them. They do us justice. There were in the message certain details to which, it was at first thought, our Government might take exception. It is the old question. Ever since 1823, when the Cuban question originated, it has been these details which have caused misunderstandings. That is the only fault I can find with the message.

"I believe the message will have an immediate effect on affairs in Cuba. It must affect the insurrection considerably and in an adverse way, while our reforms will receive a powerful stimulant. The Cortes will not yet be dissolved. It is necessary that we know the effect of the message on the United States Congress. We shall see very soon. The terms employed by President McKinley have given the liveliest satisfaction to the whole Corps Diplomatique in Madrid and all its members have congratulated me by telephone."

It is, of course, necessary to the plans of Senor Sagasta's Government that Spain should accept the message in this spirit, but it is by no means certain that the country will look at the situation through the Premier's spectacles.

AMERICAN SHIP SEARCHED.

Examined at Cienfuegos at Suggestion of United States Consul.

Havana, Cuba, via Key West, Fla., Dec. 13.—Reliable reports state that American citizens in Cienfuegos and that vicinity are indignant over the searching of the American steamer Santiago at that port by the police and civil guards. The indignation was heightened because the alleged search was made at the suggestion of American Consul McGarr.

It is charged against Mr. McGarr that he informed the authorities that, in his judgment, a search would result in finding insurgent correspondence. As a matter of fact, the police discovered nothing suspicious.

Since the capture of Caimanera by the insurgents, and the recapture of Guisa by the Spanish, there has been a lull in military operations in the East.

Denial of Atrocities.

The Spanish official report of appalling atrocities committed by the insurgents in Guisa is declared by members of the Junta to be a stupid falsification. They point out that it is unreasonable to suppose that women and children were burned alive when among the inhabitants there must have been the families of rebel soldiers, and the Spanish soldiers were spared and taken prisoners. The Palace officials say the story of atrocities is fully confirmed, but are unable to furnish any details.

Spanish Paper Warlike.

Madrid, Dec. 13.—The Imparcial publishes a strong article in which it declares Spain will not accept the right of President McKinley to intervene in Cuba in case the war is prolonged, and demands that the Government adopt "the same energetic attitude towards the United States as Germany adopted towards Hayti, because President McKinley's message is equivalent to questioning the right of Spain's sovereignty in Cuba."

Continuing, the Imparcial insists that Spain must prepare for all eventualities, and augment her navy "by organizing a subscription in which the whole nation from the Queen to the most humble subject should participate."

SPAIN NO LONGER OBJECTS.

Our Fleet of Warships Can Now Visit Key West.

Washington, Dec. 13.—For the first time since the Cuban insurrection began an American warship not engaged in suppressing filibustering expeditions has started to take station on the southern coast of Florida, within five hours of Havana. A telegram received at the Navy Department reports the departure of the battleship Maine from Norfolk for Key West, where she will await the other vessels of the North Atlantic Squadron.

Spain has ceased to be suspicious of the intentions of the United States, and does not view with alarm the prospect of the biggest American fleet ever gathered together making its rendezvous right at the door of Cuba. The other ships in the squadron will start for Key West as soon as the repairs which they require are finished at the Brooklyn Navy Yard.

The training ship Annapolis left Newport News for Barbadoes. Her presence in the West Indies will be another indication of the decision of the Administration to resume the usual Winter visits to ports near Cuba.

A Tanner Dying of Anthrax.

Altoona, Pa., Dec. 13.—Lewis Schlanghenhite, of Proctor, Lycoming County, is dying of anthrax. It is now certain that the disease was communicated to him by hides from China. All the tanneries in that section have been compelled to shut down, as the tanners are afraid of the disease. There have been two deaths in the last month. The Government is taking measures for the disinfection of hides from China before admitting them into this country.

Do You Think

That Grain that is thoroughly cleaned in a modern, up-to-date plant is better than when shoveled direct from a car (dirt and all), as is necessary by the small local dealer? Do you think that a firm operating its own purchasing offices throughout the west, its own distributing stores, and, most of all, the Largest and Most complete Grain Elevator and Cleaning Plant in New Jersey is able to give better goods at less cost than the small dealer who must buy from middlemen and handle his goods in the old way?

THEATRICAL.

It will be the presentment of such pieces as "A Stranger in New York" that Manager Edwards will gain the good will and appreciation of Plainfield theatregoers. The production Saturday night was in every sense as good as the one now running at Hoyt's theatre in New York and more than pleased the large and cultured audience that was present.

The graphoscope, which is Edison's latest invention, is claimed to be the steadiest of all these machines, and is constructed in such a manner as to throw a very clear and sharp picture. The graphoscope will be seen at Music Hall tonight and tomorrow night.

"Darkest America" will be presented at Music Hall Tuesday, Dec. 21st.

Henshaw & TenBroeck are always popular with a Plainfield audience, and their appearance here next week in "Dodge's Trip to New York" will doubtless attract a large audience.

Prominent among the many novelties for this week at Proctor's theatre, Twenty-third street, is W. A. Brady's grand production of "The Cat and the Cherub," a twenty-five minute Chinese episode, by Chester Bailey Fernald. Another big feature of the bill is Clara Morris, the great emotional actress, who will be seen in Kenneth Lee's "Blind Justice," in which she will be assisted by F. C. Harriott. New displays are introduced in the series of Living Pictures, which are now in their eleventh week, and which show no signs of losing favor with the public. Maxwell and Simpson, the kings of illustrated song, with their latest hits; Hugh Stanton and Pauline Willard, in a new humorous satire, "A Bargain Fiend."

—Danish services will be held in the German Lutheren church on Grove street tonight at 8 o'clock.

PROWLING AROUND A HOUSE.

A Dissolute Coontown Character Gets Ninety Days in Jail for the Offense.

Henry Morse, a celebrated gentleman of color, residing at Coontown, was arrested Saturday night by Marshal Schenck, of the borough. Morse has only been out of the Somerset county jail one month.

Saturday night he was discovered prowling about George Randolph's house on Somerset street. Mrs. Randolph and her daughter were the only ones home at the time, and they were much frightened when they learned that someone was trying to get in their home. During the evening J. M. Smalley called at the house and to him they told their story of what had taken place. Mr. Smalley went out in the yard and found Morse hiding behind a large tree. He then told him to get out of the yard or he would have him arrested. Morse did not like to go and force was used. This had little effect for the intruder came back again. As soon as Mr. Smalley found that Morse had returned he went out and found Marshal Schenck, who arrested Morse and placed him in the lockup. This morning the offender was sentenced to spend ninety days in the county jail.

RECEPTION TO A PASTOR.

First Church of Christ Welcome Rev and Mrs. McKane.

A reception was tendered to Rev. Mr. and Mrs. McKane, of the First Church of Christ, last Saturday evening by the members of the church and congregation. There was a large attendance of people, who gave the new pastor and his wife a cordial welcome. They were likewise heartily greeted by Mr. and Mrs. McKane, who received assurances from all for hearty support in the work for the church. During the evening a musical and literary programme was rendered by some of the young people of the church, after which refreshments were served in abundance by the women of the church who had the matter in charge. The reception was very successful, inasmuch as pastor and people became better acquainted.

Class Election.

A meeting of the third class at the Plainfield High School was held this afternoon. Officers for the year were elected as follows: President, Miss Marion Woodcock; vice-president, Miss Elsie Smith; secretary and treasurer, E. Stanley Peck; poet, Thomas Muir. Arrangements were made for the usual Christmas celebration and decoration,

THE BOARD NOT TO BLAME.

They Had Nothing to Do With Allen Laing's Electrical Contract.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—My attention having been called by several taxpayers to the letter of A. D. Phillips in Thursday night's Press, I am constrained to make public reply to the same. Usually charges of this nature are rather vague and phantom-like, but here is one which is tangible. The taxpayers have been imposed upon to the tune of $70, and a disappointed contractor seeks to score his successful rival, and also the Board of Education by exposing the same.

There are two defenses to this accusation:

First—The estimate for putting in the additional switch asked for is $17 and not $70, as Mr. Phillips has it. A cautious man never takes newspaper figures for his own, if they chance to be wrong, they put him in a bad position when in cold type over his signature; this disposes of fifty-three-seventieths (53.70) of Mr. Phillips' imposition and as, he states, he was $4 higher originally, we now have only thirteen-seventieths (13.70) of the imposition left.

Second—Neither Mr. Phillips nor any other electrician ever furnished the Board of Education any estimate of any kind for the electrical work in the Whittier building. The committee obtained estimates on the main contracts and J. A. Hubbard submitted an estimate, accompanied by detailed plans and specifications, made to conform to the wishes of the committee, in which he agreed to take the entire contract at a price which meant a saving of many hundred dollars to the city. Knowing Mr. Hubbard to be thoroughly reliable the Board gave him the contract, and the work was done not only to the letter but to the spirit of the agreement. It was none of our business who did the electrical work, so long as it conformed to our specifications (which it did) and was approved by the proper authorities. The entire contract was a most desirable one for the taxpayers, and in the large amount saved on the same the thirteen-seventieths (13.70) of Mr. Phillips alleged imposition disappears like dew before the morning sun.

We lay no claim to perfection; we all make mistakes, and the Board of Education is no exception to the rule, but if the impositions on the taxpayers of Plainfield, will only continue to be of this nature then shall we be most fortunate. Fred C. Lounsbury,
Chairman Committee on Buildings and Repairs.

HUNGRY BURGLARS.

After Ransacking for Valuables They Ate a Roast Chicken.

The home of Mr. Chapot in Dunellen was entered last night by a hungry set of burglars. They entered the dwelling by prying open a kitchen window and then ransacked the dining room and stole a gold ring and a few other articles of slight value. After turning things topsy turvy they went into the pantry and brought forth a roast chicken and sat down and devoured it, together with other edibles they found.

Before leaving the depredators went into the cellar and carried off a dozen jars of fruit preserves. None of the family were aroused from their slumbers by the movements of the burglars and had no knowledge of the invasion till they arose this morning. The police believe that it was the work of tramps who were more hungry than anxious to find valuable booty.

For Better Music.

It is thought that there will be some improvements made in the musical service at the Monroe Avenue church, shortly. Among the contemplated additions will be violin and cornet accompanists for the Sunday evening meetings.

Justice Crosley's Court.

Justice Crosley has issued summons in the case of Peter E. See against George W. Nuce, and Peter E. See against Thomas J. Hughes. Both cases are on contract and will be tried next Monday.

Mr. Gage's Plan Criticised.

London, Dec. 13.—The Manchester Guardian adversely criticises Secretary Gage's currency scheme, which, it says, would saddle the United States with another $200,000,000 of avoidable debt, and, while substituting bank notes for greenbacks, would leave to the Government the responsibility of providing gold reserves.

HE MAKES IT RAIN.

St. Swithin, the Saint Who Brings Rain—Who He Is and Why It Rains.

St. Swithin was a venerable old saint with a local habitation and a name. He was tutor to the great King Alfred, and accompanied him to Rome. In A. D. 852 he was consecrated Bishop of Winchester. William of Malmesbury, in his chronicles, says Bishop Swithin built several churches and always travelled through his diocese on foot to avoid the appearance of ostentation.

Swithin died on July 2, A. D. 862, and was buried, according to his own desire, outside the Cathedral, for he had declared that he was not worthy to find a sepulchre within the sacred edifice. But a century later he was canonized by the Pope of Rome, and the monks of Winchester then determined to exhume his body and bury it within the cathedral.

The removal of the body was fixed to take place on July 15, but was delayed in consequence of a heavy fall of rain, which continued without intermission for forty days. And it is from this circumstances that the current belief regarding St. Swithin's Day prevails.—New York Journal.

An English newspaper, in an article on the Siamese army, says: "In one respect the Siamese army is superior to every other, and that is in its elephant corps. Eight hundred of these animals, which are stronger, though smaller, than those of India, are organized into a special corps, commanded by a retired Anglo-Indian officer, and their heads, trunks and other vulnerable parts are protected against bullets by India rubber armor."

SANTA CLAUS IS BUSY.

ACTIVITY OF PLAINFIELD MERCHANTS PROVES THIS.

Signs of the Holiday Season Which Indicate That the Habit of Christmas Giving is Still a General Rule.

A reporter of The Daily Press continued his visit to the leading merchants of the city today, and found on every hand the signs of a busy holiday season.

At Werner's clothing house there is a complete stock of men's, boys' and children's clothing, and an assortment of hats and men's furnishing goods, all new, and appropriate for holiday presents. The stock has a very inviting appearance.

Sebring's store is a point of interest to the buyers of holiday clothing. The specialties here are hats, caps and children's suits, in which some of the most stylish goods are shown. The neckwear department also presents an inviting appearance.

One of the largest and most inviting assortments in the clothing line is that at Weinberger's establishment, in the Stillman Theatre building. There is something here to please even the most fastidious buyers and the holiday trade of this popular store is very brisk.

J. R. Blair, the Park avenue men's furnisher, is making a big holiday run on kid and fur-lined gloves, silk mufflers and fine umbrellas.

Crane & Clark are showing one of the finest lines of men's furnishing goods to be seen in this city. It includes among the articles suitable for holiday gifts, a line of fine neckwear.

A. Hecht, the East Front street merchant tailor, is showing many novelties which are attracting the buyers of fine clothing.

Willett & Son, the Park avenue shoe dealers, are showing an extra attractive line of men's slippers for the holiday trade. They are also giving away a pair of rubbers with each pair of ladies' shoes sold during the holiday season.

An experience of 25 years has taugh the shoe firm of Doane & Edsall how to get together an attractive stock, and the line of footwear shown by the firm this year is as fine as usual.

At B. R. Force's store a complete line of rubber footwear is shown in addition to the usual large stock of shoes and slippers for young and old Men's and ladies' slippers and the renowned "Storm King" high cut rubber boots for boys are proving the drawing cards at H. M. Sherwin's. Calf lace skating shoes are also a holiday specialty.

Among the well stocked stores of the city which present a fine holiday appearance is the shoe establishment of M. C VanArsdale, on East Front street. Some novelties in felt ladies' slippers, which are shown here are attracting buyers, and there is the usual large assortment of men's, women's and children's footwear.

The shoe store of Flynn Bros. presents an attractive appearance and offers something appropriate and artistic in footwear for every member of the family. The stock has been selected with special regard for the needs of the holiday trade.

Paid a Fraternal Visit.

A delegation from Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., this city, paid a fraternal visit to Morton Commandery, of New York, last evening, and had one of the usual good times. Those in the party from Plainfield were Jacob Kirkner, C. J. Lettell, Edward Nelson, Walter Freeman, Garret Dunham, E. H. Clevely, S. R. Bingham.

A Brilliant Man.

Robert Speer, who will speak at the missionary meeting to be held in the chapel of the Crescent Avenue church tomorrow evening, is a very talented speaker. He is a graduate of Princeton University and when he was graduated it was said that a more brilliant man had not been graduated in ten years previous to that time.

Miss Nettie Goff is seriously ill at her home on Liberty street.

WOMEN IN BLACK FACES.

ODD LADIES APPEARED AS NEGRO CHARACTERS IN A SKETCH.

A Decided Novelty, but an Entertaining One—Miss Try Mattox Impersonated a Colored Politician in a Clever Manner.

The members of Mizpah Lodge, No. 1, U. O. of I. O. L., gave an entertainment last evening in their rooms on West Second street. The affair attracted a large and appreciative audience. The programme opened with a graphaphone concert under the direction of Edward Townley, Jr., of Westfield. The number following was a recitation of a comical turn, by Miss Try Mattox. She took the part of a negro politician. This was followed with vocal solos by Ethel Reynolds.

The next part of the programme was the main feature of the evening. It was a negro farce-comedy entitled "Bells in the Kitchen," and was one of those mirth-provoking sketches that always captures an audience. Those who took the several parts were Mrs. Radin, Mrs. Cox, Miss Ethel Kinsey, Miss Mamie Devine, Miss Clara Weber and Miss Mabel Ayres. Each participant's face was blackened. Their make-up was so good that their most intimate friends could hardly recognize them. The sketch was concluded with a comical negro song led by Mrs. Radin, assisted by those who took part in the comedy.

A recitation, entitled "What Biddy Said in Court," by Miss Try Mattox, won hearty applause from all, as did also the vocal solos by Henry Ackerman and John Moran. Interspersing the numbers Mr. Townley gave selections with the graphaphone.

After the entertainment all were invited to remain and partake of some refreshments which were provided by the committee in charge, consisting of Mrs. Joseph Randolph, Mrs. Andrew Cox, Mrs. Angleman, Mrs. Page and Mrs. Bird.

BOY HELD UP BY TRAMPS.

Beaten by the Footpads Because He Didn't Have Much Money.

A young Frenchman employed by Paul Reussch, the Dunellen baker, was terribly frightened last Sunday night about 8 o'clock while on his way from his home to the bakery where he works all night. The lad, who is about 16 years old, lives not far from Rock avenue on the south side of the Central Railroad tracks. He is obliged to go back and forth to work through a very lonely portion of the city. He crossed the tracks Sunday night and was nearing Front street when five men, all intoxicated, held him up and demanded money.

The boy was not flush with money and could only give them a small amount. This seemed to anger the infuriated men and they jumped on the lad and began to pound him. He screamed for help, but being some distance from a house, his cries were not heard. When the men secured satisfaction they released the boy and he quickly got away.

The lad's nose and forehead were badly cut with some sharp instrument, and his cloths were almost torn from his body. He carried a fairly good-sized bundle of working cloths with him and these were torn all to pieces. It is considered very lucky that the boy escaped with his life.

After the boy left the men he called at the home of John Richards and to him he told his story. He wanted Mr. Richards to go back with him and see if he could identify any of the men, but as there were five men Mr. Richards considered it wise for him to remain at home. He knew that he could do nothing in such a crowd of drunken men. This racket probably accounts for the story that was circulated yesterday that a dead man was found near Clinton avenue. Investigation proved that there was no truth in the story.

—Ben. Frederickson, of the Walter Scott Printing Machine Works, has returned from a trip down east where he has been erecting printing presses for the above firm.

BRAVE FIREMEN CAUGHT AND LIVES THREATENED.

WHILE PERFORMING THEIR DUTY BURNING DEBRIS PILED UP AROUND THEM.

Joe Hawkins Pinioned By a Charred Floor Joist, But Was Rescued by Chief Doane—Assistant Chief Martin Had to Turn the Chemical's Hose on Himself to Escape From Being Burned.

Only the charred half-ruined walls now remain to mark the spot where the pleasant home of A. L. Baldwin stood on the outskirts of the city. The house, which is located on Leland avenue, close to Green brook, caught fire last evening in some unknown manner and was completely gutted by the flames. Owing to its isolated location, the flames had uninterrupted sway for nearly an hour when an alarm was sent in.

There was a meeting of the Board of Engineers of the fire department last evening, and besides that there were an unusual number of firemen gathered about the headquarters. It was just past 6:20 o'clock when William Chamberlain burst into the rooms with the intelligence that there was a big fire out Front street. The light was plainly visible from the street but it was impossible to tell how far away it was. A few minutes later Councilman Newman came in breathless with the announcement that there was a big fire near Scotch Plains. The firemen prepared for a run and Chief Doane, Assistant Chief J. W. Murray, Jr., and Driver Bailey went out in the chief's wagon to investigate. When they reached Netherwood avenue and Front street, they saw that the fire was in the city limits. Just at that moment, Theodore French ran up to box 18 at the corner and sent in an alarm.

Owing to some trouble in the mechanism of the whistle only one round of the box number sounded The apparatus turned out in short order, however, and made the long run in excellent time. Meanwhile the occupants of the chief's wagon were driven to the scene of the fire and found a large three story frame structure almost enveloped in flames. There was no one about and the three firemen went to work to save what they could. The roof was all ablaze when they arrived, and the second story was untenantable. They managed at the risk of their own lives to save the contents of two of the rooms on the first floor and they were then driven out by the flames. They had attempted to reach the second floor but the ominous cracking of the stairway made a hurried retreat necessary.

The chemical engine, driven by George Feiring, was the first of the apparatus to reach the scene. Assistant Chief Martin took one of the streams from the chemical engine and attempted to hold the fire in check in the first floor until the steamer should arrive. The falling of a portion of the roof caused a whirl of flames that surrounded him and compelled him to turn the spray on himself. As it was his face was badly burned and his water-soaked helmet charred. He was finally driven into the open air.

The Alert Hose company had the first stream on and the real fight with the fire began. The flames had gained a strong headway and destroyed the interior of the house completely. The efforts of the firemen partially saved the walls. They were badly burned, however, and the house can be considered a total loss.

Although greatly handicapped by the lack of water, for the hydrants do not extend so far out of town as that, the firemen did all in their power to save the property. From the start the fire had when they reached it, it is estimated that it had been burning an hour before. The alarm came in at 9:50, and the bright light in the north had been seen half an hour before. There was a barn close to the house which was saved by the arrival of the firemen.

The roof fell early into the seething furnace below and the third and second floors followed at intervals. The debris heaped up on the first floor, which was not strong, some of the supports having been burned away. It was after midnight and there was little fire left. Foreman Joseph Hawkins, of Alerts, James Dawe and Fred Barker were directing the stream from the first floor and Chief Doane stood beside them. William Townley, driver of the Alerts carriage, started to enter the ruined doorway, when suddenly, there was a crash and the four men in front of him disappeared. The floor had given way and precipitated them into the cellar. Dawe and Barker landed on top of the heap and quickly climbed out uninjured. Chief Doane was beneath a heap of charred timbers but, by a great effort, freed himself and crawled out close to the wreck of the old chimney and went to the assistance of Hawkins. Hawkins had been pinioned by one arm and one leg beneath a heavy floor joist. He managed to free his arm and with the assistance of the Chief, was released from his dangerous position.

Chief Doane's helmet was crushed and his ear was cut. The helmet probably saved his life. Hawkins was able to walk without assistance although badly bruised. The fire was almost out at the time. Had it not been, the results of the accident might have been far more serious.

The house was formerly a part of the Job Male estate. It was last owned by J. A. Parmalee, of New York, who is represented here by George White, of North Plainfield. The house was fully covered by insurance. The loss to the house is estimated at $2,500. It was occupied by A. L. Baldwin, local agent for the Singer Sewing Machine Company. Mr. Baldwin's family have been visiting out of town for some time and were expected home this week. Last evening at 7 o'clock Mr. Baldwin mounted his wheel and rode down town to mail a letter. He expected to return at once. He met some friends, however, and stopped to talk. It was 10:30 o'clock before he returned. He learned that a house on Leland avenue was on fire, and seeing the light, he hurried on to find that his home had gone up in smoke.

When he left the house, he left a lamp burning in the kitchen and another in the bathroom upstairs. There was a fire in the kitchen stove. From the appearance of the fire at the time of the arrival of Chief Doane, it is supposed that the fire started in the kitchen. How it started will never be known.

The recall was sent in at 1 o'clock. On the return, the truck started to return by the way of Mountain avenue as the street was too narrow to allow it to turn. The road was very muddy and the truck finally became mired near Mountain avenue and it was necessary to send for Frank Hand and secure help to pull the truck out of the mud. It was finally extricated after considerable work.

Mr. Baldwin's household goods were insured through E. C. Mulford for $800, which will about cover his loss. Very little was saved.

A THRILLING CHASE.

Chief Marshal Wilson Followed an Offender on His Bicycle.

Chief Marshal Wilson, of the borough, had a thrilling chase after John Jerolaman, of Somerset street, yesterday afternoon, because of the latter's inclination for fast driving and refusal to allow the officers to catch him. It was about 3:30 o'clock when Chief Wilson noticed the reckless driving of Jerolaman. He gave chase on his bicycle, but the offender soon became aware of the fact and urged his horse into a faster gait. Jerolaman drove around through the streets of the borough for an hour and a half with the officer in pursuit, but the latter seemed always to be about two blocks away from the man driving the horse.

The chase finally attracted the attention of many people, and small boys cheered the offender and officer as they went trailing by the various points, where the sightseers gathered to witness the fun. Jerolaman had a couple of small boys with him and at frequent intervals they waved their hands at the officer in a defiant and tantalizing manner.

As the smooth streets of the borough were left behind, Jeroloman turned his horse down the unmacadamized roads, and the Chief found wheeling difficult. At last pursuer and pursuer emerged on Mountain avenue and went flying in the direction of Scotch Plains. Winded and tired out from the chase, the Chief finally gave up at the borough line and returned home.

The Chief finally decided to have Recorder Thomas issue a warrant for his arrest. At 2 o'clock this morning Marshal Schenck went to the home of Jerolaman and found the offender in bed. He was arrested and placed in the lockup. This morning Recorder Thomas gave the man an opportunity of paying $10 or going to Somerville for sixty days.

Later in the morning a young man named Smith called at the lockup and offered to buy Jerolaman's rig for $10 and thus help him out of his trouble. Jerolaman accepted the $10 and was released from jail at noon.

ONCE SKILLED IN VICE

ROBERT REIN REDEEMED BY THE GRACE OF CHRISTIANITY.

Sketched His Career in the Young Christian Endeavorers and Made Salient Points How to Accomplish Temperance.

The history of a man redeemed from the lowest depths of vice in the Bowery of New York was told by himself at the meeting of the Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church last evening. The man was Robert Rein, now a preacher of the Gospel. The greater part of the meeting was given to Mr. Rein, who made a very interesting and helpful address. His subject was temperance and good citizenship.

He began his address by telling his own story. How he started life in the slums of New York and was brought up in the midst of vice. At the age of fourteen years, twenty-one years ago, he ran away. He had a good voice and managed to pick up a few pennies by singing in some of the dives on the east side. As he grew older he learned the trade of a bar-keeper and supported himself in that capacity by singing at the low resorts in the Bowery. He told how, five years ago, he was led into a mission on the Bowery by hearing a song and how he went frequently after that and at last saw the error of his way and started anew.

He had been brought up, he said, on strong drink, and had always taken it until the time of his conversion. He believed in prohibition, he declared, but he did not think that the methods generally employed to advance it would ever be successful. Men could not be forced to give it up. The only way, he believed, that the power of strong drink could be driven out was to get the men and women converted, and then God would look after the liquor question. That was the only way to settle it, he explained.

He declared that there was a connection between the tobacco and the liquor habit. Eight out of every ten who smoke drink liquor, also, he declared. He closed with an earnest appeal to all to unite in the work of bringing men and women to God.

MADE LITTLE DEFENSE.

Central Railroad Will Fight the Case on Its Appeal.

The case of Brooks Carson, the North Plainfield florist, against the New Jersey Central Railroad Company, to recover the value of a boiler which the plaintiff claimed was injured so as to be wholly worthless, while being conveyed from New York to this city as freight, was tried before Justice Moffett yesterday afternoon, and a judgment was rendered for the plaintiff for $150 and the costs of the action.

Carson purchased the boiler in New York city last August and intended using it in heating his greenhouses. The damage which he discovered it had received upon reaching this city was a small hole in one end of the boiler. Lawyer Conover, who appeared for the Railroad company, made very little defense, and when the judgment was rendered he at once gave notice that an appeal would be taken.

Arranged for Jersey Delegates.

President E. E. Anthony, of the local union Christian Endeavor, has just returned from Nashville, Tenn., where he was sent by the officials of the State Christian Endeavor Society, to make arrangements for the entertainment of the New Jersey delegates to the National Convention of Endeavorers to be held in that city next June. Mr. Anthony secured full information necessary for the State Endeavorers, and it will be communicated to the proper authorities at the right time.

Guests at the County Jail.

Henry Nolan and Henry Morse, two offenders of the peace and moral code of the borough, were taken to Somerville yesterday, where they will serve a time. Nolan will remain for one month as a guest of Sheriff Wyckoff, while Morse will tarry for ninety days.

PAY FOR COUNTING VOTES

REGISTRY AND ELECTION BOARDS READY TO FIGHT THE CITY.

The Members Insist That They Are Entitled to the Same Pay in Municipal as in County and State Elections.

The members of the Boards of Registry and Election of the several wards of Plainfield at a meeting held Friday evening last passed a resolution to the effect that they would present their bills for services rendered at the late municipal election to the Common Council at their meeting to be held Dec. 20th, made out for the amount allowed them by the county under a State law. If the Council should fail to pass favorably on the bills it is said that the twenty-eight members comprising the several Election Boards will engage counsel to carry to the Supreme Court and have set aside, if possible, the decision that was rendered by Corporation Counsel Marsh that in municipal elections the election officials shall be paid $3 a day for their work—eight hours to constitute a day.

In the county and State elections the Boards are paid a lump sum of $25, $20 and $15, respectively, according to the registration of voters, no account being taken of the hours or days in which it takes to do the work. The Boards claim that inasmuch as it is a State law under which the county acts, the same law should hold good in municipal elections. At the charter election held a year ago the same question arose and some of the members of the Boards, it is said, refused to accept the sum offered by the city, declaring they would take the matter to court.

The law under which the election officers base their claim, and which they think is right, is as follows, and can be found on page 133, section 4, of the ballot reform laws of 1897:

The county board of elections and the district boards of registry and election shall at said charter election, or election for municipal officers, perform all the duties required by them to be performed in elections for members of the general assembly; they shall be subject to like penalties and entitled to like compensation.

Officers Installed.

Washington Camp, No. 30, Patriotic Sons of America, held a meeting in Red Men's Hall last evening to perfect its reorganization. The attendance of members was large and State Vice-President J. W. Decker, of Newark, and a number of visitors from other camps were present. Eleven new members were initiated by the initiating team of Camp No. 41, of South Plainfield, and the officers for the ensuing year were installed by the State vice-president, assisted by the visiting team. Thirty-three members in all signed the charter.

Easy to Find a Policeman.

A much needed improvement has been made by the police department of this city. An order has just been issued by the Police Board that, beginning tonight, a policeman will always be on duty at the station house between the hours of 11 and 5 at night. Anyone who wants an officer and cannot find one on the regular beats in the city will always be sure of finding one at the station house. He can be reached by telephone. The number of the telephone at the station house is 54 B.

Right of Way to the Plains.

Yesterday Former Sheriff Kyte succeeded in getting enough signatures from Scotch Plains people to guarantee the Plainfield Street Railway Company the right of way from the city limits through to Scotch Plains over the route planned to run through East Second street from Watchung avenue.

Judgment Rendered.

Judgment for $16 and costs was rendered in the case of Berg against Bunn in Justice Nash's court this morning. Summons were issued in the case of Jackman against Singer, returnable on the 21st.

CIVIL SERVICE CHANGE

Deputy Collectors May Go From the Classified Service.

ADMINISTRATION MAY ACT

Reported Terms of the House Bill to Modify the System—Hard Fight Expected in the Senate Over the Caucus.

Washington, Dec. 14.—One of the results of the anti-civil-service conference of Republican Congressmen Saturday is the announcement that perhaps the Administration will act in the matter before Congress. It is rumored at the Treasury Department that an order is contemplated taking the Deputy Collectors of Internal Revenue out of the classified service, and that this will be followed by other changes, not only in the Treasury, but in other departments.

So far as Congress is concerned, it is expected that the House Committee on Civil Service, soon after the holidays, will report a bill carrying out the ideas of the more moderate of the opponents of the extended civil-service system, and that a vigorous effort will be made for its consideration by the House. The measure reported will probably, in addition to fixing narrow limits within which the classification shall extend, propose some tenure of office for clerks in the classified service, and will aim to curtail the powers and check the growth of the Civil-Service Commission. The general understanding is that the Democrats will assist the Republicans opposed to the law, provided the proposed modifications do not go too far.

The Census and Civil Service.

Washington, Dec. 14.—The Census bill will be before the Senate this week, and a lively fight is expected, especially in regard to whether the new bureau shall be placed under the Civil-Service law or not. It seems, therefore, likely that both Senate and House will discuss civil service reform this week.

The bill, which has been reported to the Senate by the Committee on Census, provides for a permanent Census Commissioner, who shall be assisted by such clerks and statisticians as are deemed necessary to prepare the detailed plan for the twelfth and subsequent censuses. Commissioner of Labor Wright, who completed the last census, believes that there should be some preliminary training for men who are to undertake the work, and the Committee on Census is evidently of the same opinion. It is also proposed to limit the scope of the census in regard to manufactures to show only the total output, the number of men employed and the raw material. It is argued that a permanent Census Bureau would be able to collect biennial statistics which would be far more valuable than reports gathered every ten years. It is also proposed to limit the work regarding population, and several lines of inquiry which were followed in the last census will be omitted.

The Senate, as at present constituted, is strongly in favor of keeping the census out of the classified service, and allowing appointments to be made at the discretion of the director, subject to such examinations as he may prescribe, with the approval of the Secretary of the Interior.

THE DAY IN THE HOUSE.

Legislative Appropriation Bill Reported—Comes Up To-day.

Washington, Dec. 14.—Mr. Bingham (Rep., Pa.), from the Appropriation Committee, reported to the House yesterday the Legislative, Executive and Judicial Appropriation bill, which he gave notice he would call up to-day.

The bill carries a total of $21,562,425, being $780,861 less than the estimates The number of salaries provided for is 10,000, being 198 less than the number estimated for and twenty-five less than the number provided for in the current law.

Mr. Bingham asked unanimous consent for the consideration of a resolution to print 2,000 copies of the testimony of the Civil Service Commission before the Appropriations Committee. The work of the commission was provided for in the appropriation bill, and as it was the purpose of the committee to allow the widest latitude for debate in the consideration of this item, he thought the House should be in possession of this testimony. There was no objection, and the resolution was adopted.

Mr. Cannon, chairman of the Committee on Appropriations, secured unanimous consent for the consideration of an urgent deficiency bill, which he explained carried but three items—$5,000 for the construction of a building at the Naval Academy, $30,000 for the payment of the temporary employes of the House and Senate, and $175,000 for the payment of the mileage of Senators and Representatives. The mileage ordinarily available at the regular session of Congress, he explained, had been used to pay mileage at the extra session. The bill was passed without debate.

Sealing in the Senate.

Washington, Dec. 14.—In the Senate Mr. Davis, chairman of the Committee on Foreign Relations, called up the bill prohibiting the killing of fur seals in the North Pacific Ocean, but upon the suggestion of Mr. Pettigrew (S. D.), who said he desired to offer some amendments, the measure went over until to-day.

A bill was passed for a public building at Durham, N. C., to cost $125,000.

At 2 p. m. the immigration bill was taken up. An agreement has been reached by the Senate to vote on the Immigration bill at 2 o'clock on Jan 17, and the Senate then adjourned.

A Trust Knocked Out.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—It is reported here that the typewriter trust is on the verge of collapse. One big concern has given notice of withdrawal from the combine in January, and others are expected to follow suit. This will mean a fifty-dollar typewriter. Most of the important patents have expired, and outside makers can now duplicate high-grade machines for a factory price of $12 and $15. Trust sales have been cut almost in half.

FLEEING FROM FAMINE

One Thousand Miners Stampede From Dawson City.

ONE-FOURTH MUST PERISH

Scant Relief Came by Late Steamers, and It Was Find Food or Starve. Dyea Parties Want a Contract for Supplies.

Victoria, B. C., Dec. 14.—By steamer Topeka, from Dyea, news is received that more than a thousand ill-provisioned men stampeded from Dawson during the latter part of October, and impelled by fears of famine, are now forcing their way over the mountains.

Auk, the Indian mail carrier, who brings the report, left the Yukon capital fully ten days after the Dalton party. He says the vanguard of the terror-stricken army is following less than a week behind him. Auk declares that fully 25 per cent. of the stampeding army will never live to recite the horrors of their flight.

The river steamers Bella and Weare, it now appears, did not land more than one hundred tons of provisions on their arrival in Dawson in the early part of October, owing to their having been held up at Circle City.

The only bright view of the situation is that the crossing of the pass above Dyea and Skagway has lately been greatly improved, and within a month will be in excellent condition.

Ready for a Contract.

Dyea parties, headed by George F. Ulmer, propose to go to the relief of the hungry at Dawson. They will make the United States Government an offer to deliver 50,000 pounds of provisions within fifty days after the time of starting for Dawson, for the sum of $75,000.

They already have 5,000 pounds of provisions cached at Lake Bennett, which they will take in this Winter. Ulmer will go south by the next steamer to lay his proposition before the Secretary of War by wire.

It is stated that the material for the proposed railway over Takau Pass has been shipped from the East.

Relief by Reindeer Trains.

Washington, Dec. 14.—In answer to a Senate resolution calling for such information as the War Department possesses relative to the means of sending supplies to the Yukon River, Secretary Alger recommends to Congress that reindeer be purchased in Lapland to the number of 500 and permission granted to bring reindeer drivers from that country who understand their management. It is believed that supplies taken into that country need not, to any great extent, be furnished as a gratuity, but that many of the miners will be able to pay their cost.

Starvation Tales too True.

Washington, Dec. 14.—In answer to a Senate resolution calling for such information as the War Department possesses relative to the lack of food supplies on the Yukon River, Secretary Alger yestrday submitted a letter reciting his action in sending Capt. Ray, Eighth Infantry, to that country to investigate, and inclosing copies of that officer's reports, the features of which have been published.

Insolvent Bank Dividends.

Washington, Dec. 14.—The Comptroller of the Currency has declared dividends in favor of the creditors of insolvent national banks, as follows: First dividend, 15 per cent., in favor of creditors of the Keystone National Bank, Erie, Pa., on claims proved amounting to $368,158.24; second dividend, 10 per cent., in favor of creditors of the Moscow National Bank, Moscow, Idaho, making in all 20 per cent., on claims proved amounting to $85,260.88; fourth dividend, 7 per cent., in favor of creditors of the Keystone National Bank, Superior, Wis., making in all 47 per cent., on claims proved amounting to $162,124.46; fourth dividend, 10 per cent., in favor of creditors of the First National Bank, Niagara Falls, N. Y., making in all 75 per cent., on claims proved amounting to $94,952.39.

A Complete Cure Effected by Hood's Sarsaparilla

"My mother was subject to sick headaches and indigestion for over a year. She was unable to stand for any length of time, and was obliged to stay in a dark room as she could not bear the light. She had no appetite whatever and her stomach was so weak she could not retain what food she did eat. She also had severe pains in her head. She suffered so much that she became but the shadow of herself. One day I happened to read a testimonial about Hood's Sarsaparilla. It

Sounded So Truthful

I persuaded her to try this medicine. Before finishing the first bottle there was an improvement in her condition. She no longer threw up her food and her headache was not as severe. She took in all four bottles of Hood's Sarsaparilla and several boxes of Hood's Pills and regained her weight. She is now enjoying the best of health. Her digestion is good and she can eat almost anything she wishes. She is 42 years old and says she feels as well as when she was 16. Hood's Sarsaparilla made a complete cure in her case." The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—The grand officers of the A. O. U. W. will visit the meeting of Columbia Lodge of this city Friday evening. A large time is expected.

After hearing some friends continually praising Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, Curtis Fleck, of Anaheim, California, purchased a bottle of it for his own use and is now as enthusiastic over its wonderful work as anyone can be. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

Don't be persuaded into buying liniments without reputation or merit—Chamberlain's Pain Balm costs no no more, and its merits have been proven by a test of many years. Such letters as the following, from L. G. Bagley, Hueneme, Cal., are constantly being received: "The best remedy for pain I have ever used is Chamberlain's Pain Balm, and I say so after having used it in my family for several years." It cures rheumatism, lame back, sprains and swellings. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—A meeting of the board of directors of the Sabbath Tract Society was held Sunday afternoon. The report of Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis was received and routine business transacted.

How to Prevent Pneumonia.
At this time of the year a cold is very easily contracted, and if left to run its course without the aid of some reliable cough medicine is liable to result in that dread disease, pneumonia. We know of no better remedy to cure a cough or cold than Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. We have used it quite extensively and it has always given entire satisfaction.—Olagah, Ind. Ter. Chief. This is the only remedy that is known to be a certain preventive of pneumonia. Among the many thousands who have used it for colds and la grippe, we have never yet learned of a single case having resulted in pneumonia. Persons who have weak lungs or have reason to fear an attack of pneumonia, should keep the remedy at hand. The 25 and 50 cent sizes for sale by T. S. Armstrong, apothecary, corner Park and North avenues.

—A dance will be given by the young women of Miss Scribner and Miss Green's school on LaGrande avenue, on Thursday, December 30th.

The Discovery of the Day.
Aug. J. Bogel, the leading druggist of Shreveport, La., says: "Dr. King's New Discoverey is the only thing that cures my cough, and it is the best seller I have." J. F. Campbell, merchant of Safford, Ariz., writes: "Dr. King's New Discovery is all that is claimed for it; it never fails, and is a sure cure for Consumption, Coughs and Colds. I cannot say enough for its merits." Dr. King's New Discovery for Consumption, Coughs and Colds is not an experiment. It has been tried for a quarter of a century, and today stands at the head. It never disappoints. Free trial bottles at L. W. Randolph's Drug Store.

—The Christmas entertainment at the Monroe Avenue church will be held on Tuesday evening, December 28th. Something unusually fine is promised.

Robbed the Grave.
A startling incident of which Mr. John Oliver, of Philadelphia, was the subject, is narrated by him as follows: "I was in a most dreadful condition. My skin was almost yellow, eyes sunken tongue coated, pain continually in back and sides, no appetite—gradually growing weaker day by day. Three physicans had given me up. Fortunately, a friend advised trying 'Electric Bitters,' and to my great joy and surprise, the first bottle made a decided improvement. I continued their use for three weeks, and am now a well man. I know they saved my life, and robbed the grave of another victim." No one should fail to try them. Only 50 cents per bottle at L. W. Randolph's drug store.

MESSAGES OF SYMPATHY.

Prominent Folk Express Sorrow at Death of Mrs. McKinley.

Canton, O., Dec. 14.—The coffin bearing the body of Nancy Allison McKinley is nearly buried in flowers. All day yesterday express wagons carried loads of floral offerings to the memory of the departed mother of the President. They came to Miss Helen McKinley, the President's sister, who, through all the trials of the last ten days, has scarcely left the bedside of her dying mother. But messages of sympathy and tokens of regard came from greater distances than flowers can carry. The wires and the mails were overloaded with words of condolence.

President Faure of France, American Ambassadors abroad, United States Consuls, the Ambassadors of other countries stationed at Washington, Governors of States, judges, United States Senators, Congressmen and other public officials, Grand Army posts and friends by the thousands from all parts of the civilized world have sent expressions of their sympathy.

The funeral is to be held this afternoon at 1 o'clock, at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, of which the deceased woman had long been a member. It was the preference of her relatives to have brief private services at the old McKinley homestead; but, yielding to the urgent request of neighbors, old-time friends and members of the church, they consented to have public services.

Business will practically be suspended in Canton. All the churches will be represented at the services and distinguished men will be present from all parts of the country. The Rev. Dr. Manchester, pastor of the church, will make a brief address, in order to permit other clergymen to express their sentiments.

STOLE FROM GAGE'S BANK.

One of the Knickerbockers Admits That He Embezzled Money.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Herman G. Knickerbocker, a bookkeeper for the First National Bank, of which Secretary Gage was president, was arrested yesterday morning on a charge of embezzlement.

Knickerbocker at first denied the allegation, but later confessed that his accounts were not as they should be. He is about 30 years old and lives with his parents at Naperville, a suburb of this city. He is said to be one of the leaders among the young society folk.

The warrant specifies the amount of the embezzlement at $1,000, but since the examination of the books was begun a shortage of $3,000 has been discovered.

Shipment of Cuban Tobacco.

New York, Dec. 14.—The first shipment of Cuban tobacco to reach this port since Weyler's decree of May 16, 1896, forbidding the exportation of leaf tobacco, arrived yesterday on the Ward liner Orizaba, from Havana. There were only 391 bales in the shipment, but several thousand more bales of the weed are expected on steamships to arrive soon from Cuba.

Weyler's prohibitory edict was directed against the Cuban cigar-makers in the United States, who were contributing $1 a week each to the Cuban cause. Frequent protests had been made to Madrid by importers of the tobacco in this country against Weyler's edict, but it was not until a week ago that the embargo was raised.

Does Not Oppose Annexation.

Washington, Dec. 14.—The State Department denies that Great Britain has protested against the annexation of Hawaii. Officers of the department cannot understand how such a report originated, in view of the attitude of the British Government since the treaty was negotiated.

No official reference to this has been made by Great Britain, but semi-official explanations appeared in the English press that the Government recognized the right of the United States to annex the Hawaiian Islands as a natural outcome of their geographical situation and in accordance with the policy towards which this country has been tending in the last seventy-five years.

Texas Town Almost Destroyed.

Dallas, Dec. 14.—The town of Boyd, Tex., in the Panhandle country, was almost totally destroyed by fire yesterday. The fire started in a feed store, and was the result of boys smoking cigarettes. There is no organized fire department in the town, and the flames soon got beyond control. Eighteen business houses and a large number of dwellings were destroyed. The loss to business men is estimated at $50,000, with insurance of only $10,000.

Armour & Co. Buying Wheat.

Omaha, Neb., Dec. 14.—Armour & Co., agents throughout Nebraska and South Dakota are buying enormous quantities of wheat. It is being shipped East. At one point in South Dakota—Eureka — Armour's agent has purchased 50,000 bushels in the past week. In this State even larger quantities are being sent to Chicago by Armour men. The exact intentions of the firm are bothering other speculators in this territory very much.

Magnates' Big Loss.

New York, Dec. 14.—John D. Rockefeller and J. Pierpont Morgan have received reports that certain Western speculations have failed; that Rockefeller has lost $3,000,000 by the poverty of his Washington mines, and Morgan is out $300,000 by the fading away of the assets of the Chicago General Electric Railway. The losses are small in comparison with the wealth of the financiers, but they are a thrust at the pride of these men.

WOMAN PLEADS FOR FOOTBALL.

Bill to Abolish the Game in Virginia Recommended for Passage.

Richmond, Va., Dec. 14.—An earnest fight was made in the Senate Committee yesterday over the Anti-Football bill. A number of young women were present and applauded the speeches favorable to the game, and had to be called to order by the chair. Delegate N. B. Early, two years ago the centre rush on the University of Virginia team, spoke in advocacy of the game, and read a letter from President Eliot of Harvard in its support.

Mrs. Virginia Morgan Robinson, a prominent woman of this city, whose son is an invalid from a football accident at the university, addressed the committee. She denied that her son was injured from over-exercise, and said that he had told her he was struck on the head during the game, but would never tell who hit the blow. She spoke feelingly and wept, breaking down entirely at one time. She said she was not now opposed to the game, and her son was still an advocate of it.

The committee recommended the bill by a vote of 5 to 4, and it comes up as the special order in the Senate today.

EXPECT A SPECIAL MESSAGE.

Bill to Be Pushed Creating the New Department of Commerce.

Chicago, Dec. 14.—Officers of the Chicago Business League have received word from Washington that President McKinley will make the proposed Department of Commerce and Industries the subject of a special message to Congress. Immediately after the holidays a delegation of local citizens interested in the new Cabinet departments will go to the capital to have the bill introduced in Congress.

Many letters from Senators and Representatives at Washington have been received by the secretary of the Chicago Business League, in which the writers all agree to support the bill and appeal to commercial and mercantile bodies all over the country to instruct their representatives to vote in favor of the bill.

An effort, it is said, will be made by delegates from this city to the convention of the American Federation of Labor at Nashville to commit that body in favor of the bill.

SORE AGAINST UNCLE SAM.

Hayti Thinks We Should Have Intervened in German Trouble.

Washington, Dec. 14.—Official confirmation has reached here of the resignation of the Haytian Cabinet. Advices show that the feeling of resentment against the United States is very bitter in the black republic, because President McKinley did not intervene his good offices to prevent the humiliation by Germany. The feeling is declared to be stronger against the United States than against Germany, and material injury to our interests is feared.

The new Cabinet is expected to be radically anti-American in sentiment. Commander McCalla, of the Marblehead, has therefore been instructed to keep his vessel at Port au Prince for fear of unfavorable developments.

Assassinated in a Hotel.

Amite City, La., Dec. 14.—In the full glare of the hotel lights, S. B. Mullen, brother of Judge Mullen, of Beauregard, Miss., was shot to death in the hotel gallery from behind. There were two shots fired, one of which penetrated the brain. Sheriff Edwards was notified, and organized a posse. Bloodhounds were placed on the trail.

Why Mullen was killed is as yet a mystery. He is an entire stranger here and could hardly have had any connection with any of the murders in the Tangipoca parish feud. Some people are under the impression that the man had enemies at his home who followed him here and murdered him. Others say that he was a detective and came here for the purpose of working up a case.

Postmasters Appointed.

Washington, Dec. 14.—Fourth-class postmasters have been appointed as follows:

New Jersey—Cranbury, Middlesex, Frank A. Brown.

New York — Naumburg, Lewis, Charles S. Squire; Northampton, Fulton, Robert Humphry; Mendon, Monroe, Vernon E. Taylor; Pope Mills, St. Lawrence, C. M. Woodworth; Wassaic, Dutchess, Noah L. Bishop.

Pennsylvania — Dudley, Huntingdon, Rachel Morgan; Great Belt, Butler, Louis Hartenstein; James Creek, Huntingdon, Andrew B. Garner; Mapleton Depot, Huntingdon, Julia B. Dell; Manor, Huntingdon, R. A. Crownover.

An Interesting Rumor.

Washington, Dec. 14.—News comes to Washington that Hon. James B. Eustis, former United States Senator from Louisiana, and former Ambassador to France, may be appointed Corporation Counsel for Greater New York. The rumor is interesting to the many friends of Mr. Eustis in Washington. The former Ambassador, since his retirement from the diplomatic service, has been practicing law in New York City. During the Mayoralty campaign he took a leading part as a Tammany adherent, and did good service for Van Wyck.

Shot in a Fight with a Marshal.

Glasgow, Ky., Dec. 14.—Deputy City Marshal Bailey yesterday morning shot and fatally wounded Alexander Lasley. Lasley and several others had stolen a lot of whisky and brandy from a wholesale house in the night, and had become intoxicated. Lasley beat his wife into insensibility and cut his son in the throat, seriously injuring him. Marshal Bailey appeared, and Lasley rushed on him with an ax handle. Bailey shot him through the head.

PROBLEM FOR BUSINESS MEN.

A conservative business man of this city estimates that at least $7,000 is paid every month by Plainfielders to out-of-town organizations which practically does not benefit the city, inasmuch as a very small percentage of that sum ever returns here to be invested in homes or business and thus contribute to the general prosperity of the community. The authority for the statement deplores such a condition and declares that it behooves the business men of Plainfield to devise some plan whereby small investors can put their spare money into a profitable channel at home and at the same time add materially to the growth and standing of the town.

It is a matter of fact that there is scarcely a loan association or real estate enterprise between New York and Philadelphia but what is liberally represented in Plainfield, and it will be conceded that beyond the small return that the investors may get for the amount they have advanced, the town is not one whit better by such business practices.

That condition exists because there are not sufficient opportunities for small investors in local institutions True, there are several safe and profitable enterprises of local birth and management, but with the competition that they encounter in the constant importunities of agents representing outside organizations a large amount of capital is diverted from the channels that in the spirit of local pride and desire to see the town progress argues should be otherwise.

What is needed most is a thorough and aggressive organization of local business men who will bend their energies to the effort of providing more and better investments for those who have either small or large sums to spare. An active Board of Trade could accomplish much in this direction.

SEVEN TIMES A TREASURER.

Honor and Confidence Bestowed on D. W. Littell in Royal Arcanum.

Plainfield Council, No. 711, Royal Arcanum, last night elected officers for the coming year. There seemed to be a renewed interest evidenced on the part of the members and no doubt the coming year will be one of the best in the history of the council. Last year, under the direction of Regent M. L. Bullock, the council thrived and made an excellent record, and he was efficiently supported by all of the other officers. The newly-elected officers have the interest of the council at heart and there will undoubtedly be a unit in making the year a banner one.

The new officers are as follows: Regent, Lawrence B. Bromfield; vice-regent, A. I. Littell; orator, S. C. Baker; past regent, M. L. Bullock; collector, Elliott Burr; treasurer, D. W. Littell; chaplain, Rev. Edward Love; guide, Herbert Buxton; warden, W. E. Townsend; sentry, A. W. Winckler; trustees, three years, L. B. Woolston; representative to Great Council, H. C. Adams.

A fact worthy of note is that D. W. Littell was re-elected treasurer last evening for the seventh consecutive year, showing that he is appreciated very much by his fellows in the council. During the evening three propositions were received for membership.

Prize Choristers.

The prize choristers of Grace P. E. church for the month of November were Douglass Murphy, Agustus Feiring, Raymond Cohen, the Misses Eva Noe, Clara Woodward, Mary Collier, Eleanor T. VanDeventer and Sarah Ball. Blanchard Fosgate received the Grace church cross and Miss Mabelle Smith the prayer book and hymnal which the rector has offered as a prize to follow the cross.

Doubt a Murder.

Prosecutor Hayhurst, of Hunterdon county, is now somewhat doubtful that Captain George Farley, of Woodglen, was murdered. Despite the verdict of the Coroner's jury to the effect that Farley was a victim of foul play, the Prosecutor thinks he may have been accidentally killed. Amelia Sutton has confessed that she took the man's pocketbook.

There is more Catarrh in this section of the country than all other diseases put together, and until the last few years was supposed to be incurable. For a great many years doctors pronounced it a local disease, and prescribed local remedies, and by constantly failing to cure with local treatment, pronounced it incurable. Science has proven catarrh to be a constitutional disease, and therefore requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure, manufactured by F. J. Cheney & Co., Toledo, Ohio, is the only constitutional cure on the market. It is taken internally in doses from 10 drops to a teaspoonful. It acts directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system. They offer one hundred dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for circulars and testimonials. Address F. J. PASSING COMMENT.

A peculiar incident in connection with the erection of the foundations for the new Watchung avenue bridge has just come to light. It appears that while the foundations were in course of construction a 45-pound stone was secured for a certain place in the wall. It was set to one side to be used when needed. Nothing more was thought of the stone until the time arrived to use it. It was then missed and no one could tell what became of it, and thus far its whereabouts are not known. It is surmised that during one of the heavy rains it was washed out of sight, but a considerable amount of digging and searching has failed to reveal its hiding place, and it may never be found.

"What is a seat in the New York Stock Exchange worth?" Owners of seats have sold them for from $25,000 to $30,000, and yet they are not worth a cent if the buyer is not acceptable to the rest of the seat owners. The body has no legal existence, and only individual responsibility conveys, as the Exchange is not incorporated under the strict interpretation of the laws of New York or any other State. Last week a seat was put up at auction by an attorney employed by an estate in liquidation. There were three bids. The first was for fifty cents, the second for $1 and the third for $17,000. It was secured on the third bid by a son of the original owner, and he is still in doubt whether he will have the advantages of membership. He may be shut out should he be objectionable to the members, for it is a rule that seats must be sold at the option of the board of managers. Consequently the man who bid fifty cents for it took a risk.

John W. Vogel, manager of "Darkest America," which comes to Music Hall Tuesday, December 21st, tells a very funny story about the organization of his all-black show. The various members of the company were notified to report for rehearsals at the High Street Theatre, Columbus, O., on a certain date. Inasmuch as these people came from all quarters of the globe, there is no absolute certainty that all will report, disappointments being frequent. Well, the day and hour had arrived and the managers of the various departments of this mammoth organization were seated in a box awaiting the time for roll call Some half a hundred or more of negros were assembled on the stage. Presently Billy McClain, the noted colored comedian, stepped up to Mr. Vogel, took off his hat and said: "Mr. Vogel, I certainly would like to have the crap privilege with the troupe." Craps is the name of the favorite form of gambling indulged in by the Southern negro, and it is safe to say that McClain would have reaped a golden harvest, could he have induced Manager Vogel to sell him the privilege. "Billy" is still with the show and gets a good "fat" salary, but the privileges have not been let.

Wagons Collided.

The coachman employed by Robert M. Clark, Jr., of Washingtonville, met with a mishap last Saturday night while driving home from town. He ran into a heavy wagon owned by Thomas McGann. The latter was driving toward Plainfield, and neither of the men seemed to see each other until the collision occurred. One wheel on Mr. Clark's wagon was badly wrecked, and that was the extent of the damage. The wagon had to be taken to a nearby wheelwright who repaired the break.

GOLD IN THE VATICAN

KLONDIKE RICHES NOT COMPARABLE WITH THE POPE'S WEALTH.

Jubilee Gifts a Fortune—Keeper of the House of the Oldest Dynasty in Christendom, Who Has No Thought Except for the Poor and Suffering.

There is one place in the world where more gold is to be found than has so far come out of the Klondike. And, stranger still, in the same place there are more diamonds and other gems than the total output of the South African diamond fields. This spot, rich as the mythical wealth of Aladdin's palace, is the home of a childless old man, Pope Leo, whose feeble life is creeping daily to its imminent close.

It would be difficult to estimate precisely the total weighth of gold in the Vatican, but it is safe to say that there are at least thirty tons of it, worth in the neighborhood of $20,000,000 at the present market price of the unwrought metal. Of this huge amount of gold, there is probably not a single pound of the metal that remains in its virgin state. Nearly every ounce of it has passed through the hands of skilled artisans, who have worked it into countless forms, thus adding perhaps a third or a quarter more to its value. Nor does the alloy that is usually employed by the goldsmith to give a durable quality to objects made of the precious metal enter at all into mposition of the treasures of the ...ican, which, being almost entirely native offerings to the Sovereign Pontiff, are literally of solid gold.

The Vatican treasures may be practically considered as the personal estate of the Pope. He inherited many of them when he was elected to the Holy See. He is required to give an account of his stewardship at his pleasure. To a large proportion of these treasures his personal right is indisputable, for to him, Leo XIII., were presented at various times, and more particularly on the occasion of his jubilee in 1888, enough gifts of pure gold to ransom a kingdom.

The Pontificate of the present venerable Prelate has added inestimably to the treasures of the Vatican. Jan. 1, 1888, Leo recited the Mass in St. Peter's in Rome, in celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of his ordination as a priest. The preliminary ceremonies of his Golden Jubilee began about a week earlier, and continued for more than a month in the new year, during which time an exposition was opened in the vast Pontifical palace for the display of the presents that had been sent to the head of the Christian Church from every corner of the world.

Before the exposition was opened tons upon tons of gold poured into the Vatican, beginning early in December, of 1897, and continuing without intermission until after the exposition had been closed in March of the following year.

At the Jubilee Mass alone $3,000,000 in gold, the most part in coined money, were presented to His Holiness. There were audiences of pilgrims from the various countries, and those from France alone presented to the Pope $100,000 in gold coin, besides many other objects in wrought gold.

The Duke of Norfolk, Envoy Extraordinary from Queen Victoria, presented to His Holiness on behalf of the Catholics of England, a massive basin and ewer of solid gold. Her British Majesty personally presented an altar ornament of gold worth many thousands of dollars. The Emperor of Russia sent a mammoth crozier of solid gold, inlaid with precious stones, and the Emperor William of Germany a gold mitre that blazed with diamonds and rubies.

One set of vestments alone was said to have cost $20,000. The total value of the Golden Jubilee gifts to the Pope was estimated at $14,800,000, of which $2,800,000 were in gold coin.

Leo XIII is said to have distributed the bulk of the money gifts sent to him on his jubilee in fostering the foreign missions of his church, in aiding poor dioceses at home and abroad, in improving the condition of the poor throughout the world, and in general for the benefit of humanity, but he did not, of course, dispose of the wrought gifts that were sent to him by the various nations, nor convert the value of such gifts into cash in promotion of his charitable intentions. These things are still treasured in the Vatican—and this is why the palace of the oldest dynasty in Christendom is still richer than the frozen gold fields of the North, to which men are rushing in swarms these days in a quest for the yellow metal.—New York World.

President of Twenty Banks.

Most men find that acquiring one bank to manage is as much as they can accomplish, but W. S. Witham, of Atlanta, Ga., holds twenty in the palm of his hand, so to speak, and runs them successfully. His banks are in the country towns of Georgia, and their principal business is making small loans to farmers. None of them is capitalized beyond $50,000, and all of their cashiers have to be bonded for more money than they have access to. The institutions are so successfully managed that one of them once paid a dividend of 40 per cent., and all of them pay from 8 to 15 per cent. regularly.—New York Journal.

He Had Nine.

"A child in the house," said the Thoughtful Chap, "is a joy forever."

"Yes," remarked the Nonsensical Guy, somewhat sadly, "and I know people who are overjoyed."—Cincinnati Commercial-Tribune.

What an immense amount of laziness there is going on by the name of poor health.—Ram's Horn.

HOW GENE FIELD GOT CREDIT.

By an Ingeneous Trick He Was Trusted for a New Pair of Shoes.

"'Gene Field made this old town hum when he was here," said an old timer to a Denver Times man. "You never knew when he would play some practical joke on his friends. The story of his pranks with the stuffed man, which he threw out of a Tribune window, has often been told, but the little jokes in his life are cherished in the memory of all who knew him. Of course, the pace made by Field, Skiff, Rothacker and the others was a fast one, and each and all were hopelessly in debt to every merchant in the city. One day Skiff said to Field: 'Gene, you're looking pretty shabby from your boot tops down. Why don't you get a new pair of shoes? I'll bet a new hat you can't buy a pair on credit in the town.'

"'S that so?' says 'Gene. 'Well, we'll see," and away he went.

The crowd followed him and were looking in the windows of Alkire's while 'Gene was working his graft. He tried on one shoe, and it seemed all right, and then the other, and then he arose to see how they looked.

In the old days the store's floors were muddy—paved streets were then only a dream—and the crowd outside were surprised to see Field walk about, stamping his feet in all the mud he could find. When they were thoroughly dirty he walked to the door and said: "They'll do, Alkire. Field— Tribune, and with that he joined the waiting gang.

"Then he went to Clayton's and got a new hat, which Skiff paid for."

Grammatical Brakemen.

Apropos of a recent order that brakemen shall speak grammatically and distinctly, an official of the Chicago, Milwaukee and St. Paul Railroad says: "We wish our men to use good language. It makes a great difference with us whether a man uses good grammar or speaks as though he had never attended even a district school. In order that there may be no confusion, we have ordered conductors to tell brakeman to say, 'The next station is Chicago.' Our brakemen do not make many mistakes in grammar, but we cannot help it if a man is a foreigner and makes a mistake in pronunciation. The trainmen understand that their services are appreciated more when they know how to announce stations properly."—New York Tribune.

A Novel Proposal.

"The Youth's Companion" recalls a characteristic anecdote of the Rev. Lorenzo Dow, the itinerant Methodist preacher. When he was a widower he said to the congregation one day at the close of his sermon: "I am a candidate for matrimony, and if there is any woman in this audience who is willing to marry me I would thank her to rise." A woman rose very near the pulpit, and another in a distant part of the house. Mr. Dow paused a moment, then said: "There are two; I think this one near me rose first; at any rate, I will have her for my wife." The woman was in good standing and possessed of considerable property. Very soon after this eccentric wooing she became Mrs. Dow.

Cooking School for Boys.

Cincinnati wives of the future will be either a very happy or a very unhappy class. For Cincinnati men of the future will know all about the noble art of cookery. They will not talk merely about the "pie that mother use to make" and the doughnuts that rendered Aunt Sarah famous. They will speak of "my ragouts" and "my biscuits."

They wear caps and aprons, the young masculine cooks, in their school basement kitchen. They are taught the simpler of the chemical processes involved in cooking.—New York Journal.

Remarkable Telegraph.

Among the most remarkable works in Australia is the overland telegraph from Port Darwin to the south of the continent, which was completed in 1872. Almost the whole 2,000 miles of its length was through uninhabited country—much of it a waterless desert. The wooden poles were prepared at the nearest available places, but some had to be carried 350 miles, while the iron poles were taken an average distance of 400 miles by land. Over 2,000 tons of material had to be carried into the interior, and the total cost was $1,850,000.

Forage Plants.

Most people know the tall, striped, Japanese grass (Eulalia variegata) so largely grown for ornamental purposes. It has recently been discovered that this grass is splendid forage for horses, which are very fond of it, and will eat it in preference to almost any other kind of food. The growing of it for forage purposes is being largely discussed in agricultural circles; and if it should come into use, our English fields will be enriched with a new crop, whose appearance in full growth should be very beautiful.
